POPE TO LEAD SPECIAL PRAYERS IN ROME FOR CATHOLICS IN MEXICO

By the Associated Press.

ROME, July 31.

POPE PIUS today prayed privately for the success of the world-wide supplication of Roman Catholics tomorrow for the cessation of "the religious persecution in Mexico Divine pardon for those responsible for it.

Tomorrow, the Pope in the Pauline chapel, in the Vatican, Cardinal Capotosti in the Basilica of St. Peter in Chains, and all the faithful of Rome assembled in the Eternal City's 400 churches, will offer up prayers in behalf of their coreligionists.

During the ceremony, one hour's adoration of the Sacraments has been ordered by Cardinal Vicar Pompilj in all the Basilicas and churches.

The principal ceremony will occur immediately after vespers at St. Peter in Chains. It is this saint's memory which the pontiff desires to evoke since tomorrow is the date of the festival of his liberation from persecution in the early days of Christianity through the prayers of the faithful.

FORESEES VICTORY FOR SMITH IF TWO-THIRDS RULE IS VOIDED

Senator Caraway Says Governor Would Win Nomination; Doubts That He Could Win.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—If the two-thirds rule at the next Democratic national convention is suspended, Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York will be nominated by acclamation, in the opinion of Senator T. H. Caraway of Arkansas, who sailed today on the Celtic. He will attend the annual meeting of the Interparliamentary Union at Geneva.

Senator Caraway said that while he admires Gov. Smith, he does not believe that he could be elected on account of his avowed wet policies and his religion. He said he did not share the "narrowed ideas" of those who oppose the Governor on religious grounds.

The Senator predicted that a Democrat would be elected President and said the Democrats would "select some man, not even now known to politics who will be only a name, and the Republicans will do the same."

BARON ARRESTED AFTER HIS WIFE'S PLUNGE TO DEATH

Royce-Garrett, Impoverished Russian, Found Trying to Hang Self With Bit of Twine at Miami.

PAIR HAD SIGNED SUICIDE COMPACT

"We Die Happily as We Lived, Together," They Wrote, Then He Plays Pool While She Kills Self

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., July 31.—Baron Royce-Garrett, an impoverished Russian of English descent, was taken in custody tonight in a thicket near the Arch Creek Railroad Station for questioning about the death of his wife, who Friday night leaped from the eighteenth floor of a hotel here. Police said the Baron was attempting to hang himself with a small piece of twine.

A note found in their apartment, signed 'the Royce-Garretts," said, "We die happily as we lived, together."

Royce-Garrett said he read last night in a newspaper that an unidentified woman had leaped to death at the hotel, and he said he knew when he read the article that the woman was his wife. His only expression concerning his wife was of disappointment that she had not kept an agreement made seven years ago that they would die together when they died.

Made Compact 7 Years Ago.

"Yesterday morning (Friday) my wife told me that the time had come to die, that she could not work or fight any longer and that we must die together," said the baron, in a stenographic report, made public by police.

"Did you have a compact to die together?" he was asked.

"Yes, we made a compact to die together seven years ago, if we had no money. I do not know how to express it in English, but my wife and I believe in reincarnation of souls and because we loved each other and had lived together we decided to die together."

"Several times she had told me she had been dreaming that we both jumped off the hotel building together, but I told her no; some times people who try it get broken legs and do not die. I told her to wait until morning and we would go out to Coconut Grove, get in a boat together and tie the ropes around our necks and die together—it would be much better that way.

"When this was decided, we both were joyful. You see, we believe in reincarnation, that we will be born again."

"Your Last Day on Earth."

"She said, 'This is the last day on earth for you to play billiards and smoke and have a good time, so you go out.'"

Royce-Garrett said the Baroness asked him to leave their apartments in Coral Gables early Friday morning and not to return home until the last trolley car had run on the Coral Gables line. "She told me to be sure and buy a paper, too, before I came home," he said. So he bought a paper and learned of the tragedy.

He said he then walked on his crutches to Coral Gables, a distance of five miles, and sat in front of the Antilla Hotel until daybreak speculating on methods of killing himself. He did not return to his apartments.

Determined to Hang Self.

At daybreak, the Baron said, he obtained a ride from a passing motorist and alighted in downtown Miami, where he procured a bit of twine, such as is used in tying express packages. With this in his pocket, he boarded a bus bound for Arch Creek, determined to hang himself. He declared he already had failed in an effort to climb a tree in Coral Gables. He had selected what he termed a suitable tree and sat down to await nightfall when police found him.

The baron said he amused himself through the day calling to the birds about his retreat, and for more than an hour a small monkey kept him company in the thickets.

The day wore on. The baron grew restless and moved about, and his movement in the bushes attracted the attention of persons who notified police.

Police were undecided as to their next move. Meantime the baron will be held on a technical charge until a Coroner's jury investigates the death of the Baroness Monday.

In Financial Difficulties.

Although it is understood the pair were in financial difficulties, they lived at an exclusive hotel and were seen frequently at social functions. Little is known of the

PRIEST DECLARES W. S. DICKEY DIDN'T GIVE HIM A CENT

Says Kansas Cityan Contributed Nothing to Campaign — Wouldn't Take Anything From Him.

STORY OF PROCTOR DEAL "A DAMN LIE"

A. C. Ferris Asserts Priest Aids Asked Publisher for Aid but He Refused to Consider Plea.

Blodgett Priest, wet candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate at Tuesday's primary, said last night, in commenting upon Ernest D. Wilson's affidavit concerning a Proctor-Priest political alliance, that Walter S. Dickey never contributed one cent to his campaign. Furthermore, he added, he had given instructions to his campaign managers that if Dickey did offer a contribution, not to accept it.

"I do not want to be under any obligations to Mr. Dickey," Priest said.

The candidate said to his knowledge his father, former Federal Judge Henry S. Priest, never had conferred with Dickey, never had entered into any financial arrangement with Dickey, and had not contributed to the Priest-for-Senator campaign.

"My father is on his way to Europe for his summer vacation, as is his annual custom," Priest said. "I am sure that my father never had any such participation in my behalf as outlined in Wilson's affidavit, because he would have told me."

Says Dickey Offered $10,000.

In his affidavit Wilson states that Jacob Lieberstein, a Priest supporter, had told that on July 3 Dickey met Judge Priest at Hotel Jefferson, and that afterward Judge Priest told Louis F. Zepp, city manager of the Priest campaign, that Dickey had offered $10,000 financial support to the Priest campaign if Judge Priest would put up a like amount, the total sum clearing through the hands of William Sacks, politician and capitalist.

Zepp last night said that Judge Priest never made such a statement to him. Lieberstein would not comment. Sacks said he never heard of the proposal, adding, "as a wet I am for Williams for Senator and am not aware of events transpiring in the Priest and Proctor camps."

As to Wilson's charge that the Proctor and Priest forces are in agreement to defeat Williams, Priest said:

"It's a damn lie. I think Wilson was paid for making an affidavit of that kind. His purpose is personal animosity to me because I kicked him out of my campaign. And then he went to Proctor's campaign headquarters at Kansas City and I understand that Proctor also kicked him out."

Priest added that his organization, to his knowledge, did not negotiate for the names of 15,000 wets obtained by Dickey's Kansas City newspaper, the Journal-Post, as stated by Wilson.

No Knowledge of Parley.

He also said that he had no knowledge that his State manager, Hugh K. Wagner, had conferred at Hotel Jefferson with Dickey and Mr. Ferris, campaign manager for Proctor. Wagner could not be reached but Priest was confident that if such a conference had been held Wagner would have told him of it.

On the other hand, Priest admitted, as related in Wilson's affidavit, that he conferred with Dickey in the latter's home at Kansas City on the political situation. He said he was in Kansas City to study the situation with Lieberstein, one of his managers, and L. J. Smith, his publicity director, when he received an invitation from someone, he could not recall whom, to call at Dickey's home.

He said Dickey asked about his (Priest's) chances of success in the campaign; if he favored a League of Nations or World Court, and if he favored branch banking. Beyond a few other such questions, he said, Dickey did not venture.

"I do not believe my answers to these questions set very well with Mr. Dickey," said Priest, "and I left. I had not been there more than 20 or 30 minutes. Mr. Dickey said as I was leaving that he was sorry he could not support me politically."

Priest added that he did not know a conference of Proctor sup-

Former State Campaign Secretary for Proctor Says He and Secretary of State Charles U. Becker Conceived the Scheme.

Expecting to Be a Witness in Dickey's Suit Against Hyde and Newspaper, Makes Public His Testimony in Advance.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, July 31.—Following is the complete affidavit of Ernest D. Wilson, charging secret co-operation and confidential relations between the campaign organizations of Blodgett Priest of St. Louis, "wet" candidate for nomination for United States Senator, and David M. Proctor of Kansas City, the "dry" aspirant for the same office.

"State of Missouri,
"County of Jackson.

"Ernest D. Wilson, residing at 221 East Forty-sixth street, Kansas City, Mo., being duly sworn upon his oath says:

"Beginning with the first part of the present year, I became associated with Charles U. Becker, Secretary of State, in the operation and management of a State weekly newspaper. This association has since been terminated. Beginning with the operation of this newspaper, I became concerned, together with Charles U. Becker, with the political situation in the State of Missouri as relating more definitely to the present Republican Senatorial primary race. As analyzed at that time by Mr. Becker and myself, it seemed to be necessary in order to defeat Senator Williams, to have a candidate announce from the City of St. Louis, on a definitely wet platform. It was apparent at that time, and is now, that a certain definite enmity existed between Mr. Becker and Senator George H. Williams, which prevented any cooperation on Mr. Becker's part toward the support of Senator Williams' candidacy. In other words, it was apparent that in order that any future political aspirations of Mr. Becker's might be fulfilled, that Senator George H. Williams be defeated.

Sought Candidate.

"In accordance with this state of facts, I spent considerable time in St. Louis along the early part of the year, endeavoring to induce a candidate to run for the Republican nomination for United States Senate against Senator George H. Williams. This matter was discussed on a number of occasions, with practically all of these men prominent in St. Louis politics who were known to be opposed to Senator Williams, among them being Mayor Miller, Conway Elder, Robert J. Kratky and others.

"After a number of conferences, discussions and interviews, I finally made the acquaintance of Blodgett Priest, son of Judge Henry S. Priest of St. Louis. Mr Priest was convincingly "wet" and was opposed to the present Governor's handling of the police force situation in the City of St. Louis, and consequently, bore no particular good will toward Senator Williams, by reason of his criticism of Gov. Baker's handling of the police. Mr. Priest and myself made several attempts to have Gov. Baker change the personnel of the St. Louis Police Board and after it was apparent that he had failed, he was then in a frame of mind to announce his candidacy for the United States Senate against George H. Williams.

"Before this was done, I met with the Executive Committee of the Association Against Prohibition Amendment at luncheon, and discussed the possibility of Blodgett Priest running for United States Senate on a definitely 'wet' platform. At that meeting there were present Judge H.S. Priest, president of the Missouri branch of the association, James Byrnes, president of the Byrnes Belting Co., Robert H. Kaiser, secretary of the Missouri Association, Al. Shapleigh, Norman Jones and one or two other gentlemen whose names I do not recall at this time. Upon discussion centering around the candidacy of an opponent to Senator Williams, Mr. Shapleigh announced that he could not remain in the meeting as he had committed himself to Senator Williams.

DAVID M. PROCTOR.

Donnell Considered.

"Before the Priest candidacy took definite form, Mr. Forrest Donnell, a partner of the late Senator Seldon P. Spencer, had been urged by opponents of Senator Williams to announce for the nomination. Mr. Donnell took up the issue of urging the United States to enter into the World Court and to test the reaction upon this issue, a speech was made by Donnell at the time of the Republican editors' convention at Jefferson City. Their action not being favorable and the support not coming in as rapidly as hoped to Mr. Donnell, activity shifted, and Mayor Victor M. Miller was urged to announce. The Mayor decided not to run.

"At this time Mr. Conway Elder urged Mr. Jack Leahy to announce, pledging him to the support of various elements including Mr. Charles U. Becker and his friends numbered among the country press. Mr. Leahy took the matter under consideration for some time, and decided not to run.

"After Mayor Miller's refusal to run, and after the Young Men's Republican banquet at Springfield, the center of attraction in the third candidate shifted to Mr. Walter S Dickey of Kansas City. At this time Mr. Priest had definitely decided to run, dependent only upon the actual or implied consent of Judge H. S. Priest. I had a number of conferences with Judge Priest relative to his consent concerning his son's candidacy, and finally one evening over the telephone secured his implied consent. The same evening, having drawn Mr. Priest's platform and opening statement, I called over to my room at the Hotel Mayfair, Mr. Asa Hutson, of the Globe-Democrat, and anounced Mr. Priest's candidacy on a definitely 'wet' or modification platform. With this accomplished, we began to work on getting out the third candidate.

"In the meanwhile, Mr. Dickey had caused a political survey to be made of the State relative to his candidacy and with the results at hand decided not to run.

Proctor Announces.

"I was first told by Mr. Charles U. Becker of the impending candidacy of David M. Proctor, and was invited by Becker, about the fifteenth of April, to come to Jefferson City. I went to Jefferson City and was informed that Mr. Proctor would run, provided he received the support of four elements, those elements being the support of Mr. Walter S. Dickey, Mayor Victor Miller of St. Louis, Charles U. Becker, and E. E. McJimsey.

"Mr. Becker in the meanwhile had personally and I had on his behalf, pledged his support and co-operation, and the co-operation of other factions, toward the support of the candidacy of Blodgett Priest. At this meeting in Jefferson City Mr. Proctor came down, together with Jack Grover, and the three of them held a conference. I was not present, having some business at the Capitol but came back on the train with Senator Proctor, and was informed of the results of his conference and that he would announce on a definitely 'dry' platform. Now that it was apparent that the candidacy of Blodgett Priest would assume some proportions, enough to cause Senator Williams embarrassment in the City of St. Louis, the plan as discussed by Mr. Becker and myself at that time was to encourage as much as possible the candidacy of Mr. Priest, and it was agreed that the major portion of his out-State support, particularly the patronage developed under the printing of the constitutional amendment, would be thrown to Mr. Proctor.

"It was agreed at this meeting in Jefferson City, that another meeting would be held in Kansas City to finally determine the candidacy of Senator Proctor, which had already been agreed upon. This meeting was held on the last Sunday in April, at the home of Mr. Dickey in Kansas City. I did not attend this meeting, performing some business downtown, but meeting Mr. Becker after he left the meeting. I was informed by Mr. Becker that the meeting had been a success; that there were present a number of individuals, including Mr. Dickey, C. C. Madison, Robert J. Kratky, representing Mayor Miller, Jack Grover, Mr. Bayard Taylor, of Mr. Dickey's organization, Jimmie Tatum, Ralph Ellis, managing editor of the Journal-Post (Dickey's newspaper), and various local men. There were also present during the same day and at the same time and place, but I understand is a different part of the house, Blodgett Priest, J. L. Lieberstein and L. J. Smyth. These latter men were invited, so I am informed, to the meeting by C. C. Madison. These meetings, as far as my information goes, did not actually intermingle, but were held in the same house, at the same time, for the purpose of discussing and promulgating a plan of action whereby the wet campaign of Priest and the dry campaign of Proctor could co-operate to defeat Senator George H. Williams.

Backed Proctor.

"On Mr. Becker's solicitation I then became active in the Proctor campaign, and served as secretary of Proctor's State-wide organiza-

JOINT WORK DETAILED IN AFFIDAVIT BY PROCTOR AID

Senator Gives Out Story by Ernest D. Wilson Reading Like Novel of Political Intrigue.

SAYS W. S. DICKEY BACKED BOTH MEN

Says Kansas City Publisher Aided Each of Presumed Opponents and Gave $2500 to William O. Atkeson, Who Quit Race.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 31.—United States Senator Williams today, in a bitter denunciation of campaign methods of his opponents for the Republican senatorial nomination, made public an affidavit by Ernest D. Wilson, former secretary of the David M. Proctor State campaign organization, charging an amazing political intrigue. The affidavit, given to newspaper men at the Williams headquarters, with the authority of the Senator, outlined the "conspiracy," as Williams termed the alleged relations between the leading supporters of his opponents.

In general the charge was that Blodgett Priest, the avowedly "wet" candidate, was a mere stalking horse for Proctor, and that he was brought into the race by Secretary of State, Charles U. Becker and supported by Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City with the idea that his candidacy would accomplish the nomination of Proctor by cutting into Williams "wet" strength, especially in St. Louis. In the lengthy affidavit numerous instances were set out of conferences between Dickey and leaders for both Proctor and Priest, of negotiations in the interest of contributions to both camps by Dickey, and of alleged payment by Dickey of $2500 to former Congressman Atkeson of Butler, who also was a "dry" candidate, and whose candidacy would have taken a vote roughly estimated at 20,000 from Proctor, for his withdrawal from the race. Atkeson withdrew several weeks ago.

Dickey Openly Supports Proctor.

Proctor has had the open and public support of Dickey, who for many years has been an influential figure in State and national Republican politics, and who is the editor and owner of the Kansas City Journal-Post. His newspapers, one evening and one morning, have devoted many columns to advocacy of Proctor's nomination and to criticism of Williams. Wilson, who recited in minute detail the confidential relations he said he had as secretary of the Proctor State organization, explained that he decided to reveal the inner workings of the campaign after the filing several weeks ago of a $3,000,000 damage suit by Dickey against former Gov. Hyde and several editors of the Kansas City Star.

Hyde, in a political speech, charged that the Proctor and Priest campaigns were in effect one and that Dickey was the man behind both. The Star printed the speech.

Affidavit Climax to Campaign.

The Wilson affidavit was obtained by several of Williams' leading supporters in Kansas City and the Senator was informed of it. He authorized them to give publicity to it and dictated a statement which was issued for him when they submitted the affidavit to newspaper men. The affidavit comes as a climax to the campaign, being issued only three days before the primary election.

As unfolded by Wilson, the story is one of manipulation and intrigue such as often is suspected in primary campaigns, but rarely exposed to public view. Senator Williams, in his statement, charged that the Wilson affidavit was "a

Inside Story of Wet and Dry Sham Battle as Told by One of the Manager

Greatest Political Fraud in State's History, Williams Says

KANSAS CITY, July 31.—Senator Williams' statement, based on the affidavit of Ernst D. Wilson, former Proctor manager, follows:

"I had hoped that this primary campaign might have been so conducted that when it was over and the will of the people had been registered, no bitterness or ill will should have been engendered. Throughout the campaign I have uttered no unjust word of criticism.

"However, a situation has developed that demands plain treatment. It has come to my attention that there is now in the possession of Republican leaders a full and complete confession of the activities of both the Proctor and the Priest campaigns, proving conclusively the full collaboration between the supporters of Blodgett Priest, the avowed wet candidate, and the supporters of David M. Proctor, the so-called and self-styled dry candidate.

"The full facts have been given to the press. The startling and sinister disclosures therein contained not only shock the conscience of all loyal Republicans, but prove conclusively the statements I have repeatedly made, that had I been willing to meet the demands of Walter S. Dickey concerning Federal appointments I would have no opposition in the Republican primary.

"Throughout the campaigns waged by the Priest supporters and the Proctor adherents there has been a studied attempt to play upon the prejudices of the wets on the one hand and the drys upon the other to the end not only that I might be defeated, but that complete control of the State organization might be obtained.

"The facts as disclosed show the greatest political fraud ever perpetrated upon the people of Missouri. I ask the Republicans of Missouri to read this sordid story in all its damning details and then answer whether or not they approve this nefarious and cowardly political conspiracy."

confession of a nefarious political conspiracy," and termed the story "sordid and damning."

The purpose alleged to be behind the entire scheme was to induce the candidacy of Priest as a "wet" with the idea that he would poll a very large vote in St. Louis and a few wet counties, a vote which would have gone to Williams if Priest was not a candidate, the theory being that by dividing the wet vote between Priest and Williams, Proctor, who was expected to poll the bulk of the dry vote, would be nominated.

Wilson, who resides at 221 East Forty-sixth street, Kansas City, and is a lawyer, began his statement with an explanation that he became interested in the campaign through an association with Becker in the publication of a Republican political newspaper in Excelsior Springs. Becker and Senator Williams were personal enemies, and, Wilson said, it was apparent that it was to Becker's advantage to defeat Williams because of Becker's political ambitions, being a tentative candidate for the nomination for Governor in 1928. Becker, it would appear from Wilson's affidavit, was actuated by a belief that if Williams were nominated he would have a hold on the Republican State organization which would be disastrous to Becker's candidacy.

Sought Candidate.

Wilson said he devoted considerable time to attempting to bring out a candidate against Williams, discussing the matter with a number of persons who were known to be unfriendly to the Senator, among them Mayor Miller of St. Louis, former Supreme Judge Conway Elder and Robert J. Kratky. In the course of this work he met Blodgett Priest, who was "convincingly wet," and had under consideration becoming a candidate.

Wilson had a meeting with the Executive Committee of the Association Opposed to the Prohibition Amendment, of which former Judge Henry S. Priest, a Democrat, and father of Blodgett Priest, was president.

The anti-Williams group at that time was somewhat favorably disposed to Forrest Donnell of St. Louis, to oppose Williams. He was dropped and they cast about fo somebody else, Mayor Miller, John S. Leahy and Dickey being considered.

Before any decision was reached Blodgett Priest definitely decided to become a candidate contingent upon obtaining the consent of his father. Wilson, with the knowledge that Priest would not be supported by the group with which he was co-operating, but believing that his candidacy was necessary to carry out the plans, said he had a number of conferences with Henry S. Priest, and finally the son's candidacy was announced. Wilson said he prepared Priest's announcement and gave it to the press.

"With this accomplished," he said in the affidavit, "we began to work on getting out a third candidate."

Proctor Selected.

For one reason or another, Mayor Miller, Leahy and Dickey would not run, and, Wilson said, Becker picked Proctor as the third candidate, the man to be actually backed by the anti-Williams group to win.

Wilson was not present at a Jefferson City conference of Becker and Proctor and several of Proctor's friends, but said he was informed that Proctor would run as a "dry." Following this he told of a conference with Becker in which it was agreed that they would give encouragement to Priest's candidacy, while out in the dry counties of the State Becker would throw his influence with country Republican newspapers, many of which were under obligations to him because of highly remunerative State printing contracts, to the benefit of Proctor.

Although not present, Wilson told of a conference at Dickey's home in Kansas City the last Sunday in April, at which Proctor's candidacy was discussed. He said he received his information about it from Becker.

"I was informed by Mr. Becker," he said, "that the meeting had been a success, that there were present a number of individuals including Mr. Dickey, C. C. Madison, Robert J. Kratky, representing Mayor Miller, Jack Groves, Bayard Taylor of Dickey's organization, Jimmy Tatum, Ralph Ellis of the Journal-Post and various local men.

Priest at Dickey's Home.

"There were also present during the same day and at the same time and place, but I understand in a different part of the house, Blodgett Priest, J. L. Lieberstein and L. J. Smyth. These meetings so far as my information goes, did ont actually intermingle, but were held in the same house at the same time for the purpose of discussing and promulgating a plan of action whereby the wet campaign of Priest and the dry campaign of Proctor could co-operate to defeat Senator Williams."

Wilson then told of serving as secretary of the Proctor committee at Becker's solicitation while Smyth, who was managing editor of Becker's paper in Excelsior Springs, took over the handling of publicity for Priest, Smyth conferring frequently with Proctor and Ellis, managing editor of Dickey's papers. Smyth and local managers for Priest in St. Louis could not agree and Leiberstein became the Priest publicity man.

Becker, he said, had great influence with rural Republican newspapers because he had the alloting each two years of official printing amounting to about $2000 for each county.

"The arrangement concerning this campaign between Becker and the Priest and Proctor organization," Wilson said, "was that those papers located in 'wet' communities would support Priest, and those in 'dry' communities would support Proctor. This plan has worked admirably, in that there are only a few, I think five, country papers supporting Senator Williams."

Becker, he said, divided the State into four districts and sent four employes from his Jefferson City office to call on the rural editors and explain Becker's attitude.

Explaining that at one time it was feared Priest would withdraw, Wilson said Becker assured Priest that he would have ample financial assistance, and that July 3 Dickey met Henry S. Priest at the Jefferson Hotel in St. Louis and after the conference Henry S. Priest visited his son's headquarters and told Louis Zepp, the manager, that Dickey had promised $10,000 to the Priest fund, contingent upon Henry S. Priest contributing a like amount, the total fund to be "cleared through William Sacks."

Zepp, according to the affidavit was not satisfied with this plan "and so far as I know," Wilson said "this incident was then closed, except I am informed by Mr. Lieberstein that Mr. Dickey paid a visit that evening to Judge Priest's home, at which time and place the candidacy of both Proctor and Priest was discussed in full."

Wilson then told of a purported conference of A. C. Ferris, Proctor manager, with Hugh K. Wagner, Priest manager, at the Jefferson hotel, and said there were numerous conferences at which representatives of both organizations were present at the same time, mentioning Dickey, Madison, Grover and himself from the Proctor group, and Lieberstein and Wagner from the Priest group.

Plans Agreed Upon.

Plans were agreed upon, he said and were carried out, particular reference being made to the exertion of Mayor Miller's influence among City Hall employes who could not influence votes for Proctor, a dry, but could get them for Priest, a wet.

Federal patronage was discussed, it being agreed, according to the affidavit, that if Proctor won Priest would control patronage in the eastern half of the State, and that if Priest won Proctor would control it in the western half.

Having been the author of Priest's declaration of candidacy, Wilson said he also was the author of Proctor's. He told of the decision to have Proctor file only for the long term, going into detail regarding the advantage it was thought Proctor would derive, all of which has been told in newspaper articles, except that Wilson said Becker purposely certified the short term to be placed on the ballot ahead of the long term as a part of the alleged scheme.

The candidacy of Atkenson as a "dry" was the cause of much concern in the Proctor camp and there were many conferences looking to his withdrawal. He finally withdrew, and while no announcement was made at the time of the circumstances, the Antisaloon League took credit for getting him out of the race that the dry vote be not split.

Demand for Money.

Wilson, however, said that Atkeson's son demanded a large sum of money for his father if he should withdraw, a sum too large to be considered. Wilson said the negotiations were successfully concluded by the payment of $2500 to Atkeson by Dickey, $2000 in cash by Dickey and another $500 by Madison, who, he said, was reimbursed by Dickey. As an evidence of aid from the Dickey-Proctor organization to promote the Priest campaign, Wilson cited information he said he had that Ellis, managing editor of Dickey's newspapers, turned over to the Priest organization a list of 15,000 names of persons who had voted "wet" in a poll on prohibition conducted by the newspaper.

An interesting feature of the affidavit dealt with organization work done by Mrs. W. R. Haight of Brandsville, vice chairman of the Republican State Committee, and Mrs. Edna Sheldon Blair of Washington, representing the women's division of the Republican National Committee. Wilson said the Proctor organization arranged for Mrs. Haight and Mrs. Blair to tour the State for the purpose of arousing women to register and to organize, but not appearing to represent Proctor. Then in the closing days of the campaign, Wilson said, Mrs. Haight was to give an indorsement for Proctor.

Wilson submitted with his affidavit a copy of a letter written by Mrs. Haight to Dickey in June acknowledging receipt of the "third $500" and telling him of the progress of the work.

Statement From Women.

A few days ago Dickey's Kansas City Journal contained a statement from Mrs. Haight announcing a decision to support Proctor and yesterday's Journal had an interview with Mrs. Blair. She was quoted as saying that she hesitated to make a statement as her work was not in the interest of any candidate, but that she was convinced Proctor would be nominated.

Wilson said his information was that Mrs. Haight was paying Mrs. Blair's expenses.

In concluding his affidavit Wilson gave as a reason for deciding to reveal his knowledge of the campaign that he knew he would be a witness in Dickey's suit against Hyde and the Kansas City Star and be forced to testify.

As tending to corroborate his statements Wilson gave the Williams committee a telegram he received from Priest, March 6. It merely was a request for Wilson to mail Priest a copy of a newspaper.

In addition to the copy of a letter he wrote to Becker March 26 regarding the progress of candidatorial negotiations it was:

"Dear Charlie: I presume you noticed by the papers Mr. Priest's announcement for Senator. This matter did not develop as materially as I expected, as far as we are concerned, but I feel assured that before we incur any expenses the campaign will become a source of great revenue to us. Mr. Priest is in Kansas City now and will go to St. Louis within the next day or so, stopping at Jefferson City on his way.

"I suggest that if it is at all possible, we get together within the next few days—possibly the first of next wek—and discuss the situation in general, both as far as the campaign is concerned and as to what this campaign will mean to our company. (This obviously is a reference to their Excelsior Springs newspaper.) I feel that it means our salvation in the discharge of any obligations we might have. I would like to take this up with you in detail."

Langworthy Tells Why Wilson Gives the Story Now.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 31.—Expediency as well as conscience dictated that Wilson make a clean breast of his activities in the senatorial campaign, Herman Langworthy, Kansas City manager for Senator Williams, declared today in discussing the affidavit.

"Wilson got into the campaign without realizing he was being involved in a monumental plot," Langworthy said. "The realization that he was not playing a fair game first came to him, I think, when former Gov. Hyde denounced Dickey for his two-fold activity and Dickey, replying in an editorial, called Hyde a liar in so many words.

"At the same time Dickey filed a $3,000,000 libel suit against Gov. Hyde and the Kansas City Star, affirming in his petition the very things that Wilson knew to be false. Confronted with the necessity of going on the witness stand in the suit — for everyone connected with the campaign would have been summoned to testify—Wilson saw at once that he was going to have to tell what part he had played in the plot.

"He consulted friends, who advised him to tell his story before the election and undo the harm the plan had done, rather than wait until he had to tell it as a witness. News that he was contemplating making a clean breast of the whole affair finally came to the Williams headquarters and when he made his affidavit we decided to give it the widest possible publicity, so that the voters might know of the scheme to impose upon them."

Text of Affidavit Alleging Political Plot

tion, frequently discussing with Mr. Becker and others connected with the Proctor campaign, the activities of both the Proctor and Priest campaigns.

"Mr. Smyth, who was managing editor of Mr. Becker's newspaper at that time, took over the handling of the publicity of the Priest campaign, and carried on numerous conferences with Senator Proctor and Ralph Ellis, managing editor of the Journal Post. Smyth continued in this capacity for several weeks until some trouble arose between himself and the local St. Louis managers of Blodgett Priest, and it was then at that time that Mr. Becker induced Mr. J. L. Lieberstein of St. Louis to assist in the managing of the Priest campaign, and Mr. Lieberstein has continued in that capacity.

"By reason of the fact that the Secretary of State by law is charged with distributing contracts for the printing of the constitutional initiative and referendum, and that this contract ranges around the sum of $2000 for each biennial period, for each county, Mr. Becker has been able to control to a great extent the political policy of the country press, and the arrangement concerning this campaign between Mr. Becker and the Priest and Proctor organizations, was that those papers located in 'wet' communities would support the candidacy of Blodgett Priest, and those papers located in 'dry' communities would support the candidacy of Senator Proctor. This plan has worked admirably, in that there are now only a few, I think five, country papers supporting the candidacy of Senator George H. Williams.

"Later on, during the progress of the campaign, Mr. Becker divided the State into four districts, assigning one of his men to each district, and these men called upon each of the country editors in that district with reference to the printing contract, informing them of Mr. Becker's attitude in the Senatorial campaign.

"Mr. Becker had assured Mr. Lieberstein and various members of the Priest campaign, of a large financial support from Mr. Dickey. It was feared during the early part of the campaign that Mr. Priest noticing the trend of Mr. Becker's country support to Proctor, would become dissatisfied and withdraw, and various promises of large financial support were given to him by Mr. Becker. I am informed by Mr. Lieberstein that on July 3, Mr. Dickey was at the Jefferson Hotel in St. Louis, and called into conference Judge H. S. Priest; that Judge H. S. Priest, upon leaving this conference, walked to his son's headquarters a half block distant, and made his first and only visit to the headquarters, telling Mr. Zepp, who was then in charge, that Mr. Dickey had made an offer of $10,000 financial support to the Priest campaign fund, contingent upon Judge Priest putting up a like amount, the total sum clearing through the hands of Mr. William Sachs. Mr. Zepp objected strenuously to any donation of Judge Priest clearing through Mr. Sach's hands, and as far as I know, this incident was then closed, except that I am informed by Mr. Lieberstein that Mr. Dickey paid a visit that evening to the home of Judge Priest, at which time and place the candidacy of both Proctor and Priest was discussed in full. Prior to this, Mr. Dickey in company with Mr. Ferris, campaign manager for Mr. Proctor, met with Mr. Lieberstein and Hugh K. Wagner of the Priest camp, in the Jefferson Hotel at St. Louis and the development and progress of both the Proctor and Priest campaigns were discussed in full.

"In addition to these meetings at which Mr. Dickey was present, numerous and continuous meetings were held between the Priest and Proctor camps, by Mr. Madison, myself and at various times, Mr. Grover representing the Proctor camp and Mr. Lieberstein and Mr. Wagner representing the Priest contingent. At these times we discussed the progress of the Priest and Proctor campaigns, how we could work together, and how these votes unable to be delivered to Proctor could be switched to Priest. This matter has been definitely followed out by Mayor Miller in his organization of the City Hall employes, and certain city committeemen, unable to deliver their wards for a dry candidate in St. Louis, have been urged and are being urged by Miller to deliver their votes to Priest.

Planned to Let Organization of Defeated Man Dispense Patronage

"The general understanding throughout all of these weeks of conferences and work between the managers and leaders in the Proctor campaign and the manager and leaders of the Priest campaign, was that the central idea was to defeat Senator George H. Williams; and it was further understood and reiterated recently, that in the event of Mr. Proctor's nomination, such patronage as Mr. Proctor would have as Senator and as might be available in the eastern half of the State, would be handled by the Priest organization. and in the event of Priest's nomination, such patronage as he might have in the western half of the State would be under the domination and control of the Proctor organization. One of the central ideas of the efforts of the Proctor managers was to gain, with the nomination of Mr. Proctor, control of the State Committee.

"At the time of Mr. Proctor's filing, I prepared his declaration. Considerable discussion was had as to whether or not Mr. Proctor should file for the long and short term, or whether he should file for only the long term. Blodgett Priest and Senator George H. Williams had filed their declarations for candidacy for Republican nomination for United States Senator for the short unexpired period of Senator Spencer's term, and the regular term known as the long term. At the time of filing of Senator Proctor's declaration of candidacy, considerable thought was had as to whether he should file for both terms, or only for the long term. It was reasoned that inasmuch as the Secretary of State Becker was to certify the names of the candidates and their terms to the various county clerks with the short term first, and that the county clerk would order the ballots so printed, showing the short term first, that a vast majority of Republican voters desiring to vote for Senator Williams, would register their intentions only on the short term and fail to vote for him twice, thus losing him thousands of votes for the long term. This was conceived by the Proctor campaign managers to be one of the cleverest moves of the Proctor campaign. Senator Proctor, having filed only for the long term, needed only one registration of intention on the present voter to gain the full extent of this condition. This arrangement was apparently unknown to the Williams organization until the St. Louis Board of Election Commissioners published their sample ballot with the long term first and the short term second. I called Mr. Becker's attention to this, and together we appeared before the Board of Election Commissioners of St. Louis, requesting them to print their ballots in the form certified by the Secretary of State. After several hours' discussion, one member of the board finally realized the significance of this, and the board refused to change their form of ballot.

"Aside from the political calculations made by the various men associated with the promotion of the two candidates above mentioned, one, W. O. Atkeson of Butler, Mo., had filed for both the long and short terms as a 'dry' candidate. It was apparent that his record was consistently 'dry' and as it was desired that Mr. Proctor secure the endorsement of the various dry organizations, Mr. Atkeson's candidacy created a stumbling block. Efforts were made after the Republican banquet at Moberly, Mo., to secure the withdrawal of Mr. Atkeson from the race, and it was agreed that something must be done along this line. Under the law, 60 days before the primary the Secretary of State is required to certify the names of all candidates to the various county clerks, the boards of election commissioners, and at that time, and when this was done, Mr. Atkeson had not withdrawn. Considerable pressure was brought to bear after the names of the candidates were certified by the Secretary of State upon Mr. Atkeson, and it is my understanding from C. C. Madison that Gov. E. Mont Reilly, who was understood to be managing Mr. Atkeson's campaign, sent for Mr. Atkeson on several occasions to discuss his withdrawal. It was believed by the Proctor organization that Mr. Atkeson might possibly draw a total of 15,000 votes from consistently dry Republicans, which total would embarrass the candidacy of Mr. Proctor to that extent.

"On one occasion Mr. Atkeson appeared in Kansas City in response to Gov. Reilly's summons, with his son. I was informed by both Gov. Reilly and Mr. Madison, that the amount of money demanded by Mr. Atkeson's son for the withdrawal of Mr. Atkeson, was impossible, and that the boy nearly precipitated the breaking off of all negotiations. The amount offered Mr. Atkeson at this time by Gov. Reilly, so I am informed by Mr. Madison, was $2000. Mr. Atkeson insisted that his expenses incurred in his campaign had totaled $2500. I am informed by Mr. Madison that Mr. Dickey agreed to put up the sum of $2000 for the purpose of securing Atkeson's withdrawal, and that Dickey left his office during these negotiations, returning with $2000 in cash, which he turned over to Mr. Madison. Upon Mr. Madison reaching Gov. Reilly's office with the sum of $2000, Mr. Atkeson had become discouraged and returned home. A conference was held concerning this matter in Mr. Madison's office between Mr. Madison, Gov. Reilly and Mr. Grover and myself, and it was decided that immediate efforts would have to be made to get Mr. Atkeson's withdrawal.

"By reason of the fact that the Secretary of State had already certified the names of the candidates to the various county clerks and boards of election commissioners, it was necessary, in order to get Mr. Atkeson's withdrawal properly before the various election officials of Missouri, to have executed 116 affidavits, one to each of the 114 county clerks, one to the Board of Election Commissioners of St. Louis and one to be sent to the Secretary of State's office. I had prepared these affidavits, dictating them to my stenographer, Miss Marie Baker, and at the time of the conference held in Mr. Madison's office above referred to, these affidavits were ready for execution, negotiations having been completed. Immediately after the conference above referred to, Gov. Reilly again sent for Mr. Atkeson, who came up the same day. Negotiations were again resumed and Mr. Atkeson insisted upon receiving the full sum of $2500 or the total amount of what he claimed his expenses were. I am informed by Mr. Madison that Mr. Dickey refused to put up the additional $500, and I am further informed by Mr. Madison that in order to consummate the deal and secure Mr. Atkeson's signature on the various affidavits, that he personally advanced the $500 necessary to complete arrangements that he later did receive this money back from Mr. Dickey. I am informed by Mr. Madison that he delivered that $2500 to E. Mont Reilly, who in turn paid it to Mr. Atkeson.

"The affidavits were then properly signed by Mr. Atkeson, and were brought down to Proctor headquarters by Mr. Madison and turned over to me. As Mr. Becker was then in town, I turned these affidavits over to him (Becker) at the President Hotel that evening and they were duly mailed out by the Secretary of State's office.

"At the time that it seemed as if the negotiations between Mr. Atkeson, Madison and Gov. Reilly would be broken off on account of the inability to secure the additional $500, Mr. Dickey came down to Proctor headquarters and Mr. Madison talked to him regarding this sum, and I am informed by Mr. Madison, he was told by Dickey to go ahead and get Mr. Atkeson out of the way. With Atkeson's withdrawal, efforts were then made to secure the endorsements of the various dry organizations, and Mr. Grover was enabled to secure a letter from Dr. Shields, of the Anti-Saloon organization, approving Senator Proctor's legislative record. Mrs. Burger of the W. C. T. U., did not perform as quickly, and it was only recently that her endorsement was given out. Efforts were made, however, to secure Mrs. Burger's endorsement, and various conferences were held tending to convince her that the only dry candidate left in the race was Senator Proctor.

"Referring again to the Priest campaign, Mr. Lieberstein came to Kansas City in the past week, with me, for the purpose of perfecting final arrangements for the balance of the campaign, and one evening spent several hours discussing the Priest campaign with Mr. Dickey at Proctor headquarters.

"This appointment between Mr. Dickey and Mr. Lieberstein was made in this way: Mr. Madison came up to the Hotel Baltimore to the room occupied by Mr. Lieberstein and myself, and informed us that Mr. Dickey would be available that evening. Mr. Lieberstein then called Mr. Dickey on the phone, and in my presence made an appointment to meet him in Dickey's office at 8:30. However, Mr. Lieberstein stated upon his return that Mr. Dickey was an hour or so late, and instead of making it his office, they met at Proctor headquarters in the New York Life Building, and discussed the various phases of the campaign.

"Mr. Madison was present at a number of conferences held during the time Mr. Lieberstein was in town the past week, and with Mr. Lieberstein discussed both the Priest campaign and the Proctor campaign.

Conferred Often With Dickey on Proctor-Priest Campaign, He Says

"During the time that I have been connected with the Proctor campaign as secretary of the Statewide organization, I have had many conferences with Mr. Dickey and others at Mr. Dickey's house and elsewhere, concerning both the Proctor campaign and the Priest campaign, and how the Priest campaign could be conducted so as to aid and assist the Proctor campaign. The plans of both the Priest campaign and the Proctor campaign were discussed between Mr. Dickey and us and agreed upon. According to Mr. Madison, Mr. Dickey stated, of course, Proctor never would have been put into the campaign except for Blodgett Priest's candidacy, and our ability to work so that one would help the other.

"During the progress of the Proctor and Priest campaign, Mr. Ellis called me on the phone one day, stating that he had a list of 15,000 'wet' names, which in his opinion should be turned over to the Priest camp. I then either called or wired Priest headquarters in St. Louis, telling them of the existence of these names and that it would necessitate some stenographic expense in compiling the list. They stated that they would be glad to receive it and several days later Mrs. McFall came into Proctor headquarters inquiring about the names and I sent her down to the Journal-Post to see Mr. Ellis. I know that prior to my conversation with Mr. Ellis, the Journal-Post had taken a poll on the question of prohibition enforcement, similar to the newspaper polls carried on by various newspapers throughout the country, forms of ballots were printed on the various issues in the papers, and the public urged to vote upon the question of rigid enforcement, repeal or modification. In connection with this matter, yesterday I met Charles C. Madison on the sixth floor of the Commerce Building; Madison stated that he had just returned from the office of Rader & Rader, and that Mr. Harold Marshall, who had been associated with the Priest organization, was in the office, greatly excited, stating that he intended to publicly announce that he or Mrs. McFall were in possession of the 15,000 names above referred to, and that they had been given to them by Mr. Ellis from the poll conducted by the Journal-Post. Madison was excited over the incident and stated to me that even if Mr. Marshall gave out a statement, he doubted it would be published or believed.

"In the early part of the campaign Dr. Lebow, who has for a number of years been a confidential political assistant and employe of W. S. Dickey, told me that arrangements had been made by Mr. Dickey to have Mrs. William H. Haight and a lady by the name of Mrs. Blair, who was supposed to represent the National Committee, go over the State and organize the woman of the State for the purpose of arousing them all to register, where registration was necessary, and to vote at the primary and be prepared to vote for the candidate who represented their ideals. The plan was that Mrs. Haight late in the campaign was to come out with an announcement supporting Mr. Proctor. The plan further had this value, that in this way we would get, through Mrs. Haight and Mrs. Blair, the names of a great many 'dry' women workers throughout the State. I have in my possession a letter written by Mrs. Haight under date of June 25, to Mr. Walter S. Dickey, stating that she has received the third $500 installment donation from him, which was delivered to her by Dr. Lebow, the same man who had told me of this plan.

"I notice by this morning's Kansas City Journal, that Mrs. Haight, following out the plan of Mr. Dickey, has announced herself for Mr. Proctor.

"Mrs. Blair was obtained by Mrs Haight from Washington, D. C., and the understanding was she was to go through the State, and I understood from Dr. Lebow that her expenses are being paid by Mrs. Haight. It was definitely understood that Mrs. Haight's anouncement in the paper, supporting Mr. Proctor, was to be obtained, and recently Mr. A. C. Ferris, campaign manager for Senator Proctor, made a trip to St. Louis, obtaining this announcement. At least I am so informed by Mr. Madison.

"During the progress of the two campaigns I have sent and received communications to and from the Priest headquarters.

"Ever since Mr. Dickey filed his suit against the Kansas City Star and Gov. Arthur M. Hyde, alleging in that suit that he had been grossly libeled by the charge made that he was associated and interested in both the candidacy of the 'wet' candidate, Blodgett Priest, and the candidacy of the 'dry' candidate, Mr. Proctor, and notice to take depositions had been served at once. I was convinced that I would of necessity be placed upon the witness stand at any moment, and be forced to testify concerning this matter. When I realized that Mr. Dickey had made a legal controversy out of this matter, and that it had become an issue whether or not he was interested in both the Proctor and the Priest campaigns, I made up my mind that I should sever my connection with the political organization and that I could go no further in a campaign which would necessarily continue to be based upon the misrepresentations concerning the interest of Mr. Dickey and the other backers of Proctor in the candidacy of Blodgett Priest.

"ERNEST D. WILSON."

porters was being held in the Dickey house while he was there, and added that he saw no one but the butler and Dickey.

On his return to St. Louis, Priest related, C. C. Madison, former United States District Attorney at Kansas City, and Jack Grover, both supporters of Proctor, called at the Priest-for-Senator headquarters in the Mayfair Hotel. This was before Proctor had announced his candidacy.

Priest then related that the following conversation ensued:

"Madison said, 'We have been making a survey of the State to ascertain your chances of nomination. We find them very excellent. If you get the nomination, of course you will be very favorable to us in Kansas City.' I inquired, 'What do you mean by us?' He replied, 'The Dickey-Proctor crowd.' I said, 'Why should I? I don't owe you anything.' He said, 'What would you think if Mr. Proctor should become a candidate?' I replied. 'This is a free country; Proctor can be a candidate if he wants to. It is none of my business.

"He said, 'Then if Proctor runs and is successful, we will owe you nothing.' I said, 'Certainly, that is quite correct. Neither one of us will owe the other anything.'

Reply Angered Madison.

"'Well, you seem to be pretty sure of your chances,' he said, or perhaps Grover said that, and I said, 'Yes, I am not makin political promises to anyone.' angered him. Whereupon I them goodby and I left the ting there with Mr. Smyth."

WOMAN SAYS SHE HAS CLEW IN HALL MURDER MYSTERY

Telegraphs New Jersey Officers From Milwaukee That She Saw Men at Scene of Killings.

VICTIMS' BODIES TO BE EXHUMED AGAIN

Action Decided On as First Step in New Inquiry of Crime and of First Investigation.

By the Associated Press.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., July 31.—A telegram from Milwaukee, Wis., has quickened the lagging investigation into the murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, and his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, four years ago.

Among other things, the bodies of Hall and Mrs. Mills will be exhumed again, it was learned today. The action was said to have been decided on today as one of the first steps in the new investigation of the crime. A searching inquiry also will be made into the conduct of the first investigation of the murder four years ago, officers said.

The telegram, supposed to have been sent to Joseph Hanlon, County Detective, was in the hands of Capt. J. J. Lamb, of State Police today. He would not disclose the nature of its contents, but said "we are taking action on it." The telegram was addressed to "Sheriff Hanlon." Hanlon was formerly Sheriff.

Admission of receipt of the telegram was made by Capt. Lamb, after he had been told that Mrs. Howard Harding of Milwaukee had said she had telegraphed "Sheriff" Joseph Hanlon that she had clews which might aid in solving the Hall-Mills death mystery.

Halted in Lonely Road.

Mrs. Harding said she was driving alone in her automobile between Manville and New Brunswick the night of Sept. 14, 1922, when she was halted by a man who threatened her if she disclosed what she had seen on the roadside. She said she would give what other information she had only to "Sheriff" Hanlon. She did not see a woman, but believed she saw three men standing behind the man who halted her, and whom she took for a robber until he refused money she offered him.

James Mills, husband of Mrs. Mills, when told of the telegram, said "that's the bunk."

"I've received thousands of letters from cranks all over the world," said Mills. "I pay no attention to them. I take no stock in what people say about the case. I have nothing to fear from any of these so-called new revelations. I've already been given 'third degrees' in several places and all they got out of me was the truth. Lawyers and private detectives have offered me their services, but I've told them I didn't need help from any source. The truth is my support."

Slain Man's Sisters His Guests.

Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the slain pastor, who was released from Somerset County jail yesterday on $15,000 bail, spent the day at her New Brunswick home with friends and relatives. She is charged with the two murders. During the day she was visited by two sisters of her late husband.

Mrs. Hall issued a statement that she would not leave New Brunswick before the meeting of the grand jury, which probably will be convened the third Tuesday in September.

The $15,000 bail of William Phillips, a former watchman, held as a material witness, was reduced to [illegible]. Phillips' attorney said he expected to procure his release [illegible].

Warren F. Francis, a friend, to whom Mrs. Harding is said to have [illegible] she related the experience in the lonely road on her return to Manville, where she resided at the time of the murder, died about a year ago, it was reported at the Asbestos Hotel in Manville, of which he was manager. Francis' daughter is dead, and his only relative known to be alive is a brother who [illegible] in Brooklyn. It was not known at the hotel whether Francis had told his brother of Mrs. Harding's experience.

Another Woman Saw Men.

Mrs. Jane Gibson, a farmer woman who lives near where the bodies of Hall and Mrs. Mills were found, and who told authorities she was [illegible] witness of the murders, never was sure of the number of automobiles she saw at the spot where the bodies lay. Her testimony was that she had come up the road [illegible] her mule and saw the murderers at their task. Besides a car [illegible] the extinguished headlights, she said, there was another, the [illegible] of which furnished the illumination by which she saw the murderers' faces. Beyond this, she [illegible] authorities, she thought there was a third car, a roadster.

Although the statements of Mrs. Gibson, to which have been added the statements of Mrs. Harding, were to the effect that there were several men at the scene of the crime, only one person, and that a woman, has been directely charged with the murders. That woman is Mrs. Hall. Mrs. Gibson said she recognized two men she saw.

Intimidation Forced Her to Keep Silent, Says Mrs. Harding.

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 31.—Convinced that she holds the key to the Hall-Mills slaying in New Jersey, in 1922, Mrs. Virginia Dorothy Harding, of Shorewood, a suburb, today said she was ready to start East and tell her story to the authorities. Mrs. Harding, who said she was at the scene of the slaying on the night it occurred and there was confronted by a man, said she would be able to identify that person. She expects to start east tomorrow.

Threats of violence have hitherto prevented her from relating her story, Mrs. Harding said. When she read that Mrs. Frances Hall had been arrested, the Milwaukee woman decided that she could no longer hold back her information.

Until she moved from the East and took up her residence in Milwaukee, Mrs. Harding, who is now the wife of an oil filling station manager, said she was subjected to a campaign of intimidation. Her one confidant, Warren F. Francis, manager of the Asbestos Hotel of Manville, N. J., to whom she had told her story the night after the murder, was also in jeopardy, Mrs. Harding said. It was on his advice, she said, that she decided she would keep out of the affair when no true bills were returned by the grand jury.

SPEAKS FOR RISTINE

SENATOR JAMES A. REED.

REED SPEAKS HERE IN RISTINE'S BEHALF

Senator Urges Colonel for Democratic Nomination for the Supreme Court.

United States Senator James A. Reed, in the only speech he has made in behalf of any candidate in the present primary contest, last night advocated the nomination of Col. Carl L. Ristine for the Supreme Court on the Democratic ticket.

The occasion was a testimonial dinner to Ristine at Hotel Jefferson, given by a non-partisan committee of war veterans. Ristine, who is a lawyer of Lexington, was commander of the 139th Infantry in the Argonne.

Reed, who confined his speech to the merits of the candidate, related three instances of Ristine's bravery, which he said he learned from official sources. He told how, when a regiment in front of him had become demoralized, Ristine moved his men forward, without command, and held the line. He said Ristine and a handful of his men were for two days within the German lines because they had gone ahead of the rest. He told how, when a retreat was ordered, rather than to leave wounded men to be killed or taken prisoner, Ristine kept his men holding the line until ambulances could be obtained.

Reed said he had broken his own rule not to take part in primary contests because of Ristine's long and loyal friendship for him. He said that Ristine, who is 39 years old, was at the right age to begin what should be a long term of service on the Supreme bench, and he vouched for his legal ability, his courage and his humanity. Other speakers were James W. Byrnes, Colin M. Selph, Mayor L. N. Stigall of St. Joseph, Randall Wilson of Bethany, and Col. E. J. McMahon. Dr. R. E. Owen presided.

Col. Ristine, in a brief speech, solicited support for other service men who are candidates in the primary. A list of 27 such men, divided between the two parties, was printed on the program. Previously, all candidates present who were service men were introduced, including several Republicans.

ENVOY EXPLAINS MEXICO'S POLICY TOWARD CHURCH

Charge at Washington Says It Never Has Represented a Constructive Power for the People.

NO PROGRESSIVE ACT IN THREE CENTURIES

Dr. Leal Points to History to Justify Government's Course—Asserts Stand Is Misunderstood.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—In a formal statement explaining the religious policy which has brought the Mexican Government into conflict with the Catholic Church, Dr. Antonio Castro Leal, charge d'affaires of the Mexican Embassy here, asserted tonight that the church, at a time when it exercised a powerful political sway in Mexico, never in fact represented a constructive power for the people.

"It is an unavoidable conclusion that Catholic opinion abroad is erroneous in regard to the so-called religious question in Mexico," he said, "since it is natural for the people of the United States, for instance, to judge the church in Mexico by the standards of the church in the United States, without taking into consideration that historical and political conditions, that race and methods of government, have been additional factors which have diversified the role of the religious institutions in both countries.

Must Know History of Case.

"Without possessing an exact knowledge of the political history of Mexico during the Nineteenth Century, one cannot appreciate the causes which gave rise to the Mexican Constitution of 1857 and the reform laws of 1859, which are the basis of legislation dealing with religious matters.

"To judge the church in Mexico by what the church has done in the United States is as erroneous as to judge the conservative parties in Argentina by what the Tories have done in England.

"The church exercised a complete dominion over Mexico during three centuries without being able to launch a movement of progress that would, when independence was achieved, place Mexico among the countries enjoying modern standards of life.

"After the war of independence, at the beginning of the nineteenth century, the church in Mexico exercised a great political sway, but it never represented in fact a constructive power for the people.

Church Backed Conservation.

"The struggle for reform put an end to a continuous state of political friction between the liberal and conservative parties, the latter having the decisive support of the church. Upon the triumph of the liberal party, it was possible to separate the church from the state, limiting the religious institutions to spiritual action, the only kind of action which belongs to them.

"The reform movement gave to the country a Magna Charta in which were embodied liberal principles which no other country had yet established in the middle of the nineteenth century. These principles have been gradually adopted in the Constitutions of several European and Latin American countries.

"The policy of President Calles' government is in fact a continuation of the one that prompted the reform movement; and Article 130 of the Constitution of 1917, dealing with religious questions, is in fact the incorporation of Article 123 of the Constitution of 1857 and of the reform laws of 1859. The decree amending the penal code does nothing but establish regulations for laws already in existence for the last 70 years.

Policy Uniform for 70 Years.

"An unbiased consideration of the facts cannot fail to show the uniformity of policy in regard to religious questions during the last 70 years. Any person with a clear idea of sociological and political movements will realize that there must exist powerful reasons and special circumstances supporting the Mexican policy in all matters touching religious questions during the last 70 years.

"No unpopular movement, no problem artificially created by a government can survive in the political calendar of a country during 70 years.

"After the dictatorship of Porfirio Diaz, Mexico found great problems to be solved. The revolution of 1910 inaugurated a movement of new political ideas. And Mexico is at present passing through a creative period—spreading knowledge among the lower classes, establishing credit institutions for the benefit of industry and agriculture, opening roads and irrigating lands.

"A rich minority rested upon the wretched condition of the poor majority. This situation has been fully understood and now it is our purpose to make it clear to others that the people must enjoy better conditions of life. In order to carry out our purposes it has been necessary to place the country in a producing state, and to make the people, through education, capable to produce.

Church Reactionary.

"At the present time, when the country is being reconstructed, the Government of Mexico has made clear that the reactionary elements obstructing its work are being, as always before, instigated by the church.

"To the maneuvers of the church and to its call to the people to disavow the Constitution and the laws of the country, the President has only answered putting into force the laws already in existence, which had not been in force through the tolerance of the Government.

GOVERNMENT TO ENFORCE PLAN TO TAX BOOTLEGGERS

Schedules Ranging From $6 to $1000 May Be Doubled or Tripled as Penalties — Treasury Adds 62 New Assessors.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The Government's new weapon against illicit liquor—taxation—was ordered into operation today by the Treasury.

Instructions were issued to Prohibition Administrators regarding the form of taxes and penalties which may be assessed against liquor manufacturers and others under the new revenue law and the prohibition act.

Just how the liquor is to be traced back to the manufacturers and proof of their liability established is not clear, but 62 "assessors" have been added to the staff for that work.

The taxation drive is in line with Assistant Secretary Andrews' policy of concentrating on the sources of illicit spirits and he believes the results will more than justify the effort. He told Congress at the last session that he expected to collect enough from liquor taxes to materially reduce appropriations for prohibition enforcement.

The instructions issued to Prohibition Administrators today point out that double and triple taxes on illicit liquor can be assessed as penalties.

Under the new revenue law the tax is $6.40 a proof gallon on all distilled spirits diverted to beverage use and $6 a barrel on beer containing more than one half of one per cent of alcohol sold for beverage consumption. A special tax of $1000 is levied on any person carrying on the business of a brewer, distiller, wholesale liquor dealer, retail liquor dealer or manufacturer of stills.

All of these assessments are in addition to the regular stamp taxes which are required under the revenue law on all distilled liquor, wine and beer. Most of the new staff of 62 assessors will be assigned to Deputy Internal Revenue Collectors and will work with the Federal District Attorney.

NINE ARRESTED IN A PLOT TO KILL MEXICAN PRESIDENT

without interference from the Government.

Even to the most casual observer the conflict appeared to be nearing a showdown, with the Government supported by the army and the church by its communicants.

Fire Hose Turned on Crowd.

The cases of violence that occurred here last night came when police and civil authorities went about their task of sealing church annexes. One woman and two men suffered bullet wounds in a clash before the Church of San Rafael, and two firemen, two policemen and three civilians were injured by flying stones. The clash came when police attempted to disperse the congregation which remained kneeling in the street after the building had been closed. Police failing in their first attempt, a fireman turned a hose on the crowd. Sticks and stones flew and shots were fired. Police climbed to the roofs of nearby houses and threw stones at the crowd, which eventually broke up under the pressure of the stones and the fire hose.

A report ran through one church that police were about to arrest the priests, whereupon the congregation gathered outside, 500 strong, ready to fight to the last to protect their clergy.

Several Injured in Jam.

A near panic occurred at the Church of the Sacred Heart, when a gasoline tank on an automobile exploded outside the door. The church was crowded and members of the congregation did not know whether the detonation was a bomb or the start of a fight. In the jam that came when those inside tried to get out, several were crushed.

A report from Pueblo tells of an unusual occurrence there Wednesday, when a woman forced her way through the crowd in the Cathedral, reached the Archbishop, who was confirming children, and slapped his face, calling him "hypocrite."

The woman, who is said by the authorities to be unbalanced mentally, managed to break through the angry crowd a second time and escape.

Mgr. Tito Crespi, an American citizen of Italian parentage, was ordered expelled from the country today by the Government. Mgr. Crespi has been in charge of the Apostolic Legation in Mexico City since the expulsion of Mgr. Caruana, papal nunzio. He was first allowed but 24 hours to leave the country, but later this was extended to 48, at the request of the Italian legation. He left tonight to visit Linden, N. J., where he has relatives, before going to Rome. He is the fourth representative of the Pope ordered out of the country in three years.

State Claims Church Treasures.

The Mexican Government has claimed for years that treasures within church buildings are actually state property, and that the buildings themselves are simply loaned by the Government to the congregations. The Government's contention is based on the old constitution's clauses which were renewed in 1917 in the new document, which declared all church property confiscated and forbade the church from holding property again in the country.

No one knows the exact value of the jewels and gold held by the churches. The crown of the Virgin of Guadelupe alone, a magnificent piece of gold studded with gems, is valued at 400,000 pesos. It was bought by popular subscription long ago. Unofficial estimates place the value of church treasures at from 16,000,000 to 18,000,000 pesos, but this is admitted to be uncertain because there has been no census of any kind for at least 10 years.

The economic boycott instituted by the National League for the Defense of Religious Liberty went into effect today, and is gradually developing to a movement of serious proportions. Business men are worried at the prospect and admit it.

TWO BODIES FOUND IN RIVER

Both of Men About 50 Years Old, Held at Morgue.

The bodies of two unidentified men, both appearing to be more than 50 years old, and dressed as laborers are held at the Morgue having been taken from the Mississippi River yesterday and Friday night. One body was found floating at the foot of Olive street, the other near the foot of Zepp street. There were no identification marks on the clothing. The condition of the bodies indicated they had been in the river about two weeks.

ST. LOUIS CATHOLICS TO PRAY FOR MEXICO

Local Churches to Join in World-Wide Supplication to End Strife.

In all Roman Catholic churches in St. Louis and throughout the world today, by proclamation of the Pope, prayers will be offered "for the ending of the persecution in Mexico, and for the pardon of the persecutors." Today is the Feast of St. Peter in Chains.

In a letter to the clergy and laity of the St. Louis Archdiocese Archbushop Glennon refers to conditions in Mexico and comments:

"One can scarcely believe in the twentieth century and in a country claiming to be civilized—with its many traditions of faith and culture—that such conditions could prevail. While we unite in prayer for the suffering church in Mexico we should also pray for its persecutors."

Archbishop Glennon also made public a letter received from Archbishop Fumasoni-Biondi, Apostolic Delegate, enclosing a message from Cardinal Gasparri, Secretary of State at the Vatican, who said:

"Deplorable news continues to reach us concerning the sad vicissitudes of the Church in the Republic of Mexico, where, under a hypocritical form of pretended legality, those who hold the reins of government are carrying out a true and real persecution against the Catholic religion in that unhappy nation. It is not necessary for us to review the serious, painful facts now daily multiplied in that Republic. While amplest liberty is allowed by the present Mexican Government to representatives of other religions, that same liberty is denied to all Catholics in a manner which would dishonor any civilized people. The Mexican Government not only persists in refusing to allow the Papal representative to remain in Mexico, but has gone so far as to expel the Apostolic Delegate, Archbishop Caruana, alleging, in justification of such action, false and calumnious charges.

"The Mexican Government, moreover, continues to drive from the Republic foreign-born priests and sisters in such an inhuman way as would scarcely be used against the worst of criminals.

"The Mexican Government has proceeded to limit arbitrarily the number of even the native-born priests of Mexico, and the number of dioceses. The Mexican Government has closed colleges and seminaries and imposed upon priests who venture to exercise their ministry such conditions as are intolerable to conscience.

"Churches from which priests were driven by violence are being taken over by civil authorities, under the pretext that such churches were abandoned."

FIVE PERSONS KILLED IN TWO PLANE CRASHES

Naval Lieutenant and Mechanic and Three Aviators Are the Victims.

By the Associated Press.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., July 31.—Lieut. Howard Folk Council and Aviation Machinists' Mate C. T. Giddens of Norman Park, Ga., were killed here late today when a naval seaplane plunged into the harbor. The bod of Giddens was recovered shortly after the crash.

The seaplane No. A-7061 had arrived here from Washington early in the afternoon, bringing Capt. Land of Washington to visit his family, who are spending the summer here. The plane left for Newport about 4 o'clock to take on fuel for the reutrn flight to the capital.

Eyewitnesses said the engine apparently failed when the plane was about 800 yards from shore just beyond the harbor breakwater. The plane went into a nose dive and seemed to break in two.

Three Perish When Machine Takes Fire in the Air.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 31.—Three aviators, testing a new plane, were killed at the McKeesport airport late today when the machine took fire in the air and crashed to the ground. The dead: S. Russell McIlvain, 27 years old; James Dom, 22; and Allyn W. Shaffer, 22. All resided in the Pittsburg district.

The plane, owned by Dom, and piloted by McIlvain, dipped several times as it neared the ground for a landing, and spectators said there was a slight explosion. This was followed by a burst of flames that enveloped the craft and it fell to the field from a height of about 75 feet. The fall broke the gasoline tank and flames shot 30 feet into the air.

Before fire-fighting apparatus could be brought into play, the machine had been destroyed and the men's bodies badly burned. Airport attaches said they thought the three died almost instantly in the crash.

All were licensed pilots, McIlvain having been flying for several years and the others for less than a year. Dom brought the plane here recently from Chicago.

POINCARE FINANCE BILL WINS, 295 TO 198, IN CHAMBER

Premier Given Vote of Confidence by Majority of 97 by Deputies After Battle Lasting Entire Day

OFFERS MEASURE TO CREATE SINKING FUND

Cabinet Leader Plans Convocation of National Assembly to Consider Plan at Versailles.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 31.—Premier Poincare's national union Cabinet emerged victorious tonight after a day-long battle with the Chamber of Deputies opposition. The final vote of confidence, giving the Premier a majority of 97, came when the deputies passed the bill in its entirety, providing measures designed to stabilize the financial position of the country. The vote was 295 to 198.

Then the Government introduced a bill for a creation of a sinking fund, and the chamber adjourned until Wednesday. In connection with this bill, it was learned that Premier Poincare has in mind the convocation of the Senate and Chamber as a national assembly, believing that this procedure was necessary to preserve the existence and functioning of a sinking fund from the "vicissitudes of a parliamentary regime," and afford protection from changes which the Chamber might bring about through the passage of ordinary bills. The national assembly would sit at Versailles, instead of Paris.

Lively Cabinet Session Due.

At the close of today's session, the impression in the lobbies was that, inasmuch as M. Poincare apparently had not consulted with President Doumergue about the proposed national assembly to deal with the sinking fund for amortization of the national floating debt, making it part and parcel of the constitution, there is likely to be a fairly animated ministerial council at Elysee Palace Monday and Tuesday.

Nevertheless M. Poincare's friends maintain he will insist upon making the proposed sinking fund "Parliament proof," thereby assuring holders of state securities that the money would be forthcoming to amortize the bonds in future, regardless of what party is in power.

Delay Causes Heavy Loss.

Opening the debate on the finance bill the Premier said that delay in the adoption of a definite financial program entailed a loss of nearly 16,000,000 francs ($400,000) a day.

In order to facilitate the passage of the measures, which comprised a raise in the pay of some 650,000 functionaries, the Government did not oppose an amednment raising the pay of deputies from 27,000 francs ($675) to 45,000 francs ($1125) annually.

A bill introduced by Minister of Labor Fallieres for credits for the construction of workmen's homes at reasonable cost was adopted without debate.

DEPARTMENT STORE EMPLOYES CONFESS WAREHOUSE THEFTS

Four Arrested by Police Admit Peculations Lasting Two Months, Detective Says.

Four employes of the Famous-Barr Co. warehouse, at Spring avenue and the Wabash Railroad tracks, after being arrested last night, admitted, according to Detective James Daugherty, the theft of several articles of merchandise from the warehouse during the last two months.

Daugherty said that the method used was to deliver the stolen articles by the company's own trucks; this being accomplished by the use of single sales tickets placed on the parcels for the direction of the delivery man, while no duplicate tickets were sent to the office.

The men arrested were later released on bonds of $500 each. Warrants will be applied for.

MILLIONAIRE, 80, DEFENDANT IN $25,000 ALIENATION SUIT

Chicago Coal Merchant Sued By His 65-Year-Old Son-in-law, a Physician.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 31.—George Lill, 80 years old, millionaire coal merchant, was made defendant today in a $25,000 suit by Dr. J. A. Ames, his 65-year-old son-in-law, who charged Lill alienated the affections of his middle-aged bride, Mrs. Edith Lill Ames.

Only the official notice of the suit was filed, but L. L. Cohen, attorney for the physician, said that Lill had frowned upon the union and after the wedding had criticised his 50-year-old daughter for marrying beneath her and chided Dr. Ames as a fortune hunter.

Mrs. Ames was said to have returned to her father's home.

Chicago Cosmetician Thinks Fact Will Discourage Haircutting.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 31.—"Women who bob their hair are complaining by the thousands of the growth of mustaches, beards and hairy growths on their faces," Miss Frances Martel, secretary of the American Cosmeticians Society, said today.

As a result, she said, the bob is likely to pass into oblivion.

events immediately preceding the death of the Baroness. Investigators learned, however, that on Friday afternoon she left a Coral Gables hotel weeping, followed shortly by her husband. An inspection of their apartment there disclosed that neither had retired the night before. Their beds had not been used.

At the age of 15 the Baroness was Vera Lavrova, daughter of a member of the Russian Parliament under the Czar and of a dramatic soprano in the Imperial Russian Opera; she studied music and philosophy at the Imperial Conservatory and University at Petrogad. She made her first operatic appearance in Paris in the title role of "Lakme."

When the soviets came into power she was mistress of a heritage of $5,000,000 which was swept away by the red revolution. Her sympathies with the counter-revolution, she gave her entire time to singing for the "White" soldiers in hospitals in the south of Russia.

Met Baron in South Russia.

There she met the Baron, who was convalescing from an amputated leg. The Baron had inherited his title from a great-grandfather, who had served as equerry, or gentleman-in-waiting on the famous Peter the Great.

When he was sufficiently recovered from his wounds they were married. Before the advance of the Red armies into South Russia the pair began a long journey toward a seaport whence they could escape to America. Many hardships were endured. On the way the young Baroness' mother, brother and two sisters were murdered before her eyes.

Almost Parted at Ellis Island.

Arriving at Ellis Island, the pair faced the possibility of separation. The authorities, while readily admitting the wife because of her musical accomplishments, regarded her husband as a possible public charge on account of his disabilities. He finally was admitted, and for some years the Royve-Garretts lived in New York where, under her old name of Vera Lavrova, she appeared in musicales and theatrical entertainments.

Several months ago they came to Florida.

Baron Was Playing Pool at Time Wife Leaped to Her Death.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MIAMI, Fla., July 31.—Baron Roche-Garrett, after supposedly signing a suicide pact with his wife, joined a group at a poolroom and was playing billiards when she leaped to her death from the eighteenth story of their hotel. He left the poolroom at 12:15 a. m. today after losing $5 or $10—his usual luck for the last six weeks. This is the statement made to police by R. Thatcher, professional pool player.

S. Mandel, cashier of the poolroom, said that while motoring at 3:30 a. m. he passed Royce-Garrett who was walking. At 6:30 a. m., another witness, Graham King, says that he saw the Baron on the main boulevard of Coral Gables.

A letter written by the Baroness June 10, addressed to a Mr. Zeigen, 1109 Lafayette Building, Chicago (this was a mistake, as Zeigen lives in Detroit), was found by authorities. It had never been posted and included the following sentence: "We'll either live through everything doing our best together or die also together."

In addition to the note indicating a suicide agreement, another note, in the handwriting of the Baroness, began, "This is what we owe," and itemized debts totaling about $2000. The writer expressed a desire that all might be paid and suggested that a song and an unfinished light opera, the theme of which was to express happiness, might be sold.

Detroit Man Helped Finance Play Written by the Baroness.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., July 31.—Frederick Zeigen, head of the Zeigen Construction Co., with offices in the Lafayette Building here, helped finance a play written by Baroness Royce Garrett, according to his brother, Cass J. Zeigen. Frederick Zeigen is now visiting in California. The Baroness appeared at a local vaudeville theater some months ago and it was at that time, Cass Zeigen said, that his brother's aid in financing the play was sought.

LITIGATION LETS $33,000 ESTATE RISE TO $80,000

Court Finally Settles Disposition of Property of James McElevey, Who Died 25 Years Ago.

ADOPTED DAUGHTER TO RECEIVE $60,000

Trust Company Executor Denies Negligence as Charged, but Is Ordered to Make Accounting.

When James McElevey, a laborer, died, 25 years ago, he left an estate showing a net value in excess of $33,000, which was taken charge of by the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., as executor. But during litigation for the last eight years between one of the heirs and the executor the estate has grown to an estimated value of $80,000. This estimate was made by James E. Carroll, attorney for Mrs. Mattie Connor, an adopted daughter of McElevey, who objected to a final settlement made by the trust company and carried her case through the Supreme Court.

Yesterday, in accordance with a mandate of the Supreme Court, which decided in favor of Mrs. Connor, Circuit Judge Mix ordered the trust company to account for interest at 6 per cent on the basis of the net valuation dating from Jan. 20, 1904, for a period of 20 years, the interest to be compounded every four years during that period. The order is in accordance with Carroll's interpretation of the Supreme Court's decision, the mandate of which was filed here Dec. 1, 1924. Because of a difference of opinion as to the terms of the decision, it is just being put into effect.

Terms of McElevey's Will.

McElevey, who lived at 1305 Collins street, bequeathed half his estate to his widow, Mrs. Margaret McElevey; one-fourth to Mrs. Connor and the remainder in equal parts to the Roman Catholic Orphans' Asylum, the St. Vincent de Paul Society, the Little Sisters of the Poor, and the Mullanphy Hospital. Mrs. McElevey died six years ago and her share goes to the adopted daughter. The latter will now receive, according to Judge Mix's ruling, about $60,000, while the Catholic organizations will distribute about $20,000 among them.

Mrs. Connor objected to the failure of the executor to make final settlement within the time prescribed by law, which was two years after the death. Final settlement was not made until 1918, which, according to the petitioner, was about 15 years overdue, no extension of time having been granted.

Mrs. Connor, through her attorney, contended that the executor was remiss in failing to sell four parcels of real estate within a reasonable time after her father's death and close the administration. For this delay in selling the realty the executor should be charged with interest on all funds in its hands belonging to the estate, she contended. The testator, it was argued, intended that his estate should be converted into cash and distributed within a reasonable time. However, the executor kept the estate open for a long period and its failure to dispose of the realty was alleged to have amounted to an equitable conversion of the property, for which the estate should be reimbursed on a cash valuation of the realty plus interest, plaintiff claimed.

Blames Heir for Delay.

The defense contended that the legal title to the realty was vested in the heirs and that none of them took any interest in the conduct of the administration except Mrs. McElevey, who refused to consent to the sale of realty. It was pointed out that by her acts she insisted on keep the estate open and induced the executor to make advances against her final distribution. A further defense was that the executor did make strenuous efforts to sell the property without avail. Negligence on the part of the trust company, as was alleged by plaintiff, was denied by the company.

Carroll proceeded on the theory that McElevey's will gave the executor mandatory direction to sell the realty within a reasonable time after his death. He conceded that if his theory of the case was right the executor would be entitled to the ownership of the realty and the estate entitled to its cash value. The net value of the realty was placed at $20,360.

In his decree Judge Mix adopted the opinion of the Supreme Court which held that final settlement should have been made during the December term, 1903; further, that the executor ought to have sold the realty within the time of administration and the Probate Court should not have approved the final settlement until the estate had been fully administered. In addition to the realty McElevey left $11,972 in cash or its equivalent.

Mrs. Connors' objection to the settlement was overruled by both the Probate and Circuit Courts. Her appeal to the Supreme Court was decided in her favor in July, 1924.

WILLIAMS USES WET AND DRY AIDS, HAWES INTIMATES

Says, Indirectly, Senator Is Boosted One Way in Cities and Another in Country by Orators.

WINDS UP CAMPAIGN AT CLAYTON MEETING

Will Carry 75 of 114 Counties for Democratic Senate Nomination, He Tells 1000 Auditors.

Prediction that he will carry at least 75 of the 114 Missouri counties at Tuesday's primary was made by Harry B. Hawes, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate, in an address at Clayton last night.

About 1000 men, women and children, one of the largest political gatherings in St. Louis County in recent years, gathered on the Courthouse lawn to hear Hawes, who spoke from the Courthouse steps, Hamp Rothwell, lawyer, presided, and John Weber, another attorney, introduced the speaker.

Hawes spoke for 55 minutes, discarding his coat at the start, and was liberally applauded. Applause was heavy when he paid tribute to Woodrow Wilson and Senator Reed. References to Senator Williams as "Sam Baker's Senator" brought laughter. Hawes said, indirectly, that Williams had "wet and dry orators" to paint Williams "dry as the Sahara" to country people and "wet as the Mississippi" to city residents.

It was Hawes' final speech of the present campaign. "After next Tuesday," he said, "the special appeal to Democrats will be changed to one to be made not only to Democrats but to Republicans and independents as well.

"May I say, without boasting, as a mere matter of prediction which will be verified on next Tuesday, that I confidently expect to be selected by the Democratic voters of not less than 75 counties of Missouri as their standard bearer for the United States Senate."

"As a candidate for the United States Senate I have gone to the people frankly and openly," Hawes said. "I have stated my positions as a matter of conviction, and a matter of principle, and I have refused to become the tool of any group, clique or bloc.

"I have not had selected speakers present on point of view in one spot and another point of view in another spot."

Hawes pledged himself to continue his fight against "New England rule" and centralization of government. He said his first consideration as United States Senator in all legislation would be "to preserve the sanctity of the home, the sovereignty of the State and the liberty of the individual."

DR. B. H. KING, 46, DIES OF BRAIN HEMORRHAGE

Granite City Physician Studied Medicine at Night While Clerking in Store.

Dr. Benjamin H. King, 46 years old, and for 23 years a practicing physician at Granite City, died at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Granite City, at 10:20 a. m. yesterday as the result of a hemorrhage of the brain. Dr. King, with his wife, was leaving the home of some friends Sunday evening when, as he walked across the lawn he suddenly fell. He did not regain consciousness. He is survived by his widow, Amanda, a daughter, Marie, and a stepson, John Baker Jr., and by four sisters.

Dr. Baker in his youth clerked in a grocery store by day and attended classes in medicine by night, thus earning his education. He was born on a farm near Dorsey, Ill. At the time of his death he was president of the Madison County Medical Society.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday from his residence, Rev. F. W. Pimlotte of Niedringhaus M. E. Church, officiating. At Valhalla Cemetery, St. Louis, where the body will be interred, Masons will have charge of the services.

MRS. WOODROW WILSON SAILS

To Visit European Countries and Attend League Council Session.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson sailed tonight on the United States liner Leviathan, accompanied by her brother, R. W. Bolling, of Washington. They will visit England, Scotland and France and go to Geneva to attend the session of the Council of the League of Nations.

Another passenger on the Leviathan was Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who will attend a meeting of the Inter-Parliamentary Union at Geneva. Harrison said he had opposed the Italian debt settlement and intended to oppose the French, on the ground that it is not fair to ask one nation to pay less than another. "I see no reason," said Senator Harrison, "why England should be required to pay 82 cents on the dollar and France 45 cents and Italy 27 cents."

Priest Asserts W. S. Dickey Never Contributed a Cent

He admitted holding conferences at Kansas City with Reily, that were mentioned in the Wilson affidavit, but said no demand for reimbursement for his campaign expenses were made at the conferences, as charged in the affidavit.

Alleges Promises to Atkeson.

Reily made promises that Atkeson would "be taken care of" in consideration for his withdrawal, according to Atkeson's son, C. E. Atkeson of Butler, who explained that Reily promised if Proctor was nominated and elected, Atkeson would receive a Federal appointment and would be considered in patronage matters in his district.

Atkeson admitted Reily had importuned him to withdraw from the race and said he gave his affidavit of withdrawal to Reily in Kansas City because Reily "was the one who was asking for it."

Atkeson also pronounced as false a statement in Wilson's affidavit that another of Atkeson's sons, R. W. Atkeson of St. Louis, had demanded any money for his father's withdrawal or for repayment of campaign expenses as alleged.

Reily's argument that Atkeson should get out of the race to avert a split in the dry vote finally prevailed upon him to withdraw, Atkeson said.

What Wilson Charges.

In his affidavit Wilson stated that he was informed that Dickey and Judge Priest conferred at Hotel Jefferson on July 3, after which Judge Priest told Zepp that Dickey had agreed to contribute $10,000 to the Priest campaign, contingent on Judge Priest's putting up a like amount. Inquiry at Hotel Jefferson showed Dickey registered there July 3, was assigned to Room 511, and checked out the same day.

CONFIRMS STORY OF PRIEST'S VISIT AT DICKEY HOME

Jacob Liebenstein, president of the Mound City Battery and Equipment Co., 1912 Olive street, yesterday admitted he was the Lieberstein mentioned in the Wilson affidavit and confirmed Wilson's statement that a Priest conference was held at Walter S. Dickey's home in Kansas City, as related by Wilson.

This conference, according to Wilson, was held on the last Sunday in April, on the same day and at the same time that another conference in behalf of the candidacy of Proctor was being held in another room in Dickey's home. Lieberstein said he did not know what took place at the Proctor conference.

"All I was interested in was the candidacy of Mr. Priest," Lieberstein related.

"Who called that conference?" he was asked. "I will have to answer that by saying I do not know," Lieberstein answered with a smile.

"Did Mr. Dickey call it?" "I don't know."

"How did you come to go there?" "I was invited."

"By whom?" "I don't know."

"What was the purpose of the conference—what was discussed?" "Well," Lieberstein continued, "the campaign of Mr. Priest was in the embryonic state, and for one thing we were seeking support."

"Dickey Very Friendly."

"Did Mr. Dickey give you gentlemen any encouragement; was he friendly to the interests of Mr. Priest?" he was asked.

"Yes, friendly and very cordial," said Lieberstein. "Mr. Dickey was very nice to us."

"What did Mr. Dickey promise for Mr. Priest?" "Well, Mr. Dickey gave Mr. Priest some good publicity in his papers," said Lieberstein.

"Is that all?" "That is all that I know of."

When approached at first Lieberstein, although friendly, spoke guardedly in response to questions and refused to affirm or deny that he had attended the conferences in behalf of Priest at Dickey's home, attended by Blodgett Priest, Lieberstein and L. J. Smyth. The latter is publicity director in the Priest campaign.

But when the questions were given another turn, Lieberstein, after admitting that he knew Wilson, stated he had made his last trip to Kansas City in behalf of Priest last week. At that time, he said, he and Wilson called on Solon T. Gilmore, formerly City Counselor of Kansas City, at which time Wilson discussed certain charges he later made in affidavit form.

"Did you hear Wilson discuss these charges with Gilmore?" "Yes, in part," Lieberstein answered, "but I did not pay any attention to the details."

"Did you say anything?" "Wilson did the talking. I was there at Wilson's invitation. I spent the night before with Wilson at Hotel Baltimore."

"Why did you spend the night with him?" "Well, he asked me to do so."

Says Dickey Met Judge Priest.

Wilson in his affidavit said that Lieberstein had told him Dickey was at Hotel Jefferson in St. Louis July 3 and called in former Judge Henry S. Priest, father of Blodgett Priest, and that Judge Priest then went to his son's headquarters for the first time and told Zepp, then in charge of headquarters, that Dickey had made an offer of $10,000 to the Priest campaign fund contingent upon Judge Priest putting up a like sum.

"I don't know anything about that," said Lieberstein.

"Do you know if Mr. Dickey was here July 3?" "I don't know."

"But Mr. Wilson said you told him Mr. Dickey had such a conference with Judge Priest in St. Louis. Is Mr. Wilson trustworthy; does he know what he is talking about?" "Yes, he is trustworthy, and he has a good many cues," Lieberstein answered, smiling. "He certainly doesn't expect to remain in politics after this."

Lieberstein admitted he had met A. C. Ferris, State campaign manager for Proctor.

"Where did you meet him?" "Oh, around different places. I am not going to answer all these questions."

Saw Becker in Priest's Behalf.

He also admitted having had conferences with Secretary of State Becker in behalf of Priest.

"Is Becker not supporting both Priest and Proctor?" he was asked.

"Well," Lieberstein remarked, "down in his heart he would like to see Priest win, but he is supporting Proctor. You know politics. Becker hasn't done anything more than Gov. Baker or any of the others would do."

"Are you supporting Priest and Proctor to defeat Senator Williams?" "I am for Priest."

"Do you think Priest will win?" 'I do not think so. If he had sufficient money to spend he could win hands down."

Lieberstein, who said he had been actively interested in Republican politics for 10 years in St. Louis, "in a quiet way," evaded many questions bearing on the joint campaign of Proctor and Priest to defeat Williams, taking refuge in a good-natured way with such answers as "I do not wish to affirm or deny that," and 'I must answer no to that," or "I wish you would not ask me that."

CORDOVA, Alaska, July 31.—A wireless message from the United States Naval Radio Station at Dutch Harbor in the Aleutian Islands, said today the Japanese Steamer Yonan Maru was in distress in the North Pacific Ocean on its way to Portland, Ore., from Muroran.

An intercepted message from the Yonan Maru to the Siberia Maru said: "Our shaft is broken in stern. Lying to. Want to get Yogen Maru so please inform of SOS." The Yonan Maru was reported 1200 miles out from Stevan, B. C., with no cargo.

MAN INJURED IN CRASH

Daniel Hogan's Auto Hits Bridge Railing When He Loses Control.

Daniel Hogan, 43 years old, proprietor of the Hogan Heating Co., 813 Chestnut street, suffered concussion of the brain and lacerations at 5 p. m. yesterday, when he lost control of his automobile on Grand drive, in Forest Park, and it crashed into the iron railing of a bridge over the River des Peres.

The force of the collision knocked both front wheels off the machine. Hogan, who lives in Maplewood, is at St. John's Hospital in a serious condition.

SUSPECT SOUGHT IN MURDER OF PUBLISHER

Letter Found in Summer Cottage Gives Clew to Possible Hiding Place of Slayer.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., July 31.—Detective Ora M. Slater, in charge of the Mellett murder investigation and acting Chief of Police Hexamer of Canton came to Cleveland late today and immediately went into conferece with Chief of Police Graul and other police authorities over information gathered by local detectives concerning Patrick Eugene McDermott, sought as a suspect in the killing of Don Mellett, the Canton publisher.

Those questioned by the Canton investigators included a youth who Potts and Sweeney declare informed them of McDermotts movements. The youth, with one of the women, accompanied McDermott to Akron and Massillin where they declare, they went with the fugitive last Mondey. McDermott told them they claim that he went to those cities in an attempt to collect the remainder of money due him "for the job."

The pair also accompanied Potts and Sweeney to a summer cottage at Brady Lake, in Portage County, where first hint of McDermott's probable whereabouts. A letter found in the cottage indicated that McDermott might be hiding at Perth Amboy, N. J., and police of that city were asked to search for him.

The letter, uncovered in a raid early today by detectives. Emmett Potts and Joseph Sweeney was the first hint as to the whereabouts of any of the fugitives out of town friends.

The detectives learned that McDermott paid $108 to clear up a bad check that he had issued. This was done, they believe, because he feared the claimant might report the matter to the police, reveal his hiding place and cause complications that would reveal his hiding place and cause complications linked with the Canton assassination.

Niece and Nephew of Late Woman Philanthropist Ask for Surrender of Certain Stocks.

ALLEGE SHARES WERE GIVEN THEM AS GIFT

Say She Gave Them Key to Safe Deposit Box Before Death — Plaintiffs Were Named in Will.

Two Indianapolis heirs of the late Mrs. Mary E. Culver, philanthropist and widow of a wealthy St. Louis stove manufacturer, have filed suit in Federal Court asking that the executor of her estate, Duran P. McCabe, be required to surrender to them shares of stock valued at $450,000, which constituted about two-thirds of Mrs. Culver's estate.

The two plaintiffs, Mrs. Annabelle Kling and L. C. Willis, niece and nephew of Mrs. Culver, claim in their suit that they are rightful owners of the shares. The document follows the form of a replevin petition and asks merely for surrender of the shares.

Says Shares Were a Gift.

According to George O. Durham, counsel for the executor, Mrs. Kling and Willis informed him recently, that four months before Mrs. Culver's death, July 20, 1925, she gave them a key to her safe deposit box and told them the shares were theirs. It is their contention, Durham said, that this alleged act constituted a gift by Mrs. Culver.

Mrs. Kling and Willis were named with five other nieces and nephews in Mrs. Culver's will to share in the bulk of her estate, after payment of several specific legacies to charities and friends. Her property inventoried $662,627.

Gave Away $1,000,000 During Life.

Mrs. Culver was the widow of L. L. Culver, one of the founders of the Majestic Manufacturing Co. During her lifetime she gave more than $1,000,000 to charity, education and religion, and in her will left 150 shares of Pennsylvania Railroad stock to the St. Louis Blind Girls' Home. She died at 84 years of age of paralysis, at her home, 5887 Cabanne avenue.

The Kling-Willis suit is the second filed against her estate within a week. The Kingshighway Presbyterian Church sued Tuesday asking for $100,000 to maintain Culver Memorial Building, adjoining the church, on the contention that it was built on condition that Mrs. Culver would endow it permanently as a memorial to her husband.

The suit by Mrs. Kling and Willis lists shares of the Majestic Manufacturing Co., Boatmen's Bank, Pennsylvania Railroad and American Telephone and Telegraph Co. The par value is listed at $353,000.

Man Prostrated by Heat Dies.

Funeral services were held yesterday at Edwardsville for Frank J. Stenzel, former hotel proprietor, whose death was attributed to heat prostration. Stenzel recently disposed of his hotel. He was prostrated while entering the yard at his home on South Main street.

THOUSANDS TO PAY TRIBUTE TO SENATOR CUMMINS TODAY

Body of Distinguished Iowan Will Lie in State in Capitol at Des Moines; Funeral Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 31.—The Iowa State Capitol, from which the fame of Albert B. Cummins first spread, as he headed the State government years ago, will be the scene tomorrow of one of the final public tributes to the man who has been acclaimed Iowa's outstanding contribution to the service of the nation.

With the body of the dead statesman lying in state at the scene of his early triumphs in political life, thousands of his associates and admirers will file through the marble corridors to pay him their last respects and to record the sorrow that has gripped the commonwealth.

At 9 o'clock tomorrow morning the Senator's body will be placed in the rotunda, where national guardsmen will watch over it until 5 p. m. as the line of mourners passes. Then the body will be escorted to the home of Mrs. Hollis Rawson, the Senator's daughter, with whom he lived when he was in Des Moines, for the funeral services Monday afternoon.

Virtually every man and woman of political prominence in the State and hundreds of close friends of the Senator outside of political circles, were planning tonight to participate in the final ceremonies, either tomorrow or Monday.

Meanwhile, State political leaders laid plans to fill the Senate vacancy without delay in order to comply with the law. Nominees must be chosen by each political party within 10 days of the beginning of the vacancy and party heads plan to issue calls for special conventions early next week. A confusion of the statutes caused official announcement to be made last night that the Governor might appoint a successor to the Senator, but today the State Department of Justice ruled that State conventions which were held within the last two weeks, must be reconvened.

LEGION THANKS FOR COCHRAN

Jackson Johnson Jr. Post Voices Gratitude in Resolution.

A resolution of thanks to John J. Cochran, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Eleventh District for his service to soldiers, sailors and marines during the years since the world war, was adopted yesterday by Jackson Johnson Jr. Post No. 72, American Legion.

The Legion does not indorse candidates for office. Cochran, now secretary to Congressman Harry B. Hawes, has been 14 years in Washington as secretary first to former Congressman Igoe and later to Senator William J. Stone. He seeks nomination to succeed Hawes.

SPECIAL VEILED PROPHET RATES

For the visit of the Veiled Prophet to St. Louis, Oct. 5 and 6, and on one day prior, railroads in the Western and Southern Passenger Associations will offer reduced rates on all trains entering this city, the Traffic Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday.

The rates will apply only to points within a radius of 150 miles of St. Louis in northern Illinois and the northern and southern portions of Missouri.

LIBERTY IN "FASCIST SALUTE"

NEW YORK, July 31.—Even Miss Liberty seems to have felt the force of Premier Mussolini. As the liner Dulio was coming up the bay from Quarantine an Italian woman with a brood of children around her skirts saw the Statue of Liberty. To her little group of prospective Americans she pointed to the statue proudly and said in Italian:

"Look, she salutes in the Fascist manner."

PRIMARY CONTEST CENTERS ON KOELN AND SCHWEITZER

Former, Opposed by Miller Organization, Replies to Attacks of Alderman Neumann, His Oponent.

PROSECUTOR SILENT ON FOES' CHARGES

Answers Accusation of Laxity by Other Candidates With Statement of Official Record.

The local primary campaign practically ended last night, with discussion centering chiefly upon the Republican nominations for the office Collector and Prosecuting Attorney.

The attack of Alderman Charles A. Neumann, who has Mayor Miller's backing for the collectorship, upon Collector Koeln, and Koeln's counter-charges, have been the most spirited feature of the campaign for the city ticket. In the prosecuting attorneyship contest, Harry H. Richards is vigorously assailing the incumbent, Albert L. Schweitzer, who has not replied, beyond a statement as to his record.

In the prosecuting attorneyship contest, the Miller administration appears to be neutral as among the five candidates, Schweitzer, Richards, Milton F. Napier, William Robert Davis and Alvin F. Hackman. The names of all five appear unscratched on the administration's sample ballot circulated in the Twenty-eighth Ward.

Denies Voting on Klan.

Collector Koeln, in replying to some of Neumann's charges and inquiries, brought up the matter of Neumann's action when an anti-Klan resolution was before the Board of Aldermen. Replying in a statement yesterday, Neumann said he was one of 23 members who refused to vote on the resolution, because he had no personal knowledge of the membership, laws or workings of the Ku Klux Klan.

Neumann continued by charging Koeln with having appealed to religious and racial prejudice in the primary campaign before the last election for Mayor, and in a previous campaign. A similar charge was made recently by Louis P. Aloe, former president of the Board of Aldermen, who is supporting Neumann. Aloe attributed his defeat, for the nomination for Mayor last year, to the opposition of Koeln, who backed Judge Grimm.

Other Objections.

Neumann also raised the objection of Koeln's business interests outside the Collector's office. "In 1920," Neumann said, "Koeln assailed John Schmoll for seeking reelection as committeeman, an unsalaried position, because he said Schmoll would need more than eight hours a day to take care of his business interests. Why doesn't Koeln apply the same principle to himself? How can he spend eight hours a day at his desk, handling the city's collections, and at the same time operate a bank, and a sand and material company, and dominate primaries and elections?"

Koeln is president of the American Exchange National Bank, and of the Mississippi Sand and Material Co. However, he is at his city hall office daily, and can be found there most of the time from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. He usually visits the bank before going to the city hall. He seldom visits the sand company's office except at week ends. He has not taken a vacation longer than one week for several years past.

Opposition to Schweitzer.

Replying to Neumann's charge as to the amount of delinquent taxes, Koeln quotes a letter from State Auditor Thompson, saying that Koeln has "made a wonderful record collecting delinquent taxes." As to political activity of his employes, Koeln says he is operating the office and collecting $33,000,000 a year with the same number of men that formerly collected $8,000,000 a year. "Were the employes devoting their time to political campaigns," he said, "it would have been necessary to increase the office force."

Richards, in his latest criticism of Prosecuting Attorney Schweitzer, charged that Schweitzer had been remiss in the filing of briefs, in convictions appealed from the Court of Criminal Correction to the St. Louis Court of Appeals. He says that in 1924 the presiding Judge of the Court of Appeals found it necessary to request Schweitzer to file briefs in certain cases.

Another candidate for Prosecuting Attorney, William Robert Davis, has taken up Richards' charge that Schweitzer's office was open to loiterers and "tip-offs" who notified persons against whom search warrants had been issued, before raids could be made. Davis pledges himself to "clear the office of tipsters and parasites."

Rival Factions Send Out Marked Sample Ballots.

William T. Kircheis, chairman of the Efficiency Board, the official body which is charged with the selection of city employes on a non-political basis, has sent out a sample ballot bearing his signature as president of the Twenty-first Ward Republican Club, and the signatures of other officers of the club, who are city employes.

The Twenty-first Ward is in the northwest section of the city. The sample ballot sent out by Kircheis shows the name of Williams for Senator scratched, and leaves no choice indicated between Proctor and Priest. For the senatorial short term, where Proctor is not a candidate, Priest is shown as the choice.

The ballot indorses H. F. Niedringhaus or R. L. Johnston for Congress in the Tenth District, and for Circuit Judges, Judge Killoren, E. C. Luedde, W. L. Boehnenkamp and Charles J. Dolan. For Circuit Judge, short term, London is indorsed. For License Collector, Chapman is indorsed.

In other respects, the ballot is similar to the Miller sample ballot sent out in the Twenty-eighth Ward. Both show Neumann as the choice for Collector. A ballot marked for Williams for Senator and Koeln for Collector has been sent out by Herman Bader, Twenty-first Ward anti-Miller leader.

Both factions in the Twenty-first Ward are supporting F. W. Evers for committeeman. For committeewoman, Mrs. L. Wollbrinck, wife of a deputy assessor, is named on the Miller ticket, and Mrs. Marie Nottbusch is supported by Bader.

Election Board Statement Calls for Lawful Election.

The Election Board yesterday issued a statement, signed also by the Police Board, Circuit Attorney and Prosecuting Attorney, calling for cooperation in the conduct of a legal election and a fair count at Tuesday's primary.

"All violations of the election laws, of whatever nature," the statement says, "should be reported to the undersigned, and the offenders will be vigorously prosecuted. Any citizen who has information of any irregularity likely to occur on Primary Day in connection with the Primary, should immediately notify the Board of Election Commissioners.

"The attention of the public is directed to the Statutes of the State of Missouri which provide that no one has a right in the polling places except the four Judges, two clerks, the Deputy Commissioner, the duly accredited challengers or watchers and voters who are there for the purpose of voting. It is the duty of the Judges to order the arrest of, and the police should arrest on their own volition, any person or persons who by menace, threats, force, or by any other unlawful means either directly, or indirectly, attempt to influence any qualified voter in giving his, or her, voter, or to deter him, or her, from giving the same, or disturb or hinder him, or her in the free exercise of the right of suffrage."

Lists prepared by the police, showing the names of registered voters who are believed not to be legally qualified to vote, have been distributed to precinct officials, with instructions to question those attempting to vote under those names, and if not satisfied as to the person's right to vote to cause an arrest.

BAND LEADER OPERATED STILL BECAUSE OWN JOB WAS SLACK

At Least That Is What He Tells Madison County Sheriff When Raid Is Made.

Something new in excuses was propounded yesterday to Sheriff Deimling of Madison County when he and his deputies raided a large still northeast of Granite City. A man, asleep in a barn on the place, was awakaned and admitted he was employed to operate the still, but had only been working one day.

"How do you happen to be doing this kind of work?" inquired the Sheriff.

"Can't get any work in my line," was the answer.

"What is that?"

"Band and orchestra leader," responded the man, who said his name was Antonio Gialnio.

ST. LOUIS AIR UNIT INTO CAMP TODAY

National Guard Flyers Will Be in Training at Lambert Field Until Aug. 15.

The annual encampment of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Unit, all-St. Louis National Guard organization, will open at Lambert-St. Louis Field, Bridgeton, today, and continue until Aug. 15.

The unit, organized three years ago, held its two previous encampments at Nevada, Mo., with the State infantry troops. The plans were changed this year after War Department inspectors reported the flying field at Nevada inadequate for aircraft training purposes and a menace to the lives of flyers.

A regulation army camp has been established at Lambert Field, including tents, kitchens and shower baths. The drilling of two wells on the grounds recently was completed, insuring adequate water for all purposes.

The training schedule, prepared by Maj. C. Ray Wassall, commanding, calls for training in reconnaissance and formation flying and aerial photography each morning, and lectures and athletics at afternoon sessions. Maj. Wassall will be assisted by Lieuts. George Palmer and Benjamin Griffin, regular army pilots.

While the 12 officers and 60 enlisted men taking the training will be required to live at camp during the period, they will leave the field in a body on several nights as the guests of local theaters and the Coliseum and West Lake swimming pools. On other nights entertainers from civic and fraternal organizations will give programs in the clubhouse of the St. Louis Flying Club at the camp. The public is invited to attend the entertainments at the field and to visit the camp on Sunday and Saturday afternoons.

The 138th Infantry, St. Louis National Guard Regiment, will entrain for Camp Clark, Nevada, Mo., next Saturday. Details of the two weeks' training program for the infantry will be made public this week by Col. Stephen E. Lowe, commander. Battery A, 128th Field Artillery, the third St. Louis National Guard organization, has just completed a training period at Fort Riley, Kan.

TWO WIVES GET BAIL FOR ALLEGED BIGAMIST

Worked Together All Day to Free W. C. Hoffmann From Clayton Jail.

William Charles Hoffmann left the county jail at Clayton last night with his two wives, impartially holding an arm of each as he escorted them downstairs.

It was proper that he should be impartial, inasmuch as the two women had spent the day hunting someone to sign his $2000 bond under a warrant charging bigamy. It was 7 o'clock when they succeeded in producing a professional bondsman, and he was released after 24 hours in jail.

Hoffmann, who disappeared from St. Louis early in July, drove up to the home of Mrs. Daphne Hoffmann, wife No. 1, at 3607A North Twentieth street, late Friday, and into the arms of detectives. He was taken to Clayton where on July 26, just two months after their marriage, Mrs. Lillian Hoffmann, wife No. 2, of 1805 Cass avenue, had made an affidavit charging him with bigamy.

There he was held. Meantime he got word to the wives. They came to Clayton, together, yesterday morning. They were friendly, and in remarkable accord.

"Don't say anything," Hoffmann warned them when he saw them. "Don't sign anything. They can't prosecute me unless you do. And get me a bondsman quick."

Mrs. Lillian Hoffmann burst into tears. "But I have signed an affidavit charging that you married me when you had another wife," she said.

Mrs. Daphne Hoffmann at that juncture also burst into tears.

"I don't want to prosecute him," she said.

"I don't either," wept the other.

"I'll get a divorce," said Mrs. Daphne, "and you can have him."

"I don't want him," said Mrs. Lillian, "I'll get a divorce."

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Charles Noble of St. Louis County explained to both women that they had no choice—the State would prosecute the husband.

"I don't want to see him go to jail," said Mrs. Lillian.

"Nor I," added Mrs. Daphne.

Mrs. Daphne Hoffmann explained that she and Hoffmann under his full name of William Charles Hoffmann, had been married Nov. 14, 1920, by the Rev. Theodore Braun of St. James Evangelical Church. He was a good husband, she said, and gave her his money. Then, last February, she found out he was paying attention to Lillian Evelyn Bott, who later became wife No. 2.

"I spoke to her and she denied it," she said. "Then I took him to face her. 'I'll get a divorce,' I said. 'I don't want a divorce; I want to live with you,' he told me. So we went away together. Later I found he had married the girl at Clayton under the name of Charles Hoffmann. She used her second name Evelyn instead of the full name Lillian Evelyn, when they got their marriage license."

Mrs. Lillian Hoffmann said she was told by Hoffmann that he had a divorce before they were married. A few hours after the ceremony, she said, Hoffmann told her he did not have the divorce, but expected it any minute.

"We did not live together," she said.

FUMES KILL MERCHANT REPAIRING OWN AUTO

Fred Witbrodt, 45, of Keck Clothing Co., Overcame by Carbon Monoxide Poison.

Fred Witbrodt, 45 years old, was found unconscious in the garage at the rear of his home, 4545A Fair avenue, at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mark Keck. She summoned a physician, who pronounced Witbrodt dead from carbon monoxide poisoning, generated by his automobile, on which he had been working.

Witbrodt was president of the Keck Clothing Co., 3601 North Broadway. He is survived by his widow.

JAIL FOR UNION MEN WHO PROMOTED STRIKE

St. Louisan Among Seven Sentenced for Contempt in Indianapolis.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 31.—Robert Armstrong of St. Louis, and John M. Parker of New York, vice presidents of the Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Railway Workers, who were convicted of contempt of court here Wednesday was sentenced today to serve 90 days in jail by Judge Robert C. Baltzell in the Federal Court.

Fur strikers were sent to jail for terms ranging from 10 to 30 days and action was deferred in the cases of four other strikers.

The contempt charge grew out of a street car strike called here July 5 in which the union leaders were charged with violation of a Federal injunction by urging the men to strike in a body and inciting them to acts of violence. The injunction said the street car employes when hired signed articles not to walk out in a body on a strike. Armstrong and Parker are charged with violating this contract and the court injunction by urging the to strike.

JEALOUS HUSBAND TORTURES HIS FRIEND

Says Attack on St. Paul Fireman Over Kiss Was Intended to Deter Philandering.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 31.—Jealousy over alleged attentions paid his wife caused Walter H. Fletcher to beat and torture Edward Horrigan, a city fireman yesterday, police declare. Fletcher held Horrigan prisoner five hours while he burned, whipped and lacerated the fireman, with whom he had been friends since early childhood.

Both Horrigan and Mrs. Fletcher denied any wrongdoing, but Fletcher told police that Horrigan admitted to him, while held a prisoner, that he had kissed Mrs. Fletcher. He does not accuse Horrigan of any more than this and said he tortured his boyhood friend as an example to deter other men from "playing around" with married women.

Horrigan, who was beaten with a whip, burned with matches and cut with a safety razor blade, was taken to a hospital, where his condition was found not to be serious.

Pending the filing of charges, Fletcher is in jail.

TELLS COOLIDGE G. O. P. WILL WIN IN ARIZONA

Senator Cameron Also Confident of Party Majority in Next Senate.

By the Associated Press.

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., July 31.—Conditions in the Southwest were presented to President Coolidge in a favorable light today by Senator Cameron (Rep.), Arizona, who came from Washington to be a guest at White Pine camp for two days.

The report on excellent business and economic conditions and of a situation favorable to the national administration politically was the latest in a series of accounts Coolidge has received from his supporters since he came to the Adirondacks. Like the earlier messages from political and business leaders, it contained predictions of Republican successes in the congressional elections this fall.

As was the case with some of the earlier visitors, Cameron in response to questions from newspaper correspondents, expressed the personal opinion that Coolidge is favored by the people for another term in the White House.

There is no question, the Senator said, that Coolidge can have the support of the Arizona delegation in the Republican National Convention of 1928 while he expressed the opinion that the President would have the support of the entire West both in the convention and the election.

"But," he emphasized, "I don't know that Coolidge is going to be a candidate."

To Hear Report on Rubber.

Turning from consideration of political conditions, Coolidge is to give attention to business matters next Tuesday when Harvey S. Firestone Jr., of Akron, O., son of the rubber manufacturer, is to be received at the executive offices and make a report on an investigation he recently conducted for his interests of rubber production possibilities in the far East. The rubber production question has long occupied the attention of the President, who frequently has had reports upon it from Secretary Hoover of the Commerce Department.

Mr. Coolidge probably will be without the services for the rest of the summer of his secretary, Everett Sanders of Terre Haute, Ind., who has been confined to his room for more than a week with a complication of an intestinal ailment that has troubled him for some time.

The sickness is described as not serious, but it has not yielded to treatment as readily as had been hoped, and upon the advice of Dr. James F. Coupal, physician to the President, Mr. Sanders will leave tomorrow night for Boston and enter the Corey Hill Hospital at Brookline for a thorough examination. Afterward it is expected he will go on his annual vacation. During his absence the executive offices will be in charge of Edward T. Clark, personal secretary to the President.

Appoints Arizona Man.

The visit of Senator Cameron was the first at White Pine Camp by any of the Republican Senators who are standing for re-election this year. Cameron is not opposed for nomination and he expressed confidence today that he would win in November against Representative Hayden, his Democratic opponent. He also predicted that the Republicans would retain control of the next Senate and would win in all the doubtful states, which he mentioned as Nevada, California, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Missouri and Maryland.

During his visit Mr. Coolidge, acting on the recommendation of the Senator, gave a recess appointment to H. A. Morgan of Willcox, Ariz., as registrar of the land office at Phoenix. The place was vacant but a sharp fight had been made by political groups in the State for the appointment.

DR. JOHN L. TIERNEY FUNERAL TO BE AT 8:30 A. M. TOMORROW

Body Arrives From New Mexico in Special Car, Accompanied by Widow and Children.

The funeral of Dr. John L. Tierney, who died suddenly in Santa Fe, N. M., Wednesday, will be at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow from the home, 4478 Maryland avenue, to St. Louis Cathedral. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Dr. Tierney's body arrived here yesterday in a special car, accompanied by Mrs. Tierney and their six children, and by Sol Gross, a brother-in-law, and his family. An autopsy, performed yesterday by Dr. Ralph L. Thompson, disclosed death resulted from a blood clot in the coronary artery, which supplies the heart with blood. There was no indication that a fall, which occurred a few hours before Dr. Tierney's death, had occasioned the forming of the clot, nor was any other reason for it determined.

Dr. Tierney, who was 36 years old, had attained high professional standing, and was in demand as a speaker. His first public appearance here was in 1914, the year of his graduation from medical school, when he took the role of Saint Louis in the Masque of St. Louis in the Art Hill amphitheater. Mrs. Tierney was formerly Miss Marguerite Curran, daughter of Con P. Curran.

HUSBAND GONE IN CAR WIFE MUST SELL HOME

Leroy Robinson Disappears—Promised Judge He Would Sell It and Aid Family.

Leroy Robinson, it seems, has chosen between his family and his automobile. Rather than go to jail for a year for non-support, he promised Justice Werremeyer at Clayton 10 days ago that he would sell his time-payment car and pay his wife, Edna, $15 a week to support herself and their three-year-old daughter. The next day he drove away in the machine, which caused their dissension, and did not come back.

Mrs. Robinson waited a week and then advertised in the Post-Dispatch. "Too many automobiles on $150 a week; headline in Friday's Post," read the advertisement. "A nice home; 5 rooms, modern, $300 complete; can't pay $47.10 on $15 a week; 2 blocks schools, stores, churches and bus lines, . . . 2501 Goodale avenue, Overland."

She was painting the interior of the house when a reporter called yesterday. "He drove away the morning after the trial," she said. "I have to sell out, but I want to keep 50 feet of the lot to build a shack for the baby and me. I don't know where he is and I don't care."

Robinson bought seven automobiles in five years, trading each one in on another, Mrs. Robinson said in court. With a payment of $52.35 due each month on his newest car, there was practically nothing left for food, she declared.

Brady Falls Over Footlights.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 31.—William A. Brady, New York theatrical producer, suffered a fractured wrist and cuts on the head today when he stepped backward into the footlights and fell into the orchestra pit while supervising a rehearsal at the Studebaker Theater. He fell about 10 feet.

ROPE BREAKS; FALLS 40 FEET

Charles Grieser, 46 years old, a tuckpointer, of 1416 (rear) South Broadway, suffered fractured ribs, concussion of the brain and a crushed foot at 1 p. m. yesterday when he fell 40 feet while testing a rope.

Grieser attached the rope, which he had just purchased, to the roof of a three-story building at 1416 South Broadway and was lowering himself on a swinging seat when the rope broke, causing him to fall to a brick sidewalk. Grieser at first refused medical attention, believing that he had not been seriously hurt, but an ambulance was summoned at 4 p. m. by his wife and he was taken to city hospital.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

LUCY.—Inquire of one of the department stores here for the information regarding requirements necessary for one to be a "shopper."

READER. — The following is a formula for the cleaning of stucco: Four tablespoonfuls of muriatic acid and one bucket of water. Use rubber gloves.

DEBATING SOCIETY.—You can obtain the information desired regarding the Volstead Act from books at your local library.

S. E. G.—Labor day in the District of Columbia is considered the only national holiday in the United States. All the other legal holidays are created by act of the various State Legislatures.

N. F. H.—The expression "When Greek meets Greek," slightly altered, is derived from the line "When Greeks joined Greeks, then was the tug of war." The quotation is from the drama of "Alexander the Great," by Nathaniel Lee (1665-1692), and refers to the stubborn resistance offered by the cities of Greece to Philip and Alexander of Macedon.

MRS. L. N. L.—A "vinegar bee" is composed of masses of yeast cells and acetic acid bacteria. The masses in a nutrient medium grow to the size of a bee and have something of the color and shape of a honey bee. Where it got its name we are unable to say. Soon after they have been placed in a nutrient solution the yeast cells begin to ferment the sugar, producing alcohol and gas. The gas causes the mass to rise to the top of the liquid and as soon as the gas has been freed they settle again to the bottom of the jar. The passage from the bottom to the top and back again reminds one of the flight of a bee. The gas escaping from a large number of these "bees" gives a hissing sound, but it is not so loud as the buzzing of bees.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

READER B.—He must remarry the second wife if he wants to be legally married to her.

E. J. B.—You can quit without notice and can sue them for wages if they refuse to pay you.

MYRTLE. — You can copyright your novel and in your contract with the book publishers you can reserve the serial and motion-picture rights.

MRS. WORRIED. — You will have to keep the instrument and pay for it, unless you can show that it was defective. If they sue you consult the Legal Aid Bureau in the Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets.

AN OLD READER.—They should have given you notice not later than the day before the rent day, but under the circumstances it would probably be wiser for you to retain the month's rent, and let the matter drop.

SILVESTER.—He can sell anywhere in the city, but he will have to have a peddler's license. Inquire at the License Collector's office, Room 102, City Hall. (2) Meat as a rule could not be peddled in the manner stated.

A WORRIED READER. — A stockholder is a partner in the business to a certain extent and if the business does not earn anything he cannot claim dividends on his stock. You might consult a lawyer or the Better Business Bureau, in the City Club Building, Eleventh and Locust streets.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

MRS. B.—Repeat your question, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

FRANCIES.—There is no particular article of diet that will excite the flow of bile and its absence is one of the causes of constipation. By taking one or two tablets of caroid and bile salts three times a day the deficiency in bile secretion will be supplied.

ALICE. — Dropsy is not a disease in itself, but only a symptom of a diseased condition of one or more important organs, such as the heart, kidneys, lungs or liver. A remedy to be of any value would have to be directed to which ever one or more of these organs are at fault. This only a physician could tell you after careful examination.

DAILY P.-D. READER.—Enuresis (bed wetting) may be caused by some abnormal condition present; if so, it should be corrected. This includes the presence of pin worms in the bowels. A highly acid urine calls for alkaline drinks and free drinking of water. The child should lead a simple, natural life, preferably in the country. No overtaxing of the nervous system at home or in school. Excitement should be avoided. Early hours and plenty of sleep. No coffee, tea or beer. Avoid sweets and highly seasoned food. The best diet is milk, vegetables, fruit, meat and cereals. Never punish a child for this trouble; rewards for avoidance are much better. Appeal to the pride. If wetting occurs at night encourage drinking fluids in the late afternoon and give none after 6 p. m. See that no condition of ill health and no local irritation such as adenoids are overlooked. Of drugs atropine is best, one grain to two ounces of water, of which one drop represents 1-1000 of a grain. One drop may be given for each year of the child's age. For night wetting, at first give the dose at 4 and 10 p. m. After a few days give at 4 and 7, and gradually increase until double the quantity is given. It is not advisable to go above these doses, but if larger doses are given the increase must be more gradual. The physiological effect of atropine is first dryness of the nose, mouth and throat; beyond this it is useless to go, besides not being safe, for atropine is a potent, dangerous drug in overdoses, so care in dosage is essential. When the condition is under control, or a cure seems to have been attained, the same dose should be continued for some time and then reduced, the drug being given for at least two months in gradually diminishing doses. This is most important if a permanent cure is to be obtained, as there is always a strong tendency to relapse. Strychnine may be added when atropine alone fails, especially in day wetting. Begin with a dose of 1-100 of a grain for a child of 5 years, given twice daily, very gradually increasing to double the dose, three times a day. Do not push it further. Careful, intelligent, sytematic training of the child is a valuable adjunct to any form of treatment.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear brother, Walter Gestring, who was taken from us one year ago, July 31, 1925. Sadly missed by
SISTERS AND BROTHERS. (c)

In remembrance of Frank A. Woods, who passed away Aug. 3, 1925, in Fort Lyons, Colo.

At home, in the beautiful hills of God,
By the Valley of Rest so fair,
Some day when our task is done
We hope to meet you there.
MOTHER, SISTER AND BROTHER.

William B. Briggen, dear husband, father, son and brother, went to his eternal rest one year ago today. Sadly missed by those that loved him.
He is gone, never more to be seen. May his spirit always be with those that loved him. Requiem high mass Aug. 4, 9 a. m., Perpetual Help Church. (c)

In loving memory of our dear son, Woodrow W. Schaefer, who departed this life three years ago, July 30, 1923:
Today recalls the sad memories
Of the loved one gone to rest;
And those who think of him today
Are those who loved him best.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, SISTERS AND BROTHERS. (c)

In memory of my dear son, John Herman Stoverink, who passed away a year ago, July 31, 1925:
'Neath our eyes he faded quickly,
Growing day by day more frail;
Bearing sweetly all his sufferings
Without murmur, moan or wail.
Sadly missed by
FATHER, MOTHER, SISTER AND BROTHERS.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our darling baby, Josephine Sadorf, who departed this life July 29, 1925:
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
Sadly missed by
FATHER, MOTHER, SISTER AND BROTHER AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Rose Goldstein, who departed this life Aug. 2, 1924.
The month of August again is here,
To us the saddest of the year,
Because the good Lord, whom we fear
Saw fit to take our mother dear.
Sadly missed by her HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.
Requiem mass Monday, Aug. 2, 7:30 a. m., Holy Ghost parish.

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, W. Dienlin, who departed this life one year ago, Aug. 5, 1925.
'Tis sweet to be remembered
And a pleasant thing to find
That, though you may be absent,
You still are kept in mind.
You shall never be forgotten,
Never from our memory fade;
Loving hearts will always linger
Round the grave where you are laid.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, FATHER AND SISTERS.

In loving memory of our darling son and brother, Emmett C. Walton, who departed this life one year ago, July 31, 1925.
The happy home we once enjoyed is sweet in memories still.
But death has left a vacant place this world can never fill.
His cheery smile, kindly ways are pleasant to recall.
He had a kind word for each one and died beloved by all.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, SISTER AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

In memory of our dear children, Robert, who departed this life July 20, 1900; Jack, who departed this life Aug. 1, 1900, and Lydia, who departed this life July 4, 1924:
Loves of my heart to that strange, far place,
Where your beautiful souls have gone;
Though my human sight finds no track nor trace,
I know that it lies to the dawn;
And I know, dear hearts, in that wonderland, hid away in the dawn somewhere,
That your white souls rest in the dear God's hands and at last I shall find you there.
Sadly missed by
FATHER, MOTHER AND SISTERS, HUELSMANN FAMILY. (c)

In memory of our dear mother, Leopoldina Zimmerer, who died Aug. 4, 1925.
Oh, mother dear, "you sweetest mother,"
How we breathe your name in vain,
But on earth there is no other
That can take your place again.

We oft' times think, and wonder,
Can it be possible, yet so true?
Our heart so heavy filled with sorrow
Alone are calling out to you.

How we miss you, everywhere,
Oh, that heartache and despair,
Night and day we think of you,
Who so honest, kind and true.

By losing our sweet mother,
We lost the dearest friend,
To place her with another,
The world must come to end.

She was a good companion,
Our troubles with her share.
To think she left us alone,
Is very hard to bear.

You gave me inspiration,
As I wrote this little verse,
But we promised our dear father,
For better or for worse.

Gone, but not forgotten,
We talk about you, day by day.
Pray the Lord, our God, to guide you,
And meet us on resurrection day.
Sadly missed by
ELSIE AND WM. POREHL.

LOST ARTICLE

Advertising

When concentrated in the Post-Dispatch is almost certain to restore the article if it is found by an honest person, because the Post-Dispatch is the recognized Lost medium of St. Louis invariably consulted by persons who find lost articles. It is also a fact recognized by St. Louisans that many lost articles are advertised exclusively in the Post-Dispatch. Each week the Post-Dispatch prints TWICE as many LOST and FOUND ads as the next St. Louis newspaper. If a lost article cannot be recovered through the Post-Dispatch it is, as a rule, not recovered.

ONE YOUNG MAN'S BIG OPPORTUNITY

I want a young man who is vitalized with a world of energy and ambition, who is bent on success and will work for it. These things he must have:

1. Knowledge of small-town retailing—its problems and difficulties.
2. A flare for sales promotion and selling on paper.
3. Natural drawing and lay-out talent.
4. Latent executive ability.
5. Personality, neatness, a direct-thinking mind, trustworthiness, aggressiveness and a big desire to learn.

The Chicago company wanting this man is big enough—nationally prominent—to PERMANENTLY absorb for all they are worth—the talents and efforts of the man who makes good.

Sell yourself by mail—completely—don't omit details. Interview will come later if you merit it. Address Mr. Bedell, 1208 Judson av., Evanston, Ill.

SALESMEN WANTED

ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION

The new industry needs salesmen. Because the industry is expanding so rapidly experienced men are not available.

For that reason, at a cost of several thousand dollars we have engaged the services of F. F. Carson's men of Detroit.

Mr. Carson's men will conduct another sales school, beginning August 2, for the instruction of inexperienced men in the sale of electric refrigerating service.

Whether you are an experienced salesman or not, if you have a good personality, a clean record and are willing to work, and work hard, you are invited to attend the opening session of this school.

You will be told something of the future awaiting good men in this newest and fastest-growing industry. There will be no obligation. School opens at 9:30 a. m. sharp Monday, August 2. Be prompt.

RISE OF ALMOST 16C IN JULY WHEAT AS SHORTS COVER

Top of $1.60 Paid by Belated Buyers—Position of July Wheat Contracts Almost Unique in History of Trade in View of Record Primary Receipts.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 31.—In a spectacular five-minute flurry, wheat for July delivery made a record-breaking advance today of 11⅝c a bushel. Adventurous traders looking for an end-of-the-month downturn in values discovered too late that contracts could only be filled by handing over instanter the actual grain or by purchasing on a wildly advancing market.

An excited, irregular finish of the day's dealings in the wheat pit was the result, with July wheat quoted 8¾c to 11⅝c net higher, but with other deliveries at ⅛c to ¼c decline as compared with 24 hours before. Corn closed ⅜c to 10c down, oats unchanged to ⅜c off, and provisions varying from 15c drop to 40c upturn.

The sudden buying stampede in the wheat market whirled into action almost entirely without giving signs that are the usual accompaniment of a big market fluctuation. About the first indication of something out of the ordinary was a notice from a large commission house declining to be responsible for execution of orders to buy or sell just at the close. Other houses quickly followed suit, and then the market shot skyward, with official closing prices outdone 1⅛c a bushel in some transactions overlooked in the hubbub. Latest official quotations on the July delivery stood at $1.56 to $1.58⅛.

Actual top prices, however, for July wheat today were $1.60 a bushel, an advance of 12⅞c since yesterday. The maximum reached was much beyond all previous quotations for July this season, and was 16c above what July wheat had been selling at today a few minutes before the final upward rush of the market began.

Exporters and Winnipeg interests were apparently the holders of July contracts who either realized big profits by today's advance in prices or who acquired out-and-out ownership of the grain which they insisted should be delivered according to agreements expiring today. The grain delivered was said to have been previously sold for trans-Atlantic shipment, and will thus be moved East from here without delay.

Huge absorption of newly harvested wheat of late by American millers is in some quarters held responsible in part for the remarkable end-of-the-month scarcity of offerings that developed here today. Usually the stock of wheat in Chicago at this time is of much more liberal proportion than is the case at present. In fact the position of July wheat contracts today was almost unique in the history of the trade. With primary domestic receipts of a size smashing all records and with the largest movement of winter wheat ever known in July, the outstanding feature is that contract stocks of wheat here simply failed to accumulate.

CANADIAN CROP NEWS IS FACTOR IN WEEK'S TRADE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 31.—There was a wild flurry in July wheat during the last five minutes when shorts bid up prices nearly 12 cents from the low point in order to get wheat. The pit was congested and five minutes before closing with the price at $1.44¾, shorts tried to cover. At the close the price was $1.58⅛ a new high for the season.

Outside interests, it was said, held the wheat which scattered local shorts were unable to get, except by bidding prices up violently at the close today. After the close $1.60 was bid for July and it looked as though there were some defaults. If there were they would take the regular routine course with a committee appointed to set a price and fix a penalty.

Nothing more or less than scalping was had in deferred futures with shorts causing a later recovery on profit taking.

Closing prices were 11⅛c higher to ⅜c lower. July, $1.56 to $1.58½. September $1.43⅜ to $1.44, December $1.47½ to $1.47¾. For the week prices were 5½c to 17c higher.

Gains for the week were the result of short covering and buying stimulated by bullish crop news from Canada.

The Detroit Free Press in its monthly crop report said that conditions in Saskatchewan were bad as a result of heat and drouth, in Alberta, mixed, but Manitoba had prospects for a crop better than last year. Montreal advices indicate that elevators are full of grain and that congestion is so bad that the Government has ordered that the port must give preference to Canadian wheat and gave instructions not to accept Chicago wheat, but to clear the elevators as quickly as possible. Advices from Galveston say that no permit system has been placed as reported Friday, but that elevators are unloading on an average of 500 cars of grain a day and that there are not more than 2000 cars on track. Shippers' sales here were 10,000 bushels. Cash wheat basis was ½c lower with contract grade selling at 1c discount under July. Receipts were estimated at 754 cars. Early deliveries on July contracts of 245,000 bushels of wheat failed to relieve the pit congestion in July much. Indications point to a big increase in the visible supply Monday. Dutluth stocks showing an increase of 48,000 bushels for the week and Minneapolis stocks increasing 40,000 bushels for one day.

Corn was under pressure because of good rains over part of the belt and the only support was buying against indemnities. July acted tight most of the session. Closing prices were ⅜c higher to ¼c lower and for the week ⅜c to ½c higher. July 77⅛c. September 84⅛@84¼c; December 87⅛@87¼c. Shipping sales were 121,000 bushels. Country offerings to arrive were light.

Oats were easier with toher grains, the only feature being July liquidation. Closing prices were ⅛c to ⅜c lower and for the week ¼c to ½c lower. July 41⅛c. September, 43⅛@43¼c. December 46⅛@46¼c. Shipping sales were 38,000 bushels.

Provisions rallied after an easier start on buying by cash interests. Lard closed unchanged to 5 lower, ribs 10 to 40 lower.

St. Louis Bran Market.

Wheatfeed demand was quiet, but more firmly held. Hard bran was quoted to arrive from West at $24 and hard gray shorts $29. SMALL CHANGES IN GRAIN PRICES

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Juyl 31.—July wheat went out at $1.42½ asked. September wheat closed a fraction higher. December fraction lower. Corn closed lower.

Following the advance early on dry and hot weather in Canadian Northwest, there was profit-taking. Chicago dispatch said bearish private estimates regarding winter and spring wheat crops in this country were expected Monday.

In the local cash grain market straight grades of soft wheat declined ½c to 1c, heavy garlicky descriptions as much as 2@2½c cheaper, inside prices prevailing late, and a considerable part of the offerings carried over. No. 1 red opened with sales at the St. Louis September price and there were free sales later ½c under, No. 2s ½c to 1⅝c under the September price. Discounts for garlicky wheats 3c for light, 7@7½c for medium, 10@11c under the straight grades for heavy. The demand came principally from elevator buyers, possibly 20 cars taken for shipment, while an East Side mill bought moderately. Hard wheat went down 1c, Illinois and Iowa No. 1 hard selling at the close at $1.41½ and Nebraska No. 1 hard of good color at $1.43 destination weights. Demand was principally from elevator buyers. Few selected cars were taken on mill orders. Corn was steady to 1c higher. Offerings were light and mills were good buyers, while there was a scattered demand for small amounts from local trade, shippers and industries. Oats were steady to 1c higher. Offerings exceeded demand. The local trade and shippers bought sparingly at the advance. There was carry over of 15 to 20 cars.

Unfavorable report on Canadian crop brought the opening advance, but the initial gain was not all held, one delivery going back to previous close. Winnipeg early was unchanged to fraction higher. Liverpool closed ⅜ to ⅝d higher. Corn was fractionally lower on rain over belt.

September wheat opened at $1.43⅛. December wheat $1.47¼. September corn 86⅛c, and December corn 86c.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 445 cars, compared with 310 a week ago and 235 last year. Minneapolis receiving 235 cars, Duluth 73 and Winnipeg 137.

Local wheat receipts, which were 513,800 bu., compared with 38,500 a week ago and 280,000 last year, included 303 cars local and 61 through. Corn receipts, which were 23,800 bu., compared with 63,000 a week ago and 28,000 last year, included 16 cars local and through. Oats receipts, which were 82,000 bu., compared with 24,000 a week ago and 162,000 last year, included 31 cars local and 10 through. Hay receipts were 10 cars local and 6 through.

Primary receipts of wheat were 3,363,000 bushels, compared with 3,504,000 a week ago and 2,022,000 last year. Corn receipts were 328,000 bushels, compared with 425,000 a week afo and 399,000 last year. Oats receipts were 561,000 bushels compared with 355,000 a week ago and 1,461,000 last year. Wheat shipments were 1,462,000 bushels, compared with 1,224,000 a week ago and 1,383,000 last year. Corn shipments were 412,000 bushels, compared with 357,000 a week ago and 261,000 last year. Oats shipments were 452,000 bushels, compared with 351,000 a week ago and 594,000 last year.

LOCAL FRUIT MARKET

Fair Clearance of Apple Offerings —Elberta Peaches Steady.

ST. LOUIS PRODUCE ROW, July 31.—There was a fair clearance of the apple offerings, river receipts of Calhoun County apples amounting to 3209 baskets on yesterdays thre boaets, besides which several track loads came down. There was only a local demand. The later market dragged and an easier feeling prevailed. Although a top price of $1.25 was realized on best No. 1 trentons and duchess, sales of good fruit were mainly around $1 to $1.10, and good many lots showing heat-damage had to be discounted sharply. Home-grown boxed apples supplying cheap trade to considerable extent. Sales were reported as follows: 700 bu baskets trentons and duchess at 75c to $1.25 and best transparents at $1, 129 baskets wolf river at $1.05, 16 private brand duchess at 75c, 276 baskets trentons at $1, 62 No. 1 do at $1, 42 welthy at $1.10, 30 wolf river at $1.10, 41 No. 1 benoni at $1, 30 transparents at 75c, 52 do (ripe) at 65c, 210 baskets No. 1 trenton and duchess at $1.25, 74 trenton (cooked) at 90c to $1, 33 duchess (do) at 90c, 100 trasparent at $1, 69 duchess at $1, 72 do at $1.20, 66 do at $1.15, 250 transparents at 65c to 90c, trentons at 90c to $1.25 and duchess at 75c to $1, 55 trenton (cooked) at $1.03, 35 welthy at $1.10, 44, 30 and 21 duchess at $1.25, 39 do (cooked) at 75c, 21 trenton at $1.25, 34 do at $1.10, 4 welthy and 4 duchess at $1.10, 10 raspberry at $1, 10 trenton at $1.25, 50 duchess at $1.25, 200 baskets trenton and 60 duchess at $1.15, 20 duchess at $1.25, 18 orchard run trenton at 90c, 27, 41 and 32 trenton at $1, 19 strawberry pippin at 90c, 120 and 70 duchess at $1.25, 9 red June at $1.-25 ripe duchess at 85c, 18 transparents at $1.15, 35 trenton at $1. Range of quoted prices on Calhoun County bu baskets: No. 1 duchess and trentons at $1 to $1.25, orchard run do at 85c to $1, No. 1 transparents at 75c to $1, wolf river at 90c to $1.05, and No. 2 and private brands (all varieties) at 50c to 75c.

In the peach market elbertas were steady.

PEACHES—Supplies abundant and market steady on elbertas, with a pretty good movement. Home-grown small peaches dull. Track sales: Arkansas—1 car bu baskets elbertas $2.10, 1 car do $2.15. Jobbing sales: Arkansas—½ car bu baskets elbertas $2 to $2.15, 125 baskets do $2.15 to $2.35, load do $2 to $2.10; Georgia—2-3 car bu baskets elbertas $1.75, load tubs do $2, ½ car small to medium bu baskets elbertas $1.90 to $2.10 and ⅓ car large do $2.10 to $2.35. Home-grown 1-3 bu chip baskets 25c to 30c.

CANTALOUPES—Market was easier and quiet; trade supplied to considerable extent by home-grown and Southeast Missouri melons. Home-grown bu boxes 75c to $1.25 and Southeast Missouri (bulk) $1.25 to $1.50 per bu box loose. Jobbing sales reported as follows: Texas—¼ car pink meat jumbo flats $1.25 to $1.35; Missouri—½ car pink meat standard flats (9s to 12s) 65c to 80c; Arizona honey dew melons $1.50 to $1.75; Arkansas—1 car standard 45s and 36s $1.25 to $1.50, and flats 65c to 70c, 2 loads standard 45s and 36s $1.25 to $1.35, and flats 50c to 60c, 1 car standards $1.25 and flats 40c to 65c.

WATERMELONS—Market was weak, in spite of favorable weather. Receipts of Missouri melons increasing, and because of cheaper freight are displacing melons for distant Southern points, and some of the latter (too ripe) not salable for over freight charges. Track sales: Arkansas—1 car 37-lb. melons, $265; 1 car 40-lb. do, $275; 1 car 37-lb. do, $260; Georgia—6 cars 24 to 26 lb. thurman gray, $275; 4 cars 24 to 26 lb. watsons, $225; 1 car 35-lb. excels, $300; 1 car 30-lb. thurman gray, $275; 1 car 28-lb. do, $250; Alabama—1 car 40-lb. watsons (sunburnt), $225; 8 cars 28 to 30 lb. do, $150 to $165; Missouri—1 car 35-lb. excels, $200; 1 car 26-lb. thurman gray, $175; 1 car 23-lb. watsons, $162.50; 2 cars 24-lb. Irish gray and thurman gray and 1 car 23-lb. thurman gray, $160; 1 car 19-lb. Irish gray, $155. Jobbing sales per 100 lbs. delivered: 1 car 42-lb. Alabama watsons, $1.50 to $1.75; 2 cars 30@32-lb. Georgia watsons, $1.50. Also, sales out of 15 broken cars 18 to 30 lb. melons, $20 to $40 per 100 melons, the tracks.

Livestock prices were generally lower at the St. Louis National Stockyards last week, rather sharp losses occurring in the cattle, hog and lamb markets. Sheep and horses and mules were about steady. Receipts were generous, the combined run of stock for the six-day period aggregating 118,004 head, a slight increase over the previous week. The cattle and calf run at approximately 32,633 head, was one of the largest of the year. The heavy supply of cattle here and at most other Western markets, together with a generally poor demand for dressed beef, had an adverse effect on the local trade.

Beef steers were severely punished, the bulk of sales averaging 50c to 75c lower. Heavy kinds suffered the most, the market at times being at a virtual standstill. Some of the late light-weight steers escaped with little, if any, decline, these kinds figuring steady to 25c down. The market was eventually cleared, although some weighty beeves remained in their pens for several days without receiving satisfactory bids. Range sters from Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas made up a liberal total of 200 cars and sales here closed 50c lower. Fat light yearling cattle, in comparatively light supply, ruled steady to 25c lower, while grassers, in more generous supply, depreciated 50c. Cows were again furnished a narrow outlet and beef grades were steady to 25c lower than the previous week's 50c decline, while canners and cutters were about steady at the recent break of 75c to $1. Southern canner yearlings again broke 75c, closing at $3.50 for most.

Bulls dropped 25c to 50c on the plainer grades while the better kinds went unchanged. Stocker and feeder cattle were unevenly steady to 25c to 50c lower. Veal calves opened and closed steady, after easing off slightly midweek. The top was $13. Native beef steers graded good in quality and bulked at $8 to $9.50 per cwt. Good weighty bullocks sold down to $8.50 near the close. Tops of $9.75, $9.80, $9.85, $10 and $10.25 were received during the week for choice, handy-weight beeves. Plain native steers cashed around $7 and in the $6 column, while the Western steers cashed in a spread of $5 to $8.40. The bulk of stocker and feeder steers brought $5.25 to $6.60. Top heifers scored $10.25, and a short load of steers and heifers mixed reached $10.50. Other good yearlings registered in the $9 column, followed by plainer kinds around $8, $7, $6 and under. Beef cows sold largely at $4.50 to $5.50. Low sale was $4.25 and tops were quotable at $6 or better. Cutter cows were eligible to $3.25 to $4 and canners to $2.50 to $3, and inferior grade down to $2.25. Heavy beef bulls were quotable at $5.75 to $6.50, medium to good bolognas $5 to $5.75, light bolognas $4 to $5, and canner and cutter bulls $3 to $4.

Hog Prices Erratic.

Very erratic prices featured the past week's hog trade with declining values the rule. Strong support from other buying interests during the fore part of the week brought out stronger values but throughout the later sessions prices progressed steadily downward with the exception of a slight reaction on lights at the close. Packers were wary operators throughout and bought supplies only at times when order buying support was withdrawn. This feature and lack of shipping inquiry for heavy hogs resulted in a sharp drop in price on this class, extremes showing 50c decline from the previous Saturday. Some sales on heaviest kinds ranged downward to $12 and $12.05 with prices graduating upward from this point to $12.40 and $12.50 on 270 to 280 lb. averages and 230 to 260 lb. kinds ranging from $12.75 to $13. Medium weight butchers of 200 to 220 lbs. in weight quotable at $13.10 to $13.65 and light shipping hogs of 150 to 190 lbs. weight at $13.65 to $13.85 largely.

The reaction in this class featured toward the week's close was due to some extent to a decreased supply, weights running more to the medium-weight butcher grades. Extreme heavy hogs were in small supply throughout the week and prices weer hard to gauge accurately from day to day. While the demand for pigs was fair, buyers made quality a strong point and insisted on weights running better than 100 lbs. Sales of offerings from 110 to 150 lbs ranged from $13.50 up to $13.90 late in the week, prices showing very little difference from those obtainable for light hogs. Light pigs and inferior quality stuff was neglected however, and salesmen found it hard to move them. Prices ranged downward to $12.50 on plainest grades, with others making $13 and $13.25. Packing sows, after mild fluctuations throughout the week, closed at a decline of 25c on heavies, light sows around 15c off. Smooth kinds are quotable up to $10.50, with medium kinds $10 to $10.25 and heavies $9.75. Little change was shown in stags, sales from $9 to $10.25, according to weight and flesh. Complete quotations of the different grades as they sold on the close follow: Good heavy hogs, 290 lbs. and up, $12.25 to $12.50; 270 to 280 lbs., $12.50 to $12.75; 240 to 260 lbs., $12.85 to $13.15; 220 to 240 lbs., $13.25 to $13.50; 200 to 210 lbs., $13.50 to $13.75; lights, 160 to 190 lbs., $13.75 to $13.90; pigs, 110 to 150 lbs., $13.50 to $13.90; lighter pigs, $12.50 to $13.25; packing sow $9.75 to $10.25; stags, $9 to $10.25

Lamb Receipts Increase.

A generous increase was noted in lamb receipts during the week just closed, both locally and at other markets. Local arrivlas were approximately 5000 heavier than the previous week's run. Despite the increase in numbers, there was a good demand in existence at all times and a good clearance was made. Prices naturally suffered in consequence of the increased supply at hand and values as compared with the previous week's close indicate a decline of 50c to 75c on best lambs, with medium and inferior grades around 25c to 50c lower, according to quotations. Nominal top on the close for strictly choice lambs is $13.50, with $13.25 the actual top as paid by packers for desirable native grades. Kentucky and Tennessee lambs were in small supply and quality failed to measure up to the previous offerings from those states. For this reason prices obtainable for this class was no better than for natives.

Early week receipts also included a good share of Southwest Missouri lambs that graded strongly toward the medium. Offerings in this line ranged $12.50 to $12.75 and $13 in price, with off quality and heavy lambs around $10 to $12. Culls suffered a 50c decline during mid-week but made a partial recovery in later sessions and closed steady to 50c off. Best kinds are bringing around $9, with others at $8.50 and some at $8. Skips are selling at $6 to $7 principally, although some are common enough to go at $5. Prices on aged stock maintained an unchanged basis throughout the week, with the exception of a stronger tone on light handy weight mutton ewes. Some sales of fancy offerings in this class ranged up to $6.50, but the majority of offerings cleared at $6 and some $5.50. Medium and heavy kinds ranged $4 to $5 largely, according to weight and quality. Choppers and bucks continued at $2 to $3, with canners making $1 to $2. Quotations: Slaughter stock:—Good to choice lambs, $13 to $13.50; medium to good, $12 to $13; plain to medium, $10 to $12; cull and common, $8 to $9; skips, $5 to $7; good to choice yearling wethers, $10 to $11.75; plain to good, $8 to $10; good to choice mutton ewes, $5.50 to $6.50; medium to good, $4.50 to $5.50; plain to medium and heavy grades, $4 to $4.50; choppers and bucks, $2 to $3; canners, $1 to $2; fat hair goats, $2 to $3; thin hair goats, $1 to $2; fat kids, $5 to $6, and thin to fair kids, $2 to $4.

Horses and Mules.

The horse and mule market showed no essential change during the week. Receipts were light at approximately 300 head, and consisted mostly of native stock. The demand was limited largely to a few good work horses, some good big mules and mules for export to Spain.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted weekly financial review today says:

"Not since the March break has the stock market produced such brilliant fireworks as it did this week, when 40 different issues rose to new highs for the year in a wave of buying that plainly reflected more than the spontaneous demand of small investors. Important distinctions appear in the records between the present and early 1926 markets in the character both of the participants and the stocks around which trading centers. At the best levels this week General Motors stood 31 points above its poorest position of last week and U. S. Steel common was up 12 points. Both issues reached new peaks in their history and transactions in them were what gave the market its appearance of general activity. Just below the 200 level for General Motors and the 150 level for Steel, the spectacular bull drive met powerful resistance by bear traders, who were convinced prices had gone ahead too rapidly and in the battle royal between the two factions the market yesterday again was forced down from its best position of the week. Zig zag movements in these leaders as shares in large volumes were bought and sold showed plainly enough that the market still is in the hands of powerful groups.

Rail Operating Income Up.

"Whether these interests are now accumulating stock on the basis of intrinsic merits that they see in the issues around current prices or to draw the public back into the market, or both, is not entirely clear. To date public participation has been small but interest in the market has been greatly enlivened and recent earnings statements have improved the general confidence of bystanders. Aside from the splendid industrial earnings reports of the week it now seems likely that net operating income of our railroads during June will reach a new record high of $104,000,000, which exceeds by a wide margin the $91,716,000 for the same month a year ago that aroused so much favorable comment. June earnings thus portend a yearly return of 6 per cent on the property valuation as against 5.42 for June, 1925, and 5.55 actually earned during the calendar year 1925. Prospects for good 1926 carrier earnings are further shown by recent car loadings, which have held persistently above a million cars weekly. Gains in earnings of various descriptions have stimulated fresh investment interest in the dividend paying stocks and a new faith in the general trade position.

"Apparently the price of crude rubber at London has been maintained on an average level above 21 pence for the three months ended today, thus assuring the world of a continued 100 per cent production during at least another quarter. A restricted schedule such as would have been adopted had the price fallen this week in the end would have been influence for higher rubber prices, whereas the present arrangement will tend to hold values down. The event has excited the rubber traders on both sides of the water, but to the American car owner perhaps it means no more than that no check will be placed upon full production of tires by restrictions on the exportation of the raw material.

French Note Circulation Expansion.

"The statement of the Bank of France reveals an expansion in note circulation during the week of 1,015,821,000 francs, which brings the total circulation up to 56,041,675,850 and means that at the present rate the legal limit of 58,500,000,000 soon will be reached. Confidence that the Poincare coalition cabinet will in some way point the way for France to switch from a paper to a gold basis has, however, helped to sustain the market in francs."

Buying in New Groups Saturday.

"Switching of constructive operations on a large scale from the recently popular industrial issues to various other groups was the principal development of trading during the two-hour session on the Stock Exchange this morning. The powerful resistance shown to efforts made to bring about a reaction late yesterday, doubtless had the effect of discouraging a resumption of the bear operation. At any rate, prices as a rule were pointed generally higher throughout the trading, and close to a dozen issues were established at new high levels. Steel common and General Motors were strongly supported at all times, the latter moving ahead several points under renewed impressive buying. Motors as a group continued to enjoy a good deal of attention, but there was a well defined shifting of interest toward such groups as the public utility, the rails and certain of the more popular specialties. Consolidated Gas was again a feature, and Cast Iron Pipe moved ahead sharply among the specialties, sharing the limelight with Radio Corporation. Trading was on a comparatively heavy scale, with short covering being done actively in many issues.

Some Strong Features.

"Though realizing was persistent in some directions, the short session was not without its usual number of strong spots. The outstanding feature of the morning was Hudson Motors, which extended its advance perpendicularly, added an upturn of several points to its sharp gain of yesterday. The plight of the short interest which had been dormant in that issue since the big break earlier in the year was apparent from urgent character of the buying as the stock forged ahead. Other motors were stimulated to some degree.

Evening Up in Commodities.

"The day in commodity markets was devoid of interest at Chicago. Wheat and corn were nominally easier in light dealings. Trading in cotton was of the usual week-end character, and more or less restricted by the fact that a recess was in order at Liverpool due to the observance there of the bank holiday.

General Motors Up.

"General Motors was disposed to rest following its pyrotechnical display since the beginning of the week, but sufficient demand was at hand to maintain it at levels several points above the previous closing level. Though Consolidated Gas was easier under profit-taking, the recent strength there served to influence active buying of other utilities, particularly Public Service of New Jersey, which ran up to new high levels. Rails maintained their recently gained position of prominence, with New York Central assuming the leadership.

Better Tone to Franc.

"Cable dispatches telling of the success of the Poincare Cabinet in winning a second vote of confidence to speed up its plans for correction of financial trees influenced a slightly better tone in French currency in the foreign exchange mraket. Elsewhere trading was quiet and changes were unimportant.

Weekly Bank Statement.

"The actual statement of the Clearing House banks, showing condition at the close of business today, revealed a shrinkage of about $10,000,000 in excess reserves which stood at $22,113,820 on hand and discounts discounts an expansion of $52,000,000, reflecting the month-end demand, and net demand deposits stood at $42,274,000 above the total of last week."

Weekly Metal Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The demand for steel during the past week was even better than during the previous weeks of the month and an accumulation of orders led to predictions that business on the books of the Steel Corporation at the close of the month will show a slight gain. Prices remained about unchanged, although in some quarters slight concessions were reported.

New business in pig iron was small, but shipments on old sales were liberal and prices steady.

Copper showed a hardening tendency, with large sales at 14⅝c for electrolytic delivered, which practically cleared up all the metal available at that figure, so that most of the large producers were holding firmly at 14¾c at the end of the week. Some sales were reported, in fact, a shade under that level, but the price was not generally established. The demand continues excellent.

Tin advanced further, but kept below an import parity. Dealers bought liberally of future straits at times on underlying strength in the statistical situation, but consumers appeared in a comfortable position as to nearby requirements.

Lead continued its upward trend, with demand good and of a well-distributed nature.

Zinc was steady, with little change in values. Holders were not offering freely, on account of the firmness in ore, but at the same time buyers are inclined to limit purchasers to nearby requirements.

Antimony was a little lower owing to more liberal offerings, and a letup in demand.

Lead, Zinc and Copper.

Lead was reported firm in St. Louis Saturday at $8.85 per 100 lbs. Zinc was quiet at $7.50 per 100 lbs.

Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Cheerfulness over the business and financial outlook was reflected this week by a sharp upturn in stock prices under the sensational leadership of high-priced industrials; the further recovery of the French franc on the surprisingly large vote of confidence given by the Chamber of Deputies to the new Poincare government, and the brisk rally in wheat prices on unfavorable weather reports and reduced crop estimates.

Judged by the averages, stock prices have recovered approximately 85 per cent of the ground lost since the drastic March reaction. On the recovery, over a dozen issues, including United States Steel common, General Motors and Texas Gulf Sulphur, have sold at the highest prices ever recorded. The advance has been based primarily on the unusual midsummer expansion of business, the prospect of increasing prosperity in the agricultural regions, the continuance of relatively easy money and expectations of "melon cutting" by some of the large industrial concerns.

The sharp reduction in the Canadian crop estimate, coupled with reports of unfavorable weather in certain wheat growing sections of the West, has revived talk of "$1.75 wheat" in Wall Street. It is generally conceded that higher wheat prices would go a long way toward eliminating discontent in many agricultural districts.

Freakish weather has made it practically impossible to estimate, with any degree of accuracy, the size of the 1926 cotton crop, but ginnings to September 1 are expected to run far behind those of last year, due to the lateness of the season.

While the decision of the Poincare government to "save the franc" by means of taxes instead of loans, met with widespread approval in financial capitals, the action to be taken by the Chamber of Deputies of the new tax bills is generally regarded as the crux of the situation. Meanwhile, speculation in the franc has quieted down and it holds fairly steady around the 2¼c level.

HOLIDAY STAGNATION IN BRITISH SECURITIES

Special to New York Evening Post and Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, July 31.—Arthur W. Kiddy, editor of Bankers' Magazine and financial editor of the London Morning Post, in review today, says:

"Rightly or wrongly, the financial district believes that the miners will return rapidly to work after the bank holiday.

"Holiday stagnation of securities has now commenced. Last year the stagnation was relieved by the buoyancy of rubber shares, but it is doubtful if the experiecne will be repeated, though it is considered that, though the battle has been won by the foes, restriction of rubber exports, present prices are justified and will go higher later.

"It is still believed here that the White Star negotiations ultimately and perhaps soon will recommence in a different form and in a slightly different direction.

DULL WEEK-END TRADE IN THE BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The bond [illegible] ket today drifted through one of the [illegible] est trading sessions of the summer, [illegible] virtually no change in the general [illegible] age of prices. The stiffening of [illegible] conditions at the close of the month [illegible] tensified the usual Saturday lull in [illegible] tivity.

The only conspicuous feature of [illegible] day's dealings, which aggregated [illegible] more than $3,000,000, was a rally of [illegible] points in Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s, [illegible] rying the price to a new high level [illegible] year above 160. The buying, which [illegible] lowed a rise in the company's stock, [illegible] based on prospects of a favorable de[illegible] in pending rate cases.

Railroad liens failed to keep pace [illegible] the upward movement of the carrier [illegible] Denver & Rio Grande Western [illegible] near their 1926 top price, and St. [illegible] refunding 4½s gained a point, but [illegible] more & Ohio, Frisco, "Katy" and Mis[illegible] Pacific issues were heavy.

Foreign obligations were firm in [illegible] tremely quiet trading. French and [illegible] gian bonds were fractionally higher, [illegible] a brisk buying movement developed [illegible] Great Consolidated Power of Japan [illegible]

The week's bond offerings amounted [illegible] about $89,000,000, compared with [illegible] $114,000,000 the week before and [illegible] 900,000 in the corresponding week of [illegible]

Foreign Exchange

By Leased Wire from the New York [illegible] reau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The [illegible] Post in its copyrighted weekly foreign [illegible] change review today says:

"Trading all week was far [illegible] than through the period to which [illegible] French situation was acutely disturbed [illegible] frequent Government and Franc [illegible] Organization of the new Cabinet [illegible] the steadier tone in French [illegible] which ranged from 2.38 to 2.48, a [illegible] stantial recovery from the low level [illegible] 1.95 in the preceding week.

"Dealings in French exchange were [illegible] the same small volume noted in [illegible] various wide movements in the preced[illegible] weeks. There was no indication, [illegible] of Government support, most of the [illegible] mand that affected markets of the [illegible] consisting of requirements for com[illegible] remittances. Belgian exchange [illegible] above French all week, selling as high [illegible] 2.55, a direct sequence of the control [illegible] the market through King Albert.

"Italian was firm at times, though [illegible] lire sold at the new low of 3.16.

"Sterling was in supply on a [illegible] scale, but there was an absence of [illegible] by inquiry, which some assumed [illegible] the withdrawal of Government support. After selling at $4.86⅝ cables dropped [illegible] $4.86½, making the low level of [illegible] week yesterday.

"Spanish exchange fell from 15.38 [illegible] 15.28 and after a rally retreated [illegible] in yesterday's trading. The only [illegible] nation was that a group that had [illegible] active on the buying on recent adv[illegible] had changed its position and endeav[illegible] to liquidate holdings.

"Scandinavian exchange held firm [illegible] first half of the week. Later Norw[illegible] became heavy, falling 4 points. This [illegible] offset, though, by an advace of 4 p[illegible] in Danish crowns.

"Japanese showed a strong tone, [illegible] checks ranging from 47.06 to 47.25. [illegible] gayan was again heavy, declining [illegible] 99.87 to 99.12.

"Brazilian was pressed on the ma[illegible] for a time falling to 15.25.

"Cable dispatches Saturday telling [illegible] the success of the Poincare Cabinet [illegible] winning a second vote of confidence [illegible] speed up its plans for correction of [illegible] cial trees influenced a slight [illegible] tone in French currency in the for[illegible] change market. Elsewhere trading [illegible] quiet and changes were unimportant.

SHOE GROUP MORE ACTIVE ON EXCHANGE

Better Prices Prevail in Latter Part of Week—Break and Rebound in Wagner Electric Feature of Week.

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, July 31.—A sharp break in the price of the common stock of Wagner Electric, followed by recovery in the latter part of the week and buying that appeared in the shoe group late, were the outstanding features of the past week in the local stock market. Transactions for the six-day period naturally showed marked improvement over those of the preceding week.

Among the shoe shares figuring in the activities at generally higher range of prices were International Shoe, Pedigo-Weber, Boyd-Welsh and Brown, although there were sales of other shoe issues. International Shoe showed net gain of 14½ points for the week.

On one day there was fair business in Consolidated Lead, but the trade did not continue on succeeding days. Ely-Walker common also was prominent on one day. Sale of Mercantile Trust at 420 was an individual feature.

The slump in Wagner Electric took place on the first trading day of the week when some of the stock was offered in a market apparently without bids near the level where the stock first was offered that day. It sold as low as 13¾ but recovered some during that day and on succeeding days sold above the low level. On Friday Wagner Electric changed hands at 20, representing rebound of more than 6 points from the low point. At the closing session of week 21 was paid, representing net gain of 3 points for the week. Transactions for the week exceeded 1100 shares.

NET PRICE CHANGES IN COTTON MARKET SMALL

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Impressed with the favorable weather outlook over the week-end, cotton traders sold rather freely at times today, causing an extreme decline of 9 to 13 points under the previous close. Efforts to replace these sales near the close, however, resulted in a sharp rally that left final prices unchanged to 3 points net lower.

The market opened steady, 4 points higher to 1 lower, and almost immediately yielded to local pressure based on predictions for fair weather in the Southwest over Sunday, and the fact that the tropical storm, after taking an almost unprecedented course from east to west, appeared to be disappearing in the Mississippi Valley.

October contracts declined to 17.56c and January 17.50c on this dip. Bears were still nervous, however, and fearing to remain short over the week-end began a covering movement near the close that ran the October position up to 17.68c. Showers, forecast for some of the Eastern states, were expected to increase the weevil menace, but without directly damaging the plant, which needs dry weather mostly west of the river.

Next week will probably see numerous private crop reports published ahead of the bureau on Aug. 9. The average of three thus far issued is 14,555,000 bales, compared with the bureau estimate of 15,368,000 as of July 16, although the trade hardly looks for a cut of 800,000 bales in the forthcoming Government report.

WIDE MOVEMENTS IN SPECIALTIES ON CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—In the absence of any concerted group action and lacking spectacular leadership, the market on the Curb Exchange proceeded in a manner expectant at this period of a short session ending both the week and the month.

Several issues that had been in the forefront in recent trading gave a good account of themselves. Rand Kardex extended yesterday's advance of 5½ points with a further upturn of about 2 points. Freed Eisemann also continued in demand, selling up a point to 9, its high figure for the year. Glen Alden improved a fraction and moderate strength prevailed in others of this group.

Prominent issues in the public utility division found support around the levels reached on yesterday's reaction. United Gas Improvement opened off at 108 and then rose to 109⅞. American Gas rallied a fraction to 97⅞.

Most interest in the oils was devoted to the lower priced shares in which Creole Syndicate featured, selling to a new high for the year at 15⅝. Standard Oils were slightly higher.

A feaure of the week's trading was the heavy business in bonds, especially in South American issues, United States of Brazil 6½s being prominent with sales of over $1,000,000. Schulte Real Estate 6s also were heavily traded, ranging from 96½ to 98¼. Gatineau Power 5s and 6s apeared on the market and International Great Northern 5s and New Orleans Texas & Mexico 5s also were added to the list.h

There were many widhe movements in specialties, National Fuel advanced 8 points to 156, and a gain of 11 points was made in Selotox to the new high record of 155. Giant Portland Cement advanced to 62 a gain of over 16 points from its last preceding sale. American Rayon Products was one of the weak features, falling over 2 points to the new low record of 11½.

These was heavy trading in a number of the utility issues. American Gas & Electric moved up nearly 6 points to above 99, coming close to its previous high record. American Super Power made a gain of over 3 points to above 31 and United Gas Improvement rose over 4 points to above 112. Southeastern Power & Light was one of the strongest of the lower priced issues.

Dry Goods Market Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Sales of cotton goods during the week were in excess of current production by a small margin, but production is now being increased.

Burlaps were steady with buying confined to immediate needs.

The expansion looked for in wool goods after the openings of fancy worsteds for spring is based upon the very moderate provision on staple goods made thus far and the clean stock conditions due to long curtailment.

The closing of Japan raw silk markets for holidays left local traders indisposed to force goods and little price change was reported. Silk goods were quiet.

The linen demand continued light.

For Repairs and Remodeling

For New Construction

—Costs no more than others

THIS "Strength Test" made with common bricks, is only one of several practical home tests by which any man can prove to himself the amazing service offered by this improved plaster wall board—Beaver Bestwall.

Before you lay out money for any plaster wall board, whether for new construction, remodeling or repairs, study the tests shown. Get samples of genuine Beaver Bestwall, if you like, and test them. Make comparisons. Don't buy on traditions or mere belief. Get the facts.

What makes it superior?

Plaster wall board gets its serviceability from two sources: (1) the quality of the plaster core; (2) the toughness and strength of the facing or binder.

In Beaver Bestwall the plaster core is made of finest quality gypsum rock from Beaver mines. It is an extra fine, extra well set rock plaster.

Then Beaver Bestwall is finished with a new, improved fibre facing of remarkable toughness.

This improved, exclusive facing is made in Beaver mills—where fibre products have been made for nearly a quarter of a century. It greatly increases the strength and flexibility of the rock plaster center. Make the "Strength Test" and prove it. Consider also the exhaustive laboratory tests made by our experts.

Other desirable advantages

Another advantage of the improved fibre facing of Beaver Bestwall is its susceptibility to artistic decoration. This smooth, hard, fibre surface promotes charming effects.

Get a sample of Bestwall and make the "Surface Test." Note how the hard fibre surface resists rubbing—does not become woolly.

Now make the "Water Glass Test." Note how Beaver Bestwall does not absorb moisture.

Now make the "Paint Test." This improved surface takes any paint perfectly. Calcimine or oil tinting colors dry smoothly—give richest color effects.

Note, too, that the fibre surface of Beaver Bestwall does not "drink up" paint. A little goes a long, long way. On any job there is a noticeable saving in both labor cost and materials.

Make the "Redecoration Test." Note how wall paper may be removed without damage to the surface of Beaver Bestwall. This means that you can redecorate when desired—a most practical feature.

At no greater cost

These are some of the specific advantages offered by this improved plaster wall board. Being a completely Beaver-made product, both plaster and fibre facing manufactured by specialists in the great Beaver Products Company mills, manufacturing costs are at a minimum. Therefore Beaver Bestwall can be sold at no higher cost than other plaster wall boards. You gain in many ways, as a personal test will prove. Yetyou pay no more.

All you need do is to specify "Beaver Bestwall" instead of merely "plaster wall board"—to insist upon it—and see for yourself that each sheet bears the distinctive cream-colored fibre surface and the familiar Beaver trade-mark.

Genuine Beaver Bestwall is sold in St. Louis and vicinity by all good dealers. Call on the one nearest you.

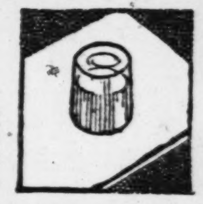
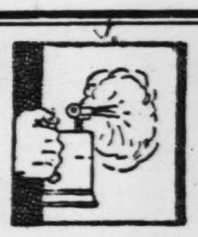
A Simple Comparison

Its tough cover enables the golf ball or baseball to withstand terrific impacts of club and bat. The same thing applies to plaster wall board. The extra tough fibre facing—permanently bonded to the rock plaster center—gives Beaver Bestwall its remarkable strength.



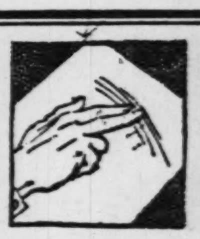
The "Water Glass" and "Paint" Test

Place a sample of Beaver Bestwall over a glass of water. Invert the glass so sample is underneath the water. Also apply paint to a sample. Note how little is absorbed in each case. Very economical.



The "Fire" Test

Every panel of Beaver Bestwall—the superior plaster wall board—is approved by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, and manufactured under their laboratory supervision.



The "Surface" Test

Swiftly rub your finger tips over the fibre facing of Beaver Bestwall. Note that it does not scuff up and become woolly—a feature of the fibre facing which is sized and calendered.

The "Strength" Test

Lay a piece of Beaver Bestwall across two piles of bricks or between two chairs. Pile heavy weights on the center. Note the surprising weight it will hold without breaking.

Easy to Apply

Saws and nails like lumber. Quickly applied to studding over old walls or ceilings. Will not warp, buckle, crack, crumble or fall. Is fireproof, moisture-proof. Produces smooth, clean, permanent walls and ceilings.

Many Uses

Use it for durable, fireproof walls and ceilings in new dwellings and buildings of every kind.

For quick, permanent, economical repairs for remodeling at low cost—reclaiming wasted attic space; lining garage or summer cottages, adding needed rooms, or walls in the cellar; making partitions in stores, factories—and for 101 other uses where a smooth, clean, permanent wall that will not warp, crack, crumble or fall is required.

BOOT TO BOOT WINS $100,000 AMERICAN DERBY

Fighting Giants Twice Defeat Cardinals, 8-6 and 6-1

HAINES AND REINHART FAIL IN BOX

Hornsby's Team Has 6-0 Lead in First Game—Southpaw Pounded in Seventh Inning of Nightcap—Bell's Streak Ends.

By J. Roy Stockton

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Rogers Hornsby's Cardinals labored under the impression that the Giants were not trying very hard, but the St. Louisans have a different idea, now, after taking a double trouncing at the hands of McGraw's team. The New York hordes, fighting hard to climb back to a .500 percentage, pounded Haines and Bothoron for an 8-6 victory in the first game of a double-header, and then put on a six-run seventh-inning storm against Reinhart to take the second contest, 6 to 1.

As a result of the double defeat the Cardinals dropped a game and a half farther behind the Pirates and are now four games out of first place. Thanks to the Boston Braves, who twice took the measure of the Reds, the Cardinals kept pace with the second-place Cincinnati team, being only two games behind Hendricks' men.

In addition to handing the Cardinals a double dose, the Giants stopped the hitting streak of Lester Bell, who had hit safely in 21 consecutive games, Bell going to bat twice officially, striking out once and flying to center the other time. On three unofficial trips to the plate, Bell hit a sacrifice fly and drew two passes.

Bell, who was stopped in the first game, apparently was affected by the happening. He batted four times in the twilight battle, grounding out twice and striking out twice.

Reinhart Pounded in Seventh.

Arthur Reinhart mastered the Giants for six innings of the second game, holding them to three hits in that time. But in the seventh the breaks went against the southpaw and a 1-0 lead soon faded to a 6-1 deficit.

Irish Meusel started the seventh inning bombardment with a cheap single past Bell, after which Kelly lined a single to right, Meusel pulling up at second. Reinhart struck out Tyson, but Jackson doubled to left, scoring Meusel with the tying run and putting Kelly on third.

HOT OFF THE BAT!

BY John E. Wray

Harder Than Ever.

AT this writing the finish of the National League baseball race is harder to forecast than next year's Kentucky Derby. The five or six teams still in the running have shown such evidence of lack of dependability that the outcome is strictly up to Fortune's breaks.

The Pirates, the Reds and the Cards have shown plainly that there is no super team among them. No club is functioning on all cylinders; each has taken turns at spurting and falling back. Consistent drive has been wanting in all of them.

Cards' Chances Good.

THE Cardinals CAN win the flag but it will need a return to their old form by Bottomley and Hornsby, premier one-two punch of the major league baseball world last fall.

Between them last year this pair of athletes accounted for well over 400 runs, some scored by themselves and others driven in by their bats.

This is easily equivalent to 50 victories. This year the pair have fallen off very materially. They are at least one-third below former efficiency.

Until they regain form the full power of the team cannot be delivered. It's better to have the club FINISH at its peak, than to spurt in mid-season and fall away in September.

The Cardinals have little to complain of, since their rivals one and all have been groaning at the breaks of fortune and the failure of men relied upon. They have had good reason. If you think not, examine the record of Pitcher Luque of the Reds.

Selling the Browns.

FIVE straight defeats of the Browns started the boys to selling Phil Ball's holdings again yesterday. The purchaser and the price were mysteriously missing, although Roger Peckinpaugh was already as good as elected manager of the club, it was whispered.

The sale was going along lovely until somebody asked Phil Ball about the disposal, and he was mean enough to quash the indictment.

"Must think I'm crazy to be buying $125,000 outfielders just before I sell a club. I am NOT selling this ball club," Ball declared.

But the boys will go on having their little fling at transferring the club to parties unknown about three or four times a season.

It may be said that about one-half of it ought to be sold if the other half is to get anywhere, this century.

The Offset.

LESTER BELL'S phenomenal hitting spurt was checked yesterday in the first game with the Giants, after hitting safely in 21 consecutive games for a grand average since July 6 of .519.

He made 41 hits and scored 19 runs in 79 times at bat—which is stepping along some.

Thus, while the club missed Hornsby, the unusual work of Injunction Will Not Stop Tunney Fight, Tex Says

Promoter Rickard Going Ahead With Plans for Dempsey's Application.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—To speed up a decision on the licensing issue, Tex Rickard will have Jack Dempsey file a formal application for a fighting permit with the State Athletic Commission upon the champion's arrival here from Colorado Springs, probably the latter part of next week.

The commission already has sanctioned Dempsey's match with Gene Tunney, to take place at the Yankee Stadium on Sept. 16, but doubt exists as to the action which may be taken by the License Committee, an associated but independent body. Rickard is confident this committee will not throw any obstacle in the way of the fight but he hopes to have the matter in shape for settlement at the next meeting of the licensing officials Aug. 10.

Tunney already has made the first move toward obtaining his own license by making a personal appeal to the chairman of the License Committee, Col. J. J. Phelan. The latter has refused, however, to indicate what course he will take.

Rickard took cognizance today of the effort of B. C. Clements, Chicago promoter, to obtain an injunction against the Dempsey-Tunney fight in papers filed at Denver but declared his confidence it would not interrupt plans under way here.

"A Shake-Down," Says the Champion.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., July 31.—Unperturbed by injunction proceedings brought by E. B. Clements of the Chicago Coliseum Club to halt his match with Gene Tunney, Jack Dempsey today declared that the court action would not interfere with his training for the Tunney bout and that he would leave for Saratoga Springs, N. Y., tomorrow.

"The whole thing is an effort to shake me down," the champion said at his training camp at Colorado Springs today, "and I am not going to fall for it. I am not in the least disturbed. My attorney

Legion Crew and Hoover Shine in Canadian Regatta

Wyandotte (Mich.) Oarsmen Win Junior and Senior Championships.

By the Associated Press.

ST. CATHERINES, Ont., July 31.—The eight-oared crew of the American Legion Club of Wyandotte, Mich., coached by Stanley Hartman of Detroit, provided the sensation of the 44th regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen which closed here today by winning both junior and senior championships against respective crews of Canada and the United States.

With the senior eight-oared championship goes the Hanlan Memorial Trophy, carried out of the Dominion for the first time last year by the Penn A. C. of Philadelphia.

By winning the junior class, yesterday the Wyandottes qualified for the final of the senior preliminary heats.

Winnipeggers were favorites after the class they demonstrated in eliminating the Toronto Argonauts in the first heat on Friday but the Wyandottes got the drop on them early in the race and had a full length before half a mile. They met every spurt by Winnipeg and increased their lead to four lengths rowing 41 strokes to the minute. Lachine was third by a length.

Walter Hoover, American sculling star, rowing under the colors of the Undine Boat Club of Philadelphia, carried off the senior singles championship, easily disposing of Johnny Durnan of the Argonaut R. C., Toronto, former senior champion, early in the race. Hoover finished leisurely on a margin of 10 lengths. Hoover was also victorious in the quarter mile dash over Nelson, a club mate, and Burns of the Toronto Argonauts. Durnan did not complete the dash.

SENIOR 150-POUND EIGHTS (Final)—Won by Lachine R. C., Montreal; second, Detroit No. 1; third, Argonauts R. C., Toronto; fourth, Detroit No. 2. (No time taken).

140-POUND EIGHTS (Senior)—Won by Detroit B. C.; second, St. Catherines R. C. Time, 8m. 21-5s. Only two starters.

QUARTER-MILE DASH—Won by Walter Hoover, Undine Barge Club, Philadelphia; second, Nelson, Undine Barge Club.

MISS WILLS IS PRESSED IN SEMIFINAL

American Champion, Trying Comeback After Operation, Forced to Deuce Set by Ordinary Players—Real Test Today.

By the Associated Press.

EAST HAMPTON, N. Y., July 31.—Miss Helen Wills, national champion, reached the final round of the women's invitation tournament at the Maidstone Club today, defeating Mrs. Edna Roeser, Metropolitan district star, in a hard-fought match, 6—3, 9—7.

Miss Wills, who will meet Miss Mary K. Browne, another Californian, in the final matches tomorrow, was put to the severest test she has experienced so far in the tourney, her first competition since being operated on for appendicitis in Paris two months ago.

Mrs. Roeser was at the top of her game, extending Miss Wills at every turn, particularly in the second set, which was so closely fought that at the finish only two points separated the rivals.

Champion Hard Pressed.

Mrs. Roeser frequently upset Miss Wills with a hard-hitting, steady game, mixing her shots cleverly while the champion was alternately brilliant and ineffective, particularly in her overhead game.

The New York woman made uphill fights in both sets after trailing on games in each at 1—3. She was checked quickly in the first set but by forcing tactics, came close to capturing the second set. In this set, Miss Wills led at 5—3 on her own service but went to pieces momentarily and lost it at love. The tenth game was hard fought and went to deuce five times before the champion netted the deciding point, enabling her opponent to square the count.

Miss Wills Finally Rallies.

Service predominated thereafter until the sixteenth game, when Miss Wills rallied to break through and gain victory. In the last two games the California girl, instead of tiring under the strenuous pace, gathered strength and lost only two points as she swept her opponent aside.

The point scores of the match follow:

First set:
Miss Wills ..542 721 444—33—6
Mrs. Roeser.314 544 102—24—3
Second set:

Buffalo Wins Sectional Polo Championship

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 31.

BUFFALO defeated Dayton today, 8 goals to 3, for the championship of the Central Circuit of the United States Polo Association on the field of the Onwentsia Club. The victory entitles Buffalo to compete in the Inter-Circuit championship tournament at Narragansett, the middle of August.

The St. Louis four was eliminated in an early round by the Onwentsia four.

CARSON MACWILLIAMS WINS TITLE IN CANADA

By the Associated Press.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, July 31.—Carson MacWilliams, Calgary, won the Western Canada amateur golf championship final here today when he defeated Don Carrick, Canadian amateur champion, Toronto, 3 up and 2 to play.

Boot to Boot, hard held for first mile, moved into lead with rush when called on and, alertly ridden through stretch, held Display safe and was well in hand at end. Latter acted badly at post but was away well and kept a trailer for first mile, moved up strong when called on, but was not good enough. Black Maria was done after going mile and a quarter and showed a good effort. Smiling Gus had no mishap. Bolton quit badly.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HOMEWOOD, Ill., July 31.—Boot to Boot, the sterling son of North Star-Padula, that has heretofore been forced to play minor Derby parts to his more illustrious stable companions, Bubbling Over and Bagenbaggage, came into his own today in landing the $100,000 American Derby.

He won with consummate ease, from the Eastern invaders, Display and Black Maria. Smiling Gus finished fourth and the latter's stable companion, Bolton, fifth. Only five started.

E. R. Bradley, owner of the winner, received $89,000 as his share of the purse.

Jockey A. Johnson handled the Bradley representative and he avoided the mistake he made at Coney Island, which enabled Display to beat him out on that occasion.

Johnson's Skillful Ride.

Johnson's ride this afternoon was skillful—masterly, such as he is capable of putting up and which enables him to retain foremost rank in his profession.

While to Johnson is due much credit for the victory, still it was Boot to Boot that was the hero. He went about his task willingly, gamely and co-ordinated with every call of his rider. He responded to hard urging when threatened in the stretch by the menacing challenge of Display, and near the end showed more racing heart than his sturdy Eastern rival, and he was going strongly at the end with a desire to continue on. Display was hard urged, and he had to be in the last sixteenth to keep in the van of Black Maria. She raced forwardly from the start and at one stage of the race, about the mile and a quarter post, made a threatening move, but it was short lived. She was, however, much better than the Durnell pair.

The gross value of the race totaled $106,000, of which $10,000 went to the second; $5000 to the third and $2000 to the fourth.

Display Acts Badly at Post.

Display's bad post behavior was responsible for a post delay. The Salmon colt persisted in going the wrong way of the track, which prompted a facetious wag to remark: "He thinks he is at Belmont Park."

It finally required two assistant starters to bring him to the barrier and when the start was effected they were in good alignment with Boot to Boot in the van, but was immediately taken back to allow Bolton to make the pace.

Boot to Boot raced in close proximity with Black Maria following, Smiling Gus coming next and Johnny Maiben having Display as whipper-in. They raced in this order without apparent change for a mile, when Maiben tried to steal the lead by bringing Display from last place with a rush, but Johnson evidently sensed Maiben's ruse, for he called on Boot to Boot, seemingly simultaneously with Maiben's effort, resulting in Boot to Boot flashing into a long two lengths' lead and he retained that margin thereafter. When the actual racing began Bolton was lost compeltely, so badly was he outrun.

The time of 2:30 1-5 established a track record for the course and was in addition a meritorious performance on the part of the Bradley colt.

After the finish the din was deafening. The crowd gave lusty cheers for the colt and rider on their return to the stands, and again when Trainer Hurley, who has had charge of developing the colt, went into the stewards' stand to receive on behalf of Owner Bradley the ornate silver trophy. The presentation was made by President Sweitzer, who congratulated the owner, the trainer and the jockey on the magnificent victory and added the wish that the colt would achieve many more.

Boot to Boot, though having many supporters, was second choice, Display getting the bulk of play from Eastern quarters.

The absence of stars, however, did not detract interest from the big event. With Chicagoans it was Derby Day, the first in over 22 years and Chicagoans were bent on doing justice to the occasion and they did. They began journeying by every sort of conveyance at an early hour to Washington Park. The railroads had made extra preparations to handle the big crowd, but they were inadequate and the delayed ones missed several of the races, surrounding the Derby.

The clubhouse contingent was voluble and enjoyed the racing in ease and comfort. A messenger service was installed for their convenience in case they were speculatively inclined. The system seemed to work fairly well.

The overcast sky, which threatened a downpour at any time, did not seem to dampen the holiday spirit of the throng and they took their crowding and the attending discomfort in good natured style.

Bradley Horses Have Won 5 Derbies And About $250,000

THIS is E. R. Bradley year in the history of American turf. The Lexington horseman has enjoyed astonishing success in the biggest fixtures of the season with three great 3-year-olds, as follows:

Louisiana — BAGENBAGGAGE, BOOT TO BOOT.
Kentucky — BUBBLING OVER, BAGENBAGGAGE.
Latonia—BAGENBAGGAGE, BOOT TO BOOT.
Fairmount — Haste, BAGENBAGGAGE, BOOT TO BOOT.
Cincinnati—Crusader, Display, BOOT TO BOOT.
Ohio—BOOT TO BOOT, Bolton, Brazen.
American—BOOT TO BOOT, Display, Black Maria.

Bradley has won through Derby purses alone nearly $250,000. Yesterday's race was worth $89,000 to the winner. The Kentucky Derby $54,000, the Latonia $25,000, the Fairmount $25,000, Louisiana $17,000, the Ohio $10,000 and in addition he has collected second and third money aggregating $12,000.

By Herman Wecke

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

Walter Perry Johnson may be reaching the sunset of his illustrious major league career, but the "Fire Ball King" is still quite a pitcher. He proved that much yesterday when he twirled the Senators, 1925 champions of the American League, now floundering in the second division, to a 9 to 0 victory over the Browns. It was the sixth successive defeat for Sisler's men.

Johnson was supreme. He was the whole show from a Senator standpoint. He held the Browns to six hits and but nine members of the home tribe became base runners. So effective was Johnson that the Browns had but two real chances to score. In the second Miller tripled with one out, but a moment later he was caught at the plate. The Brownies packed the corners with one out in the third, but Johnson but on the brakes and stopped Sisler and Williams.

It was Johnson's second shutout of the season and the 112th during his career in the big tent.

At Best Toward End.

In the last six rounds but three members of the Browns saw the initial sack. Melillo was safe on Myer's high throw in the fifth, Miller singled in the sixth and Rice singled in the eighth. That shows how effectively the old fire ball king twirled in subduing the men of Sisler.

For a greater part of the time Johnson had the Browns popping the ball into the air. That this was true is evidenced by the fact that 14 home batters were retired on hoists. Johnson fanned four and walked but one.

The clash was decided in the first when the Senators scored four runs off Milton Gaston and drove him to cover. Ernie Nevers took up the burden and went the rest of the way. He was found for five runs and eight hits in the eight and one third rounds he labored. Three of the socks off him were good for the circuit, being pounded out by Goslin, Judge and Sam Rice. These four baggers accounted for all but one of the tallies off the former Stanford football hero.

Sam Rice, the man who caused the argument in one of the world's series games of 1925 as to whether or not he caught Earl Smth's drive in a clash which the Senators won, started all the trouble for Gaston after two were out in the first.

Miller Has Bad Day.

He hit a roller to deep short and beat it out. Myer followed with an ace to center and on Miller's fumble Rice took third. Goose Goslin hit a terrific foul into the right field stands and Gaston decided to pass him to fill the corners. Then Judge followed with a single and when Miller fumbled, three runs came over. Bluege followed with a smash to center and when Miller played it like a harness-maker it went for a triple and Judge scored the fourth run of the round.

One down in the Senator second, McNeely singled. Nevers took along windup and McNeely stole second. Nevers still paid no attention to the base runner and he pilfered third from whence he counted on Stan Harris' long fly.

Exit Sisler and Williams.

Johnson may be ageing, his star may be setting, but the old master still knows a bit about pitching. He indicated this in the Brownie third. With one out, Nevers and Melillo singled and Rice walked to fill the corners. Up came the Brownie punch. But Sisler's best was a pop to Myer, while Williams lined straight to Goslin and the homefolks were stopped without a run.

The Goose honked high in the fifth. It was in this round that Goose Goslin, recently suspended for indifferent play, caught one of Nevers' choice offerings and sent it over the right field pavilion for his eighth four-bagger of the year.

A round trip by Judge added one to the Senator total in the eighth. A pass to Harris and Sam Rice's home run accounted for the final Washington runs in the ninth.

Tom Zachary, veteran southpaw who has been one of the Browns' most consistent hurlers this season, will get a chance to oppose his old mates in the second clash of the series today. He will draw either Dutch Ruether, the Senators' leading flinger, or Youngster Murray, as his opponent.

Probably the smallest Saturday crowd of the season, estimated at but 4500, watched the nines do battle.

Sisler made a switch in the Browns' battle front, sending Gene Robertson to short in place of Gerber, who has not been batting the size of his hat of late.

Bing Miller had a tough time in center in the first. He missed singles from S. Rice and Judge and played Bluege's smash so poorly that it went for a triple. Whereupon Manager Sisler called a halt and went to the outfield for a conference with the athlete. The result was that the former athletic meadowman moved to right, with Harry Rice switching to center.

That it was one of those days when an athlete can do nothing right was indicated in the Brownie second. One out, Miller swatted a triple to right. McManus' roller eluded Bluege. Miller thought he had a chance to score, so he started, but Myers throw arrived yards ahead of him and once more the fans groaned.

But it was Bing's bad day. Even in right field he booted 'em, letting Bluege take an extra base on Johnson's single in the fourth.

Melillo took a base hit away from Stan Harris in the fourth when he raced into short center to take the Senator manager's fly while on the full run and his back to the infield.

Edward Chandler, Not Yet 21, On His Way to Tennis Title

Californian Who Probably Will Be Seen More Frequently in East Has Developed All-Round Game—Is Brilliant, Steady and Heady.

California's New Tennis Star

EDWARD CHANDLER.

By Helen Wills.

UNLESS all the signs fail, Edward Chandler is destined to become a champion within a season or two. This new star from California, who already holds the intercollegiate tennis championship, has stood out this season as one of the most promising of the younger players. His game, his style of play, his showing in tournament matches have marked him as one who is on his way to the highest honors. This spring he won the national intercollegiate championship tournament from a strong list of players. He also came out victorious, in the doubles, coupled with another young player from the University of California, Tom Stow.

Chandler has developed an all around game. He is as good at the net as in the back court. A fine service rounds out his game. His drives, forehand and backhand, are swift, sure and decisive; his volleys, fast and sharply angled, with a most deceiving spin; his service, speedy and well controlled. The pace of his shots, together with their steadiness, can be counted on to overwhelm any player who is the least bit erratic or who has any weak points at all in his game. Even now there are few players who can consistently win from him. He is a really dangerous opponent for the two or three of the best players of today. And he is yet to see his twenty-first birthday.

Studying in East.

Chandler probably will be seen more often on Eastern courts from now on where he is planning to continue his studies in law at Harvard. He has just been graduated from the University of California. Anyone who knows where Chandler learned his tennis thinks naturally not only of the university, but of the Berkeley Tennis Club. Last year all of the players on the university team were members of this small club. This year two of the players came from there. Edward Chandler and Tom Stow have played on the courts of this club since they first became interested in tennis.

I can remember having watched them play when I first became a member of the club myself, and having admired their games, which were unusually good for juniors. The junior members of this club have abundant opportunity for instruction and practice. For a number of years, William C. Fuller has been on the governing board and the head of the junior committee. It is due, in large part, to his genuine and untiring interest, that the younger players have had so much encouragement.

Interesting to Watch.

Chandler's tennis is interesting to watch. It is brilliant, yet steady and heady. It is always apparent that he is a thinking player. This is only natural. He became a Phi Beta Kappa in his junior year in college, and was graduated this spring with the highest scholarship standing of his class, which numbered into the thousands.

Chandler needs tournament play more than anything else. He has not had the time as yet for the many matches which are so important in giving experience to the tournament player.

Ruth's 33d Home Run Gives Yanks Tenth in Row

Sam Jones Gains 2-1 Verdict of Jim Edwards of White Sox.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 31—Babe Ruth's home run drive over the center field screen, his thirty-third of the season, gave the New York Yankees a 2 to 1 victory over Chicago today in a pitching duel between Jim Edwards and Sam Jones.

The Yankees scored their first run on doubles by Lazzeri and Dugan.

Chicago's lone marker resulted from Sheely's single and Falk's double.

The locals filled the bases in the ninth inning with none out as the result of Koenig's fumble and singles by Kamm and Schalk, but were unable to score, when one man was nipped at the plate, Mostil fanned and the next man grounded out.

It was the Yankees' tenth straight victory.

RICKARD CONFIDENT INJUNCTION WILL NOT PREVENT TUNNEY FIGHT

Interest in the Clements injunction proceedings, filed in Federal court here yesterday by former United States District Attorney Granby Hillyer, centered about a copy of what purports to be an agreement by Dempsey to the transfer of his contract with Floyd Fitzsimmons to fight Harry Wills, to the Chicago Coliseum Club, providing that the club has until Aug. 5, 1926, to pay the champion $300,000 and which was attached to the Clements applicatiaon for a temporary injunction.

The agreement further provides that an additional $500,000 must be paid the champion 10 days prior to his fight with Wills and bears the champion's signature dated at Chicago March 3, 1926.

When the application was filed, Judge J. Foster Symnes granted Dempsey 20 days in which to file his answer to the complaint.

The complaint further sets forth that the club has been ready at all times to carry out the terms of its agreement with the champion and that it also has sold since April 17, 1926, a total of $150,000 of tickets for the fight.

Moves to Bar Mixed Match in Illinois.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 31.—The Better Government Association of Chicago today petitioned the Illinois Athletic Commission to forbid a Dempsey-Wills fight for the heavyweight championship.

The petition announced the association was against match fights between any fighters of different colors, "especially in the instance of the proposed match between Jack Dempsey, champion, and Harry Wills."

TOLLEY SHOOTS 147 TO WIN AMATEUR TROPHY; TIES MITCHELL'S RECORD

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 31.—Cyril Tolley shot a 147 at Addington to tie with T. A. Torrence for the Golf Illustrated Gold Vase, which is one of the cherished amateur trophies in Great Britain.

His showing has rejoiced British golfers, who had about despaired of him after his elimination in the early rounds of the Muirfield championship, his drubbing by Bobby Jones on July 11, and a long string of other failures in recent years.

Tolley got back into the golfing limelight again by a remarkable first round of 70, equaling the amateur record for the course and the best professional mark made by Abe Mitchell. Tolley's showing was all the more interesting because he was erratic off the tees and took two penalty strokes.

Braves Win 2 Games From Reds; Andy High Stars

Boston Runs Winning Streak to 7 Straight—Donohue Beaten.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, July 31.—Before 16,000 fans, the Braves won both games from the erstwhile leading Cincinnati Reds this afternoon. The scores were 2 to 1 and 8 to 2.

The opener was won in the ninth with none out. The bases had jammed on Mann's double a single through the box by Moore and an intentional pass to Brown, when Andy High singled off Pinelli's shins, sending in the winning run.

The second game saw the Braves making their hits off Donohue count heavily. In the sixth inning Bancroft's double scored three runs, enough to win. His fielding, as well as Brown's hitting, were features. The Braves now have won seven straight, five of which have been from the Reds.

Sweetser Out of National Amateur

Health of American-Born British Champion to Keep Him Out of Competition.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Jess Sweetser, first American-born golfer to win the British amateur championship, will not compete in the American amatuer title event at Baltusrol, Sept. 13-18, according to his brother, Ted Sweetser.

The former Yale star, who returned in poor health from his European invasion a month and a half ago, has decided that further competition this year might endanger complete recovery from an attack of influenza and consequently will appear at the Short Hills, N. J., course merely as a spectator, his brother said.

Sweetser's decision to refrain from further play, a reversal of plans he announced shortly after his arrival, has led to the belief that his progress has not been as rapid as anticipated.

PETTY'S PITCHING AND FOURNIER'S HOME RUN WIN FOR ROBINS, 3-2

BROOKLYN, July 31.—The Robins, with Jess Petty on the mound, made it two straight over the Chicago Cubs today, by winning, 3 to 2. Petty pitched well and had brilliant support in the pinches.

Jack Fournier's eleventh home run of the season came in the first inning with a runner on base. Kaufmann pitched effectively after that but his mates could not overhaul the Robins. Two long flies pulled down by Merwin Jacobson in the eighth inning checked a threatening Chicago rally.

HOT & OFF THE BAT

By John E. Wray

Bell compensated to a large degree.

Odors From Denmark.

THE aroma rising from the Dempsey-Tunney-Wills tangle is not attar of roses to the tired business man's beezer. One gains the olfactory impression that all is not perfume in Denmark.

The opposition of the Chicago promoters to Rickard and now their filing of the injunction suit against Dempsey, indicate an attempt to hamper the title fight rather than promote it.

At this distance it is possible to see only sandbagging in the attempts of certain promoters to force a Dempsey-Wills fight into Chicago, immediately following the Illinois Commission's statement that it would not sanction ANY heavyweight fights in that city.

It may be suggested that, ere the way is cleared, Dempsey will have learned more about the high cost of getting injunctions withdrawn.

Just Prejudice.

RECENTLY Fred White, Negro member of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, telegraphed the New York commission chairman to "be careful of a fake Dempsey-Tunney fight." He adds:

"I'm told that Jack Dempsey, in conversation with one of our deputies, said that Tunney was no match for him and that Wills was the only man in the world able to give him a battle. Jack Kearns told our man that Dempsey fears Wills. I feel it my duty to protect the public."

All of which carefully conceals any reason for believing a Dempsey-Tunney fight a fake.

The affair may be a bad match, if Tunney is outclassed. But unless Dempsey laid down to his rival, there could be no crookedness involved.

And champions don't "lay down."

As to Dempsey being afraid of Wills, for several years, when Kearns was managing Dempsey, it was Kearns not Dempsey that prevented the champion from meeting the Negro.

Dempsey is not afraid of Wills. If he is afraid of anything or anyone it must be Mrs. Dempsey.

A Real Contrast.

W. A. BRADY says he will endeavor to promote a fight between Jack Delaney and Harry Wills in Chicago.

Brady is another misguided person. Not only is the Chicago commission opposed to heavyweight fights, but the Better Government Association of Chicago has requested the commission to bar fights between fighters of mixed races.

And if that is not enough, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Boxers might step in.

Delaney weighs at the most 170 pounds. Wills weighs 215, and we don't mean for publicity purposes. This man is all hard meat; to send a little shaver like Delaney into the Negro's grip is just about as sensible as sending little Stanley Ketchel against Jack Johnson.

Only, the discrepancy in Delaney's case is probably greater. Jack Johnson in those days stripped down to 196 pounds.

As a promotion thought, a Delaney-Johnson fight is just a brain storm.

Weight and Tonnage.

MANY will say: 'What difference does weight make, when a Dempsey can give 65 pounds to men like Willard and Morris, and put them down?"

It doesn't make a difference against men whose weight is fat and whose knowledge of fighting is crude.

But Wills is different. He is all muscle and has had wide and long experience. He could squeeze a smaller man like Delaney into submission without having to hit him hard. He twirled the 220-pound Firpo around like a drum major does a baton—almost.

Ketchel faced a real athlete when he met Jack Johnson. That was just a complimentary fight and not intended to be taken seriously.

Ketchel thought he would take liberties with the Negro. He tipped him on the chin harder than was agreed to, and down sprawled Johnson. The world's champion had been floored by a middleweight.

And then the fun began!

Johnson, angered, rose from the floor, made one lunge at the middleweight and, in the language of Jack Kearns, hung him on the ropes. He could have flattened Ketchel at any time during the bout, because weight meant power, to Johnson.

As between real athletes weight is everything. But some fighters merely carry excess tonnage and that kind of cargo is a handicap.

Wills, the stevedore, never carried a pound of excess.

Cards Lose Two Games; Bell's Batting Streak Ends

Johnston then batted for McMullen and Reinhart walked him intentionally in the hope that Barnes might hit into a double play. But Barnes never went to bat. McGraw called on Andy Cohen, a young man with a reputation for luck. Andy lived up to his reputation. He hit a hot grounder which would have been a fine starter for a double play it it had been a bit to the right or a bit to the left, but it whistled half way between Thevenow and Bell and continued into left field for a single, scoring Kelly and Jackson, Johnston stopping at second. Frisch flied to Southworth but Young hit a home run to right, the ball hitting the thin pipe which constitutes the foul line between the lower and upper decks of the stand.

Enough and Sufficient.

There were six runs, four more than were necessary to hand the Cardinals their second spanking of the afternoon.

Chick Davies finished for the Giants and was just as effective as Barnes. Holm batted for Reinhart in the eighth and singled to left and after Blades had flied out, Flowers walked, but Hafey, up for Southworth, flied to Tyson and Bottomley flied to Young.

In the ninth, Douthit singled with one out but Vick fouled out and Thevenow forced Douthit at second.

Haines Stays Too Long.

McGraw's men overcame a six-run lead to win the first game, Hornsby laying himself open to criticism by permitting Haines to remain on the hill until the Giants had tied the count and filled the bases in the sixth inning. The attack on Haines was not a sudden outbreak, as the New York sluggers were taking a toe-hold and belting Jess to all corners of the lot throughout the earlier innings.

Blades and Flowers started the game with singles and Southworth's sacrifice fly scored Blades. Bottomley then singled, sending Flowers to third and Bell's sacrifice fly scored Flowers.

In the third Greenfield was wild and ineffective and the New York defense cracked and the Cards put over four more runs. Blades started the inning with a home run against the screen between the upper and lower decks of the left field stands. Then Frisch fumbled Flowers' grounder, giving Jake a life. Southworth singled to center and when Mueller fumbled the ball, Flowers continued to third and Southworth took hecond. Bottomley struck out, but Bell walked, filling the bases, and Douthit cracked a single to left, scoring Flowers and Southworth and sending Bell to third. O'Farrell lined to Tyson, but Thevenow singled to left, scoring Bell. Douthit hesitated after rounding third and was run down between third and home.

Jackson Hits for 4 Bags.

In the third the Giants started their drive toward victory, Jackson opening the bombardment with a home run to left.

McMullen then whistled a single to right. Ott batted for Greenfield and was called out on strikes, and Frisch flied to Douthit, but Young singled to left, scoring McMullen, and Lindstrom singled to right, sending Young to third. Lindstrom then stole second and when O'Farrell threw into center field Young scored. Haines then turned back the Giants until the sixth, though he was hit hard in each inning.

Kelly opened the sixth with a single past Bell and after Mueller flied to Douthit, Jackson singled to right. Terry then batted for McMullen and drew a pass which appeared to be intentional. This filled the bases. Johnston batted for Ring and popped to Flowers, but Frankie Frisch came through in the pinch, shooting a double to right, scoring Kelly, Jackson and Terry with the tying runs. After Young's infield single and a pass to Lindstrom filled the bases, Haines was taken out and Sothoron retired Tyson to end the inning.

Frisch Delivers Again.

Hallahan pitched the ninth and turned back the Giants in order, but the Cards could do nothing with Scott. In the ninth Bottomley opened with a single to left, but Bell flied to Mueller and after Douthit singled, putting Bottomley on second, pinch-hitters Toporcer and Holm flied to Tyson to end the game.

Grover Cleveland Alexander probably will pitch for the Cardinals tomorrow in the fourth game of the series. McQuillan is due for the Giants.

TILDEN BAFFLES HARADA AND GOES TO METROPOLITAN FINALS

WILL PLAY RICHARDS FOR TITLE

Japanese Makes Poor Showing After Having 4—1 Lead in First Set—Olympic Champion Downs Dr. George King.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—William T. Tilden, national titleholder, advanced to the final round of the Metropolitan tennis championships today by crushing Takeichi Harada, the Japanese Davis Cup star, in the semifinal match, 7—5, 6—1, 6—2.

After being compelled to exhibit one of his typical uphill fights to win the first set, Tilden baffled his opponent with chops, forcing him to net the ball time after time in the remaining two sets.

Harada had started brilliantly in the opening set by spurting into a lead of 4—1 and 5—2. Here the champion rose to the peak of his game with varied and powerful attacking shots which had the Oriental star racing desperately around the court in a vain effort to stem Tilden's rush.

Vincent Richards qualifies to face Tilden in the title round tomorrow by vanquishing Dr. George King of New York, 6—4, 6—4, 7—5, in the other semi-final match.

The Olympic champion outsteadied the conqueror of B. I. C. Norton from the back court and no shot of his opponent seemed out of the range of his flashing racquet. At the net, Richards was invincible, cutting off King's terrific drives for spectacular placements to the corners.

Tomorrow's final will bring Richards and Tilden together for the third time this season.

In the doubles matches Tilden and his protege, A. D. Weiner, outstroked the former intercollegiate champion, Phil Neer, and Lucien E. Williams, 6—4, 8—6, 6—4, and Richards, pairing with Hunger, defeated King and Watson M. Washburn, 6—3, 6—3, 6—4.

Tilden's victory over Harada put the Philadelphian in position to extend his 1926 march of triumph to five consecutive tournaments. The national titleholder has swept through the New England, middle states, clay court and Longwood tournaments without defeat, and his masterful exhibition of stroking today indicated that Richards will face a different Tilden tomorrow from the player he defeated twice in Florida.

Miss Ryan Wins In Tennis Final

Californian Beats Miss Goss, 6-0 6-3, in Essex County Club Tourney.

By the Associated Press.

MANCHESTER, Mass., July 31.—Miss Elizabeth Ryan of Santa Monica, Cal., defeated Miss Eleanor Goss of New York, 6—0, 6—3, in the final of the women's invitation tennis singles at the Essex County Club here today, and thereby won a leg on the challenge cup offered as a trophy.

Meeting Miss Goss for the fourth time, Miss Ryan, by her decisive score, confirmed her position as second ranking woman player of the country.

The Challenge Cup was offered for the first time last year and was won by Miss Helen Wills, national champion. Miss Ryan has now an equal standing for permanent possession, but three tournament victories are necessary to clinch it.

The point score of today's match follows:

First set:
Miss Ryan ....444 454—25—6
Miss Goss ....122 231—11—0
Second set:
Miss Ryan.. 544 441 224—36—6
Miss Goss.. 133 114 440—21—3

Miss Ryan won her second victory of the day when, teamed with Miss Eleanor Goss of New York, she defeated Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., and Miss Martha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J., 9—7, 8—6, in the final of the women's doubles.

Miss Ryan made a clean sweep of the finals by teaming with Howard G. Chandler, Berkeley, Cal., to win the mixed doubles event, 6—1, 6—4. Their opponents were Mrs. J. D. Corbiere, Boston, and Bradshaw Harrison, San Francisco.

Bell and Norton Will Play Today

Final Round in Doubles of O'Fallon Park Tournament Also Scheduled.

William Bell will meet Robert Norton in the final round of the O'Fallon Park Tennis Club tournament this afternoon. The match was postponed until today owing to an injury suffered by Bell in a recent accident. This afternoon's contest will be the best three out of five sets for the C. R. Welker trophy.

In the final round of the men's doubles event in the regular O'Fallon Park tournament Ted Drewes and Robert Norton will play William Bell and Harry Schaberg for the title. This match is scheduled to start at 8:30 a. m.

Play in the men's singles event has reached the third round. Two very close matches were played yesterday in the second round. In one of them R. Norton surprised with a victory over Ed Serrano. The former city champion led at 5 to 3 in the third set, when Norton braced, evened the score and took the set, 7—5, and the match. R. Meckfessel won from H. Bensieck in the other close battle, 6—8, 8—6, 6—4. The summary:

Men's Singles.

Second round—H. Schaberg defeated C. Blumentheip, 6—2, 6—0; R. Norton defeated Ed Serrano, 4—6, 6—4, 7—5; E. Koch defeated M. Schroder 6—2, 6—2; H. Wiese defeated R. Dickhaus by default; W. Bell defeated G. Harrison 6—1, 6—3; R. Meckfessel defeated H. Bensieck 6—8, 8—6, 6—4; W. Probert defeated E. Leiding by default.

ILLINOIS STUDENT SOLDIERS WIN SWIM MEET AT BARRACKS

In the swimming meet at Jefferson Barracks yesterday afternoon, Illinois students in the Citizens' Military Training Camp took every event except second in the 100-yard free style dash, which place went to W. L. Wilson of Imboden, Ark.

By process of elimination among the 1600 boys in camp, only the best swimmers competed in the small pool. The results were as follows:

40-YARD DASH, BACK STROKE—First, G. P. Ralph, Belleville, Company I; second, H. R. Driemeyer, Herrin, Ill., Company F; third, G. H. Burkhart, Benton, Ill., Company F. Time, 33.1s.

100-YARD DASH, BREAST STROKE—First, C. L. Barnes, East St. Louis, Ill., Company F.; second, A. B. Proctor, East St. Louis, Ill., Company F; third, L. F. Baer, Belleville, Ill., Company F. Time, 1m. 38.3s.

100-YARD DASH, FREE STYLE—First, G. P. Ralph, Belleville, Ill., Company I; second, W. L. Wilson, Imboden, Ark., Company C; third, D. Overbeay, Staunton, Ill., Company K. Time, 1m. 11.3s.

BEST SWIMMER—First, G. P. Ralph, Belleville, Ill., Company I; second, C. L. Barnes, East St. Louis, Company F; third, H. R. Driemeyer, Herrin, Ill., Company F.

Company F, composed of all Illinois boys, won the meet with 17 points and Company I was second with 15 points, all of which were made by G. P. Ralph of Belleville.

As a preliminary to the contest, M. J. Pickering of the Coliseum Athletic Club gave an exhibition of diving and there was a comedy act by Misses Mabelle Le Clerq and Evelyn Stark and Dick Rawdon, Gerry Specht and Clifford Gentry.

Century Crews Get Chance To Prove Worth Today In Municipal Regatta

Eight-Man Teams to Meet Test on Creve Coeur Lake—First Event at 3 P. M.

On the basis of the showing made by the local boating clubs in the Central States Amateur Regatta last week, the eighth annual Municipal Rowing Regatta to be held at Creve Coeur Lake this afternoon promises some keen competition. The crews seem evenly matched, although the representatives from the St. Louis Rowing Club have sculled past crews from other clubs in several meets this year.

The race that will be most closely watched this afternoon will be the mile eight-oared shell race, in which the Century Boat Club will strive to maintain its claim that it deserves another chance to compete with the Lincoln Park Boat Club of Chicago. The Lincoln crew won the Central States amateur regatta last Sunday, piling up an overwhelming score against the St. Louis teams. If the Century crew wins this afternoon's eight-oared race, it is probable that the team will go to the Chicago Tribune regatta to be held this month.

The Century eight-man team will also try to prove its contention that it will make a good showing in the National amateur regatta in Philadelphia.

The St. Louis Rowing Club showed itself to be a worthy competitor when it finished third in the point score in the Western regatta last week, leading all the other local crews with a point score of 55.

For the first time in the history of the Municipal Rowing Association, of which Marion F. Parker is chairman, the crews in today's races will be numbered, so that identification by the spectators will be made easier.

There will be five races, the first starting at 3 p. m., and the others following every half hour thereafter.

The program of the races and the crews follows:

MERAMEC RIVER SWIM SET FOR NEXT SUNDAY

The St. Louis Athletic Club's fifth annual men's three-mile handicap swim over the Meramec River course is just one week off. Entries for the men's race will close Tuesday evening, Aug. 3.

The men's three-mile handicap will start from Millismon's Landing, just south of the railroad bridge at Valley Park, and finish at Stite's Landing, Meramec Highlands, Sunday afternoon, Aug. 8. The race will start at 4 p. m.

The women's race, a one-mile handicap, will be held the following Sunday afternoon, starting at the lower landing of Pharaoh Valley and finishing at Kieffer's Beach Meramec Highlands.

All participants must make application for registration cards in the Western A. A. U., which may be obtained from Robert Probst, 3301 Washington boulevard. Swimmers desiring to enter these events should communicate with Al Winter or Dr. Frank Demko, 1321 South Broadway.

Sir Harry Wins Kindergarten

Equals Blue Bonnets Track Record; Closing Day Draws Biggest Crowd.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MONTREAL, Que., July 31.—Sir Harry, the good-looking son of Wildair-Ballotade that races for the Seagram stable, equaled the track record for five furlongs at Blue Bonnets this afternoon when he won the Kindergarten Stakes, the feature race of the closing day's program of the Montreal Jockey Club's first summer meeting. Ridden by Erickson and carrying top weight, Sir Harry won in hadsome fashion, beating Evermore out by a length and going away at the end. Outrun in the early stages, Erickson nursed Sir Harry under slight restraint until making the turn into the homestretch, where he came through on the inside and wearing down the tiring pacemaker, Listerine, shook off opposition the last 70 yards. Evermore was second by a neck. The first quarter was made in 22 3-5 and the half mile in :47 flat. The five furlongs were run in .59 4-5.

Sir Harry's victory meant a clean sweep of the stake events run at the Blue Bonnets meeting for the Seagram stable.

Edisto, the victor of the Windsor Hotel cup on the opening day and Duchess then followed it up by winning the Connaught cup and then came Sir Harry's win of today's feature. An immense gathering turned out to witness the sport. The attendance was by far the largest of the meeting.

The Montreal Jockey Club has decided to give a ladies' day at its next meeting and Thursday, Aug. 26 has been set aside for this occasion.

OSAGE COUNTRY CLUB PLANS TO HOLD ITS OPENING DAY AUG. 15

The formal opening of the club building of the Osage Country Club, now under roof and nearing completion, will take place about Aug. 15, according to an announcement of Nelson Cunliff, president. He also announced that 350 golf and swimming lockers had been installed and were now ready for use.

The club building, erected of native stone on the brow of the hill overlooking the Meramec Valley, is one of the finest in the country, and will contain every facility for the comfort and to meet the needs of the members and their guests. Following the opening, full club facilities will be provided, including complete dining service. Manager Gund is now making arrangements for the most efficient service possible to be rendered in the new club building.

Cunliff stated that the membership roll of the club was increasing at a rapid rate. He said that some of the most prominent persons in St. Louis and St. Louis County had affiliated with the new club.

All other club facilities, including the golf course, construction on which is moving rapidly, will be provided with the same promptness shown in the construction of the swimming pool and club building, and without any unnecessary delays, Cunliff said.

High School Grid Games at Two Fields This Year

Single games at fields in North and South St. Louis, instead of the football double-headers which were the rule in the High School League last year, have been decided on for the 1926 season, during the wait for construction of the Public School Stadium.

Present indications are that work on the proposed horseshoe athletic field will not start until late in the fall and that it will not be ready for use until the autumn of 1927, and the two-field program has been adopted as one that will attract more spectators to the gridiron games than the old practice of twin bills at the Cleveland Field, way to the south of town.

Bleachers at Beaumont.

This year's plan calls for regular single games at Cleveland field and at Beaumont feld. Authorization has been given the building department of the Board of Education to erect temporary bleachers at the field of the new Beaumont High School, at Natural Bridge and Vandeventer avenues.

Failure of students to attend baseball games at the South Side field in large numbers was the deciding point in adoption of a change for the football season. Basketball doubleheaders at the South Side school have drawn good crowds, but they are played at night. It is believed that with two football fields, more accessible, will result in bigger attendances at the gridiron contests.

Plans for Stadium.

At the last meeting of the Board of Education, R. M. Milligan, Commissioner of School Buildings, submitted the first definite report on the stadium-to-be.

As has already been stated the field is to be of "horse shoe" form, with a playing field for football, baseball and soccer. A running track 20 feet wide will encompass the field, the track being one-fourth of a mile in length.

The permanent stands will seat 15,000 with a provision that 10,000 more can be accommodated in bleachers passing around the north circle. There will be no stairways to the permanent seats, but ramps are expected to eliminate congestion and confusion.

Below the seat decks will be four ticket offices, quarters for two contending teams, and space for concessionaires.

The estmatie cost of the stadium—which is to be on Kingshighway, near St. Louis avenue, is $325,000.

Definite authority probably will be given the Building Department to let bids for the concrete work late in October, by the Board of Education at its next regular meeting.

BERNAU ENGAGES IN LONG-DISTANCE SWIM AT NEW COLISEUM

Herbert Bernau Jr., long-distance swimmer, who is now training here for an attempt to establish a new world's record for continuous swimming, will endeavor to swim continuously for 12 hours in the New Coliseum tank in a training workout which he started at 10 o'clock Saturday night. Fred Miller, a member of the New Coliseum A. C. squad, volunteered to accompany Bernau during the endurance test.

Announcement was made last night that Dave Fall, Leland Stanford University student who finished second in the fancy diving competition at the National A. A. U. aquatic meet in Philadelphia last Friday, will visit St. Louis tomorrow as a guest of the New Coliseum A. C. Fall dropped off here a week ago on his way to Philadelphia and held a practice workout at the New Coliseum tank. He finished a close second to the famous Des Jardins in the national championships. In 1924 Fall won runner-up laurels for America in the Olympiad at Paris.

Girls' Indoor Schedule.

The following games will be played Tuesday evening on the Forest Park drill grounds in the Girls' Municipal Indoor Baseball League:

Grounds 4, Wagner Electric vs. Wabash Club.
Grounds 1, Purina vs. Sherman.
Grounds 3, Mo. Pac. vs. Rexall.

SENIORS.

Grounds 2, Bachelor Club vs. Southern All Star.
Grounds 5, Teddy Baehr vs. University City.

PHILADELPHIA, July 31.—Four doughty mermen sporting the tri-color of the Illinois Athletic Club swam the fastest half-mile ever recorded in swimming history today, when the relay quartet of the Chicago Club shattered the world's record, winning the National A. A. U., 880-yard relay championship in 9:48 3-5.

This performance boosted the point total of the I. A. C. to 39 points and gave it an outstanding margin to win the 1926 national team title. Just prior to this feat Johnny Weissmuller, crack sprint marvel of the club, captured the national 100-meter title.

Continuing his brilliant diving form of yesterday, Peter Desjardins, Miami, Fla., springboard and platform genius, won the concluding number of the four days' program by piling up a triumphant margin in the fancy diving competition from the 15, 24 and 30 foot platform.

Spence Puts Team Second.

Due almost entirely to the all-around ability of Walter Spence, the Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A., placed second in the team, scoring with 17 points, while Desjardins' ability in the diving events gave Miami, Fla., third place, with 10 points. Cincinnati Y. M. C. A. was fourth, with nine. Other clubs to score points follows: Leland Stanford University, 6; Uniontown, Pa. Y. M. C. A., 5; Honolulu, 2; Pasadena, 1; Duquesne Library Club of Pittsburg, 1; New York A. C., 1, and Los Angeles A. C., 1. Harry S. Glancy of Philadelphia, swimming unattached, piled up five points in the meet.

In winning the half-mile relay the I. A. C. swimmers shattered a record they already hold which was made in Newark, N. J., Sept. 19, 1923. At that time the team consisted of Johnny Weissmuller, Perry McGillivray, Kruger and Wallen, and they negotiated the distance in 10:05 2-5.

Two Still on Team.

Two members of the same team which established that mark three years ago swam for the club today, Weissmuller and McGillivray. The others today were Albert Schwartz and Arne Borg. Borg, who shattered two world's records in winning two national titles, carried the anchor burden for the victorious team and he was timed in the furlong at 2:22 1-5 to win the event by 60 yards. Walter Spence was pitted against him for Brooklyn.

Weissmuller won the 100-meter event with a two-yard margin over Walter Laufer of the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A. Weissmuller was clocked in 59 3-5 seconds to retain his national title in this event. Walter Spence was third.

Little Peter Desjardines of Miami, Fla., scored 100.11 points to retain his championship in the fancy diving tests from three platform levels. David Fall of Leland Stanford University, who placed second to Desjardines in the springboard events yesterday, trailed in second place again today with a total of 99.21 points. Mickey Riley of the Los Angeles A. C. won third place with 88.93 points. Walter Cobath, lanky diver of Northwestern University, was fourth in a field of 10 starters.

During the four days' competition six new title holders were crowned, three world's records broken and three new American records were established.

With - - Rod and Reel

—By—

ALEC MERMOD

THE selection of the short bait casting rod does not require the same care as the choosing of a fly rod, still there are seceral points to consider.

First, don't buy a cheap rod, and choose one of split bamboo rather than steel, for, while costing more, they are superior in every way.

The rod must have a certain amount of "spring," but it must not be "whippy."

For general fishing a 5-foot rod is the proper length and built to handle a half-ounce weight.

It is not absolutely necessary that all guides be of agate, but the tip and butt guide should be of genuine agate or you will soon ruin your line.

2-Piece Rod Popular.

While better results will be obtained from a rod of one piece, it is not so convenient to carry, so most fishermen use a 2-piece rod. Do not choose one made with three joints or you will not get the proper action.

While the rod is mentioned first, the reel is the most important item. There are several good makes on the market costing from $10 to $35. If you want results, do not pay less than $10 for your reel.

Some reels are equipped with a level winding device or antiback-lash feature or both, and the beginner who has had a little trouble in reeling in or with a back-lash is inclined to select one of these combination affairs.

The level winder does save a little when reeling in a fish, for one does not have to think of leveling his line, but the antiback-lash device does not amount to much.

Cheap Lines Expensive.

The expert caster does not use a reel with either attachment, as it interferes with the smooth running of the spool.

The next item is the line, and as this has already been gone into in a former articles will only add, don't buy a cheap line, and for anything except muskalonge, don't chose a line showing more than 15-pound test, 12 pounds is better, as the lighter line casts easier.

Fifty yards is as much line as you will need, and if the shank of the spool is small it is best to wrap this with some cheap line so as to increase the size of this shank, which will enable you to reel in much faster.

Locking Reel Seat.

The same care should be taken of the casting rod as that suggested for the fly rod.

Every little while when fishing bend your rod opposite to the strain put on it by casting. This will tend to keep the rod straight. A rod equipped with a locking reel seat will save a heap of worry and is to be chosen rather than one with the ordinary sliding seat.

Fishing news is scarce, for the hot dry weather has lowered the water in the smaller streams and driven the fish to the deeper holes in the larger streams.

Some very good catches have been made in the Meramec River near St.Clair, also in the Big Piney above and below Hazleton.

The Gasconade, near Hazel Green, has also afforded good fishing. Some of the catches have been made in the Illinois River near Sheldon Grove and in the various lakes.

8-Pound Rainbow Trout.

Grover Brigman of Montauk, at the head of Current River, sent in a photo of a rainbow trout taken by him which measured 27¼ inches and weighed eight pounds nine ounces. This is the prize of the season and was taken with a light fly rod.

Brigman did not mention the kind of line used, nor the time of the catch was made, but it is presumed that a live minnow was the attraction and that the catch was made at night, for the big fellows are night feeders, and do not rise readily to the fly.

When Brigman is not fishing he runs a feed mill, but will always take time to show his friends the best holes, and while he is not so situated that he can take care of any visitors he informs us that he will direct anyone to where sleeping accommodations may be had.

ROCK STAR COMES BACK TO WIN MILLER STAKE AT SARATOGA

SCAPA FLOW TAKES OTHER BIG FEATURE

Son of Man o' War, Making First Start, Captures United States Hotel Stake, With $10,000 Added.

By G. F. T. Ryall.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 31.—The Brookmeade Stable's Rock Star, which was left at the post in the Saratoga Handicap yesterday, got away in the Miller Stake and won the thirty-seventh renewal of that classic for 3-year-olds, at one mile and three-sixteenths, by a neck from W. M. Jefford's Mars, here this afternoon.

From the head of the stretch home it was a two-horse race, Mars and Rock Star battling it out with the field far behind the first two.

Only two horses, Mars and Nurmi, were named overnight, but Rock Star and Apostle were added later and then Nomad and Sir Stuart joined the company. Just before post time, Nurmi was scratched and Laura Dianti added, bringing the field to six runners. All this was caused by the absence of Crusader.

Rock Star got away winging when the break came. As they passed the stand the first time, Sir Stuart moved up and forced the pace, while Mars got into third place as they went into the back stretch.

Rounding the turn for home, Coltilletti drew his whip on Mars and the little son of Man o' War responded gamely, and as they straightened out in the stretch, it looked as if Mars would come on, but game as he was, Rock Star had something left and while Coltilletti was whipping as they passed the winning post, Callahan was hand-riding the winner. The time for the mile and three-sixteenths was 2:02 2-5, the fractional times being as follows, :24, :49, 1:14, 1:40 3-5, 2:01 2-5.

Scapa Flow Takes Stake.

Scapa Flow, a well-named son of Man O' War-Florence Webber, won the forty-third running of the United States Hotel stake and the manner in which he did it, though the field behind him was not particularly brilliant, forces one to think that he will go high for the juvenile honors. It was the more impressive as it was the first time the colt had faced the starter.

One of the clockers said early this morning, "When you see that horse run, you'll think it's his old man." Barring his color—he is a dark bay—he resembles his sire greatly. He acted like Man O'War at the barrier, too, breaking through several times. When the start came, Scapa Flow jumped off three lengths in front and increased this to five in the first quarter as he stepped the distance over a heavy track in 23 3-5 and the half in 47 1-5.

Candy Pan and Saxon tried to chase him but the Green Tree colt was under the whip at the half. Account, running in the Kilmer colors, ran over the others as they straightened for home and Coltilletti feeling his mount was beginning to hang a bit, started punching him. Scapa Flow responded and won well in hand by three lengths 1:14 2-5 for the six furlongs.

Walter M. Jeffords is $1152 richer because of the victory of Scapa Flow. The Miller Stake added $5050 to the winnings of the Brookmeade stable, the nom de course of Mrs. George Sloan.

R. T. Wilson, president of the association, furnished the winner of the opening race on the card, his Ethereal coming from behind the pace and beating Genuine, the favorite, by a head, over the seven-furlong route. Kilter was third.

The Green Tree Stable carried off the Shillelah Steeple Chase, the first of the features of the card. Erne II, which ran some fair races at that track, came back to the form he showed here a year ago and beat Thorndale in a driving finish. Saint Pancras, the favorite, was third. The last-named made most of the running but gave way to Thorndale and Erne II rounding the stretch turn.

Gunboat was prominent in the running until he stumbled at the middle jump in the back stretch the first time around and lost his rider, but not before Haynes did several circus stunts.

R. L. Gerry showed a smart two-year-old in Premier, by Ambassador IV, in the juvenile event that was fifth on the card. Premier was slow to a [illegible] but he came from behind way out in the middle of the track and beat Sunwina and the odds-on favorite, Broadside.

Pumpkin, the horse that started in Kentucky last fall, beat Banco Suivi, Profiteer and Laforte in the closing event at one mile.

Epinard to Kentucky Stud.

James Cox Brady has given Pierre Wertheimer permission to have Epinard make a few public seasons at his Dixiana Stud on the Russell Cave Pike in the neighborhood of Lexington and the noted horse, which made so many friends when he was over here for the three international races at Belmont Park, Aqueduct and Latonia, will be sent across the water in the near future.

It has been reported that Epinard is under lease to Brady but this is not so. How long the horse will remain here is for Wetheimer to decide, but with the franc at such a low point it is only natural to suppose that this country will yield a larger profit than France for some years to come.

Epinard's first foals are now weanlings and persons who have seen them say they are a fine lot. Among the mares bred to him last spring was Satin Slipper, by Sweeper II, out of Black Venus. This young mare was the stable companion of Epinard when he was here in 1924 and returned to Maras De Bessan with him. She is the property of Brady, who bought her from H. Eugene Leigh, who owned and raced her dam. It is Wertheimer's intention to confine Epinard's season to 35 mares and he will stand at a fee of $2000.

Erne II showed a good effort under competent handling, came with a rush through the final furlong, disposed of Thorndale and was kept under pressure to the end. Latter was rated along under steady restraint, moved up with determination the second turn of the field, assumed lead at last fence, but faltered in the final drive. St. Jancras showed a good effort all the way but stopped badly in the final quarter mile. Pink Star jumped well. Rip went evenly. Cherki was used up forcing the pace. He pulled up very lame. Gunboat lost rider at seventh fence.

Odds: Erne II, place, 3 to 1; show, to 5. Thorndale, place, 6 to 5, show, 1 to 2. St. Pancras, show, 1 to 4.

THIRD RACE—Purse $10,000 guaranteed. The United States Hotel Stakes, 2-year-olds, allowances, three-quarters mile. Start poor, won easily, place same. Went to post 4:07. At post 3 min. Winner, W. M. Jefford's b. c. 2, by Man O' War-Florence Webber. Trainer, S. P. Harlan. Time, :23 3-5, :47 1-5, 1:14 2-5. Value to winners, $11,525, $1500, $750.

†Dunmore	115	2	8	8	8	8	8	G. Fields	15-1

*Coupled. †Added starter.

Scapa Flow a rapid breaker, drew away into a long lead and won with speed in reserve. Account closed with good courage through stretch, but did not menace winner. Candy Pan showed a good effort all the way. Saxon began slowly, tired badly. War Eagle had no excuses. Mallard's Memory was as good as left. Dunmore broke in a tangle.

Odds: Scapa Flow, place 2 to 5, show 1 to 5; Account, place 5 to 1, show 2 to 1; Candy Pan, show 8 to 5.

FOURTH RACE—Purse $3500 added. Miller Stakes, 3-year-olds, allowances, one and three-sixteenth miles—Start good, won driving; place same. Went to post 4:31 p. m.; at post two minutes. Winner Brookmeade Stable's ch c 3, by The Finn-Hurakin. Trainer, G. R. Thompkins. Time, :24, :49, 1:14, 1:40 3-5, 2:01 2-5. Value to winners, $5050, $700, $350.

Apostle	111	5	5	3^{h}	5^{3}	6	6	6	F. Hastings	20-1

Rockstar, away fast, drew into an easy lead under steady restraint, raced in best going and outlasted Mars in final drive. Mars gained steadily, moved up with determination rounding stretch turn, was bearing out slightly through final furlong. Nomad was outrun first part, finished strong. Sir Stuart faltered at end, after being under a choking pull in the first six furlongs. Laura Dianti could never get up. Apostle was eased.

Odds: Rockstar, place 1 to 2, show 1 to 5; Mars, place even, show 2 to 5; Nomad, show 3 to 1.

FIFTH RACE—Purse $1000, 2-year-old maidens, allowances, five and one-half furlongs: Start poor; won driving; place same. Went to post 5:03 p. m., at post 5 minutes. Winner, R. L. Gerry's br. c. by Ambassador IV-Primula II. Trainer, G. M. Odom. Time, :24 2-5, :50, 1:08 4-5. Value to winners: $700, $200, $100.

Premier began slowly, improved his position on the outside, came with a rush through the stretch and drew away at end. Sunwina, off slowly, moved up with determination and weakened in the final sixteenth. Broadside raced Moramine into defeat but tired in the final furlong. Billie Burke away slowly. Royal Play showed a flash of early speed. Lord Chaucer raced well. Excess broke but was taken up when he swerved.

Odds: Premier, place 8 to 1, show 4 to 1; Sunwina, place 3 to 1, show 7 to 5; Broadside show 1 to 6.

SIXTH RACE—Purse $1000, Cooperstown Purse, 3-year-olds, allowances, one mile—Start good; won easily; place driving. Went to post at 5:30 p. m. At post 2 minutes. Winner, F. Flight	110	7	9	9	9	9	9	L. Schaefer	22.80

Magic Wand raced prominently from the start and, hard urged in stretch, moved up to win with much in reserve. Peekaboo gained steadily in stretch and finished going gamely. Counsellor Connolly, badly ridden, and raced wide entire trip, lost much ground and held on well in stretch. Kop the Coin began tiring badly after reaching the stretch. Kings Court II began slowly and closed a good gap.

$2 certificates earned: Magic Wand, straight $5, place $3.40, show $2.60; Peekaboo, place $3.80, show $2.80; Counsellor Connolly, show $2.50.

SECOND RACE—Purse $1200, 2-year-olds, claiming, five-eighths mile—Start good, won easily, place driving. Went to post at 2:18 :at post 1 minute. Winner, J. S. Taylor's ch f 2, by Golden Broom—Utopia. Trainer, J. T. Taylor. Time, :24, :48 1-5, 1:01 3-5. Value to winners, $950, $150, $100.

Daradei	104	5	6	6^{1}	8	8	8	C. Churchman	111.90

Golden Top, under a hustling ride and from a fast beginning, moved into a long lead at once, and, hard urged near end, outstayed Foreclose. Latter sulked in early stages and was completely out of it, but closed a big gap in stretch and would have won in a few strikes. Gabaldon began swerving badly in last furlong and just lasted for third place. Erla Lee III tired in last furlong. Cheval showed a good effort. Betty Ball quit.

$2 certificates earned: Golden Top, straight $4.40, place $2.30, show $2.40; Foreclose, place $2.30, show $2.20; Gabaldon, show $3.40.

Prickly Heat	107	2	6	8	7^{4}	8	8	T. Kerske	44.60

Super Frank, much the best, and racing in top form, raced under stout restraint until final quarter, where he quickly disposed of Dedans and was drawing away fast at end. Dedans had fine early speed but tired slightly under a weak ride. Nelljo, well handled, saved much ground and finished fast. Brunswick raced well to stretch, where he weakened badly. Rejuvenation made up some ground last quarter. Marvin May ran a poor race.

$2 mutuels paid: Super Frank, straight $4.60, place $2.40, show $2.20; Dedans, place $2.80, show $2.40; Nelljo, show $6.20.

SECOND RACE—Purse $1400, Avondale Purse, 2-year-old colts and geldings maidens, five-eighths mile—Start good, won easily, place driving. Went to post at 2:45 p. m.; at post 1 minute. Winner, W. F. Bunthorne	118	7	5	6^{h}	4^{h}	$5^{\frac12}$	9	F. Sharpe	9.50

*Coupled.

King Basil, easily best, broke fast, but was forced back when Turquoise bore out and Creek Indian came in at first turn, raced under restraint until stretch, where he easily disposed of Creek Indian to win going away. Latter came in sharply soon after start, pinched winner back to get to front, where he showed good speed, but could not cope with winner in stretch. Turquoise was away fast, but bore out, and rider could not give him best effort. Croatan made up a gap. Mr. Kirkwood and Frank Dugan tired.

$2 mutuels paid: King Basil, straight $6, place $2.80, show $2.60; Creek Indian, place $2.40, show $2.20; Turquoise, show $4.20.

THIRD RACE—Purse $1400, 3-year-olds and upward, claiming, one mile and 70 yards—Start good; won driving, place same. Went to post at 3:13; at post one minute. Winner, T. C. McDowell's br. f., 3, by Manager Waite-Ebony. Trainer, S. Chenault. Time, :23, :47 1-5, 1:12, 1:37 3-5, 1:42 1-5. Value to winners, $1025, $230.75, $120.50.

High Prince	115	6	7	$6^{\frac12}$	7	7	7	7	E. Taylor	7.40

Choice, away fast and racing well, raced wide while making pace under reserve, disposed of Lady Bountiful and held Lady Von safe in last sixteenth. Latter, forward factor throughout, and probably best, moved to leader with a rush near end and was rapidly getting to front. Lady Bountiful saved ground, forcing winner's pace and only tired last sixteenth. Longchamps had no mishaps. Delegate was badly ridden. High Prince bore out entire trip.

$2 mutuels paid: Choice, straight $7.00, place $3.80, show 3.20; Lady Von, place $4.60, show $3.60; Lady Bountiful, show $5.20.

FOURTH RACE—Purse $1700, Oakley Purse, 3-year-olds and upward, allowances, five and one-half furlongs—Start bad; won easily; place driving. Went to post at 3:45 p. m. At post 5 minutes. Winne,r G. Deviner	101	5	6	7^{1}	8	8	8	C. Yates	204.50

Myrtle Dee slowly worked way to front in first furlong, took good lead racing against steadying restraint, drew out last turn and, although lightly shaken up near end, had something in reserve. Rosbec, prominent factor from start, saved ground coming into stretch and finished with good speed. Supremus, fractious at barrier, broke fast and held on well, although racing wide. Malvina B. unruly at barrier, gave a good effort. Teak and Silver Song broke slowly on the inside and were never prominent.

$2 mutuels paid: Myrtle Dee, straight $4.40, place $3.20, show $2.20; Rosebec, place $4, show $3; Supremus, show $4.

FIFTH RACE—Purse $5000 added. Cincinnati Times-Star Handicap, 3-year-olds and upward, one and one-sixteenth miles—Start good; won easily; place driving. Went to post at 4:22 p. m. At post 1 minute. Gibion	109	8	5	$3^{\frac12}$	6^{3}	6^{3}	6^{3}	8	W. Pool	9.10

Helen's Babe, racing in top form, sprinted into lead without effort and gave exceptional speed, and, after drawing away at last turn. Finished racing easily. Marconi kept well up from the start, went wide at last turn but finished with a rush. Traymore, timidly ridden, was a forward factor throughout, saved ground and was going well at end. Sir Peter was in a jam at first turn and gave an even race. Leo Cotner tired badly in last quarter. Chilhowee sulked. Mount Beacon was almost knocked down soon after start.

$2 mutuels paid: Helen's Babe, straight $8.20, place $5.20, show $3.40, Marconi, place $23.60, show $12.00. Traymore, show $5.20.

Vernon	101	5	4	5	5	5	5	E. Benham	18.70

Polly Sue, hard urged to get to front, sprinted into safe command and, giving speed, needed only light urging to hold Krick safe. Latter broke fast but dropped back, then came fast last three furlongs and was slowly getting to winner. Royal Julian finished full of run after saving ground all the way. Murzim showed a flash of speed.

$2 mutuels paid: Polly Sue, straight $4.00, place 2.80, show 2.40; Krick, place $3.60, show $2.80; Royal Julian, show $2.80.

Repeater, under a well-timed ride, raced within close range of lead until last three furlongs, came with good speed under a hard ride. Blarneystone, much the best, was away slowly, lost much ground improving place, and, after being blocked several times in stretch, finished fastest of all. Richelieu raced War Franc into defeat, took good lead but tired. Dr. T. S. Dabney had a rough trip. Phil McCann tired. War Franc had speed for a half mile.

$2 mutuels paid: Repeater, straight $33.60, place $10.40, show $7.60; Blarneystone, place $3.00, show $3.60; Richelieu, show $8.40.

New Record Set By Helen's Babe At Coney Island

Headley's Fine Filly Runs O[illegible] and One-Sixteenth Miles in 1:42 2-5.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, July 31.—Sen[illegible]tional was the performance [illegible] Helen's Babe, Hal Price Headl[illegible] 3-year-old homebred bay daugh[illegible] of Brown Prince II-Helen Barb[illegible] when she won the Cincinna[illegible] Times-Star Handicap, the feat[illegible] attraction at the Coney Island [illegible] track today, running one and [illegible] sixteenth miles in 1:42 4-5.

This clipped one-fifth of a second off the track record and missed the American turf record for the distance established by Dot at Belmont Park on Sept. 7, 1923, by [illegible] three-fifths of a second.

At the finish Helen's Babe [illegible] eight lengths in front of Marc[illegible] and she was only galloping. [illegible] she been the least bit urged [illegible] could have equaled the world[illegible] mark with little difficulty. Ma[illegible] coni beat Traymore —— and [illegible] half lengths for the place, whi[illegible] the latter was a length to the [illegible] of Sir Peter.

Eight made up the contest, [illegible] ing it a net value of $5275. [illegible] second horse's share was $1000, [illegible] third $400 and the fourth $200.

Jockey Les Pichon was astr[illegible] Helen's Babe and he sent her [illegible] about her business right off [illegible] reel. It was plain to be seen af[illegible] the first quarter of a mile [illegible] there was nothing much for [illegible] Headley filly to worry about. [illegible] ran the first quarter in :23, [illegible] mile in :46 1-5, three-quarters [illegible] 1:10 4-5 and mile in 1:36. At [illegible] end of the first five furlo[illegible] everything behind the leader [illegible] enough and especially those wh[illegible] had raced closest to her. The [illegible] guard began to move up turn[illegible] for home and Marconi displa[illegible] more staying qualities than any [illegible] the others. Traymore showed [illegible] good effort.

Chilhowee was highly fa[illegible] for this race on the strength [illegible] recent good trials, but he ran [illegible] disappointingly. He broke go[illegible] but going to the first turn he [illegible] very wide and could never get [illegible] a contending position. Jock[illegible] Freddie Sharpe worked hard [illegible] him, but to no avail.

This marked the second sta[illegible] win for Helen's Babe this summ[illegible] She triumphed in the Quick[illegible] Handicap at Latonia and beat [illegible] high-class field. She finished [illegible] ond to Arcady in the Cincinna[illegible] Handicap, a $5000 added sta[illegible] here, on the opening day.

SUNLIGHT NINE JOINS LIST OF MUNICIPAL PENNANT WINNERS

CENTURYS TRIM TOWER CAMPS IN BIG UPSET

Western Cops Flag in Y. M. C. A. League and Maplewood Browns in Employed Boys' Organization.

The Sunlights clinched the pennant in the Manufacturers' League yesterday by swamping the Friscos, 21 to 4. With only two weeks of play left in the municipal baseball circuits, the lead of the Sunlights is insurmountable.

Aug. 15 will make the close of the season and the eliminations are scheduled to start Aug. 21.

A playoff game may be necessary in the Commercial League due to the victory yesterday of the fast Century club over the Tower Camp nine, resulting in a deadlock for first place. Each team is slated to play weak contenders in the remaining two weeks and it is likely that the tie will stick.

Luke Abkemeier's hurling held Tower Camp in check, although he eased up in the final stages. He allowed five hits. The score was 3 to 1.

Western won the pennant in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial League.

The Maplewood Browns copped the final elimination game from Home Service, 15 to 0, and won the flag in the Employed Boys' League. Huff allowed the losers only two hits.

In the first of a three-game series between the split season winners in the Wagner Electric League, the Starters scored in the ninth and won over the Office, 8 to 7. Kirkpatrick's timely safety with the bases loaded put the game on [illegible]

DATE OF FLOWERS-GREB MATCH PUT BACK TO AUG. 19

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The 15-round return match for the middleweight championship between Tiger Flowers, Georgia Negro holder of the title, and Harry Greb of Pittsburg, former king of the division, was postponed today from Aug. 12 to Aug. 19 at Madison Square Garden. Matchmaker Jess McMahon announced the postponement after granting the request of Flowers' manager for a week's delay to permit the champion to have more training time.

PLAYERS ENTERED IN COUNTY NET EVENT

Forty-five players have entered the St. Louis County tennis tournament which starts next Saturday afternoon, according to A. B. Lynn, who is receiving entries for the event. The entry list for the singles will close Aug. 5. Players residing in St. Louis County who desire to enter may do so by communicating with Lynn, whose address is 217 Selma avenue, Webster Groves.

The county championship will be held on the courts of the Kirkwood Country Club. Men's singles matches will start Saturday afternoon. More than 25 teams are expected to compete in the men's doubles event. Among the recent entries in the singles are those of Walter Finger, Joseph L. Werner, William Bierman, Richard Rosebrough, Proctor Wright, Hunt Albert and Harvey Frohlichstein, all district tournament players.

HORNSBY'S ANSWERS

(1) Bases full. Catcher drops the third strike and touches home, claiming a force out. Is he right? 2) Pitcher in position. He feints toward first with his left foot but delivers to the batter. Is it a balk? (3) Pitcher, in position facing batter, ges his signal from the catcher and then throws to first to catch the runner. Is it a balk? (4) Runner on first. Pitcher, watching runner out of corner of eye, makes his windup and then throws to first. Would that be a balk? (5) What is the "infield fly?"—C. O'G., Christopher, Ill.

(1) Not unless there are two out. If less than two are out the batter does not become a base runner, since first base is occupied.

(2) Yes.

(3) If he has not started his windup he may turn and throw to first.

(4) Yes.

(5) The "infield fly" rule applies when first and second are occupied or the bases are full, with less than two outs. It provides that under such conditions the batter is automatically out if he hits a fly that may be handled by an infielder, provided the umpire calls it. It is designed to protect the base runners from a deliberate muff of pop flies in order to force the runners at the next base.

MACKS END LOSING STREAK BY TAMING DETROIT TIGERS, 9-6

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., July 31.—The Philadelphia Athletics broke their losing streak here today, when they won the opening game of the series from the Tigers by the score of 9 to 6.

Jack Quinn started for the Athletics, but was relieved by Grove in the seventh. Wells started for Detroit, and was succeeded by Dauss, and later Smith took the place of Dauss.

BERLENBACH-McTIGUE FIGHT IS POSTPONED

NEW YORK, July 31.—So that he will have more time for training between fights, Paul Berlenbach has gained a postponement of his match with Mike McTigue from Aug. 18 to Aug. 25, at Ebbets Field.

This clash between two former holders of the light-heavyweight title is one of an elimination series planned by Promoter Fugazy to determine a challenger for the new champion, Jack Delaney.

RING GOSSIP

In spite of numerous obstacles, it appears that the Kaiser-Steadman bout at Kennett, Mo., Tuesday night will go through as scheduled. Kaiser, apparently fit and strong, will depart tonight. There was a hitch over the posting of forfeits but Kaiser will prove his eagerness to fight by getting on the scene 36 hours before the battle.

A young fellow who represented himself as Joe Dundee, contender for the middleweight boxing championship, appeared at the Marshall Theater last week. About the time the management learned "Dundee" was an imposter, the boxer canceled his engagement. The real Joe Dundee is top notcher in his class.

Leo Heyman, matchmaker for the Mercantile A. C., will not book a show at Sportsman's Park until he can line up first-class talent, he said yesterday. Phil. D. C. Ball, owner of the Browns' park has granted Heyman permission to put ringside chairs on the field and the promoter will entirely rearrange ring location for his next show.

In spite of the fact that he has been unsuccessful in a half-dozen previous battles with the same opponent, Frank "Rough House" Nelson will have a lot of followers in his wrestling bout with George Tragos, Wednesday evening.

Pete Gonzales, local heavyweight boxer, will compete in the inter-regimental boxing tournament at the National Guard encampment at Nevada, Mo. Pete enlisted yesterday. Sergeant Mannie is in charge of athletics for the 138th and he is looking for good boxers to represent his outfit.

Solly Kessler, who not long since was one of the most promising of local boxers, has forsaken the ring for a position as assistant buyer for a ladies' apparel house. A rather abrupt change in vocations.

Bicycle Trials Here Today for National Event

Two Missouri Riders Will Qualify at Fairground for Championship Meet at Philadelphia.

By William M. Martin.

The State district eliminations in the Amateur Bicycle League championship will be held at 9 o'clock this morning at Fairground.

The winners of the senior and junior events will be sent to Philadelphia to compete in the national championships on Sept. 13, 14 and 15.

The national event was held in St. Louis last September and was the greatest local cycling event in the past 25 years.

Bechtel Now a Senior.

John Boulicault was St. Louis' senior representative and Olin Bechtel junior last time. Bechtel will ride as a senior this year. He is one of the best unpaced riders in the district.

Kansas City has entered three seniors of whom William Burns has shown best. Kansas City has also entered four juniors and expects Jimmy Mance to have easy sailing.

Belleville has entered three juniors and three seniors. The juniors are unknown and may spring a surprise. The seniors are all well known—Moser and Wolfe are given a chance. Wesley Everhart, the lone rider from East St. Louis, will ride as a junior.

Murphy Fast Junior.

The following riders are eligible to ride as juniors (under 16 years of age):

J. Becker, L. Murphy, L. Williams, H. Riddle and W. Schulz from St. Louis. Jimmy Mance, Carl Hoodinivle, Eugene Mitchel and Porter Wright from Kansas City. Leroy Hasenstab, Theodore Lemkemeier and Edward Sainteve from Belleville, Ill.

The Seniors—John Boulicault, Chester Nelsen, Roy Ulrich, W. Boulicault, G. Cherkain, Olin Betchel and Richard Suever from St. Louis. William Burns, Howard Kirrich and Frank Earheart from Kansas City, Mo. Joe Moser, John Wolfe and Henry Beelmann from Belleville.

There will be a one-fourth mile, a one-third mile and a two-mile open and a one-mile individual unpaced for the juniors, while the seniors will ride a one-third mile, a mile and a 10-mile open and a five-mile individual unpaced.

The winner in each event will score 5 points, second, 3 points, third, 2 points, and fourth, 1 point. The rider scoring most points in each class will make the trip to Philadelphia. Should a tie occur in points a match race will be run to settle it.

55-YEAR-OLD GOLFER WINS NEW ENGLAND TITLE FROM YOUNGSTER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NAYATT, R. I., July 31.—Francis C. Newton, 55-year-old golfer of the Country Club, Brookline, Mass., became amateur golf champion of New England here today when he defeated Edward S. Stimpson, captain of the Harvard golf team, on the thirty-ninth hole of a scheduled 36-hole match after trailing to the thirty-fifth hole.

LOS ANGELES RUNNING AWAY WITH PENNANT

PORTLAND, Ore., July 31.—With Los Angeles far out in front in the Pacific Coast League pennan trace, talk of a split season for the Coast League's long season is again going the rounds.

The Angels, with a well balanced team under the able managership of Marty Krug, have not lost a series since April and there appears to be slight chance of heading them.

Suggestions are also being voiced for a four-club playoff at the end of the season for the championship, the four highest clubs in the standings to enter.

Despite the fact that Portland has had three teams, one coming, one playing and one going, for the past month, they are still hopelessly in the rut. Roy Meeker, diminutive southpaw, remains the club's only winner and Stanwood Baumgartner, from the Athletics, and Gorham V. Leverette from the White Sox, have failed to win games as they were slated.

Wins State Golf Title.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., July 31.—Dave Ward of Big Rapids, just a month out of high school, won the Michigan amateur golf championship today, defeating William Courtney of Detroit, another 18-year-old, 6 and 5, over the Lochmoor course.

Wells of Tigers Has Shown Best Pitching Form

With Ordinary Club, He Was Not Scored On for 32 Innings.

Detroit southpaw, "Big Boy." But not so many months ago it probably was "Big Bum." Edwin Wells is one of those pitchers who stepped right from the college campus to the American League. He joined the Tigers last year, coming from Bethany. He was big and strong. He had made a great record in the collegiate ranks. But that was as far as his baseball experience went.

At the start of the 1926 campaign Ty Cobb figured on Wells as a regular. So he started him the first chance he had. This happened to be April 19 against the Browns. Wells was chased from the hill in five rounds, the Browns scoring three runs and five safeties and the Tigers and Edwin Wells lost the ball game.

Wells Is Demoted.

Thereupon Wells was sent back to the ranks of apprentices. He was no longer a regular. When he worked, it was as a relief man. And at this he succeeded none too well for a time. But in baseball, as in every other pastime, a man always has a chance. Wells waited for his. It was a long time coming, but come it did.

It was after Wells had done some sensational relief work in five clashes that Ty Cobb decided to give Wells another chance to see what he could do as a starter. These relief efforts on the part of the southpaw, which gained him another chance as a starter came as follows:

June 17, against Athletics, 0 runs and 3 hits in 7 1-3 innings.

June 20, against Washington, 1 run and 8 hits in 6 1-3 innings.

June 27, against Chicago, 1 run and 5 hits in 4 2-3 innings.

June 30, against Chicago, 0 runs and 1 hit in 2-3 inning.

July 1, against Browns, 0 runs and 0 hits in 3 innings.

In those five games, in which he worked 22 innings, he yielded but two runs and 17 hits. That was pitching. Better hurling, in fact, than was being served by any other member of the Detroit staff. Even Ty Cobb sat up and took notice.

Gave 14 Hits in 3 Games.

So on June 2 Wells was given a chance to start. This time Wells made good. He shut out the Indians and then followed the greatest exhibition of hurling turned in by a major leaguer this season. His next two outs, those against the Senators and Red Sox, also resulted in shutouts. In the three tilts the enemy made but 14 safeties. And from that day, June 2, Wells has been a regular.

That he has succeeded is shown by his record. He has won nine games and lost but three, a winning percentage of .750, since the day he stepped on the hill and blanked the Indians with five safeties. In the stretch he has pitched nine complete battles, indicating that it pays to wait and pay strict attention to the task at hand.

Wells' scoreless inning record had to come to an end and it did in the third inning of a battle against the Athletics, June 17. But prior to that, the former Bethany College left-hander had chucked 32 2-3 rounds in which the opposition failed to get to the plate. That's the best record of the year.

For the entire year, Wells owns a mark of 11 victories against seven defeats. He has pitched 151 innings and in that time the opposition has scored 56 runs, an average of 3.33 a game. The safeties off him number 136. He has fanned 59 batters and walked 51.

Career Just Beginning.

Wells stands 6 feet 2 inches and is 26 years of age. Thus he should be good for several years to come.

If the Tigers get anywhere in the 1926 race and Wells continues his great pitching he is apt to get some votes, along with Bob Fothergill, another Detroit star, in the American League's most valuable trophy competition.

BABE RUTH ALL-AMERICA TEAM COMPETITION STARTS TODA

READERS HAVE OPPORTUNITY TO WIN TROPHIES

Contestant Whose Selection Most Nearly Coincide With Babe's Will Merit First of Three Prizes; Performance for 1925 Sole Basis of Choice of Players.

Babe Ruth, premier home-run hitter, aided by the opinions of baseball critics from all the major league cities, will again select an all-America nine and readers of the Post-Dispatch are invited to see how close they can come to the Babe's choice.

Suitable prizes, which will be announced later, will be awarded the winners, the winner of the first prize getting in addition a Ruth bat, containing his own name and the Bambino's autograph.

The contest starts today and will close Aug. 31. Ten players, two pitchers and eight other men, must be chosen and the one duplicating Ruth's choice will be awarded first prize. If several contestants pick the same winning team, the winner will be determined on the basis of the 100-word explanation and reason for the selection, which must accompany each selection. Don't forget that explanation and make it logical. It may win for you. And keep it under 100 words.

RUTH

A Few "Dont's."

The winning contestant must not only pick the same players as Ruth, but must also have them placed in the same positions.

The chief "don't" is that Ruth, himself, must not be selected for the team. Another is that no player may be selected for a position in which he has not played this year. However, if he has played once in that position, he is eligible for choice. George Kelly of the Giants is a case in point. He is a regular first baseman, but has also played second base. This makes him eligible for both positions.

Contestants last year violated this rule frequently and numerous selections were thrown out for this raeson alone. The mistake was particularly prevalent in regard to outfielders. Put your outfielders in the proper field!

A thorough knowledge of baseball and close attention to the progress of the pennant races in both leagues are needed to make a good choice. The element of chance is nil as Ruth's and the sport writers' team has come to be recognized as the official team of its kind. If you pick the same club they do, it will show you know baseball and will not be due to luck.

Task Demands Skill.

This season, in particular, the all-America team is going to be tough to pick. Ruth expects it to be the hardest job of the kind he has yet tackled. This is due partly to the dearth of talent manifest in the major circuits and partly to the slump of many of the major stars.

Consider the case of Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Cardinals, and the only player in baseball who has made the all-America four consecutive times. Will Hornsby make it five straight this year? It is doubtful. Injuries and managerial duties have taken a big toll in Hornsby's services and his right to the place is challenged. Eddie Collins has also had a bad year and Frisch has not been at his best. This will be the hardest position for both Ruth and the contestants. Hornsby? Collins? Frisch? Or?——

St. Louis fans will also find lots of grief at first base. Neither Bottomley or Sisler has been at top form and players like Lou Gehrig and George Burns loom large.

Remember that records in past years do not count. The players' performances during the current season alone will form the basis of their right to a place on the All-America team.

Rules Governing Babe Ruth All-America Team Contest

ANY reader who mails to the Post-Dispatch betwen Aug. 1 and Aug. 31 a team of 10 players (except Ruth himself) in the National and American Leagues for the season of 1926, with a letter of not more than 200 words, explaining the selection of the team, is eligible to compete.

The reader whose team—two pitchers and eight men in the other positions—is the same or nearest Ruth's selection and is accompanied by the best letter giving reasons for the choice, will be declared the winner.

The contest winner must not only select the same 10 players as Ruth, but must assign them to the same 10 positions on the team.

Players may be placed in positions other than their regular places provided they have played in those places in at least one regular league game in 1926.

Players must be selected on the basis of their playing in 1926, NOT on records made in previous seasons.

In case no team is exactly the same as that selected by Babe Ruth, the one nearest will be named on the merit of his accompanying explanation.

There will be suitable trophies, to be announced later, awarded the winner, runner-up and third best selection and letter.

In addition, Babe Ruth himself offers an autographed bat to the winner of the first prize. The bat will also be inscribed with the winner's name.

Non-Conference Contests With Vanderbilt and Kansas Aggies Scheduled.

By the Associated Press

AUSTIN, Tex., July 31.—Capt. Mack Saxon and his Texas University gridiron mates this fall will play through one of the most attractive schedules ever arranged for a Longhorn eleven.

Contests with four of the most powerful and colorful of the Southwest Conference teams—Rice Institute, S. M. U., Baylor, and Texas A. & M.—headline the card. The Kansas Aggies of the Missouri Valley Conference and the Vanderbilt Commodores of the Southern are other combinations expected to force the Longhorns to the limit.

The other three games should be interestingly close, with the Oklahoma Southwest Teachers College, Phillips University of Enid, Okla., and Southwestern University of Georgetown affording the opposition. Last year, his first as coach at Southwestern, "Lefty" Edens turned out a stalwart grid machine, and his 1926 combination should also earn respect of all opponents.

Suppression of Catholics In Queen Elizabeth's Reign Finds Parallel in Mexico

Laws of 16th Century England Much Like Those Enacted by Benito Juarez, "Lincoln of Mexico," in 1857.

THE recent action of the Mexican Government in reviving the laws against the Catholic church, drafted as far back as 1857, has a historical parallel in the persecution of the English Catholics in the reign of Queen Elizabeth and of her successor, James I. The manner of stripping the church of much of its ecclesiastical authority is so much alike in both cases that the earlier laws might have served as patterns for the statutes enacted during the presidency of Benio Juarez, "the Lincoln of Mexico."

The Mexican Government insists that all clergymen register themselves and their churches, that no foreign priest shall officiate in Mexican churches, that religious instruction must not be given in the elementary schools, that convents and monasteries be closed and deprives foreign-born priests of the right to administer the sacraments.

Under Juarez all male religious orders were suppressed and the ecclesiastics were reduced to the status of the secular clergy. In addition to abolishing convents and monasteries, he forbade the wearing of the habit of a suppressed order. All church property reverted to the State, and books, paintings and antiques were ordered to be given to museums and libraries. The ancient right of sanctuary in churches was abolished.

One Governor Ordered All Priests to Marry.

The State chose queer means to enmesh the church in a network of laws. The use of church bells was regulated by police ordinances. Religious instruction was forbidden in the schools, but as a curb upon the education of young Mexico the law added, "* * * * but morality will be taught." Last year the Governor of the State of Tabasco ordered all priests to marry if they would continue their ecclesiastical duties, which would, of course, necessitate their breaking the vow they took on entering holy orders.

These laws, however, were not enforced. The church was permitted to retain its land "on sufferance" and allowed to conduct services unmolested. Mexico, 90 per cent Catholic, was loth to proceed so harshly against the church and President Carranza in 1919 publicly promised to "make an honest effort to amend the laws infringing on religious rights."

Protestant and Catholic Persecutions in England.

Catholics in England in the late sixteenth and early seventeenth century were not so fortunate. Angered at his excommunication by the Pope, Henry VIII closed the convents and monasteries of England and instituted a persecution of Catholics. The laws he enacted were well calculated to make the Catholic clergy and laymen as uncomfortable as possible.

At his death the laws were repealed by the Catholic Queen Mary and a similar persecution of Protestants set in. In three years 279 persons were burned in various parts of England for heresy and treason to the church, or crown. Those who had aided Henry in his fight with Rome were punished.

The accession of Elizabeth, following the death of Mary, presaged an outbreak of the persecution far more bloody than that conducted by her father. The statutes he had established were revived, and the queen demanded that her subjects pledge allegiance to the Act of Supremacy which conceded the ruler to be "the only supreme governor of this realm, in all spiritual and ecclesiastical things or causes as well as temporal."

The Rack in the Tower Was Seldom Idle Then.

To subscribe to this Catholics would be forced to forego their spiritual allegiance to the Pope and many of them refused. Fines and imprisonment followed and at one time those who refused to take the oath were guilty of trea-

Millikan Rays Pierce Lead That Defies X-Ray

Originate Not on Earth, But in Great Universe Beyond the Atmosphere—May Be Breaking Up of Atoms Composing Stars.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 31.

AN account of the powerfully penetrating rays newly discovered by Millikan will be included in the next Smithsonian annual report, on the compilation of which the institution is now engaged. These new rays are invisible, but, like X-rays, can penetrate metals. A thin sheet of lead, however, as everybody knows, will stop X-rays. Millikan's rays will travel through a layer of lead six feet thick.

It seems that all space is alive with these new rays. They do not originate on the earth, but come in to us with the velocity of light from the great universe beyond the atmosphere. Probably they are formed in the breaking up of the atoms of which the stars are composed.

No one can yet foresee in what remarkable ways they may come to serve us.

Faraday's "New-Born Babe."

When Faraday in 1831, demonstrated before the Royal Society that all that was necessary to obtain an electric current was to move a wire across the pole of a magnet, a woman in the audience asked him of what use the experiment was. That discovery, as we know, formed the basis of all modern electrical machinery. Faraday replied, "Madam, will you tell me of what use is a new-born babe?"

Faraday's babe has grown up into a giant now. So it may prove with Millikan's.

The extraordinary penetrating power of the new rays depends on the extreme shortness of their wave length. Ordinary broadcasting radio, or Hertzian rays, as everybody knows, have waves from 100 to 3000 meters.

Langley years ago found rays in the sun's and moon's beams, quite invisible to the eye, of a wave length of a hundredth of a millimeter—that is, 100,000 times shorter than 1000-meter radio. German scientists later found that rays ten times longer than Langley's are sent out by special lamps, and they extended the radio region all the way from the usual wave length down to as short as one centimeter, or 1000 times Langley's longest. The late Prof. Nichols, who died so tragically on the day the National Academy of Sciences building was dedicated at Washington, closed up the gap entirely between the longest lamp rays and the shortest radio rays.

Length of Light Waves.

Light, such as we see with, consists of rays between the length 0.0004 and 0.0007 millimeters, and sun rays contain all varieties of rays from 0.0003 to 0.014 millimeters in wave length. Shorter sun rays than 0.0003 cannot reach us because in the high atmosphere and longer rays than 0.014 millimeters are cut off by the water vapor which pervades the air.

Air, indeed, even when freed from these gases, is very opaque to still shorter rays than 0.0003 millimeters. Yet by using vacuum apparatus Schumann, Lyman, Millikan and others have traced the lamp spectrum back to 0.00001-millimeter waves and beyond.

After this we come directly into the domain of the X-rays used in hospital practice. They run to 100 times shorter still, or about 5000 times shorter than yellow light. The new rays which Millikan has found are 2000 times shorter in their wave-length than the average X-rays. What a gamut from these to radio! Yet all are alike in being just waves and differ only in wavelength. Some few affect us as light, but most are wholly invisible. We may call them the obscure cousins of light.

All of these discoveries in the extension of the spectrum have occurred within the last 50 years. Each of them as it came along got into the Smithsonian annual report of its year.

Speeches Never Delivered Fill Three Special Issues of Congressional Record

WASHINGTON, July 31.

IN the back of the regular issues of the Congressional Record, following the actual report of debates in the Senate and the House is the "Appendix," the repository for unspoken orations before a phantom audience. Of doubtful value under ordinary circumstances, its abuse by unscrupulous office-seekers reveals how Representatives and Senators will take advantage of their perquisites.

Congress adjourned Saturday, July 3. Since that date, however, three special issues of the Record have appeared, totaling 361 pages, filled for the most part with political speeches that were never delivered in either house or with non-political speeches delivered elsewhere but having little or no connection with legislation.

Figuring the cost of publishing at the low Government price of $24 a column, it has been calculated that these speeches, unuttered in either chamber, cost the Government approximately $18,600. This is only the first cost, for the same speeches will be broadcast under Congressional frank with a subsequent cost to the Postoffice Department.

The explanation for this tremendous flood of political bunk is simple. This is election year and the candidates of both parties are cutting down their campaign expenses. There is a tacit agreement between the two parties that use of the Congressional Record privileges shall be one of the petty grafts for members seeking re-election. Many of the alleged speeches are frankly pleas for re-election.

Outgrowth of Privilege for Revising Remarks.

THIS practice is the direct outgrowth of the "extension of remarks" privilege granted to Congressmen. Originally planned that members might revise the stenographic report of debates, it has degenerated to a point where a member can obtain recognition on the floor for one minute and insert into the Record a speech that would take several hours to deliver. If all the speeches dated July 3 in the additional numbers of the Record had been delivered on that day, Congress would still be in session.

The usual introduction to these long specimens of rhetoric and undelivered oratory is "Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to avail myself of the extension of remarks privilege granted to me by the unanimous consent of the House," and then follows column after column of bombastic bunkum.

Other introductions are not so frank and the unsuspecting constituent might adduce that the speech beginning "Mr. Speaker, despite the gloomy prophecy of pessimistic Democrats, the Fordney-McCumber bill has been a tremendous revenue producer, etc.," might believe that his Congressman had spoken before an enraptured audience. Still others state exactly what they are, such as "My Third Annual Report to the Citizens of the Thirty-eighth Congressional District of New York." These are followed by a resume of legislation, together with the vote of the Congressman.

Leaders of both parties in both houses have made an institution of printing party propaganda in the Record. At the adjournment of Congress, Republican Floor Leader Tilson inserted in the Record the altruistic work of his party, and Democratic Floor Leader Garrett answered with a "tain't so" and claimed all the credit for the good legislation for his party. The same thing happened in the Senate, with Senators Warren and Smoot spreading the glad tidings for the Republicans, only to be met with denials from Senators Robinson, Simmons, Heflin and Harrison for the Democrats.

> Cost to Government of Printing of 361 Pages of Bunkum Is $18,600 and Further Expense Will Come When They Are Mailed Under Frank to Aid Office Holders Out for Re-election.

To a disinterested observer it would seem that this propaganda should be paid for by the parties' national or congressional committees.

Speeches Not Bearing on Pending Legislation.

BUT by far the most pusilanimous practice is that of publishing in the Record speeches the Congressman or his friends have made hundreds of miles from Washington, bearing no relation to pending legislation. The worst offenders are the members who usually address empty benches when they do make speeches on the floor.

For instance Representative Brooks Fletchor (Dem.) of Marion, O., used several columns of the Record to report a speech he made in Philadelphia before the National Education Association. Some of his subtitles were, "Your Invitation a Coveted Honor," "The Five Processes of Becoming Somebody," "Shielding Our Grownupishness," "Seventeen Years Working at a Hobby," and finally, "The Mental Equipment of the Statesman Needs Revision." He omitted to mark the points of applause.

It should be noted here that only within the last several years have the members been denied the right to insert "Applause" in their undelivered speeches.

The bone-dry evangelist, Representative William David Upshaw of Georgia, was another offender. Never a blushing violet, even when soliciting paid speaking engagements from the Antisaloon League, he overstepped his usual audacity when in his speech on "The Child and the Moving Picture," before the same educational convention, he recorded the following panegyric: "How treasured the gracious word of President J. C. Woodward of the Georgia Military Academy, when after I had spoken for 30 minutes to his gallant boys on 'The Power of Purpose,' he rose and said, 'I was just thinking when Mr. Upshaw was speaking how I would that some great-hearted, far-visioned man or woman who believes in endowing institutions would catch the vision of endowing a man and make it possible for our friend and Congressman to go all over America and carry his message and inspiration to students everywhere.'"

Barkis was willing for such a subsidy. Upshaw continued, "Frankly, my friends, I wish somebody would, for what would be a congressional crown compared with the boundless opportunity for touching humanity and building with you every day the pillars and guardians and defenders of our Republic." That come from the man who unsuccessfully tried to "touch" the Antisaloon League for $75 for two speeches in a Washington church.

Another member who took advantage of his perquisite was former Gov. Richard Yates of Illinois. In the three additional issues of the Record, he had five speeches which never echoed through the House, yet, which cost the Government $657 to print. One of these was actually delivered at the Memorial day exercises at Rock Island. It contained long portions of 12 different poems.

67 Columns of Memorial Against Maternity Bill.

PART of the Appendix is made up of other than alleged speeches. Senator Ralph Cameron (Rep.), Arizona, who is a candidate for re-election this fall, inserted into the Record newspaper articles telling the plans for pageants to be held at Casa Grande and Florence in his State.

The palm for this sort of thing, however, goes to Senator Thomas F. Bayard (Dem.), Delaware, whose father and grandfather were Senators. Without objection he was allowed to insert in the Record a memorial from the Woman's Patriotic Publishing Co., against the Phipps-Parker Maternity Bill which ran 67 columns. This cost the Government exactly $1608. In addition to this cost, there will probably be the added cost to the Postoffice Department for carrying it as franked matter.

Another dodge to get publicity was employed by Representative George J. Schneider (Rep.), Wisconsin. He was allowed to print in the Record his "testimony" before the Senate Special Wet and Dry Committee. This "testimony" to all appearances was merely a statement to the Special Committee and had already been printed in the published report of that committee.

Similar to this was the compilation of Representative Carl Hayden (Dem.), Arizona, collating 14 columns of printed testimony before the House Appropriations Committee on "The Thurberia Cotton Boll Weevil." In his introduction, Hayden protested against reducing the appropriation for scientific study of this interesting animal from $12,600 to $7500. His compilation cost the Government approximately $330.

Senatorial courtesy is not to be outdone by Congressional courtesy, particularly when the Government pays the bills. Representative Martin L. Davey (Dem.), Ohio, was one of the speakers at a State Democratic rally in Columbus, and when he returned to Washington he inserted in the Record not only his own speech, but also those of T. E. Dye, chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee, Senator William H. King of Utah and Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy. These speeches ran 22 columns. The amount saved the Democratic party was at least $528. The speeches will undoubtedly be franked.

Missouri Congressmen Help Each Other Out.

MISSOURI Congressmen like to help each other out. When M. A. Romjus (Dem.) of the First Missouri District spoke over the radio on "Our Theory of Government," his friend, Representative C. C. Dickinson of the Sixth Missouri District, had the speech inserted in the Appendix.

But true Southern courtesy resides in the Senate. Senator Fletcher of Florida was unable to be in the Senate one day and he asked his colleague, Senator Trammell, to do him a favor. The junior Senator acquiesced and at the request of Fletcher inserted into the Record an eleven-column speech by one Charles A. Towne on "Some Duties of a lawyer as a Citizen."

Who ever first called the back of the Record an Appendix had a gift for apt expression. Year by year it is getting larger. When the human vermiform appendix, which likewise performs no useful function, becomes swollen, the surgeons demand that it be cut out. Perhaps that is what will happen to its legislative namesake—but it will take some stronger anesthetic than ether to keep the little Congressmen from raising a squawk.

Amended Criminal Statutes Of New York Operate to End Uncurbed Flaunting of Laws

Special Attention for Habitual Offenders and Violators of Bail Privileges, and Co-ordination of Police Record-Taking and Filing.

By W. BRUCE COBB,
Former Magistrate, City of New York.

NEW YORK, July 31.

DURING the progress of the recent legislative session at Albany many bills designed to reduce the great number of crimes of violence were enacted into law. Indeed, seldom has the Legislature been so fruitful in this kind of law-making. Heretofore the laws passed having to do with crimes and criminals have been mostly in favor of criminals by way of giving them greater privileges, especially in devices to shorten their sentences. This year it was quite the contrary, since the worm, in the shape of an acutely suffering and outraged public, turned.

All in all, these legislative activities expressed a popular determination that the lawmakers should do something worth while to curb the lawbreakers, something—to be more specific—which would more surely incarcerate the professional criminals for long terms, even up to life, and compel them to stay where they were put.

Some people merely saw in these changes in the law the creation of new or increased punishment better fitted to the crime and the criminal. Others saw in them the hope that longer imprisonment would deter others from crime. Still others saw in them the protection of the community by separating from it as long as possible those persons who by reason of the seriousness and repetition of their crimes had demonstrated that they were enemies of society not to be trusted at large. The two latter viewpoints are without doubt the more sound, since it avails the community but little to punish merely for punishment's sake.

To render our criminal laws more effective it was necessary to find improved ways of catching offenders, more certain and swifter means of prosecuting them, and in the case of habitual offenders, sentences of long duration which would mean what they said.

Parole Abuses.

There was especially widespread revolt against paroling prisoners and a strong demand for the total abolition of the parole system, which was condemned rather because of weaknesses in the laws governing it and in its official administration than because of sound reasons against the principles of parole as applied to actual first offenders. The puzzling time reductions of "commutation" and "compensation" came in for a just share of popular disapproval, since in some cases a criminal was out almost before the public knew he was in, and in some cases the longer he was sentenced the sooner he got out, that is, in proportion to his sentence.

The result of these popular demands for greater security has become largely crystallized into legislation which is to be found in the laws and groups of laws that have emerged from the legislative mill of 1926. Up to the present they have been described more or less piecemeal. It seems desirable, therefore, that the more important of them should be reviewed and analyzed in the light of what is to be expected of them in accomplishing their objects. Many of them have not yet gone into effect, but a large group became effective on July 1.

These laws were largely, but by no means entirely, the work of the so-called Baumes legislators, such as Messrs. John V. Sheridan, Robert R. Livingston and Milan E. Goodrich, introduced several. Behind all were the suggestions and efforts of Judges, District Attorneys, many lawyers, Grand Jurors, various civic societies and, last but not least, an aroused public press. The Criminal Courts Committee of the Charity Organization Society through its secretary, Lawrence Veiller, was especially productive of sound constructive suggestions.

Some of the crime bills introduced passed with astonishing ease. Others were storm centers and several of the more debatable measures went down to defeat either in the Legislature or by the Governor's veto.

Keeping Records.

Those laws dealing with the apprehension and identification of offenders form the first group in the logical order of a criminal case. One of these makes it a misdemeanor for any physician or for any person in charge of a hospital or like institution, to fail at once to report to the police any case treated for pistol or gunshot wounds. This is because criminals are frequently wounded, either in committing crimes or in escaping from the scene of them, and are sooner or later compelled to seek medical aid. A prompt report of the treatment of such a case is often a short cut to arrest.

An interesting step toward perfecting a systematic keeping of criminal records has been taken by creating in the office of the State Superintendent of Prisons a State Central Bureau of Identification. This law does not take effect until Jan. 1, 1927. Hitherto the police may have actually arrested a man and yet been unable to identify him as a criminal wanted or to connect him with certain events or persons, because of defects both in the making and keeping of criminal records.

This new law provides that duplicates shall be kept in the central bureau of the State of all identifying matter now existing or is hereafter taken in the State prisons, in the penitentiaries and in the reformatories, in having fingerprints, measurements, personal descriptions, photographs, and also what is known as the modus operandi records, viz: identification through the individual characteristic methods in which many, if not most, criminals carry on their operations. Records shall also be secured on all persons who have been or who shall hereafter be convicted in any State for felony or of certain misdemeanors usually associated with professional crime.

Federal offenses are included, as well as the records of habitual criminals whenever procurable.

Sheriffs and police authorities must furnish daily to the bureau copies of finger and thumb prints taken by them of persons arrested for serious crimes, fugitives from justice and persons found in possession of stolen goods, firearms, explosives or counterfeiting material. Addition descriptions, including photographs if required, are also to be furnished.

Others to Profit.

Upon request the central bureau is to furnish this information to the Federal Government, to other states and to local authorities. Photographs and fingerprints taken while a charge is pending are to be returned to the accused upon acquittal. This last provision is more carefully worded than one introduced a year or two ago, which provided that all fingerprints and photographs taken of a criminal were to be returned in the event of acquittal, a careful reading revealing the fact that all previous records of that person would be returned as well, thus wiping out everything he had of record as to previous offenses and giving him a clear slate for the future!

Such a central bureau as we

Hawes Aids Ex-Soldiers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I WISH to take exception to the statement of Judge Ewing Cockrell, that Mr. Harry B. Hawes is a political hornet stinging Missouri Democrats right and left and stinging soldiers, farmers and the laboring classes.

I don't know anything about the farmers, but I do know as an ex-soldier that I have never heard of any ex-soldier applying to Harry B. Hawes for aid that he did not get it, and get it quick. I, for one, applied to Mr. Hawes regarding my case and four days after I had written him I had an answer to my letter, putting me in touch with the proper authorities whom I was seeking.

I have lots of ex-soldier friends who Harry B. Hawes has helped and there are probably hundreds of more soldiers in St. Louis to whom Harry B. Hawes and his secretary, John J. Cochran, have given aid.

Union Measures and U. R.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I THINK the editor is unduly alarmed over the measures which the street car men's union is seeking to have incorporated into the new traction franchise. These measures include: Arbitration of labor disputes; five-day working week; restriction of one-man cars in congested districts, and the right of employes to belong to a labor union without discrimination for such membership.

The editor need only scan accident statistics in cities wherein one-man cars extensively operate to be convinced that in seeking to restrict the use of these "death traps" the street car men's union is acting in the interest of public safety. Street car operation in a large city like St. Louis is not oversafe with two men in charge, but with one man doing the work of two, the hazards of street transportation are augmented.

No one should oppose the five-day week proposal unless willing to work seven days a week themselves. The five-day week of labor is a thoroughly humane, American measure. Often it has been bought with industrial war. St. Louis street railway employes want it nailed fast in the new franchise.

The arbitration proposal will minimize strikes and industrial disturbance. While opinion on arbitration is divided in the labor movement, the fact remains that in sponsoring the arbitration measure, the street car men's union is pursuing a course which it believes to be in the interest of industrial peace.

Let us have these articles incorporated into the franchise, so that they will not have to be secured and maintained at the expense of industrial peace and uninterrupted street car service in days to come.

United We Stand, Etc.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I BELIEVE in all fairness that the County of St. Louis should favor the merger with the City of St. Louis, as more than 90 per cent of the residents of the county earn their living in the city and should therefore be vitally interested in the city government, planning, protection, etc.

The resident of the county uses almost equally with the city resident the St. Louis municipal amusements, such as the zoo, city parks, Shaw's Garden and playgrounds without direct tax, which direct tax is paid by the citizens of St. Louis. Further, they use city transportation or city streets as much as the residents or citizens of St. Louis. They daily use the city water, sewers, lights, police protection without payment and at the same time transfer their earnings derived in the city to the county for taxation, insurance, food, etc.

A few years ago the actual western boundary of St. Louis was Grand avenue, later it was Maplewood, then Webster, now it is west of Kirkwood. People who are actually one community should have one government, one school system, etc. Is it fair for University City to pollute the River Des Peres with its sewage which flows through the city, or for a small community in the county immediately adjoining St. Louis to plan a boulevard without consideration of the general plan of the community as a whole?

Is it fair to permit residents on the outskirts of Maplewood, Webster, Kirkwood, Pine Lawn or Sappington to dump their sewage into an open cesspool to the detriment of everyone's health? The only way this can be remedied is through city planning, one plan, one government, one commission, one plan of taxation, fair to all.

Proper municipal growth can never be attained if the county resident shows selfishness at this milestone.

If the county resident will only analyze he will see that the gains will more than offset losses. He, at the same time, will be part of one of the greatest cities in the U. S. A., most advantageously located and in position to become one of the largest, best and most ideal cities in the world.

We should remember, "United We Stand, Divided We Fall."

GREATER ST. LOUIS.
VENI VIDI VICI.

AN AMERICAN FORTUNE.

The late Cleveland H. Dodge left an estate worth $20,000,000, but during his lifetime he gave away a fortune estimated at $40,000,000. His philanthropy had a wide range, but the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. were special beneficiaries of his generosity. He intervened in politics as the principal backer of Woodrow Wilson's two presidential campaigns.

There were no charitable bequests of moment in his will, nor were there any specific directions to the heirs as to how they should administer their patrimony. Instead, the testator expressed the utmost confidence in the capacity and disposition of his wife and children to "use the property intrusted to them liberally for humane and benevolent objects." In this respect, as well as in his methods of giving while he lived, Mr. Dodge had a precedent in the conduct of his father.

It may be conceded that Mr. Dodge was an exceptional man, from whose ideals no general deduction may be drawn. But the admirable use of great fortunes in America is not exceptional. The dogmatic assertion may not be made that, in the United States, a private fortune is a public trust, but that concept is undeniably taking form. Certainly the Rockefeller millions are being invested, with prudence and vision, in the betterment of humanity, and our other billionaire, Henry Ford, disavows ownership of his vast enterprise and insists that it belongs to the public. Ford is a pragmatist. The basis of his philosophy is materialism. The expansion of business is his creed. Turn the profits back into the plant, into better facilities, to the end that there shall be more employment for an ever growing army of workers. Many other fortunes that have been handed down unto the second and third generations are being competently operated, and the public is participating in the rewards.

Whether the accumulation of immense fortunes conforms to sound public policy may be debatable. The conviction obtains in studious and sanely liberal circles that such fortunes presage eventually an aristocracy of wealth with sufficient power to supplant democracy with an oligarchy. That menace, we believe, is largely imaginary. There is not an American of middle age but has seen families pre-eminent for their wealth relegated to subordinate position and hereditary captains of industry reduced in rank and, in some instances, even stripped of commissions. It is still true in this country that every private carries the industrial marshal's baton in his knapsack, and as long as this is true the oligarchy is well below the horizon.

With all of this the cult of socialism is impatient, and a brilliant disciple like George Bernard Shaw can make out a strong case against the capitalistic system. Nevertheless, under this system the world has made inspiring progress in the standards of living and in translating the postulate of the brotherhood of man into vital reality. The helpless baby for whom Mr. Shaw holds a brief, whom he describes as holding the first lien on the State's bounty, may still suffer from inequality of fortune—an inequality which no economic or political formula can erase at this stage of civilization—but that baby has an infinitely better chance today than he ever had before.

We make no obeisance to the status quo, no genuflexion to the God of Things As They Are. But, for all its shortcomings, capitalism has shining items on the credit side, and capitalists grow wiser in the process of the suns. Nobody can measure the value to his times of an intellect like Bernard Shaw's, but nobody can measure the value to humanity of great fortunes greatly administered.

JUDGE GANTT'S CANDIDACY.

The Missouri Bar Association and the St. Louis Bar Association, by decisive majorities, have indorsed the candidacy of Judge Ernest S. Gantt of Mexico for the Democratic nomination for Judge of the Missouri Supreme Court.

This approval of Judge Gantt's candidacy by men peculiarly qualified to pass on the fitness of candidates for the bench raises a strong presumption in his favor.

It is on the strength of an excellent record as the Judge of an important Central Missouri circuit for the last 10 years that the two organizations, representing both the city and the State at large, have joined in recommending him to the voters for preferment.

THE GERMAN COLONIES.

Sir Philip Snowden thinks another great economic war is inevitable, unless Germany is given back the colonies of which the Versailles treaty dispossessed her. He considers this one of the gravest mistakes of that unfortunate document, and begs the League of Nations to re-establish Germany, not merely as a member of the Council, but as a full-fledged power with the raw materials available to maintain her economic position. He reminds us that as a consequence of the peace treaty Germany, the third greatest commercial country in the world, as well as a benevolent colonial power, is excluded by her rivals from colonial expansion, though compelled to import one-third of her essential food and raw materials. France, a lesser manufacturing country, with only thirty-eight million population as against Germany's seventy million, has a colonial empire of nearly 5,000,000 square miles. Belgium, Portugal and Italy, all negligible economic factors beside Germany have vast colonial possessions. It is inconceivable, says Sir Philip, that peace can bless such an appalling inequity. The population of Germany is increasing. The need for expansion increases with her growing population.

What were the German colonies? The principal one was German East Africa, for which Great Britain holds a mandate. It has an area of 384,100 square miles. Her next largest colony, Southwest Africa, now held by the African Union, has an area of 322,450 square miles. Kamerun, another African colony, has an area of 191,130 square miles. Her total Pacific possessions, divided chiefly between Australia, New Zealand and Japan, were 96,150 square miles. Kiauchau, held by Japan, has an area of 200 square miles.

It is unlikely that all these could be restored to Germany without precipitating another war, but there is, nevertheless, reason in what Sir Philip says. The world to live must let live, and if it is to live in peace it must respect the necessities of its component parts. Surely, the great war is by this time far enough away for us to talk about doing justice to Germany.

LAST OF THE MOHICANS.

While Pennsylvania squanders millions for votes and Illinois raids the coffers of the great corporations to hold a senatorial primary, it is comforting to know that there is at least one old-fashioned Democrat running for public office.

This last of the Mohicans, this poor man among so many of the sons of Croesus, is John F. Daily, a farmer in the First Missouri District. He is contending for the nomination with Congressman Romjue, and is what is almost unheard-of in Congress, which is composed of lawyers but still debates farm relief. That is, he is a real farmer. He has only the money he makes farming, so he hasn't any. No corporation has offered to befriend him. No Secretary Mellon has taken his campaign over. No Samuel Insull has insulated his political wires. He is on his own. His old Ford rattles along the country roads, leaving bolts and nuts in its wake, and any man bought for him will be bought by the eloquence of his silver tongue. His total campaign expenses will be inside of $400.

Mr. Daily, who has a master's degree from a college, is not the political coward one ordinarily finds in a rural district. He isn't personally wet and politically dry, as most of them are. He is politically wet, says so, and is reminding the voters of his district what kind of a sodapopper Congressman Romjue is. That politically dehrydrated gentleman, that congressional Bedouin among the panting tribesmen in the First Missouri, not only voted for the Volstead law but joined with those who passed it over the veto of President Wilson. Mr. Daily thinks that is pretty dry, and it is.

So, unashamed to be poor, and unafraid to be honest, his old Ford wheezing and his silver tongue making the welkin ring, goes the last of the Mohicans.

BARBER BARS BOBS.

J. J. Diggs, a barber of Knoxville, Tenn., has painted a sign on the front of his shop telling the world he will not bob women's hair any more, because, he says, the Bible warns against it. He cites a passage from Cor. 10:1-15 to substantiate his contention: "But if a woman have long hair, it is a glory to her, hair is given her as a covering." Since he took the stand his masculine patronage has doubled.

More power to you, Brother Diggs! Not because we agree with your Biblical objections to bobbing. But what a relief it must be to rest in a barber's chair with the knowledge that one may speak his mind in no mincing terms should the clippers pull, the razor cut or the towel burn, without any fear of disturbing the peace of a fair customer.

Brother Diggs' business, no doubt, would have trebled had he painted a sign on his shop window something like this: "So that irate men may freely speak their minds—women are positively barred from this shop."

BLANTON OF TEXAS.

They still grow 'em wild down in Texas. There is, for notable example, Representative Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene, whose constant demands for roll calls, pointed remarks about the perquisites of Congressmen and other unclubby offendings against the unwritten rules of the House have made him anathema to many of his fellows. Blanton has been called "the most hated man in Congress."

Without indorsing the whole of Terrible Tom's record, a writer from the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch some years ago dissented from the congressional judgment and pronounced Blanton a useful member of the House. That opinion has now been vindicated by the success of Blanton's fight to get rid of Frederick A. Fenning as a Commissioner of the District of Columbia. Blanton went into the fray single-handed and with heavy odds against him. Fenning, a power in the political and commercial life of the District, seemed impregnably intrenched. Because it was Blanton who was making the fight, most of Congress and the Washington public were inclined at first to sympathize with the Commissioner.

Blanton hung on like the bulldog he is. Finally, by the sheer weight of the evidence that he brought to bear against Fenning before three committees of the House, he compelled Congress and the President to take notice. It was shown, among other things, that Fenning, as the guardian for 120 insane war veterans, had engaged, to put it mildly, in highly questionable practices. He was a guardian not only, but the agent of a bonding firm, and in the latter capacity he collected 25 per cent on the premiums he paid from his wards' estates to bond himself. A subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee denounced this practice as contrary to law.

The upshot of the several investigations was the resignation of Fenning at the demand of the President.

If it had not been for Blanton's persistence, the Commissioner would still be in office. To the gentleman from Texas a large debt of gratitude is due from the public in general and the veterans of the World War in particular. Through his efforts a peculiarly unfortunate group of the Government's wards has been saved from a peculiarly mean form of exploitation.

Like Walsh in the oil case and Reed in the slush-fund investigation, Blanton has shown what one man of ability and fighting caliber, armed with a good cause, can do in Congress.

THE BUYING OF VOTES.

There are various ways of buying votes besides the straight-out transaction of passing the money. In Pennsylvania the favorite device is to hire watchers. In Illinois we read of large donations to colleges and other institutions, in the hope, presumably, of reaping results in the ballot box.

Here in St. Louis is another one. A candidate for the Republican nomination for Collector solemnly promises to give 37 appointive jobs to women if he should be elected.

MR. ANTWINE'S OPINION.

"What the country needs more than anything else right now," said Mr. Antwine, "is a good recipe for making home-brew. I know it is supposedly illegal, but the Department of Agriculture distributes a pamphlet on cider-making to farmers. One Congressman has a formula for making beer, but it has not as yet received official sanction. I would have the Department of the Interior distribute a pamphlet on powerful, palatable and potable beer. Or Congressmen could frank the recipe, as they formerly did seeds

"In the first place, my plan would insure needed farm legislation. At present, people in the cities do not care the feminine of "sire" about the fix the farmer is in. Urban dwellers figure the farmer always has a jug of cider the Government told him how to make; when the worst comes to the worst, the farmer can, as it were, stew in his own juice. The city man has nothing but some terrible travesties on beer. If town people had some proper beer, they would sympathize with the farmer, along about the tenth glass. Once their sympathies were enlisted, they would tell Congress to do something about farm relief.

"My plan would make prohibition as a political issue as extinct as free silver. This would be a blessing. Every two years, the political skies are clouded with beer-bottle caps. My idea, carried into execution, would put the caps where they belong—on the bottles. Again, it would increase respect for Congress. A voter, receiving a home-brew recipe from his Congressman, thinks more of that Congressman than the voter who gets only copies of windy speeches which were never delivered.

"It would make the melting pot melt. Imagine one hundred million people, from the rocky coasts of Maine to the sun-kissed Golden Gate, and from the rum-running Canadian border to the rum-running Gulf of Mexico, all sipping Government beer under their humble roof-tree. Is not that a picture of unity?

"To prevent any scandal in the compiling of the booklet, I would forbid the Government to specify any particular malt. Practically everything else, including the scrapping of the Constitution, has been tried to make prohibition work. The Government could do no worse than weigh the obvious advantages of my scheme, and then let the Government printing offices go to work when they have no "Congressional Record" to print."

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

MONARCH OF METALS.

From the Pathfinder.

THE report that a platinum rush had started in Transvaal, South Africa, aroused new interest in that metal. Platinum, say some experts, is challenging the position of gold as undisputed monarch of metals. But so far, says the National Geographic Society, gold is still supreme. Except in the Orient gold is still the foundation of all monetary systems. Twice platinum has failed to answer as a substitute for gold. As early as 1828 Russia tried it for coinage. But it was given up for gold in 1845. Soviet Russia tried the same thing but recently has returned to the gold standard.

"Each contender in the battle of metals," says the Geographic, "is versatile and is outstanding in those qualities of character for which metals are admired. Not the least of their trials of strength have been held in the arenas of modern chemical laboratories. Gold proudly maintains it can spread itself out more than any other metal. An ounce of gold beaten into gold leaf will cover 189 square feet. Platinum counters with the challenge that it can stretch farther than any other known metal. A cubic inch of platinum drawn into wire, practically invisible to the human eye, would make a strand of wire 50,000 miles long. In other words, one cubic inch of platinum can be stretched out to encircle the earth at the equator twice!" • • • Both platinum and gold are good resisters of corrosion in ordinary atmosphere. Both are malleable, although in this respect gold has the advantage. Both are heavy, but platinum is the heavier. At one time it was supposed that platinum was the only substance which cannot be dissolved, but it is now known that aqua regia, nitric and hydrochloric acid can conquer it. But its resistance entitles it to an important place in scientific work. Gold melts at 1945 degrees Fahrenheit, platinum at 3191.

NO TWELVE-MILE LIMIT THERE.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

AN American vessel on the high seas can be seized for violations of the laws of the United States. This is in effect the decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at New York in the case of a rum-runner captured in December, 1924, 34 miles off Block Island, with a cargo of illicit liquor on board. The lower court had ruled against the Government on the general ground that as the vessel was beyond the 12-mile limit its capture was illegal. The reversal of this decision by the higher court will add materially to the powers of the Federal prohibition-enforcement unit, for a number of similar cases are covered by it and a large quantity of liquor will be condemned. The Appellate Court's ruling that "every nation has the right to bind its own subjects to its own laws in every place" swept away all the technicalities upon which the owners of the craft sought to escape the libels filed by the Coast Guard officers.

Mexico Parallels Old English Persecutions

son and liable to sentence of death.

The convents and schools were closed and the nuns who attempted to remain were forcibly ejected by the soldiers of the crown. Monasteries were emptied and the countryside was filled with homeless monks, finding what shelter they could in houses by the way.

During the reign of Elizabeth more than 220 Catholics were put to death. As a historian of the period says, "The rack seldom stood idle in the Tower during the latter part of her reign."

James I Continues Persecution of Priests.

James I, who followed Elizabeth, was even more militant in his tactics. The Catholics had hoped he would be the avenger of his mother, Mary, Queen of Scots, who was put to death by Elizabeth, but he chose to consider himself the successor of Elizabeth and Henry VIII as head of the English Church.

Feb. 22, 1603, the persecution reached its height. On that date James issued a proclamation strictly commanding all priests to depart the realm before March 19 upon pain of having the laws executed against them without the least favor or mercy. The priests were imprisoned in England or were banished.

Many of the priests returned from the continent upon missions of conversion. Every manor house whose owner was Catholic offered refuge to at least one priest. In the thick walls of the old castles were dark hiding places called "priest's holes" where a persecuted clergyman could be concealed until the searchers who suspected his presence had ridden on.

"Priest's Holes" in Many Old Castles.

Some of these can be seen in English ruins to this day. One has a door hidden in a Corinthian column; another is entered through a fireplace provided with a double flue, one part of which was to carry off the smoke and the other to ventilate the hiding place. Hollow beams held springs and hinges. window seats formed entrances and in one place even an altar was so constructed that several fugitives could be hidden in it and still see all that was going on nearby.

At Wollas Hill, an Elizabethan mansion, there is a chapel in the upper part of the house and a "priest's hole" provided with a diminutive fireplace. When the officiating priest was about to celebrate mass, the housemaids spread linen on the hedges. This signal was known as far as it could be seen, and men and women from the villages near by soon arrived at the gate. Crowded in the great hall and in the minstrel's gallery they heard mass and received the sacrament.

On another estate was a curious maze of thickly planted evergreens in the shape of a cross. Three wooden crosses, placed there centuries ago, are still standing, and their presence is taken as an indication that at the time of the persecution the privacy of the maze was used for secret worship.

Thus quietly throughout the country supporters of the faith clung to the observance of their religion, sustained by the vague hope of a political change.

England's Celebrated Gunpowder Plot.

The gunpowder plot found England bordering on a state of revolution. In Scotland and in the northern parts of England small insurrections broke out, but the King quelled them, submitting the leaders to torture and death.

The gunpowder plot, however, was the most ambitious attempt that had been made. A group of persecuted Catholics formulated a plan to blow up the House of Commons by placing a store of gunpowder in a cellar below it. All would have happened as planned had not one of the conspirators warned a friend, telling him to absent himself from the meeting of the House on the fated day.

The recipient of the note, a conforming nobleman, immediately carried the missive to the King. The cellars were searched and there was found Guy Fawkes, match in hand, watching for the expected signal.

Punishment was swift and sure. The conspirators were killed and Parliament enacted more sanguinary laws against the Catholics. The King imposed fines on the families of all implicated in the plot and finding this profitable he began, instead of executing convicted Catholics, to impose heavy fines upon them, thereby increasing his income by some £30,000 annually. A fine of £260 a year was demanded from Catholics which, if not paid, subjected the recusant to forfeiture of all goods and chattels and of two-thirds of his lands.

Oath of Allegiance Broke Catholic Power.

But the law which effectually broke the power of the Catholic body in England was the enactment of a new oath of allegiance for the avowed purpose of drawing a distinction between those Catholics who denied and those who admitted the spiritual pretensions of the King. Those who refused to forswear the spiritual sovereignty of the Pope were subjected to perpetual imprisonment, the forfeiture of their personal property and the rents of their lands during life.

During the reign of terror that followed the enforcement of this statute the persecution was taken up with new vigor. Harboring a priest was punishable by death, and the knowledge that one was about without informing the authorities was a felony and carried a death sentence.

The first of the persecuted Catholics died on the gibbet in 1577 in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and the last during the reign of Charles II in 1681. A succession of sympathetic rulers or, rather, rulers who did not feel it necessary to persecute the Catholics, has followed down to this day.

Mexico's Dispute With Church.

The antipathy of the Mexican Government toward the church is of long standing. Although able to throw off the dominion of Spain, the land ceded to the church by the Spanish King has not changed hands, and the influence of Catholicism, according to Mexican officials, has ever been on the side of the mother country.

Following the famed Mexican constitution under President Comonfort in 1857, Benito Juarez became the head of the republic. He enacted a series of laws against the Catholic church and at this time an attempt to consummate a schismatical movement was started. Plans were made by secret societies and other anti-Catholic associations to induce Juarez to declare Mexico separated from communion with Rome and establish a national religion whose first pontiff was to be Senor Pardio. The death of the proposed pontiff in 1861 put an end to the movement.

This was followed by the intervention of the French empire in 1864. Emperor Maximilian declared that the reform laws in regard to the laicization of the church property would be upheld. The civil war which ended in victory for Porfirio Diaz temporarily stopped the enforcement of the laws against the church, and the sufferance policy was followed until the presidency of Calles, when the statutes, issued for the most part more than 50 years ago, were revived.

Amended Criminal Statutes Curb Flaunting of Laws

have described co-ordinating with the national bureau maintained by the Department of Justice at Washington, and with a unified central bureau for New York City, would be of the greatest aid in this day of the rapid and widespread movements of criminals, in affording complete identification of individuals both for the purposes of arrest as well as after arrest. Such bureaus can only function with certainty through the use of fingerprints. While names, aliases, photographs, measurements, marks, mode of operating and such have their use, the fingerprint classification alone furinshes a universal and trustworthy key that can be depended upon to link up the history and misdeeds of the individual whether he be a local, statewide, interstate or international malefactor.

Of great assistance in furnishing the necessary fingerprint records is the newly amended section of the Code of Criminal Procedure in regard to bail. For the first time the taking of fingerprints on arrest and before conviction has been legalized. This is a long step in advance of securing the foundation for the systematic keeping of criminal records so that they may be available when wanted.

Bail Abuses.

This brings us to another step in the prosecution or crime—letting to bail. The abuses of easy bail were strikingly revealed by the Evening World in a series of editorials, with the result that the amendments to the bail sections of the Code of Criminal Procedure were passed as just stated. The purpose of the law, already in effect, is to prevent the bailing of professional criminals or other repeating offenders who may be dangerous to the public while on bail. The act does this by providing that if the person arrested is charged with a felony or with an attempt to commit a felony or with one of the following misdemeanors or offenses, he shall be first of all finger-printed and his record, if any, submitted to the Judge or Magistrate to whom he applies for bail before he shall be entitled to bail at all.

If there is good reason to believe that he has been previously convicted he may not be bailed by a Magistrate. These offenses are those usually associated with habitual or professional crime, viz.: illegal possession of a pistol or other dangerous weapon, making or possessing burglars' tools, buying or receiving stolen goods, unlawful entry of a building with intent to commit a felony or a larceny, aiding escape from prison, "jostling" or pocket picking, and illegal possesssion of drugs. The last named we find provided against both in the Sanitary Code of this city and in a newly enacted provision of the Code of Criminal Procedure later to be noticed. The provision as to drugs is not so harsh as it might first seem, since competent authorities agree that professional criminals are largely addicted to narcotics.

A person without a record may not be locked up for an unreasonable length of time. Fingerprints are required to be taken and searched without delay. This should be accomplished within a couple of hours.

Records to Judges.

If a person accused has a previous record he may nevertheless be freed on bail by a Judge of the Supreme Court, or General Sessions or of a County Court, provided his record is first submitted to the Judge. However, as the new law puts a person with a record of the kind described in the category of actual or probable murderers when it comes to allowing bail to them, it is apparent that any Judge will be extremely cautious in assuming responsibility for turning such a person loose under the incentive to commit more crimes so as to secure lawyers' and bondsmen's fees, to say nothing of his general criminal inclinations.

It is provided by the amending statute that if a criminal is charged with any of the misdemeanors or other offenses catalogued above he can no longer be bailed out before the Lieutenant in the station house, as was formerly his right in cases of charges lower in grade than felonies.

An important enactment which went into effect July 1 provides that when a number of defendants are jointly indicted for complicity in the same crime they may be tried all at one trial or one at a time in the discretion of the court. Formerly each defendant had an absolute right to a separate trial even though the evidence against each was the same. In the past nine or 10 defendants have demanded as many separate trials thereby multiplying that number of times the efforts of the prosecution, saddling the State with extra expenses, playing off the possible acquittal of one as evidence of the innocence of the rest, and completing the reappearance of those witnesses who might survive the intimidation, again and again. Under the new law, if the evidence against one or more defendants differs materially or some other good reason exists for a separate trial it is within the discretion of the court to grant it.

Disclose Evidence.

Another innovation, also effective July 1, amends section 388 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Hitherto the District Attorney has been compelled to offer his evidence immediately after his opening address, whereas the defendant did not have to make his opening address until the prosecution's evidence was actually presented. In this way the District Attorney was entirely in the dark as to what the defense might be and how to shape his evidence to anticipate it. On the other hand, the defendant's lawyer had all the benefit of knowing not only what the District Attorney expected to prove, but what he actually had proved before disclosing his own hand. Now each must state what he expects to prove before any evidence can be offered by either. In this way both are on even terms.

A new and important provision relates to all felonies committed or attempted while armed with a pistol or other weapon. It not only adds five to ten years to a first offense, 10 to 15 years to a second, 15 to 25 years for a third, and a fourth 25 years to life to the sentence usually applicable, but forbids probation, suspension of sentence or release before the full term of a sentence, irrespective of any "commutation" or "compensation."

This drastic provision is intended to meet the present saturnalia of highway robbery and banditry. It also involves the idea that a man who sets out to commit a robbery when armed is prepared to kill to effect his object or to make his escape. The exceptional case arising in the future where this reasoning may not seem to apply can only be reached through executive clemency.

The foregoing amendments have come to the rescue of the long enduring public and if faithfully enforced and administered should bring about a change which will in time cause professional crime to disappear, for the reason that as soon as a criminal gets within the professional stage he will be due for a sentence that will keep him out of crime a long part of his natural life.

". . that the American family may have, at a moderate investment, a car which gratifies their finer tastes as well as satisfies their every need"

Dual Air Cleaning In this new Oldsmobile, a master air cleaner eliminates the injurious particles from two-thirds of the air before it enters the carburetor directly—while the second cleaner, in connection with crankcase ventilation, cleans the balance of the air.

Crankcase Ventilation In all internal combustion engines water is formed by condensation. Cold engines do not burn all of the fuel on starting. This water and liquid fuel pass into the crankcase and form crankcase dilution.

Excessive dilution is eliminated by crankcase ventilation. It draws off water vapor and unburned fuel that may have passed into the crankcase. Crankcase ventilation improves performance and gives longer life to the engine and oil.

Oil Filter An oil filter has been added to this Oldsmobile, prolonging still more the life of the engine and the useful life of the oil. Should the filter become clogged with sediment, the lubricating system functions in the common manner. All principle parts are pressure lubricated.

Harmonic Balancer The Harmonic Balancer, developed by General Motors engineers, counteracts vibration and gives Oldsmobile a smoothness, at both low and high speeds, you will quickly recognize when you take the wheel.

Twin-Beam Light Control Head lamps have double-filament bulbs, one filament for "bright action" and one for "dim action". On "dim action" the light is bright but thrown at a downward angle that protects the oncoming driver and gives ample vision to the Oldsmobile driver.

Other Features Larger L-Head Engine, Two-Way Cooling, Three-Way Pressure Lubrication, Full Automatic Spark Control, Thermostatic Charging Control, Tapered Dome-Shaped Combustion Chambers, High Velocity Hot-Section Manifold, Special Design Light Cast-Iron Pistons, Honed Cylinders, Silent Chain Drive, Balloon Tires, Exclusive Chromium Plating, Duco Finish; new beauty of line and appointments in Fisher Bodies; many other features of demonstrated worth, at no increase in standard prices and on the G. OVER the span of months and miles, in the hands of thousands of owners, Oldsmobile power and performance, dash and endurance, comfort and driving ease, demonstrated Oldsmobile's unchallengable right to the now familiar praise . . . THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Hawes Aids Ex-Soldiers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I WISH to take exception to the statement of Judge Ewing Cockrell, that Mr. Harry B. Hawes is a political hornet stinging Missouri Democrats right and left and stinging soldiers, farmers and the laboring classes.

I don't know anything about the farmers, but I do know as an ex-soldier that I have never heard of any ex-soldier applying to Harry B. Hawes for aid that he did not get it, and get it quick. I, for one, applied to Mr. Hawes regarding my case and four days after I had written him I had an answer to my letter, putting me in touch with the proper authorities whom I was seeking.

I have lots of ex-soldier friends who Harry B. Hawes has helped and there are probably hundreds of more soldiers in St. Louis to whom Harry B. Hawes and his secretary, John J. Cochran, have given aid. V. K., 89th Division.

Union Measures and U. R.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I THINK the editor is unduly alarmed over the measures which the street car men's union is seeking to have incorporated into the new traction franchise. These measures include: Arbitration of labor disputes; five-day working week; restriction of one-man cars in congested districts, and the right of employes to belong to a labor union without discrimination for such membership.

The editor need only scan accident statistics in cities wherein one-man cars extensively operate to be convinced that in seeking to restrict the use of these "death traps" the street car men's union is acting in the interest of public safety. Street car operation in a large city like St. Louis is not oversafe with two men in charge, but with one man doing the work of two, the hazards of street transportation are augmented.

No one should oppose the five-day week proposal unless willing to work seven days a week themselves. The five-day week of labor is a thoroughly humane, American measure. Often it has been bought with industrial war. St. Louis street railway employes want it nailed fast in the new franchise.

The arbitration proposal will minimize strikes and industrial disturbance. While opinion on arbitration is divided in the labor movement, the fact remains that in sponsoring the arbitration measure, the street car men's union is pursuing a course which it believes to be in the interest of industrial peace.

Let us have these articles incorporated into the franchise, so that they will not have to be secured and maintained at the expense of industrial peace and uninterrupted street car service in days to come. MARTIN A. DILLMON.

United We Stand, Etc.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I BELIEVE in all fairness that the County of St. Louis should favor the merger with the City of St. Louis, as more than 90 per cent of the residents of the county earn their living in the city and should therefore be vitally interested in the city government, planning, protection, etc.

The resident of the county uses almost equally with the city resident the St. Louis municipal amusements, such as the zoo, city parks, Shaw's Garden and playgrounds without direct tax, which direct tax is paid by the citizens of St. Louis. Further, they use city transportation or city streets as much as the residents or citizens of St. Louis. They daily use the city water, sewers, lights, police protection without payment and at the same time transfer their earnings derived in the city to the county for taxation, insurance, food, etc.

A few years ago the actual western boundary of St. Louis was Grand avenue, later it was Maplewood, then Webster, now it is west of Kirkwood. People who are actually one community should have one government, one school system, etc. Is it fair for University City to pollute the River Des Peres with its sewage which flows through the city, or for a small community in the county immediately adjoining St. Louis to plan a boulevard without consideration of the general plan of the community as a whole?

Is it fair to permit residents on the outskirts of Maplewood, Webster, Kirkwood, Pine Lawn or Sappington to dump their sewage into an open cesspool to the detriment of everyone's health? The only way this can be remedied is through city planning, one plan, one government, one commission, one plan of taxation, fair to all.

Proper municipal growth can never be attained if the county resident shows selfishness at this milestone.

If the county resident will only analyze he will see that the gains will more than offset losses. He, at the same time, will be part of one of the greatest cities in the U. S. A., most advantageously located and in position to become one of the largest, best and most ideal cities in the world.

We should remember, "United We Stand, Divided We Fall."

GREATER ST. LOUIS.
VENI VIDI VICI.

AN AMERICAN FORTUNE.

The late Cleveland H. Dodge left an estate worth $20,000,000, but during his lifetime he gave away a fortune estimated at $40,000,000. His philanthropy had a wide range, but the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. were special beneficiaries of his generosity. He intervened in politics as the principal backer of Woodrow Wilson's two presidential campaigns.

There were no charitable bequests of moment in his will, nor were there any specific directions to the heirs as to how they should administer their patrimony. Instead, the testator expressed the utmost confidence in the capacity and disposition of his wife and children to "use the property intrusted to them liberally for humane and benevolent objects." In this respect, as well as in his methods of giving while he lived, Mr. Dodge had a precedent in the conduct of his father.

It may be conceded that Mr. Dodge was an exceptional man, from whose ideals no general deduction may be drawn. But the admirable use of great fortunes in America is not exceptional. The dogmatic assertion may not be made that, in the United States, a private fortune is a public trust, but that concept is undeniably taking form. Certainly the Rockefeller millions are being invested, with prudence and vision, in the betterment of humanity, and our other billionaire, Henry Ford, disavows ownership of his vast enterprise and insists that it belongs to the public. Ford is a pragmatist. The basis of his philosophy is materialism. The expansion of business is his creed. Turn the profits back into the plant, into better facilities, to the end that there shall be more employment for an ever growing army of workers. Many other fortunes that have been handed down unto the second and third generations are being competently operated, and the public is participating in the rewards.

Whether the accumulation of immense fortunes conforms to sound public policy may be debatable. The conviction obtains in studious and sanely liberal circles that such fortunes presage eventually an aristocracy of wealth with sufficient power to supplant democracy with an oligarchy. That menace, we believe, is largely imaginary. There is not an American of middle age but has seen families pre-eminent for their wealth relegated to subordinate position and hereditary captains of industry reduced in rank and, in some instances, even stripped of commissions. It is still true in this country that every private carries the industrial marshal's baton in his knapsack, and as long as this is true the oligarchy is well below the horizon.

With all of this the cult of socialism is impatient, and a brilliant disciple like George Bernard Shaw can make out a strong case against the capitalistic system. Nevertheless, under this system the world has made inspiring progress in the standards of living and in translating the postulate of the brotherhood of man into vital reality. The helpless baby for whom Mr. Shaw holds a brief, whom he describes as holding the first lien on the State's bounty, may still suffer from inequality of fortune—an inequality which no economic or political formula can erase at this stage of civilization—but that baby has an infinitely better chance today than he ever had before.

We make no obeisance to the status quo, no genuflexion to the God of Things As They Are. But, for all its shortcomings, capitalism has shining items on the credit side, and capitalists grow wiser in the process of the suns. Nobody can measure the value to his times of an intellect like Bernard Shaw's, but nobody can measure the value to humanity of great fortunes greatly administered.

JUDGE GANTT'S CANDIDACY.

The Missouri Bar Association and the St. Louis Bar Association, by decisive majorities, have indorsed the candidacy of Judge Ernest S. Gantt of Mexico for the Democratic nomination for Judge of the Missouri Supreme Court.

This approval of Judge Gantt's candidacy by men peculiarly qualified to pass on the fitness of candidates for the bench raises a strong presumption in his favor.

It is on the strength of an excellent record as the Judge of an important Central Missouri circuit for the last 10 years that the two organizations, representing both the city and the State at large, have joined in recommending him to the voters for preferment.

THE GERMAN COLONIES.

Sir Philip Snowden thinks another great economic war is inevitable, unless Germany is given back the colonies of which the Versailles treaty dispossessed her. He considers this one of the gravest mistakes of that unfortunate document, and begs the League of Nations to re-establish Germany, not merely as a member of the Council, but as a full-fledged power with the raw materials available to maintain her economic position. He reminds us that as a consequence of the peace treaty Germany, the third greatest commercial country in the world, as well as a benevolent colonial power, is excluded by her rivals from colonial expansion, though compelled to import one-third of her essential food and raw materials. France, a lesser manufacturing country, with only thirty-eight million population as against Germany's seventy million, has a colonial empire of nearly 5,000,000 square miles. Belgium, Portugal and Italy, all negligible economic factors beside Germany have vast colonial possessions. It is inconceivable, says Sir Philip, that peace can bless such an appalling inequity. The population of Germany is increasing. The need for expansion increases with her growing population.

What were the German colonies? The principal one was German East Africa, for which Great Britain holds a mandate. It has an area of 384,100 square miles. Her next largest colony, Southwest Africa, now held by the African Union, has an area of 322,450 square miles. Kamerun, another African colony, has an area of 191,130 square miles. Her total Pacific possessions, divided chiefly between Australia, New Zealand and Japan, were 96,150 square miles. Kiauchau, held by Japan, has an area of 200 square miles.

It is unlikely that all these could be restored to Germany without precipitating another war, but there is, nevertheless, reason in what Sir Philip says. The world to live must let live, and if it is to live in peace it must respect the necessities of its component parts. Surely, the great war is by this time far enough away for us to talk about doing justice to Germany.

LAST OF THE MOHICANS.

While Pennsylvania squanders millions for votes and Illinois raids the coffers of the great corporations to hold a senatorial primary, it is comforting to know that there is at least one old-fashioned Democrat running for public office.

This last of the Mohicans, this poor man among so many of the sons of Croesus, is John F. Daily, a farmer in the First Missouri District. He is contending for the nomination with Congressman Romjue, and is what is almost unheard-of in Congress, which is composed of lawyers but still debates farm relief. That is, he is a real farmer. He has only the money he makes farming, so he hasn't any. No corporation has offered to befriend him. No Secretary Mellon has taken his campaign over. No Samuel Insull has insulated his political wires. He is on his own. His old Ford rattles along the country roads, leaving bolts and nuts in its wake, and any man bought for him will be bought by the eloquence of his silver tongue. His total campaign expenses will be inside of $400.

Mr. Daily, who has a master's degree from a college, is not the political coward one ordinarily finds in a rural district. He isn't personally wet and politically dry, as most of them are. He is politically wet, says so, and is reminding the voters of his district what kind of a sodapopper Congressman Romjue is. That politically dehrydrated gentleman, that congressional Bedouin among the panting tribesmen in the First Missouri, not only voted for the Volstead law but joined with those who passed it over the veto of President Wilson. Mr. Daily thinks that is pretty dry, and it is.

So, unashamed to be poor, and unafraid to be honest, his old Ford wheezing and his silver tongue making the welkin ring, goes the last of the Mohicans.

BARBER BARS BOBS.

J. J. Diggs, a barber of Knoxville, Tenn., has painted a sign on the front of his shop telling the world he will not bob women's hair any more, because, he says, the Bible warns against it. He cites a passage from Cor. 10:1-15 to substantiate his contention: "But if a woman have long hair, it is a glory to her, hair is given her as a covering." Since he took the stand his masculine patronage has doubled.

More power to you, Brother Diggs! Not because we agree with your Biblical objections to bobbing. But what a relief it must be to rest in a barber's chair with the knowledge that one may speak his mind in no mincing terms should the clippers pull, the razor cut or the towel burn, without any fear of disturbing the peace of a fair customer.

Brother Diggs' business, no doubt, would have trebled had he painted a sign on his shop window something like this: "So that irate men may freely speak their minds—women are positively barred from this shop."

With both sides of the Illinois primaries well Insullated, nobody was shocked by the way money was thrown around.

BLANTON OF TEXAS.

They still grow 'em wild down in Texas. There is, for notable example, Representative Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene, whose constant demands for roll calls, pointed remarks about the perquisites of Congressmen and other unclubby offendings against the unwritten rules of the House have made him anathema to many of his fellows. Blanton has been called "the most hated man in Congress."

Without indorsing the whole of Terrible Tom's record, a writer from the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch some years ago dissented from the congressional judgment and pronounced Blanton a useful member of the House. That opinion has now been vindicated by the success of Blanton's fight to get rid of Frederick A. Fenning as a Commissioner of the District of Columbia. Blanton went into the fray single-handed and with heavy odds against him. Fenning, a power in the political and commercial life of the District, seemed impregnably intrenched. Because it was Blanton who was making the fight, most of Congress and the Washington public were inclined at first to sympathize with the Commissioner.

Blanton hung on like the bulldog he is. Finally, by the sheer weight of the evidence that he brought to bear against Fenning before three committees of the House, he compelled Congress and the President to take notice. It was shown, among other things, that Fenning, as the guardian for 120 insane war veterans, had engaged, to put it mildly, in highly questionable practices. He was a guardian not only, but the agent of a bonding firm, and in the latter capacity he collected 25 per cent on the premiums he paid from his wards' estates to bond himself. A subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee denounced this practice as contrary to law.

The upshot of the several investigations was the resignation of Fenning at the demand of the President.

If it had not been for Blanton's persistence, the Commissioner would still be in office. To the gentleman from Texas a large debt of gratitude is due from the public in general and the veterans of the World War in particular. Through his efforts a peculiarly unfortunate group of the Government's wards has been saved from a peculiarly mean form of exploitation.

Like Walsh in the oil case and Reed in the slush-fund investigation, Blanton has shown what one man of ability and fighting caliber, armed with a good cause, can do in Congress.

Up to this time Illinois is only a petty Western State, but Jim Reed apparently hasn't warmed up yet.

THE BUYING OF VOTES.

There are various ways of buying votes besides the straight-out transaction of passing the money. In Pennsylvania the favorite device is to hire watchers. In Illinois we read of large donations to colleges and other institutions, in the hope, presumably, of reaping results in the ballot box.

Here in St. Louis is another one. A candidate for the Republican nomination for Collector solemnly promises to give 37 appointive jobs to women if he should be elected.

MR. ANTWINE'S OPINION.

"What the country needs more than anything else right now," said Mr. Antwine, "is a good recipe for making home-brew. I know it is supposedly illegal, but the Department of Agriculture distributes a pamphlet on cider-making to farmers. One Congressman has a formula for making beer, but it has not as yet received official sanction. I would have the Department of the Interior distribute a pamphlet on powerful, palatable and potable beer. Or Congressmen could frank the recipe, as they formerly did seeds

"In the first place, my plan would insure needed farm legislation. At present, people in the cities do not care the feminine of "sire" about the fix the farmer is in. Urban dwellers figure the farmer always has a jug of cider the Government told him how to make; when the worst comes to the worst, the farmer can, as it were, stew in his own juice. The city man has nothing but some terrible travesties on beer. If town people had some proper beer, they would sympathize with the farmer, along about the tenth glass. Once their sympathies were enlisted, they would tell Congress to do something about farm relief.

"My plan would make prohibition as a political issue as extinct as free silver. This would be a blessing. Every two years, the political skies are clouded with beer-bottle caps. My idea, carried into execution, would put the caps where they belong—on the bottles. Again, it would increase respect for Congress. A voter, receiving a home-brew recipe from his Congressman, thinks more of that Congressman than the voter who gets only copies of windy speeches which were never delivered.

"It would make the melting pot melt. Imagine one hundred million people, from the rocky coasts of Maine to the sun-kissed Golden Gate, and from the rum-running Canadian border to the rum-running Gulf of Mexico, all sipping Government beer under their humble roof-tree. Is not that a picture of unity?

"To prevent any scandal in the compiling of the booklet, I would forbid the Government to specify any particular malt. Practically everything else, including the scrapping of the Constitution, has been tried to make prohibition work. The Government could do no worse than weigh the obvious advantages of my scheme, and then let the Government printing offices go to work when they have no "Congressional Record" to print."

This will not be the perfectly charming world it could be until all people who use the expression "you ought" have either died or been drowned. "You ought" immediately makes the one "oughted" feel thankful and obligated to follow the advice. Advice should be dispensed liberally, with no string attached. The recipient does not intend to follow it, anyway.

LAMENT.

I know I said "forever," dear, but then my love was blind;
I would we two could learn to love, but we're not in a song;
I know you saw me twice a week, but then you're not my kind,
I would we two could learn to love with ardor deep and strong!

I know you took the course, my love; I know you're bound to rise;
I would we two could learn to love; there's only one thing wrong;
I know you choose, in cigarettes, the brand that satisfies;
I would we two could learn to love, and speed the hours along!

Ah, no! It is not that my love, if such your mind perturbs;
I would we two could learn to love, but then you don't belong;
I came from Boston, dearest, and you split your compound verbs;
I would we two could learn to love, but why the grief prolong?

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

MONARCH OF METALS.

From the Pathfinder.

THE report that a platinum rush had started in Transvaal, South Africa, aroused new interest in that metal. Platinum, say some experts, is challenging the position of gold as undisputed monarch of metals. But so far, says the National Geographic Society, gold is still supreme. Except in the Orient gold is still the foundation of all monetary systems. Twice platinum has failed to answer as a substitute for gold. As early as 1828 Russia tried it for coinage. But it was given up for gold in 1845. Soviet Russia tried the same thing but recently has returned to the gold standard.

"Each contender in the battle of metals," says the Geographic, "is versatile and is outstanding in those qualities of character for which metals are admired. Not the least of their trials of strength have been held in the arenas of modern chemical laboratories. Gold proudly maintains it can spread itself out more than any other metal. An ounce of gold beaten into gold leaf will cover 189 square feet. Platinum counters with the challenge that it can stretch farther than any other known metal. A cubic inch of platinum drawn into wire, practically invisible to the human eye, would make a strand of wire 50,000 miles long. In other words, one cubic inch of platinum can be stretched out to encircle the earth at the equator twice!" • • • Both platinum and gold are good resisters of corrosion in ordinary atmosphere. Both are malleable, although in this respect gold has the advantage. Both are heavy, but platinum is the heavier. At one time it was supposed that platinum was the only substance which cannot be dissolved, but it is now known that aqua regia, nitric and hydrochloric acid can conquer it. But its resistance entitles it to an important place in scientific work. Gold melts at 1945 degrees Fahrenheit, platinum at 3191.

NO TWELVE-MILE LIMIT THERE.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

AN American vessel on the high seas can be seized for violations of the laws of the United States. This is in effect the decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at New York in the case of a rum-runner captured in December, 1924, 34 miles off Block Island, with a cargo of illicit liquor on board. The lower court had ruled against the Government on the general ground that as the vessel was beyond the 12-mile limit its capture was illegal. The reversal of this decision by the higher court will add materially to the powers of the Federal prohibition-enforcement unit, for a number of similar cases are covered by it and a large quantity of liquor will be condemned. The Appellate Court's ruling that "every nation has the right to bind its own subjects to its own laws in every place" swept away all the technicalities upon which the owners of the craft sought to escape the libels filed by the Coast Guard officers.

DIPLOMATIC QUALIFICATIONS.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer:

THE labor leader in the House of Commons, who the other day called Lady Astor a liar, and later modified his accusation by saying that she had been guilty of terminological inexactitude, should be promoted to the diplomatic service at once.

Mexico Parallels Old English Persecutions

son and liable to sentence of death.

The convents and schools were closed and the nuns who attempted to remain were forcibly ejected by the soldiers of the crown. Monasteries were emptied and the countryside was filled with homeless monks, finding what shelter they could in houses by the way.

During the reign of Elizabeth more than 220 Catholics were put to death. As a historian of the period says, "The rack seldom stood idle in the Tower during the latter part of her reign."

James I Continues Persecution of Priests.

James I, who followed Elizabeth, was even more militant in his tactics. The Catholics had hoped he would be the avenger of his mother, Mary, Queen of Scots, who was put to death by Elizabeth, but he chose to consider himself the successor of Elizabeth and Henry VIII as head of the English Church.

Feb. 22, 1603, the persecution reached its height. On that date James issued a proclamation strictly commanding all priests to depart the realm before March 19 upon pain of having the laws executed against them without the least favor or mercy. The priests were imprisoned in England or were banished.

Many of the priests returned from the continent upon missions of conversion. Every manor house whose owner was Catholic offered refuge to at least one priest. In the thick walls of the old castles were dark hiding places called "priest's holes" where a persecuted clergyman could be concealed until the searchers who suspected his presence had ridden on.

"Priest's Holes" in Many Old Castles.

Some of these can be seen in English ruins to this day. One has a door hidden in a Corinthian column; another is entered through a fireplace provided with a double flue, one part of which was to carry off the smoke and the other to ventilate the hiding place. Hollow beams held springs and hinges. window seats formed entrances and in one place even an altar was so constructed that several fugitives could be hidden in it and still see all that was going on nearby.

At Wollas Hill, an Elizabethan mansion, there is a chapel in the upper part of the house and a "priest's hole" provided with a diminutive fireplace. When the officiating priest was about to celebrate mass, the housemaids spread linen on the hedges. This signal was known as far as it could be seen, and men and women from the villages near by soon arrived at the gate. Crowded in the great hall and in the minstrel's gallery they heard mass and received the sacrament.

On another estate was a curious maze of thickly planted evergreens in the shape of a cross. Three wooden crosses, placed there centuries ago, are still standing, and their presence is taken as an indication that at the time of the persecution the privacy of the maze was used for secret worship.

Thus quietly throughout the country supporters of the faith clung to the observance of their religion, sustained by the vague hope of a political change.

England's Celebrated Gunpowder Plot.

The gunpowder plot found England bordering on a state of revolution. In Scotland and in the northern parts of England small insurrections broke out, but the King quelled them, submitting the leaders to torture and death.

The gunpowder plot, however, was the most ambitious attempt that had been made. A group of persecuted Catholics formulated a plan to blow up the House of Commons by placing a store of gunpowder in a cellar below it. All would have happened as planned had not one of the conspirators warned a friend, telling him to absent himself from the meeting of the House on the fated day.

The recipient of the note, a conforming nobleman, immediately carried the missive to the King. The cellars were searched and there was found Guy Fawkes, match in hand, watching for the expected signal.

Punishment was swift and sure. The conspirators were killed and Parliament enacted more sanguinary laws against the Catholics. The King imposed fines on the families of all implicated in the plot and finding this profitable he began, instead of executing convicted Catholics, to impose heavy fines upon them, thereby increasing his income by some £30,000 annually. A fine of £260 a year was demanded from Catholics which, if not paid, subjected the recusant to forfeiture of all goods and chattels and of two-thirds of his lands.

Oath of Allegiance Broke Catholic Power.

But the law which effectually broke the power of the Catholic body in England was the enactment of a new oath of allegiance for the avowed purpose of drawing a distinction between those Catholics who denied and those who admitted the spiritual pretensions of the King. Those who refused to forswear the spiritual sovereignty of the Pope were subjected to perpetual imprisonment, the forfeiture of their personal property and the rents of their lands during life.

During the reign of terror that followed the enforcement of this statute the persecution was taken up with new vigor. Harboring a priest was punishable by death and the knowledge that one was about without informing the authorities was a felony and carried a death sentence.

The first of the persecuted Catholics died on the gibbet in 1577 in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and the last during the reign of Charles II in 1681. A succession of sympathetic rulers or, rather, rulers who did not feel it necessary to persecute the Catholics, has followed down to this day.

Mexico's Dispute With Church.

The antipathy of the Mexican Government toward the church is of long standing. Although able to throw off the dominion of Spain, the land ceded to the church by the Spanish King has not changed hands, and the influence of Catholicism, according to Mexican officials, has ever been on the side of the mother country.

Following the famed Mexican constitution under President Comonfort in 1857, Benito Juarez became the head of the republic. He enacted a series of laws against the Catholic church and at this time an attempt to consummate a schismatical movement was started. Plans were made by secret societies and other anti-Catholic associations to induce Juarez to declare Mexico separated from communion with Rome and establish a national religion whose first pontiff was to be Senor Pardio. The death of the proposed pontiff in 1861 put an end to the movement.

This was followed by the intervention of the French empire in 1864. Emperor Maximilian declared that the reform laws in regard to the laicization of the church property would be upheld. The civil war which ended in victory for Porfirio Diaz temporarily stopped the enforcement of the laws against the church, and the sufferance policy was followed until the presidency of Calles, when the statutes, issued for the most part more than 50 years ago, were revived.

Amended Criminal Statutes Curb Flaunting of Laws

have described co-ordinating with the national bureau maintained by the Department of Justice at Washington, and with a unified central bureau for New York City, would be of the greatest aid in this day of the rapid and widespread movements of criminals, in affording complete identification of individuals both for the purposes of arrest as well as after arrest. Such bureaus can only function with certainty through the use of fingerprints. While names, aliases, photographs, measurements, marks, mode of operating and such have their use, the fingerprint classification alone furinshes a universal and trustworthy key that can be depended upon to link up the history and misdeeds of the individual whether he be a local, statewide, interstate or international malefactor.

Of great assistance in furnishing the necessary fingerprint records is the newly amended section of the Code of Criminal Procedure in regard to bail. For the first time the taking of fingerprints on arrest and before conviction has been legalized. This is a long step in advance of securing the foundation for the systematic keeping of criminal records so that they may be available when wanted.

Bail Abuses.

This brings us to another step in the prosecution or crime—letting to bail. The abuses of easy bail were strikingly revealed by the Evening World in a series of editorials, with the result that the amendments to the bail sections of the Code of Criminal Procedure were passed as just stated. The purpose of the law, already in effect, is to prevent the bailing of professional criminals or other repeating offenders who may be dangerous to the public while on bail. The act does this by providing that if the person arrested is charged with a felony or with an attempt to commit a felony or with one of the following misdemeanors or offenses, he shall be first of all finger-printed and his record, if any, submitted to the Judge or Magistrate to whom he applies for bail before he shall be entitled to bail at all.

If there is good reason to believe that he has been previously convicted he may not be bailed by a Magistrate. These offenses are those usually associated with habitual or professional crime, viz.: illegal possession of a pistol or other dangerous weapon, making or possessing burglars' tools, buying or receiving stolen goods, unlawful entry of a building with intent to commit a felony or a larceny, aiding escape from prison, "jostling" or pocket picking, and illegal possesssion of drugs. The last named we find provided against both in the Sanitary Code of this city and in a newly enacted provision of the Code of Criminal Procedure later to be noticed. The provision as to drugs is not so harsh as it might first seem, since competent authorities agree that professional criminals are largely addicted to narcotics.

A person without a record may not be locked up for an unreasonable length of time. Fingerprints are required to be taken and searched without delay. This should be accomplished within a couple of hours.

Records to Judges.

If a person accused has a previous record he may nevertheless be freed on bail by a Judge of the Supreme Court, or General Sessions or of a County Court, provided his record is first submitted to the Judge. However, as the new law puts a person with a record of the kind described in the category of actual or probable murderers when it comes to allowing bail to them, it is apparent that any Judge will be extremely cautious in assuming responsibility for turning such a person loose under the incentive to commit more crimes so as to secure lawyers' and bondsmen's fees, to say nothing of his general criminal inclinations.

It is provided by the amending statute that if a criminal is charged with any of the misdemeanors or other offenses catalogued above he can no longer be bailed out before the Lieutenant in the station house, as was formerly his right in cases of charges lower in grade than felonies.

An important enactment which went into effect July 1 provides that when a number of defendants are jointly indicted for complicity in the same crime they may be tried all at one trial or one at a time in the discretion of the court. Formerly each defendant had an absolute right to a separate trial even though the evidence against each was the same. In the past nine or 10 defendants have demanded as many separate trials thereby multiplying that number of times the efforts of the prosecution, saddling the State with extra expenses, playing off the possible acquittal of one as evidence of the innocence of the rest, and completing the reappearance of those witnesses who might survive the intimidation, again and again. Under the new law, if the evidence against one or more defendants differs materially or some other good reason exists for a separate trial it is within the discretion of the court to grant it.

Disclose Evidence.

Another innovation, also effective July 1, amends section 388 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Hitherto the District Attorney has been compelled to offer his evidence immediately after his opening address, whereas the defendant did not have to make his opening address until the prosecution's evidence was actually presented. In this way the District Attorney was entirely in the dark as to what the defense might be and how to shape his evidence to anticipate it. On the other hand, the defendant's lawyer had all the benefit of knowing not only what the District Attorney expected to prove, but what he actually had proved before disclosing his own hand. Now each must state what he expects to prove before any evidence can be offered by either. In this way both are on even terms.

A new and important provision relates to all felonies committed or attempted while armed with a pistol or other weapon. It not only adds five to ten years to a first offense, 10 to 15 years to a second, 15 to 25 years for a third, and a fourth 25 years to life to the sentence usually applicable, but forbids probation, suspension of sentence or release before the full term of a sentence, irrespective of any "commutation" or "compensation."

This drastic provision is intended to meet the present saturnalia of highway robbery and banditry. It also involves the idea that a man who sets out to commit a robbery when armed is prepared to kill to effect his object or to make his escape. The exceptional case arising in the future where this reasoning may not seem to apply can only be reached through executive clemency.

The foregoing amendments have come to the rescue of the long enduring public and if faithfully enforced and administered should bring about a change which will in time cause professional crime to disappear, for the reason that as soon as a criminal gets within the professional stage he will be due for a sentence that will keep him out of crime a long part of his natural life.

FIRM IN PUBLIC FAVOR NOW MADE BETTER THAN EVER - - -

". . that the American family may have, at a moderate investment, a car which gratifies their finer tastes as well as satisfies their every need"

Dual Air Cleaning In this new Oldsmobile, a master air cleaner eliminates the injurious particles from two-thirds of the air before it enters the carburetor directly—while the second cleaner, in connection with crankcase ventilation, cleans the balance of the air.

Crankcase Ventilation In all internal combustion engines water is formed by condensation. Cold engines do not burn all of the fuel on starting. This water and liquid fuel pass into the crankcase and form crankcase dilution.

Excessive dilution is eliminated by crankcase ventilation. It draws off water vapor and unburned fuel that may have passed into the crankcase. Crankcase ventilation improves performance and gives longer life to the engine and oil.

Oil Filter An oil filter has been added to this Oldsmobile, prolonging still more the life of the engine and the useful life of the oil. Should the filter become clogged with sediment, the lubricating system functions in the common manner. All principle parts are pressure lubricated.

Harmonic Balancer The Harmonic Balancer, developed by General Motors engineers, counteracts vibration and gives Oldsmobile a smoothness, at both low and high speeds, you will quickly recognize when you take the wheel.

Twin-Beam Light Control Head lamps have double-filament bulbs, one filament for "bright action" and one for "dim action". On "dim action" the light is bright but thrown at a downward angle that protects the oncoming driver and gives ample vision to the Oldsmobile driver.

Other Features Larger L-Head Engine, Two-Way Cooling, Three-Way Pressure Lubrication, Full Automatic Spark Control, Thermostatic Charging Control, Tapered Dome-Shaped Combustion Chambers, High Velocity Hot-Section Manifold, Special Design Light Cast-Iron Pistons, Honed Cylinders, Silent Chain Drive, Balloon Tires, Exclusive Chromium Plating, Duco Finish; new beauty of line and appointments in Fisher Bodies; many other features of demonstrated worth, at no increase in standard prices and on the G. M. A. C. Time Payment Plan, if desired.

OVER the span of months and miles, in the hands of thousands of owners, Oldsmobile power and performance, dash and endurance, comfort and driving ease, demonstrated Oldsmobile's unchallengable right to the now familiar praise . . . "The car you can recommend to your best friend—it asks no favors, fears no road!"

But even that could not satisfy a policy pledged to progress.

KING FEEDS HORSE CARROTS

Animal Won't Take Dainty From Anyone Else.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 31. — King George's fondness for animals is well known and that it is reciprocated is shown by an incident which takes place whenever his majesty returns to Buckingham Palace from horseback riding in Hyde Park.

A groom always is waiting with a carrot from the royal garden. After dismounting, the King gives the carrot to his horse, which in return rubs his nose against the King's arm. The horse will not accept the carrot from anyone else and refuses to be led away without it.

TRIAL OF SIDENER REMAINS UNCERTAIN

Circuit Attorney's Counsel Expects Dismissal After Bender's Acquittal.

The trial of Circuit Attorney Sidener on a charge of compounding a felony in connection with the Rutherford murder case settlement, which is set for next Wednesday, remains an uncertainty following acquittal of A. Samuel Bender of a similar charge by a jury before Circuit Judge Hays of Hannibal Friday night in Judge Landwehr's court.

Counsel representing Sidener have expressed confidence that the State will dismiss its case against him. It is their opinion that the state's strongest case was against Bender and since that failed of conviction, Attorney-General Gentry and his aids may not press the Sidener charges.

No confirmation of this viewpoint could be obtained yesterday from the Attorney-General or Special Prosecutor Wayne Ely. At Jefferson City Attorney-General Gentry said he understood no jury panel had been summoned for the Sidener case and he presumed from this there might be a continuance. Ely said he did not know what plans the State had as to the Sidener prosecution and any announcement on this point must come from the Attorney-General.

WITNESSES DENY INTIMIDATION STORY

Police Hear Report of Threats in Saloon Holdup Case.

Police were told by a woman and two boys, who had identified a man as a robber, that they were afraid to go to the Circuit Attorney's office Friday, when application was made for a warrant for the man. They mentioned intimidation, but the police did not learn how they had been frightened, except that the woman said she had been warned of serious trouble if she persisted in the identification.

G. F. Waeckerley of 2640 Armand place told the Post-Dispatch yesterday that his son, Gustave, 9 years lod, had identified the man and on Friday three men in an automobile had driven past his home repeatedly, staring at it. This caused him to keep his boy at home, but he said there had been no refusal to let the lad repeat the identification.

Mrs. J. McCall of 3132 Shenandoah avenue, said her son, William, 15, had identified the man, but declared she kne wof no threats. The woman who identified the alleged robber was a Mrs. Kincaid of 2745 Shenandoah avenue. A woman at her home, who said she was his sister, denied that Mrs. Kincaid had refused to go to the warrant office and denied the report of intimidation.

The robbery was that of Ben Gander in his saloon at California and Shenandoah avenues, the evening of July 23, when Gander and several customers were held up and $65 taken from Gander, by two men. Meanwhile, a third man acted as lookout on the sidewalk and ran ahead of them to the automobile in which they escaped. He limped and this aided in the identification. The prisoner, who limped, was arrested Thursday, freed Friday when a warrant was refused, then rearrested. He had been arrested three times previously for questioning and five times for traffic offenses. He denied complicity in the robbery.

GERMAN PLANES GROSS RUSSIA

4000-Mile Trip to Promote Commercial Flying Agreement.

By Radio to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News.
(Copyright, 1926.)

BERLIN, July 31.—The Germans are proud of the achievement of two heavy Junker commercial airplanes, which have just completed a flight of more than 4000 miles across Russia to Lake Baikal in five and a half days elapsed and four days actual flying time, as compared with the rail trip of eight days and nights.

This is the first step in developing an arrangement with Russia for co-operation in commercial flying, and beginning an air mail route from Berlin to Vladivostok and Tokio. The flight was not designed to establish a speed record, but to test the reliability for commercial purposes of the big planes. The leader of the expedition was Dr. Robert Knauss, an army staff Major during the war.

NOT TO COMPETE WITH PANAMA

American Commercial Establishment in Canal Zone Forbidden.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The State Department disclosed today that under the new treaty with Panama this country agrees "not to set up commercial establishments in the Canal Zone to compete with the commerce of Panama." The present Government commissaries are excepted and the United States reserves the right "to permit bonded warehouses to be established in the Canal Zone and makes sales to ships."

All the other provisions previously have been disclosed in Associated Press dispatches from Panama. The State Department sought to have the terms kept secret, but the Panama Government declined to do so.

JOHNSON OPPOSES SHORTRIDGE

California Senator to Take Stump Against Colleague.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—Back home again today from Washington, Senator Hiram Johnson let it be known he intends to oppose from the stump the re-election of his colleague, Senator Samuel M. Shortridge. He also will oppose the re-election of Gov. Friend W. Richardson.

Senator Johnson, who arrived yesterday, lost no time in getting into the California political fight or in making known his stand. He will support Judge Robert M. Clarke of Los Angeles for Shortridge's seat in the Senate because Clarke, among other things, is denouncing the World Court. He will support Lieutenant-Governor C. C. Young for Governor.

ITALY REBUILDING OLD ROADS

Toll Highways Established Since the Advent of the Auto.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

MILAN, July 31.—Italy is replacing its antiquated roads, unsuited to motoring, with ultramodern construction. Milan Lakes motor road, 53 miles long, was rebuilt by a private corporation. It has a concrete surface and a foundation of gravel, overlaid with concrete, topped with a layer of tar. A road is operated by the builders, who collect tolls and at each toll gate maintain a filling station.

11 ST. LOUIS ARTISTS, WORK TO BE SHOWN AT CITY MUSEUM

Will Be Included in Twenty-First Exhibition of Paintings by Americans.

The work of 11 St. Louis artists will be included in the twenty-first annual exhibition of paintings by Amercan artists, to be held at the City Art Museum Sept. 1 to Oct. 15.

The exhibition is limited to 100 paintings representative of every section of the country. Thirty-four St. Louis artists submitted 64 paintings to a jury selecting the local work.

The 11 St. Louis artists and their paintings are: Tom P. Barnett, "A Touch of Fall;" Eugene F. Barth, "The Old Homestead;" William Bauer, "Winter Day;" Oscar E. Berninghaus, "Peace and Plenty;" Sheila Burlingame, "The Costume Model;" Kathryn E. Cherry, "Hotel;" Augusta Finkelnburg, "Old Beech Tree;" E. Oscar Thalinger, "Landscape;" Florence B. ver Steeg, "Still Life;" Robert C. Wright, "Still Life," and Frank Nuderscher, "The Eads Bridge."

They come back—and we come across

VERY often a buyer comes into our showroom and buys a used touring. After driving it three or four days, he decides that he wants a closed car. We immediately apply the full amount he has paid on the touring car on any other car, used or new, that he selects. This is just one typical example of what our Used Car Pledge stands for.

Buy any of these fine Used Cars on exactly the same basis

STUDEBAKER 1924 SPECIAL SIX TOURING—Just repainted pearly gray, with a fine red stripe. Renickeled and entirely reconditioned by experienced Studebaker mechanics. Brand-new tires. Windshield cleaner, mirror and other extras. A beautiful car that will render new car service.

Pledge to the Public on Used Car Sales

1 All used cars offered to the public shall be honestly represented.

If a car is suitable only for a mechanic who can rebuild it, or for some one who expects only a few months' rough usage on a camping trip, it must be sold on that basis. Each car must be sold for just what it is.

2 All Studebaker automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.

This is possible because tremendous reserve mileage has been built into every Studebaker, which it is impossible to exhaust in years.

3 Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.

The public can deal in confidence and safety only with the dealer whose policy is "one price only—the same price to all." For, to sell cars on this basis, every one of them must be honestly priced to begin with.

4 Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used.

It is assumed, of course, that the car has not been smashed up by collision or other accident in the meantime.

Not only to the public, but also to The Studebaker Corporation of America, whose cars we sell, we pledge adherence to the above policy in selling used cars.

MAYOR TO HAVE RAIL MEN IN CONFERENCE

Bridge Plan to Be Discussed at Meeting, Probably in September.

Five railroad executives having submitted objections to his plan for making the municipal bridge usable, Mayor Miller now is inclined to postpone action until he can gather heads of the roads into conference, probably not before September, when most of them will have returned to the city.

The Mayor believes that, across the table, the objections can be made clearer and remedies provided, if remedies satisfactory to the roads are possible.

Most of the objections to the plan so far cited have been operating objections and the Mayor yet is hopeful that the roads can be won to support the principles of the plan.

Boy Is Burned to Death.

83 AIRPLANE DEATHS IN U. S. LAST YEAR

There were 112 airplane accidents in the United States during 1925 in which 83 persons were killed and 112 injured, and since 1921, the fatalities have totaled 354 with 554 injured.

The figures are from the 1926 Aircraft Year Book, published by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce.

"There was undoubtedly a renaissance in flying during the year," the book declares. "Two hundred and ninety operators returned reports to the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. Nearly 5,500,000 miles were flown and more than 200,000 passengers were carried. Contracts for 12 air mail routes have been let to private operators. American planes during the year established seven world's records, but France obtained 16, Holland one and Italy the surprising number of 18."

Philadelphia Street Car Line Operates Airplane Service.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, July 31.—The Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., which operates the city's street cars, is reaching out to control all forms of transport. It first acquired all the city's bus lines. Then it bought and is operating the city's largest fleet of taxicabs. Now it has begun the operation of an airplane service between Philadelphia and Washington. Two round trips are made daily at $15 one way or $25 the round trip. On the Washington-to-Philadelphia leg, the passenger is furnished with a transfer to any street car line.

GARRETT, DEMOCRATIC LEADER IN THE HOUSE, FACES FIGHT

Opposition to Renomination in Tennessee Primary Based on Adverse Farm Relief Vote.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 31.—Finis L. Garrett, minority leader in the lower House and since the Fifty-ninth Congress one of the most prominent members on the Democratic side, is facing the battle of his political life with W. W. Craig, attorney of Ripley, Tenn., as his opponent, in the primary election next Thursday.

Both Garrett and Craig have been conducting an intensive campaign, and the latter's efforts are considered the first real challenge the chieftain has had.

Co-operative marketing associations challenged Garrett's vote against the Haugen-McNary agricultural bill. The Congressman did not benefit himself, political observers from his section say, when he admitted inability to offer a substitute measure.

Walton Peteet, head of the national council of farmers' co-operative associations, has come from Washington and is covering the Ninth District in an effort to defeat Garrett. Craig, who served in the Tennessee Legislature, is following Peteet in his trip around the district.

PEASANT WOMEN FARMERS WIN LEGION OF HONOR CROSS

Mothers of 29 Children in All Gain Honor for "Fidelity to the Land."

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 31.—The cross of the Legion of Honor, which represents so much to the French people, has been awarded to two peasant women farmers, in continuance of a policy established a few years ago, to encourage large families and fidelity to the land.

The citations in the Official Journal accompanying these two nominations, read:

"Madame Piron, farmer at Vieu d'Izenave (ain department), 45 years practice of agriculture, mother of 16 children, lost two sons in the war. Has 11 children still living, all working on the land. Born in a family of farm workers, has labored on the land from her earliest years. By her incessant toil and spirit of initiative has succeeded in making her farm a model for the district.

"Madame Peres, widow, farmer at Kervir-en-Scaer (Finistere department), 44 years practical work on the land. Mother of 13 children, had six sons mobilized, three of whom were killed in action. With the help of her seven daughters kept her farm in good state of culture during the war. May be cited as an example of courage and of dignified life."

Borah to Speak in Kansas City.
Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Having determined to spend a considerable part of the summer in presenting his views in opposition to American adhesion to the World Court, and on other subjects, Senator Borah (Rep.) of Idaho, will leave here Monday for the West. He will go first to Kansas City, where he again will outline his position on the prohibition amendment, and later at Denver he will discuss the World Court. From Denver he will go to Idaho to make his headquarters until September.

Increase in Chocolate Trade.
By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Americans are consuming more chocolate and cocoa, the Department of Commerce reports. The product of 58 manufacturers of the two commodities in 1925 was valued at $100,420,000, as compared with $95,531,000 in 1923, or an increase of slightly more than 5 per cent in two years.

KENNARD'S Annual SUMMER SALE

STARTS TOMORROW ~~ Buy Now and SAVE 10% to 33⅓%

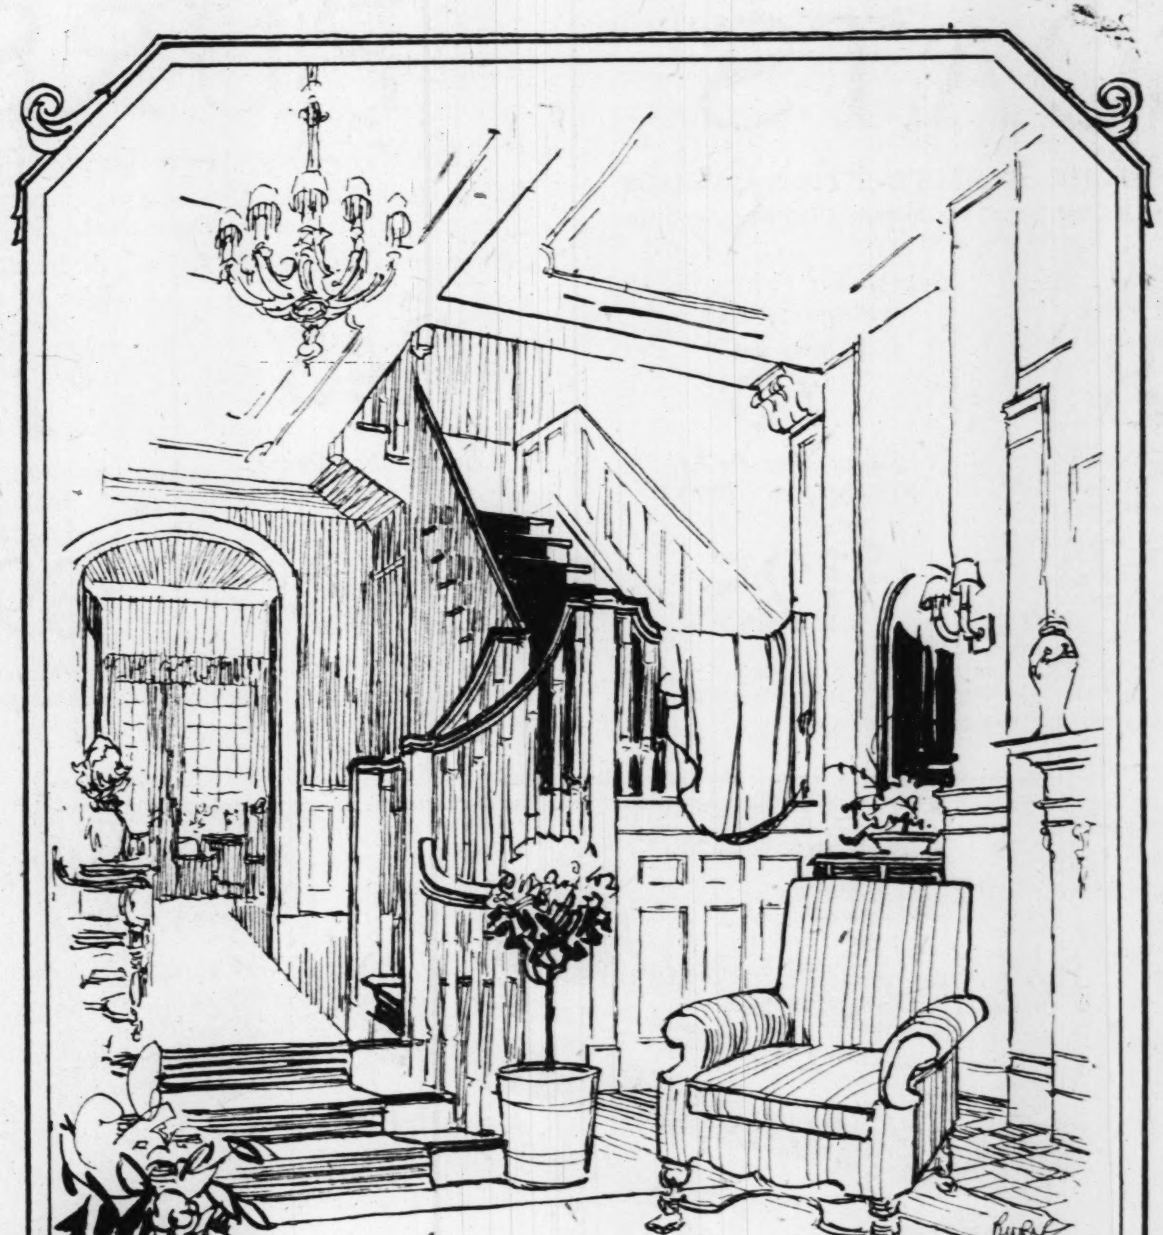
THE public has learned that Kennard's Summer Sale is the greatest opportunity of the year for economical home furnishing. Furniture.. Draperies and Floor Coverings .. economical from the standpoint of long wear and service, offered at real and marked reductions.

Kennard's policies have been conservative for 70 years. Sales are rare at 4th & Washington. Regular, everyday prices are as low as quality furnishings can be sold for. But every Summer stocks must be balanced—and regardless of profit. The result is a real opportunity for home owners who look ahead.

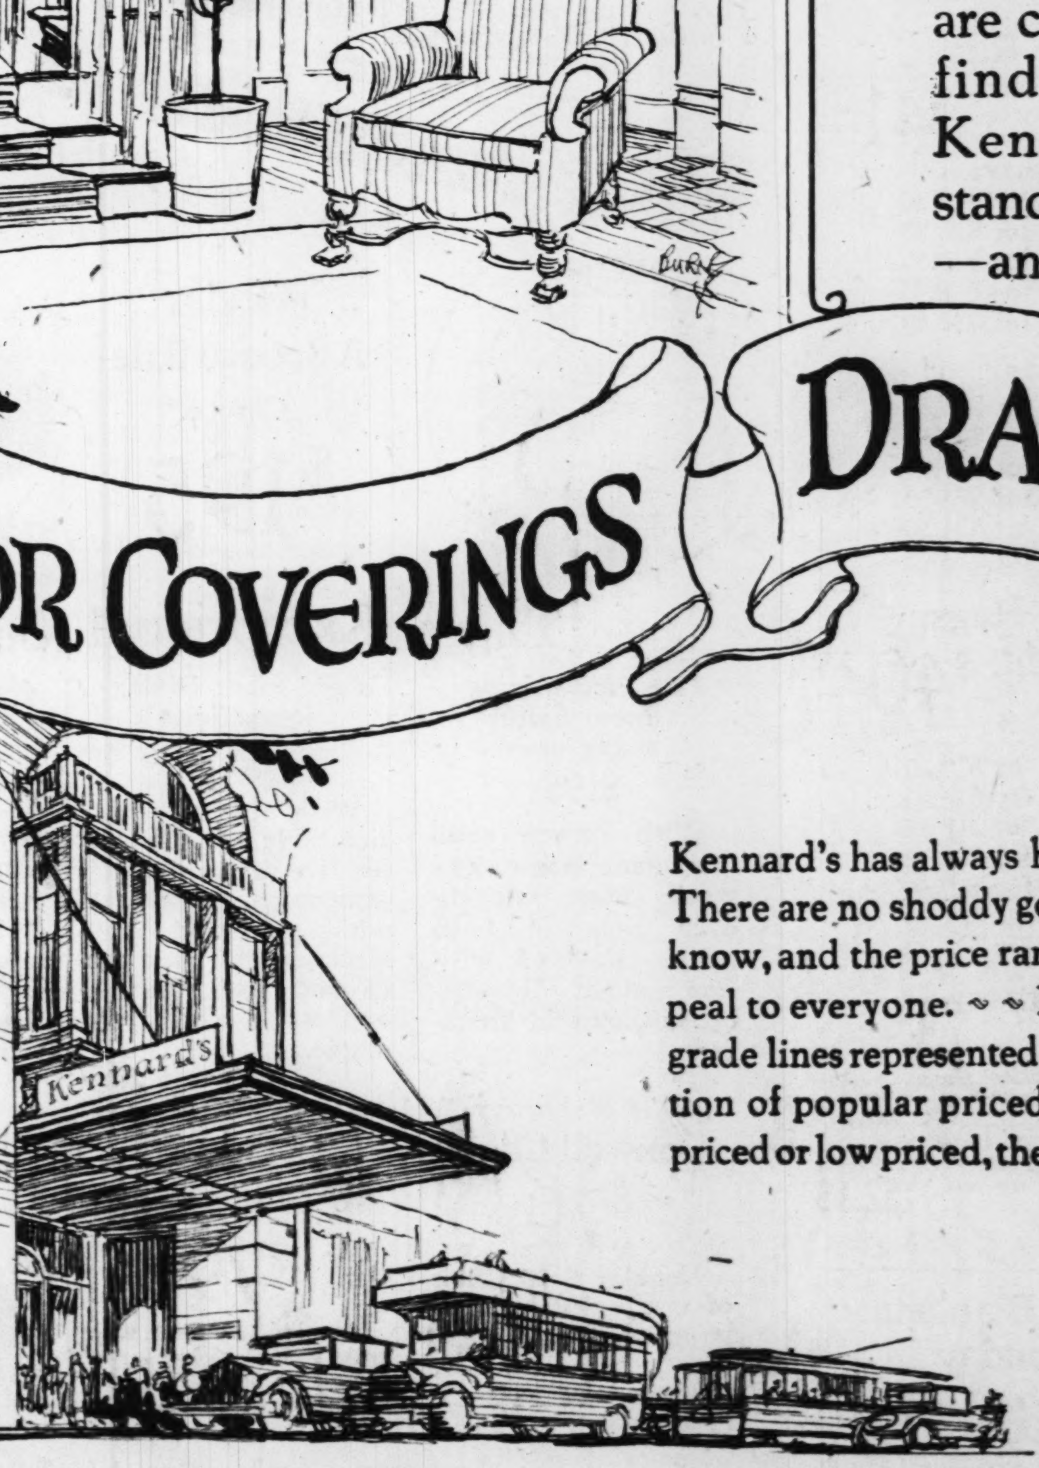


Every home will need something in Kennard's lines this Fall. And it has been said that if you will shop at Kennard's 30 days earlier, you can effect such substantial savings, you will be many times repaid.

Take advantage of Kennard's Summer Sale. Shop early in August. Stocks are complete now. You'll find what you want at Kennard's—with high standards of manufacture—and low in price.

FURNITURE FLOOR COVERINGS DRAPERIES

You may wish to take advantage of the low prices of the Annual Summer Sale, but would prefer not to have your merchandise delivered until later on in the fall. ~~ If you will so specify, the salesman will see that your purchases are held until you request delivery.



Kennard's has always had a quality reputation. There are no shoddy goods in the house, as you know, and the price range is wide enough to appeal to everyone. ~~ Not only are the higher grade lines represented but also a splendid selection of popular priced merchandise. But high priced or low priced, the quality is irreproachable.

Many St. Louisans At Beach Resorts Of New England

Yachting, Tennis and Golf Continue to Be Favorite Pastimes — Naval Fleet Adds to Gayety on Narragansett Bay.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Mass., July 31.

TENNIS week at the Essex County Club, Manchester, has brought many visitors to the North Shore, although it was a great disappointment to the tennis enthusiasts that Miss Helen Wills and two or three of the other women stars were unable to attend.

The North Shore swimming pool at Magnolia is a favorite place for entertaining at bridge and tea. During the week Mrs. Eugene A. Perry Jr. of St. Louis was hostess for a small number of friends at the pool for an afternoon of bridge. Mrs. Perry is spending the summer with her mother, Mrs. Claude Kilpatrick ,of St. Louis, at Stonehurst, Magnolia.

Mrs. John Fowler of St. Louis is the guest of Mrs. John Fremont Hill of Augusta, Me., at her summer home at Magnolia. Mrs. Fowler leaves this week for Biddeford Port, Me., where she has a summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Perry Jr. of St. Louis entertained at the dinner dance at Del Monte's, Magnolia, on Saturday evening.

Mrs. George Angue Dobyne, formerly of St. Louis, is entertaining Miss Florence Emerson of Boston at "Inglelowe," her summer home at Beverly Farms. Mr. Dobyne returned last week from a business trip to St. Louis and on Friday the golf tournament for the Inglelowe trophy began at the Essex County Club, Manchester. For six years Mr. Dobyne has offered this trophy, and the tournament has always been one of the most delightful held at the North Shore.

Lectures find a prominent place in the summer program of the North Shore. This year two series are being given, one on current events by Mrs. A. J. George and the other on "A Varied Group of Creative Spirits," by the Rev. Carroll Perry, rector of the Church of the Ascension, in Ipswich. Among the subscribers to the Perry lectures are Mrs. Samuel Kennard of St. Louis and Magnolia, Mrs. F. Whipple of Kansas City and Bass Rocks, Mrs. John Hays Hammond and others of the villa colony.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Claflin Allen Jr. of St. Louis are at Overlook cottage, at Diamond Cove, Annisquam, for the season. Also at Overlook are Mrs. Margaret J. Bostwick and daughter, Miss Theoline R. Bostwick, of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gordon of St. Louis are spending the summer at their cottage at Annisquam. Mrs. Gordon entertained a small company of friends at luncheon at the Yacht Club during the week.

Mrs. L. Ray Carter of St. Louis has opened "The Pines," her summer home at Annis-

Several Missouri Women Receive D. A. R. Honors

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 31.

THE single social sensation of Washington this week was the unexpected retirement of Senor Don Riano, Ambassador of Spain to this post for more than 25 years, on the eve of the arrival here of his sovereigns, King Alfonso and Queen Victoria, early in September. As dean of the Diplomatic Corps, he will be succeeded in that position by Baron de Cartier, Ambassador of the Belgians to the United States.

Now that they have been somewhat refreshed by the cool breezes of White Pines Camp, President and Mrs. Coolidge are indulging in a few house guests. Among these have been Mr. and Mrs. James McReynolds of Washington and Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston, the closest friends of the Coolidges.

The Cabinet continues to move about the country at a pretty lively pace. Secretary of State Kellogg, Postmaster-General New and Secretary of Commerce Hoover are the only ones who are spending much time in Washington this month, although Secretary of War Davis makes frequent trips here from Dark Harbor, Me., where Mrs. Davis and the children are spending the summer.

Mrs. Champ Clark, who has been in Washington for some weeks, was the guest of honor at a dinner given for her by Mrs. George Poe on Tuesday. Among other guests were Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, President General of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Clark left Washington on Saturday for a week-end trip to Wakefield Manor, near Front Royal, where she is the house guest of Major-General and Mrs. George Barnett for a few days. Gen. and Mrs. Barnett have one of the show country places around Washington.

MRS. HARLOW B. SPENCER.
Mrs. Spencer, a recent bride, was formerly Miss Katherine Quakenbos of New York. —Ashen-Brenner.

Miss Marian Darst Becomes Bride in Church Ceremony

Married to Edward J. Chassaing at New Cathedral—Reception Follows at Home of the Bride's Parents.

A PRETTY wedding, pleasantly interrupt the lassitude of mid-summer, was that of Miss Marian M. Darst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Darst of 4531 West Pine boulevard, and Edward Julius Chassaing, which took place at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning at the New Cathedral, Monsignor J. J. Tannrath officiating.

The bride was gowned in white georgette crepe, trimmed with French lace, over similar material in flesh tint. The skirt had a panel of lace at the back and circular flares of lace at either side extending to the delicate pink girdle. Her hat, of the garden variety, was of white hair braid, faced with pink and adorned with a single pink rose. She carried pink roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Thomas Jr., her sister's matron of honor and only attendant, wore flesh colored georgette with a hair braid hat to match, banded in blue grosgrain. Her flowers were pink roses and blue delphinium. Lawrence V. Cartan was best man, and Mr. Thomas and Eugene M. Darst, brother of the bride, groomsmen.

Close relatives of the families attended an informal reception after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Chassaing have departed for Chicago, and on their return will make their home with the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Anna L. Chassaing of 6000 Waterman avenue.

The bride is a graduate of Sacred Heart Convent and her husband of St. Louis University.

St. Louisans Abroad for The Summer

Some of Them Were Among the More Than 5000 Americans Who Invaded Paris on Vacation Trips—Others in Switzerland, Germany and Italy.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, France, July 22.—An elaborate gala was held recently at Evians-les-Bains, France, enticing many Americans there from Montreux, Lausanne and Geneva, Switzerland.

Among the Americans registered at the Hotel Royal are Mr. and Mrs. Frederic August Luyties and family of St. Louis. The Maharajah Gaekwar of Baroda and Lord Allington of London also are guests of that hotel.

Berlin is the gathering place for hundreds of Americans traveling in Germany these days. Recent visitors from Missouri include Mr. and Mrs. Oscar L. Biebinger of St. Louis, who were guests at the Adlon.

Mrs. Lina Heil Braun of St. Louis, who has been traveling in Italy and Switzerland, was a recent visitor to Lausanne, staying at the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Weil of St. Louis, who have been visiting German Rhineland resorts this summer, have arrived in Wildungen, where they are at the Hotel Furstenhof. Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Arnold and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Wolff of St. Louis also have been staying at that hotel.

Donaldson Hemenway of St. Louis and his sister, Mrs. George D. Barnett, visited Venice, Italy, staying at the Royal Danieli Hotel and are now in Paris.

Sir Wilfred and Lady Peek, the latter Miss Edwine Thornburg of St. Louis, gave a dinner last week at Claridge's Hotel in London and had among their guests Viscount and Viscountess Gladstone, Viscount and Viscountess Willingdon, Lady Hadfield and Gen. and Mrs. Spears.

Many new faces were to be seen at the Hotel Ritz, Paris, Sunday evening dinner dance. Comtesse Festetics de Tolna, Mr. and Mrs. William Maclain Freeman of Philadelphia, Mrs. Virginia Land Blanchard and her daughter, Miss Emily Blanchard of Shreveport, La., Baron de Sopron, M. Sarmiento and Mr. Barrow.

The proportions of this year's tourist invasion of Europe were emphasized by the arrival of more than 5000 Americans in Paris for the summer holidays.

The Leviathan of the United States lines brought a record-making number of passengers—more than 2500—St. Louis residents including James F. Ballard, who disembarked at Southampton, England; Miss Jane Boone, who landed at Cherbourg and came to Paris; Mrs. Clarence Curby and her daughter, Miss Ruth Curby and her son, Jack Curby, Southampton; Richard McCulloch and Robert McCulloch, Cherbourg; Mrs. Elsa Schrieber, Cherbourg; J. E. Taussig, Southampton.

Among the 600 students tourists were Mrs. Florence Wilnau of 8 Glendale road, Webster Groves, Mo., who is spending two months in England and on the continent, staying for the present at Taverner's Hotel, Euston, England; E. Bryan Williams of 5607 Bartmer avenue, a student at Washington University, here for six weeks. Miss Ruth Welles of St. Louis, who after a short stay in London is leaving for the Near East to study conditions for three months; Mrs. Anna McLain Sankey of 4529 Westminster Place, St. Louis, with her daughter, Miss Virginia Catherine Sankey of Washington University, St. Louis, and a party of eight friends who will spend the next two months abroad, are staying at present at the Grand Hotel in London; Robert Burch Weems of St. Louis, teacher of languages, with 16 people from Arkansas and North Carolina. Mr. Weems plans to stay in Paris this winter to study at the Sorbonne.

Miss Dorothy Faehy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Faehy of 5870 Plymouth avenue, is passing the summer touring the West.

Miss Florence Beck, who has been a guest at the Branscome Hotel, 5370 Pershing avenue, during her stay in St. Louis, departed today for her home in Kansas City. Miss Beck has been a student at the St. Louis University for the winter and summer terms. She will return in October to continue her studies.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Ziegenhein of the Chester apartments, have departed on an extensive trip through Canada, Alaska and California. They will return home Oct. 10.

The Misses Alice and Helen Kiburtz of Kingsbury place, will depart Wednesday for a month in California. They will visit their sister, Mrs. Frank A. Schroeder of San Francisco. Mrs. H. A. Schroeder Sr. will accompany them.

Miss Frances H. Scudder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Scudder of 5455 Delmar boulevard, departed Thursday for Estes Park and Denver to spend the remainder of the summer with her aunt, Mrs. Henry H. Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. James J. de Martini of 6311 Clemens avenue have gone to Eagle River, Wis., for the remainder of the summer.

MISS JANET SHIELDS

Miss Shields is traveling in Europe with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Shields Jr. —Kandeler.

MISS MARGARET STEPHENS JOHNSON

Miss Johnson of Kansas City, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Lawrence V. Stephens. —Ashen-Brenner.

MISS MARGARET HEATH

Miss Heath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard P. Heath, will become the bride of A. Jack Becker Wednesday. —Kajiwara.

MISS FLORENCE FERRENBACH

Miss Ferrenbach and her aunt, Mrs. J. B. Osterholt, recently departed for a trip through the Thousand Islands. —Kandeler quam and plans to remain until the late season.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. R. ifford of St. Louis are spending the summer at Annisquam, where they have a cottage on Norwood Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Betts and family of St. Louis have taken a cottage at Annisquam for the season.

Mrs. Robert H. White of Boston has been joined by her daughter, Mrs. Jerome J. Schotten, and daughter of St. Louis at her cottage in the Annisquam section of Cape Ann.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Oliver of New York, formerly of St. Louis, and Mrs. Ewing Hill of St. Louis are season guests at the Farragut, Rye Beach, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin V. Papin and son, Edward, of St. Louis are spending the summer, as usual, at the Rye Beach colony.

Mrs. George Tower of St. Louis is at her cottage at Hyannisport for the remainder of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur B. Jones and family of St. Louis have leased the Baker cottage at Hyannisport for the season.

The villa colony of Hyannisport is looking forward to the wedding of Miss Mary Lemon Sipple, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Caleb Sipple of St. Louis, and Arthur German Lambert of Washington, D. C., which will take place at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church Sept. 4. A large number of the St. Louis families summering in the East will be among the invited guests.

Mr. Francis D. Seward and Francis D. Seward Jr. of St. Louis are at The Gables, Hyannisport, for the summer.

The boys and girls at Wianno sailed their weekly race on Monday in West Bay over a three and one-half mile course, all eight contestants crossing the line within six minutes. Among the young skippers is Edward Mallinckrodt of St. Louis, whose "Flying Fish" did not belie its name.

The eighth race of the season of the Beverly Yacht Club at Marion on Cape Cod, was sailed Saturday in a light breeze. In the Herreshoff 12-foot class, Donald Cutler of Boston, son-in-law of Isaac Lionberger of St. Louis, sailed his boat, "Mr. Pip," but failed to cross among the winners. Miss Ruth Lionberger of St. Louis was not among the contestants of Saturday, but with her Mummy Chug has taken part in many of the races of the 12-footers and has proved herself a skillful skipper.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gates Williams of St. Louis are spending the summer at Hyannisport, where they have taken a cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Lehmann of St. Louis are guests of Mrs. Lehmann's father, Isaac Lionberger, at his summer home at Marion.

Mrs. John Barrymore Visits Mother at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 31.—The greater part of the entertaining in the Newport villa colony takes place on the last two nights of the week, as then the men return from New York and other cities for the week end.

The young people of the summer colony are taking a prominent part in the season's entertaining and many affairs are being given for Miss Betty Tailer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer, had a dinner for her young friends at Honeysuckle Lodge. On Aug. 14, Miss Alice Whitehouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman deR. Whitehouse, made her bow to society and for the occasion her parents planned one of the large events of the season at their home, Sea Edge, on Price's Neck.

Society Circus Is Main Event at Narragansett Pier.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, July 31.—The chief attraction for the cottage and hotel colony last week was the Society Circus, given at Le Touquet on Friday evening, which proved the most brilliant of the July affairs. It was preceded by several dinners. Among those present were Mrs. Cahill and her daughter, Miss Leonore Cahill of St. Louis, who are spending the summer with Mrs. Cahill's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. B. Sullivan of Providence and Narragansett Pier.

One of the delightful affairs of the season was the clambake given at the Clambake Club on Thursday evening. The terrace of the club made a charming scene for the gathering. Among those who were privileged to attend were Miss Leonore Cahill and George and Bert Lambert, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert of St. Louis.

The Point Judith Country Club has been a busy place this week with golf and tennis tournaments in progress. In the mixed foursome contest on the links last Sunday, George Lea Lambert was among the winners.

The annual bridge party for the benefit of the Narragansett Pier Improvement Association will take place Aug. 11 on the terrace of the Carlton Hotel. Among the subscribers for the affair are Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert and Miss Leonore Cahill, both of St. Louis.

The presence of the dreadnaughts Wyoming, New York and Utah, many destroyers and a larger number of airplanes at Jamestown has added greatly to the social interests of the summer colony.

These Are the First Fall Frocks

Our Specialized Group Presents Important Autumn Fashions in Frocks of Quality Exceptional at

$25

What is the new silhouette? Where is the waistline? Which are the best colors, the best fabrics? These are matters of great moment to the feminine mind just now—questions that find an authentic answer in these first Fall Frocks that make their bow Monday. Chosen with exacting taste and a keen sense of style, they bring you the modes of the new season and reveal the superior qualities that make our specialized group at $25 so satisfying in value.

Crepe Satin Is a Fabric Highly Favored

The shiny side trimming the dull side is an effective and tasteful contrast in many of the new frocks of Crepe Satin. Equally good is the frock developed entirely in the satin side, seen frequently in this group.

The Bloused Back Stresses a New Silhouette

Both women and misses will wear the Bloused Silhouette this Fall—it marks the trend toward a new Silhouette, softer and more feminine in tone. Often the waistline is frankly defined with a wide girdle.

Parties and Other Events

Miss Margaret Heath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard P. Heath of 5103 Maple avenue, whose marriage to A. J. Becker, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. J. Becker of Larchmont, N. Y., will take place this week, has been the guest of honor at a large number of pre-nuptial parties.

Miss Marydelle Woods, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Woods of 7069 Kingsbury boulevard, gave a box party July 21 at the Municipal Opera for Miss Heath and her fiance, and the following Saturday Miss Elizabeth Lord was hostess at a buffet supper, at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clark McAdams of 60[illegible] West Cabanne avenue. Mrs. Bennett R. McMath of Webster Groves, gave a luncheon July 22 for Miss Heath and Friday night Mr. and Mrs. William C. Eliot of Webster Groves entertained for her. Mrs. Herbert K. Jackson of 905 Concordia lane, gave a bridge luncheon July 24 for Miss Heath and last evening, Philip A. Becker of 3463 Longfellow boulevard, uncle of the prospective bridegroom, was host at a dinner at the Sunset Hill Country Club.

Tuesday night Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Jones of 816 Eastgate avenue gave an opera party followed by supper at Hotel Chase Roof Garden. Miss Edythe Leiber of 5187 Enright avenue, will be hostess at a bridge luncheon at the Coronado Hotel tomorrow, for Miss Heath. Tomorrow evening, Joseph K. Walker, who will be Mr. Becker's best man, will entertain the bridal party at Hotel Chase. Miss Eleanor Ann Becker, sister of the bridegroom to be, arrived yesterday from New York. She will be maid of honor at the wedding.

Miss Melville Clement, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Clement of 5906 McPherson avenue, whose marriage to Allan W. Gordon of Irvington, N. J., will take place Aug. 10, will be guest of honor at several pre-wedding parties. Next Wednesday Miss Muriel Green of 5592 Waterman avenue will give a bridge luncheon at the Algonquin Club; on Saturday Mrs. Newton Edwards and Miss Thelma Carolyn Cook will be point hostesses at a bridge party at the Forest Park Hotel, and after the ceremony and reception Aug. 10, Vertrees Young, who will be Mr. Gordon's best man, will give a dinner for the bridal party at the Hotel Chase roof garden.

In addition to the bridal party already announced the ushers will be Nelson K. Rice and John Bryan.

The ceremony will be performed at the Hamilton Avenue Christian Church at 5 o'clock and a reception will follow at the Clement home.

Among the unusual social events of the summer will be a drawing-room evening by Mrs. Pearl Lenore Curran at the Elizabeth Uhls-Lindsay Studio, in the Pershing Galleries Building, 5579 Pershing avenue, Friday evening. Mrs. Curran will speak on "The Personality of Patience Worth," followed by extemporaneous poems on subjects given by the audience. Some of the most beautiful of the Patience Worth poems have been set to music by Mrs. Uhls-Lindsay, and two groups of these songs will be sung by St. Louis artists, with the composer at the piano. Information regarding invitations may be obtained by telephoning Cabany 7818.

The ceremony will be solemnized at the home of the prospective bride's parents at 10 a. m. Wednesday. The Rev. Dr. James L. Fowle of the Central Presbyterian Church will officiate.

Mrs. William H. Stubblefield of 215 South Jefferson road, Webster Groves, gave a bridge luncheon Tuesday.

The Good Fellowship Club will hold its regular meeting Friday evening at Westminster Hall, 3806 Olive street. Those interested may attend.

In Our August Fur Classic

Our Standard of "Style, Quality, Dependability and Excess Value" Is Forcibly Emphasized

ONE customer in our Fur Salon remarked, Friday, that she got the same thrill out of trying on Sonnenfeld Furs that she did out of viewing cars at a Motor Show—you could look even if you did not come to buy—but we noticed she bought. They invariably do in our Fur Classic—because the values are so evident, the styles so artistic, and the prices as low or lower than the lowest.

Weddings and Engagements Announced

At a bridge luncheon given Wednesday by Mrs. Martin C. Andrews of 5878 Julian avenue, announcement was made of the engagement of the hostess' daughter, Miss Dorothy Andrews, and George E. Gantner.

The house was decorated in pink roses and vines. The announcements were concealed in a bridge prize won by Miss Mildred Stocking, and were small legal-looking documents written on parchment to which were attached gilded nut shells containing miniature engagement rings. These were delivered to each guest by Bettie Lee McCaskill, niece of the prospective bride.

The guests included Miss Ruth Ferguson, Miss Mary Muckerman, Miss Rose Mary Derby, Miss Helen Ayars, Miss Frances Thompson, Miss McLean, Miss Edith Cann, Miss Lucille Meyer, Miss Constance Warren, Miss Mildred Stocking, Misses Nedra and Rae Culler, Misses Marjorie and Virginia Flint, Miss Marion Steinhart, Mrs. Leo Fitzgerald, Mrs. Bert Gantner, Mrs. William Sease, Mrs. Henry Davis, Mrs. Walter Reed, Mrs. William S. Campbell, Mrs. Albert Theis Jr., Mrs. James E. McBurney, Mrs. C. E. Lemmon and Mrs. J. E. Forsythe. The out-of-town guests were Miss Verna Meyer of Augusta, Mo., and Mrs. Hadyn A. McCaskill, daughter of the hostess of Athens, O., who, with her small daughter Bettie Lee has been visiting her mother for several weeks.

Miss Andrews attended the University of Illinois. Mr. Gantner is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gantner of Boonville, Mo., and a graduate of the Law School of St. Louis University.

The wedding will take place in September.

The engagement of Miss Ruth Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Anderson of St. Charles, Mo., to C. Warren Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Meyer, was announced at a bridge luncheon given at the home of the prospective bride yesterday. About 50 guests were present. No date for the wedding has been set.

Erwin D. Dotzman and Miss Mildred Gerdes were married Tuesday morning, at St. Teresa's Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George H. Hildner. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Gerdes, 3414 North Eleventh street, and is a graduate of St. Joseph's Academy. Mr. and Mrs. Dotzman will reside at 6020 Dewey avenue.

Miss Esther Knapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Knapp of the Kirkwood Country Club, gave a bridge luncheon Friday afternoon to make known her engagement to Francis A. Kahler of Chicago. Miss Knapp is a graduate of Washington University. Mr. Kahler is an alumnus of the school of commerce and finance of the University of Chicago. The marriage will take place the last of August.

After a honeymoon spent in the northern woods and the Chippewa Indian Reservation the couple will make their home in Chicago.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Alice R. Carroll, daughter of Mrs. M. B. Carroll of 4014 Shenandoah avenue, to James W. Fitzgibbons. The wedding will take place Wednesday morning at St. Margaret's Church. Miss Genevieve M. Malone will be bridesmaid and Edmond Fitzgibbons will be groomsman. A wedding breakfast will be served at the home of the bride's mother. The couple will pass their honeymoon in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Shapiro of 5210 Kensington avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence, to David Kanterman, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Kanterman of University City. The date for the wedding has not been set.

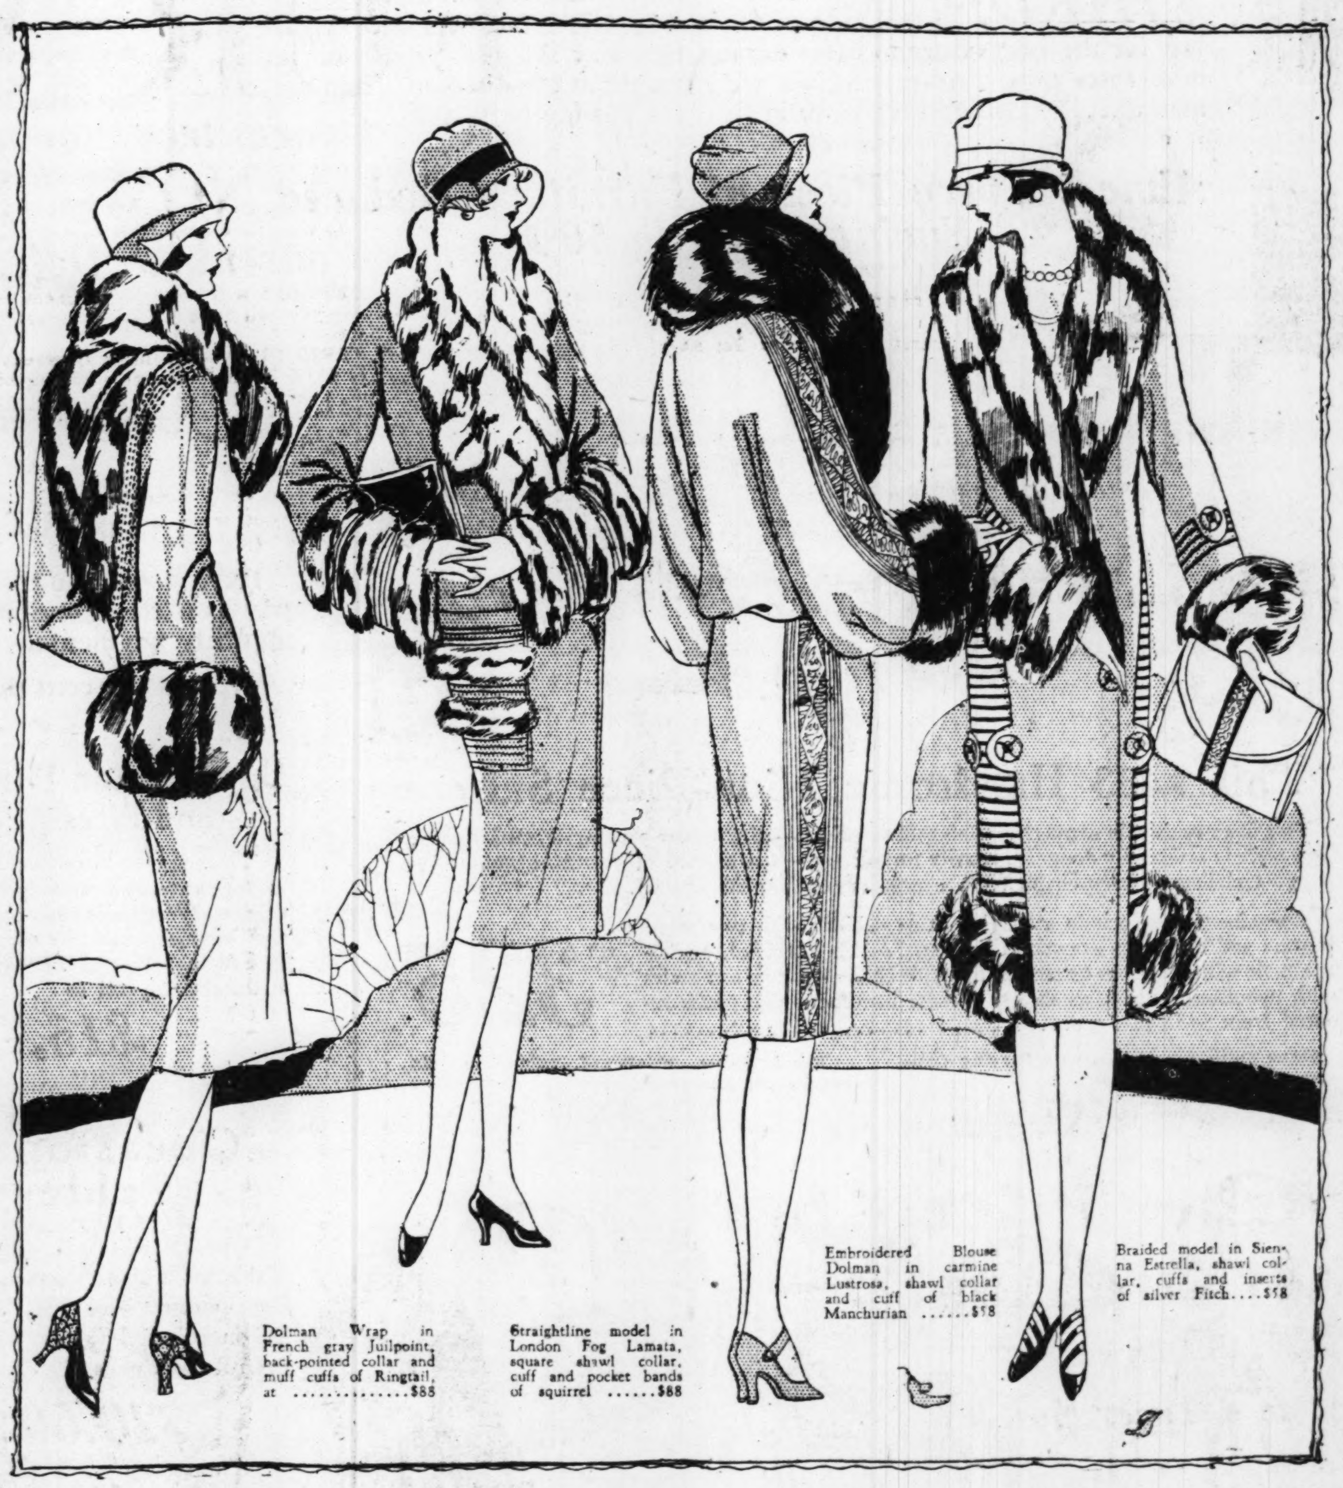
AUGUST SALE of COATS

PRESENTING AUTHENTIC WINTER 1926-27 MODES WITH LUXURIOUS FUR TRIMS



Dolman Wrap in French gray Juilpoint, back-pointed collar and muff cuffs of Ringtail, at $88

Straightline model in London Fog Lamata, square shawl collar, cuff and pocket bands of squirrel $88

Embroidered Blouse Dolman in carmine Lustrosa, shawl collar and cuff of black Manchurian $58

Braided model in Sienna Estrella, shawl collar, cuffs and inserts of silver Fitch....$58

THIS year, due to foresight in purchasing Winter Coats months ago, on a lower market than now obtains, we are offering the choicest of next Winter's coat modes at savings of from one-fourth to one-half, and even more. Very fortunate will be those who choose from these two feature groups.

$58 Winter Prices to $110

$88 Winter Prices to $195

We bought these Coats long before the strike of tailors who make them. Continuance of the strike, with no immediate hope of settlement has sent prices soaring. Buyers, many from our own city are virtually bidding for the few Coats now being produced. Therefore, it is more important this year than ever before to select your next Winter's Coat from the complete assortments now available at Garland's. Here you will find the smartest styles at savings which will undoubtedly be even greater before you are ready to wear your Coat.

Monday, the entire range of Winter models will be on display. Purchasing now means selection from the only complete line that will be shown according to present knowledge. We picture four characteristic models which show the trend of fashion . . . . Shawl or standing collars of expensive furs, muff or wide band cuffs . . . . wrap effects, slender silhouettes............beautiful pockets, blouse backs........and other distinctly new lines.

WATCH 'EM!

A chicken-hawk circling above a flock of chickens in a barn-yard is a truly interesting sight.

Slowly it moves, coming closer with each circle to its intended victim until within striking distance when it darts swiftly downward, seizes a chicken in its claws then soars rapidly upward with its prey in its grasp.

Just so are the methods of many conniving men of today.

They seek victims for their schemes, win their confidence with promises they never mean to fulfill, then pocket the spoils of their unscrupulous actions.

Moral:

Beware of "Human Chicken-Hawks"

GLACIER PARK IS SCENIC CLIMAX OF FINE MOTOR TOUR

Wonderful Panoramas of Mountains and Lakes Await Touring to Northwestern Montana.

A motor tour of some 4200 miles that may be made from St. Louis in a month reaches its scenic climax in Glacier Park, in Northwestern Montana just below the Canadian boundary. The scenery in Glacier Park equals anything else of the kind in this country, and in some respects is the most spectacular accessible by motor car.

Glacier Park may be reached by a dozen routes, but two of these are most practicable. One goes over the Yellowstone Trail and back over the Glacier Trail and the Custer battlefield highway. The other goes over the Yellowstone Trail and returns via Yellowstone Park and Denver.

One Route to Glacier Park.

In the one case, the motorist leaves St. Louis over the McKinley Bridge and runs over highway No. 4 to Bloomington, then north on No. 2 to Rockford, Ill., then via Beloit, Madison and Eau Claire, and follows the Yellowstone Trail west to Livingston, Mont., then the Yellowstone-Glacier "B" highway via Great Falls and Choteau to Glacier Park—a distance of about 2150 miles. The return trip is over the same trail to Livingston, then over the Custer Battlefield highway through the scenic Black Hills country of the Dakotas and down into Iowa to the Lincoln highway. Then follow the Lincoln as far as De Witt, Ia., then south to Davenport, and back to St. Louis over Illinois highways No. 7, No. 29, No. 24 and No. 4. This route is shorter than the Yellowstone Trail route.

Another Scenic Route.

The alternative route homeward drops south from Glacier Park over the same route to Livingston, Mont., then runs south to Gardner and through Yellowstone Park, out the east entrance of the park, through the Shoshone canyon to Cody, south via Casper to Cheyenne, then south vit Ft. Collins to Denver and home over the Victory highway. This route may be varied by leaving Yellowstone Park by the south entrance and motoring down into the Teton Mountains and Jackson Hole country, striking the Lincoln highway at Rawlings, Wyo., running eastward to Cheyenne, then going via Denver and the Victory highway.

Roads to Glacier Park are reported generally good. They are gravel and dirt most of the way west of the Mississippi River. Reports from motorists who have been over the various routes indicate that, on the whole, the Yellowstone Trail route is a little the best.

Inspiring Panorama.

So beautiful, so inspiring are hundreds of views and panoramas in Glacier Park, that every person in this country should try to visit this wonderful mountain and lake region at least once. The view from the motor road along the east side of the park; the climb to Lake McDermott, the panorama of Lake McDonald and its guardian mountains, on the west side of the park; the vista up St. Mary's Lake to Going-to-the-Sun Mountain—to cite only a few—once seen are indelibly imprinted upon one's memory.

But to gain an adequate idea of the park's beauties, one must leave his car and hike or ride horseback up among the rugged peaks and over the more famous passes.

It should be borne in mind that it is impossible to drive a car through Glacier Park. If one approaches the park from Living-) ston, he can ship his car by freight from the Glacier Park station to Belton, whence he can motor two or three miles to the foot of Lake McDonald.

A good idea of the park and its scenery may be gained by motoring from Glacier Park Station to the foot of St. Mary's Lake, taking the boat trip up the lake and back, then motoring along the east side of the park and to Many Glacier Hotel. There one can join a horseback party and make a five-day trip—the first day to Granite Chalet; the second day to Lake McDonald; the third day to Sperry Glacier; the fourth day via Gunsight Pass to Going-to-the-Sun; the fifth day via the Piegan Pass back to Many Glacier.

110,000 Cars in Miami.

Miami, Fla., has the most automobile per capita of all cities in the world. A survey showed that there are 110,000 automobiles in operation, and the population is estimated at 250,000. The ratio is a little more than a car for each two and a half persons. It is estimated that 10,000 tourist cars in transit have visited Miami in the last month, besides the estimated motor population.

LABADIE DETOUR STILL IN USE ON HIGHWAY TO UNION

The detour on Federal highway No. 50 and State route No. 14 via Labadie will be in force for another week, at least, State highway engineers state. It is being used in the daytime, but at night motorists are allowed to travel over the construction. The detour via Pacific is done away with, as has been told. It is advisable for motorists bound for St. Clair and places farther along on No. 14 to go out the Gravois road and highway No. 30 to St. Clair. Here is a summary of road conditions from the St. Louis-Franklin County line to Union:

"Leaving the end of the old pavement at the county line, there is a detour, eight-tenths of a mile long, up a steep hill. Then there is new concrete for five miles, then a rough, rocky, narrow detour with numerous sharp curves and grades to Labadie and back to No. 14, which thereafter is followed to Union. This detour should be driven with care, and should not be attempted by anyone familiar only with city driving. There are long stretches with no room for turning out or with inadequate room for passing other cars. The only sensible course is to wait at the bottom of several of the grades until a descending car has passed. The route via Gravois road and highway No. 30 is some five miles longer, but is much better for traffic bound to St. Clair."

MAY START WORK ON BRIDGE AT LOUISIANA IN AUGUST

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISIANA, Mo., July 31.—It is planned to start work on the Mississippi River bridge here in August. The engineers have completed their plans, which will be submitted to the War Department for approval. It is expected that the bridge will be completed by October, 1917.

The site is almost ideal, at one of the narrowest crossings of the Mississippi—some 1200 feet—and with a bluff approach on the Missouri side. Surveys reveal that it is a short distance to bedrock at the river bottom.

The bluff approach will place the bridge so high above the water that it will not be necessary to build a draw span, so the bridge will be the first to cross the Mississippi without this feature.

The bridge will be operated on the toll system, the charge planned being 75 cents for a car and driver and five cents for each additional passenger.

Loans!

Why worry or bother your friends if you need a little money? If you have a car, drive up, bring title, get the money and drive away with $50 to $1000. No delay. Quick service. No endorsers. Everything private. Low rates. Pay back $2 a week. Open nites. Yahlem Finance Corp., 1035 N. Grand.

OHIO TO END DETOURING ON ROADS UNDER REPAIR

A new program has been adopted by the Ohio State Highway Department which will eliminate the detour nuisance on roads which are being repaired and in places where bridges are being constructed.

Detours are to be established only in places where new roads are being built, and in those cases they will be made as short as possible and will be improved temporarily.

On roads that are being repaired half of the highway is to be left open for one line of traffic.

MARK TWAIN PARK LURES MANY WEEK-END MOTORISTS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FLORIDA, Mo., July 31.—The Mark Twain State Park, on the south border of Florida, is proving popular this summer. Hundreds of cars visit the park every week-end. In Florida the cabin in which Mark Twain was born may be visited.

The Mark Twain Park is 12 miles east of Paris, in Monroe County. It may be reached from State Highway No. 54, or by No. 10.

TOLL ROAD TO MEXICO CITY MAY BE OPENED IN AUGUST

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., July 31.—The toll road that Charles M. Haskell, former Oklahoma Governor, is constructing between Laredo and Mexico City is to be completed in August, according to word from the City of Mexico office of Haskell. Never has a motor car been driven over this 800 miles. The toll charge is to be $10 from Laredo to the Mexican capital and $15 between the Mexican capital and Laredo.

AUTO CLUB AIDS EFFORTS TO END OIL SUBSTITUTION

Motorists Are Requested to Help by Reporting Experiences in Buying of Lubricants.

The Better Business Bureau of St. Louis, with the assistance of the Automobile Club of Missouri, has begun a campaign to ascertain how generally motorists are getting the kind of lubricating oil they want and need.

The campaign was started at the instance of the automobile club after this organization had been informed that some filling stations sold motor oils of inferior quality as standardized oils. The Automobile Club also declared that there had been a number of instances where reclaimed crankcase oil was sold by the quart to motorists as fresh, trade-marked oil.

The Better Business Bureau has sent a letter and questionnaire to each automobile owner in the city asking for details regarding his method of purchasing oils, his success with certain kinds, and whether he has had unpleasant experiences.

In the letter to motorists the Bureau says:

"Oil substitution, as it is called, is a problem of genuine importance to every car owner. Authorities estimate that millions of dollars are lost each year to American motorists because of this evil.

"We ask no record of your name; no salesman will call on you; no sales literature will follow. The sole purpose of this inquiry is to make it possible for every car owner to get the kind of oil he pays for, for the sake of his pocketbook and his car."

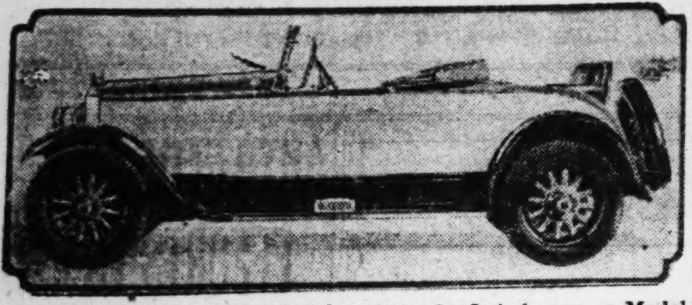
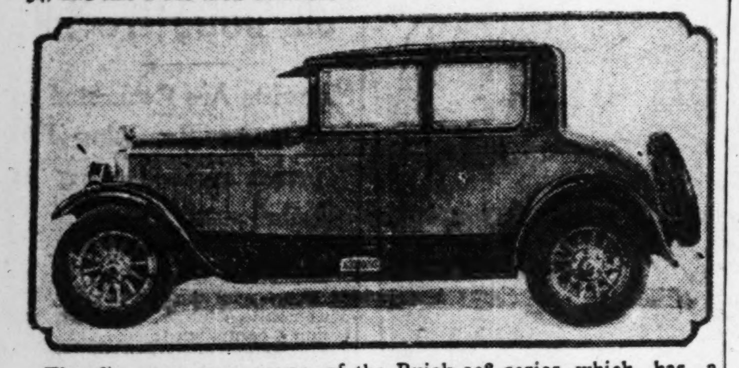
New Buick Cars Have Notable Improvements



Sport roadster of the new Buick series 128. It is known as Model 54, and has a 128-inch wheelbase.



The five-passenger coupe of the Buick 128 series, which has a wheelebase of 128 inches. It is being shown by the Vesper-Buick Automobile Co.

BUICK SAID TO HAVE PUT END TO VIBRATION

Numerous Features of 1927 Line Said to Be New to Automotive Industry.

The new Buick cars for 1927 are now on display by the Vesper-Buick Automobile Co. and its associate dealers. There are 16 body styles, mounted on chassis lengths of 114½, 120 and 128 inches. The line is made up of four sport type cars and 12 closed cars. Buick prices at factory list range from $1195 to $1295 for the 114½-inch wheelbase line; from $1395 to $1495 for the 120-inch wheelbase line, and from $1495 to $1995 for the 128-inch wheelbase de luxe line.

The Buick engineering department has developed a chassis built around Buick features of the past, but with improvements which are in most cases new in the industry.

Vibration Said to Be Ended.

"The problem of period vibration has been solved in the new "Buick," says the announcement of the new cars. "This is accomplished by a counter-balanced, four-bearing crankshaft in combination with light, cast iron pistons, a heavy flywheel and an exclusive Buick torsion balancer.

"Counter-weights are used to keep the crankshaft from deflecting. They also balance the shaft so perfectly that there is no high bearing pressure or whipping out of line, which are the main causes of engine rumble, noise and roughness.

"Any crankshaft, no matter how scientifically worked out, has periods of torsional vibration. The torsion balancer absorbs the tendency of the shaft to twist under the power impulses, and delivers these impulses back to the shaft after the piston forces are spent. In this manner it irons out vibration periods and gives the engine a smooth flow of power throughout the speed range. The light pistons and heavy flywheel help obtain this result.

"It will be necessary completely to change the oil in the new Buicks only four times a year. This is possible because the solution of the crankcase dilution evil has been found. This is accomplished by a vacuum ventilator without moving parts, an air cleaner and oil filter which keep abrasives out of the oil, and thermostatic temperature control.

Engine Mounted in Rubber.

"The water and raw gasoline which are by-products in a gosoline engine get into the crankcase in the form of vapor. The vacuum ventilator sucks them out before they can condense and dilute the oil. The thermostat, which controls the water flow, blocks the water when the engine is cold, so that a temperature of 120 degrees is reached before circulation is started. This prevents excessive use of the choke and greatly reduces the amount of raw gasoline which goes to the cylinders and eventually to the crankcase.

Engine silence is enhanced by new valve springs which minimize noise from this source. There is a newly designed muffler and exhause system which is very quiet. Weight per piston has been reduced 6 ounces. Weight of the flywheel has been increased.

"Transmission and gear noises have been reduced by use of new giant teeth and by an improved mounting of the transmission case to the engine. The transmission case is designed especially to dampen gear hum. The transmission bell housing and the flywheel housing have been strongly reenforced to prevent distortion. The result is positive alignment of all units, which eliminates clutch rattle, clutch release bearing noise and gear noise.

"The engine is mounted in rubber at all three points of suspension. This insulates the body from the engine. There is a remarkable freedom from closed car rumble as a result. Silence has been developed to a high point throughout the car, in fact.

Details of Coach Work.

Custom body design and finish are found throughout the line. Every closed car is upholstered in mohair, with broadcloth optional in some models. Open cars are upholstered in genuine leather. Hardware is of new design. A dash temperature indicator and dash gasoline gauge are included in the equipment of several models. Color combinations are in duco. Many are in two-tone shades.

"The rear decks of roadster and coupe models are designed to give a streamline effect. Dickey seats project only slightly above the deck, allowing passengers to sit in a low and comfortable position.

"The color of the body is carried out in the window recesses of the closed cars, in order to bring the color scheme in closer harmony. Tires and rims are jet black."

The Buick 114½-inch wheelbase line is complete, including two and four-door sedans, four-passenger coupe, two-passenger coupe, deluxe two-passenger coupe with dicky seat, and two deluxe open cars—a roadster with dicky seat and a five-passenger touring.

Buick has retained three popular 120-inch wheelbase models in the 1927 line. These are the two-door sedan, the four-door sedan and the four-passenger coupe. The chassis is the same as that used for the 128-inch deluxe models, except in length. The Buick engineering department says these cars, except for minor details in finish and equipment, are identical with the deluxe models. They are finished in Delaware green Duco, with double gold striping. The wheels and window recesses are the same color as the body. The tops, fenders, etc., are black. Tires and rims are jet black. The upholstery is mohair. The hardware was newly designed for these models and has a satin finish. The floors are covered with tapestry carpet. All window mouldings have walnut finish. There is an elastic pocket in the right rear door of the four-door sedan. This model also carries a vanity and smoking case. A smoking case is furnished in the two-door sedan. The four-passenger coupe has new high deck lines, a low, straight belt line, low back corner panel and door posts of new form, giving it a long, low appearance. It carries the same finish and equipment as the sedan models.

The 1927 Buicks on the 128-inch chassis offer custom features usually found only on cars of much higher price. Interior fittings, equipment and exterior appearance conform with those of custom built cars. Upholstering is mohair or broadcloth in the closed models and Spanish leather in the open cars. Closed car colors are soft shades of green and blue Duco developed especially for Buick. The open cars are finished in a two-tone combination of cream and brown duco. Tires and rims are jet black. The wheels are dark natural wood finish with contrasting stripes.

The dash instruments, besides the usual speedometer, oil gauge, ammeter, etc., include a gasoline gauge and a temperature indicator. The instruments are finished in walnut with German silver inlay. Lighting is indirect and designed to light the transmission lock.

The closed bodies are fitted with vanity cases and smoking sets. Paneling is in walnut. The hardware is especially designed with satin finish. The automatic windshield wipers are extra powerful, and the blade is kept tight against the top of the visor when not in use.

The models on the 128-inch chassis are: Five-passenger coupe, seven-passenger sedan, two-passenger country club coupe with dicky seat, five-passenger brougham, two-passenger sport roadster with dicky seat and five-passenger sport touring. These are designated as deluxe models. They carry the new Buick radiator emblem and many extras.

AUBURN SIX MAKES FAST CROSS-CONTINENTAL TRIP

Another fast run was made recently by a stock Auburn six sedan, which was driven from the Pacific Coast to Philadelphia, a distance of 3384 miles, in six days and 16 hours. The drive was made by Los Angeles man and family of Los Angeles, who started on a vacation tour to Philadelphia. He said no water was needed for the radiator, indicating unusual cooling and smoothness of motor functioning. An average of 19

Touring Car, $1075; Roadster, $1145; Club Coupe, $1165; Sedan, $1295. All prices f.o.b. Detroit, subject to current Federal excise tax.

Extra Value that Standardized Quality Gives in the New Chrysler "60"

1 Six-cylinder Chrysler motor,
2 Fifty-four brake horsepower,
3 Sixty miles and more per hour,
4 5 to 25 miles per hour in 7¾ seconds,
5 Easily 22 miles to the gallon,
6 Seven-bearing crankshaft,
7 Aluminum alloy pistons, balanced to sixteen one-hundredths of an ounce,
8 Impulse neutralizer—not a balancer, but a device that absorbs the natural impulse reactions common to all internal combustion engines,
9 Purolator purifies oil, saves repair bills,
10 Centrifugal air cleaner saves repair bills,
11 Full pressure oiling system, insuring a film of oil in all bearings and thus guaranteeing long life,
12 Semi-automatic plus manual spark control,
13 Manifold heat control for easy starting,
14 Chrysler greater steering ease,
15 Chrysler hydraulic four-wheel brakes,
16 Levelizers front and rear eliminate road shocks, give greater riding comfort,
17 Chrysler dynamic symmetry of design,
18 Great roominess combined with Chrysler compactness for easy parking,
19 Duco finish in striking color combinations,
20 Full balloon tires, 30 x 5.25.

CHRYSLER IMPERIAL "80"—Phaeton, $2495; Roadster (wire wheels standard equipment, wood wheels optional), $2595; Coupe, two-passenger, $2895; Coupe, four-passenger, $2895; Sedan, five-passenger, $3095; Sedan, seven-passenger, $3195; Cabriolet, $3495; Sedan-limousine, $3595.

Walter P. Chrysler's principle of standardized quality manufacture is revolutionizing the buying of fine cars today.

For, at one step, it eliminates "purchaser's risk" .... ends the buyer's doubts and fears as to quality .... makes possible the purchase of either the lowest-priced or the highest-priced Chrysler with positive knowledge that the quality is equally assured and the value is supreme in its class.

Leading manufacturers have been striving for years to achieve this absolute evenness of quality.

An Unique Achievement

But Chrysler alone has achieved it .... translated it into fact by an extraordinarily complete coordination of engineering and manufacturing resources.

Chrysler standardization of quality goes back to the sources of raw material; it governs the very minutest operation; it makes certain that every unit is produced with the finest precision standards under the most rigid inspection; it even moulds the manufacture of accessories.

Of course, Chrysler models to meet the four great quality markets differ in price, in size of chassis, in richness of appointments, in speed and power—the model numbers representing miles per hour—but all are basically the same in rigid adherence to the same law of quality.

Advantages for the Buyer

Obviously, cars bearing one name .... built by one organization .... under one all-embracing system of standardized quality manufacture .... must be essentially fine to a degree beyond comparison with other cars made under ordinary methods.

This most important of Chrysler advantages insures the superior and uniform quality which is the foundation of superior performance, dependability, comfort, economy and long life in every Chrysler.

That each Chrysler, because of standardized quality, is far ahead of any car near its price .... in quality of construction and quality of performance .... you can easily verify by comparative demonstration. Hundreds of thousands of Chrysler owners know this superiority to be a fact. We invite you to proye these superiorities of standardized quality for yourself.

New Essex Is Sturdy

Putting the doors of the all-steel body on the Essex coach to a severe test. The doors, which are hung with a new style piano-type hinge, were not even slightly loosened. The new Essex is being shown by the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co.

ESSEX COACH HAS NEW TYPE ALL-STEEL BODY

Radically Improved Design Made Possible by $10,000,000 Body Plant.

An all-steel body o fradically improved design is the feature of the new Essex coach which is being shown by the Hudsin-Frampton Motor Car Co., Hudson-Essex distributor, and its associate dealers. It is made possible by putting into production of a $10,000,000 plant which the Hudson Motor Car Co. erected especially for building these bodies.

In this plant, it is said, body building has become for the first time in the industry primarily a steel-stamping process. For the first time, also, it is said, bodies are manufactured in it on the 100 per cent progressive assembly system, which has previously affected such remarkable savings in motors, chassis and other automobile units. The plant is said by Hudson officials to be the largest single body-building unit in the world and to have by far the largest battery of steel-stamping presses and the largest enamel-baking ovens in the world.

Baked Enamel Finish.

"The Hudson organization, a year ago, completed the design of this new body and laid out a program for a building to construct it," says the announcement of the new Essex. "In this general expansion program, $10,000,000 has been invested in the body plant, and $5,000,000 additional in other manufacturing departments to bring them up to the capacity which it is expected this new car will call for. On the very day determined on a year ago, the plant was completed and a schedule of 1500 new all-steel bodies was put through as against 1000 bodies which had been originally laid out.

"While the new bodies are radically different in construction from anything previously known, they retain generally the characteristic Essex lines. However, the rear quarters have been somewhat curved and the whole body is two inches lower.

The finish is a lustrous black enamel, baked on in the 600-foot ovens at high temperatures, which assures a long life and a glossy appearance for the life of the car. A bit of color is added by a nickled radiator, and by double striping around the belt line.

Really Rigid Body.

"Possibly the most striking feature of the new body is its unusual rigidity of construction. By the use of steel sills, all lines of weakness between the chassis and the body have been eliminated; in fact, the body and chassis are really one. The steel sill itself is 60 per cent stronger than the wooden member it displaced.

"Tested over the roughest stretches of road around Detroit, the body has been found to be absolutely free from squeaks and rattles. The car was repeatedly run up on curbs of various heights, the doors tried and found to open and close freely. A 200-pound man was placed on each door as a final test of the stability of the body, and the car was driven over several hundred yards of rough road. The doors did not sag in the least, fitting just as perfectly after this rigid test as before. This remarkable rigidity in the body is gained by the scientific sectioning of the pressed steel from which the body is made. All of the pressed steel parts are formed with not only ease of assembly in view, but also from the standpoint of rigidity.

"The door is an interesting and typical example of the construction of this body. Its rigidity is gained by box sections formed by the presses. After the assembly of the door parts are complete, the entire door is placed in a 130-ton hydraulic press for a final operation that leaves no doubt about the correctness of the door shape.

"A piano type of hinge, an entirely new idea in automobile practice, supports the door. Besides the remarkable gain in strength and accuracy, this type of hinge marked improved appearance.

Construction Economies.

"The plant has a normal capacity of 1500 bodies per nine-hour day. In true progressive fashion, the raw material enters on the lowest floor where the presses are located and from that point moving along until the bodies leave the final assembly complete. All main and subassembly work is done on moving conveyors which is the first time this has been completely accomplished in an automobile body-building plant.

"The steel sheets used in the bodies, doors and fenders are of the same quality and same weight as in $4000 sedans—the best obtainable. One economy of this is that the sheets stand up to the action of the presses with practically no breakage. Scraps of steel left over from the stamping of large parts are used in making smaller units, so that final waste is less than 1 per cent—which is sold as scrap metal.

"Unlike practice in previous steel bodies, the parts are not welded together, but are bolted and riveted by a new and exclusive process. The rigidity gained from this method has been proved by the most severe road tests in which there has been no tendency whatsoever of the bodies to loosen up. The elimination of spot welding at all points of strain is said to eliminate the possibility of loose joints.

Interior Fitments.

In the manufacture of the windshields, glass cutting is progressive, the plates passing over a series of grinding wheels. The waste has been cut to almost nothing, the glass is accurately cut and polished—all at small expense. The windshield hinge is formed by rolling over the edge of the stamping which forms the top of the windshield frame and similarly rolling up the flange on the windshield frame support. This leaves no joints into which rain can leak and no chance for rattles to develop. The windshield and all windows are genuine plate glass.

This new body weighs about the same as the old, but otherwise there is little or no comparison either in design or methods of building. It is as strong and rugged a body as is built, regardless of price.

"The interior of the car is exceptionally neat and trim. The dash is well arranged. The door handle and lock are combined in one unit. The steering wheel is solid walnut on a cast aluminum spider. The windshield wiper switch is on the dash.

"The new bodies are on the standard Essex chassis, with no mechanical changes. Standard equipment includes shutters and motometer, stoplight, electric windshield wiper, rear vision mirror and tire carrier. The price announced is $795 at Detroit."

HUDSON-ESSEX PLANT RUSHED

Production of the Hudson Motor Car Co. was approximately 21,000 cars in July, or practically the same output as in June, it is said by officials. The August schedule is for at least as many cars as July, but orders have run ahead of this figure, and August production will be increased.

OAKLAND-PONTIAC PROGRAM

The great building and expansion program announced recently by the Oakland Motor Car Co., looking toward the building of 1000 Pontiac sixes and 600 Greater Oakland sixes daily is well under way. A. R. Glancy, president and general manager, announces that final cost of this new building program will be $7,600,000 instead of $5,000,000 as first announced.

ERSKINE SEES BIG BUSINESS

Studebaker officials predict one of the biggest six-month periods of automobile production and sales in the history of the organization, according to a statement by President A. R. Erskine. The debut of a new line of custom sedans on the market, tagged with a relatively low price, is regarded as the keynote for a new era for the Studebaker, said Erskine.

VOISIN ANGERS FRANCE BY PRAISING U. S. CARS

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 24.—Gabriel Voisin, one of France's leading automotive and aeronautic engineers, has stirred up trouble for himself in the French industrial world by declaring that American automobiles "would sweep away in a few days like a tidal wave, the entire French automotive industry if the customs barrier suddenly disappeared, and if American construction could resist French roads and French rivers."

An automobile should be comfortable, silent and easy to drive; requirements which are filled by American machines with their roomy, light and well-planned bodies, he declares. French automobiles are sacrificed to the esthetic ideals of the custom coach builders, says Voisin; they may be nice to look at, but are unpleas ride in.

Standard Six Custom Sedan $1385 - Big Six Custom Brougham $1985

Prices f. o. b. factory, including 4-wheel brakes, disc wheels and other equipment as listed

BIG business speaks to big business through The President—a Studebaker Big Six Custom Sedan for big business executives! The President is the Studebaker conception of the kind of car an executive should ride in—inspired in every detail of its lines with the vision of Big Business ideals—evoking both admiration for itself and respect for the man who owns it.

POWERED with the quiet Studebaker L-head motor, which recently crossed the continent in 86 hours and 20 minutes, six hours faster than the best time of the crack Limiteds!

AND DOWERED with those custom details of luxury and refinement that place it in the company of costly custom creations!

Resting on a wheelbase of 127 inches, The President reveals the long level lines of a custom body—settling low over disc wheels with four-wheel brake control—lacquered in a rich ebony with a belt of thistle green striped with Siskiyou yellow—or in Croaton green, with belt of black striped in ivory—and culminating in the silvered figure of Atalanta poised above its radiator to symbolize the futility of pursuit.

Yet The President is moderately priced, thanks to Studebaker One-Profit facilities. See The President before you see anybody else!

Equipment — No-draft ventilating windshield, exclusively Studebaker; nickel-plated bumper and bumperettes; Watson Stabilators; engine heat indicator and gasoline gauge on the dash; coincidental lock; oil filter and air purifier; automatic windshield cleaner; automatic spark control; double rear-view mirror; vanity case; smoking set; clock; arm rests; toggle grips; dome light, automatically turned on when right rear door is opened; 4-wheel brakes; full size balloon tires; and two-beam acorn headlights, controlled from steering wheel.

THERE IS NO SATURATION POINT FOR HONEST VALUE

Honest value is a priceless commodity. Every purchaser seeks it, but not always with complete success.

During periods of careful buying he takes unusual pains to find it, and products of inferior merit fail to attract his patronage.

Reports then circulate that the "saturation point" in the automobile market has been reached, when in reality there will NEVER be a saturation point for honest value.

During the first six months of this year, for instance, Dodge Brothers sold 207,115 motor cars and trucks. This represents a gain of 49.3 per cent over the first six months of 1925, and continues Dodge Brothers in the enviable position of THIRD IN THE INDUSTRY

For the three weeks ending July 17th 23,862 motor cars and trucks were delivered to customers—an increase of 62.4 per cent over the same period last year, and impressive evidence that Dodge Brothers great sales gain is continuing through the quiet weeks of mid-summer.

The more carefully people investigate and compare, detail by detail, the factors that constitute genuine motor car value, the more inevitably Dodge Brothers market expands and will continue to expand, year after year.

'PRESIDENT' SEDAN IS STUDEBAKER LEADER

Heads New Custom Models Now Being Shown in St. Louis.

Headed by the "President," a "Big Six" custom seven-passenger sedan designed for an effect of dignified distinction, the new Studebaker custom cars announced last week are attracting much attention at the Weber Motor Car Co. The "President" model and the Studebaker "Big Six" custom brougham are powered with the same motor used in the Studebaker "Big Six Sheriff" model that ran from New York to San Francisco in 86 hours, 20 minutes—6 hours, 25 minutes faster than the fastest train schedule. The "Standard Six" custom sedan has the regular "Standard Six" engine.

The "President" has a full-vision steel body, finished in black with a belt of thistle green, pin-striped in Siskiyou yellow. Disc wheels are banded in harmony. The interior is upholstered in deep gray broadcloth and broadlace trim. A color scheme of Croatan green with black belt and pin striping in ivory and upholstery in mohair is optional. Butler finish hardware, silk curtains, toggle grips and opal iridescent corner and dome lights, the latter lighting when the rear door is opened, complete the effect of custom refinement. Both front and rear seats are deep and wide and form-fashioned for maximum riding ease. Even the auxiliary seats for the sixth and seventh passengers are designed for full comfort.

Ventilation, without draft, is obtained by an exclusively designed windshield, controlled by turning a convenient handle on the dash.

Custom design has given the car low-swung, graceful lines, and the rich coloring of the lacquer finish is given a dash of brightness by the nickeled radiator surmounted by the silvered figure of Atalanta racing the wind, and nickeled acorn headlights. Four-wheel brakes, balloon tires and Watson stabilators are standard.

The "Big Six" custom brougham is in Kinick green and Tuchi gray, with black molding and delicate apple green striping. The interior provides all the custom luxuries which the first glance at the car suggests. Seats are wide and deep, with form-fitting upholstery of fine Chase mohair, with broadlace trim. This model also has no-draft ventilating windshield and two-beam headlights. Spark is automatically controlled. Full vision is provided by the one-piece windshield and narrow roof pillars. A coincidental lock to ignition and steering gear is controlled by the same key which operates the locks of the doors and the spare tire carrier. Front bumper, rear bumperettes, balloon tires, disc wheels, snubbers and four-wheel brakes, which are standard equipment, insure safety and freedom from road shocks.

The "Standard Six" custom sedan has upholstery of Chase mohair, with broadlace trim. Butler finish hardware, opal iridescent dome light and silken curtains, two-beam headlights, no-draft windshield. The body is finished in Studebaker blue and Pewamo blue duotone lacquer, with pin striping in ivory. The dominant tones of the body are carried through the color scheme of the disc wheels, which, with four-wheel brakes, balloon tires, front bumper and rear bumperettes, combination stop-and-tail light, rear-view mirror and automatic windshield cleaner, are standard.

HUP SIX RUNS 18,216 MILES IN 30 DAYS IN FLORIDA TEST

Virtually No Wear Found by Expert When Car Is Torn Down After Run.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 1.—A run of 18,216 miles in 30 days without stopping the engine has just been made by a Hupmobile six sedan through Northeastern Florida. This is the most thorough test that has come to the attention of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation since the car was announced last November. It is pointed out by factory officers that the car covered the equivalent of two years' average driving.

Its road average was approximately 28 miles an hour. The actual average, including stopping the wheels to refill the gasoline, oil and water, and to repair one puncture, was 25.3 miles an hour. The ignition was sealed when the run was started, and the switch taken off the car.

The run was conducted to duplicate, as nearly as possible, average driving conditions and to show the ability of the car to withstand the punishments of actual road conditions.

The car covered a 430-mile route on each trip, starting from the Jacksonville building of the William A. Estaver Co., Hupmobile distributers for Northern Florida. Constant check on its mileage was kept by Western Union.

Though it encountered muddy, rutted roads during more than half the 30 days, the car, which constantly carried a driver and relief driver, averaged in excess of 19 miles per gallon of gasoline. Oil was changed at Jacksonville each time the car covered two laps of its route, or each 860 miles. Drivers were changed each 430 miles.

Immediately after the run the car was torn down and a complete inspection of its parts made by Capt. Hatten Howard, a graduate mechanical engineer from the Georgia Institute of Technology, and an authority on gasoline engines. His reports follows: "No susceptible wear in any piston or cylinder. Carbon very light. All connecting rod bearings exactly the right clearance. All main bearings perfect fit; all main and connecting rod bearing surface on crank shaft measured 100 per cent perfect. Wrist pins perfect fit. Valves well seated and valve stems and guides show no wear. Valve lifters and guides perfect. Camshaft and bearing perfect. Front end timing and generator chain very little wear, three-quarter take-up adjustment still left. Oil pump and gear perfect. Distributor shaft perfect. Fan and water pump assembly perfect. The clutch and transmission were also checked and found in perfect condition."

NEW H-C GASOLINE DESIGNED TO DO AWAY WITH "KNOCKING"

Fuel Now Obtainable in St. Louis Has Been Used Largely Elsewhere.

While H-C gasoline, which is just being introduced in St. Louis, is new to this part of the country, it is not an experiment, according to D. H. Cohen, president of the Puritan Oil Corporation. Engineers of the Sinclair Refining Co., whose products are distributed in St. Louis by the Puritan Co., have long been working on the theory that detonation or knock is caused by elements in the gasoline itself. The new gasoline is refined by a different process and, while no chemicals are used, it is claimed for the product that it will wholly overcome knock or ping.

Cohen pointed out that, while the engines in the recent Indianapolis race were less than a sixth of the size of those used 15 years ago, yet their speed has been increased to upward of 7000 revolutions per minute. It is true that the passenger car engine is of different size and design than that in the racing car, yet automotive engineers are gradually developing the small, high-compression, high-speed motor for passenger cars.

As is generally known, considerable difficulty has been experienced with motor cars in recent years, due to their tendency to "knock." "This is due," says Cohen, "to the fact that gasoline heretofore manufactured can be compressed only to a certain point. Beyond that point a certain resiliency is encountered and the pistons are, figuratively speaking, striking against a mass of rubber. As ignition in a well-tuned engine takes place a split second before the instant of greatest compression, the bounce or knock occurs before ignition."

According to Cohen, the new high compression H-C gasoline was first marketed in Cleveland, O., in June, 1925, and as fast as new refining units could be put into operation it has been placed on the market in sections of the country and has now reached St. Louis.

Cohen said the refining process was entirely new and that, while no chemicals are added, the chemical characteristics of gasoline are so changed as to give perfect compression, even when the motor is under heavy load and high speed.

ALL NEW HUPMOBILE MODELS ON DISPLAY

Eleven Body Types on Eight and Six-Cylinder Chassis Exhibited in St. Louis.

With the arrival of the first of the new seven-passenger sedans on the Hup eight-cylinder chassis, the Weber Implement and Automobile Co. today begins a two-week special exhibit and demonstration of the new Hupmobile six and eight models.

The Hup line now has 11 body types. Hup eight models include five-passenger sedan; two-passenger coupe, sedan limousine, seven-passenger sedan, two-passenger roadster, five-passenger touring, and seven-passenger sport touring. Hup six models are: Five-pasenger sedan, two-passenger coupe with rumble seat, and five-passenger touring. Prices at factory range as follows: Eight cylinder models, $1945 to $2595; six-cylinder models, $1325 to $1385.

The seven-passenger sedan is on a 125-inch wheelbase chassis, with body finish in Larchmont blue and upper structure in black. It is upholstered in fine broadcloth, and fitments are in custom style. Equipment includes front and rear bumpers, windshield wiper, motometer, purolator, gascolator and spare tire. This new sedan is truly distinctive in appearance. It is priced at $2495 factory list. An ingenuous feature is that the back of the front seat is curved inward to provide more leg room than is customary for passengers using the two extra seats. These auxiliary seats have unusually thick padding, ample width and comfort, while the rear seat is full 49 inches wide.

Incidentally, the Hup eight has been winning the praise of British motor car critics. Marcus W. Bourdon, noted English automotive writer, referring to the Hup, says in the Liverpool Post: "The top gear performance was little short of astonishing. The motoring expert of Auto, a leading British motoring magazine says: "I have never sat behind a more wonderful engine than in this Hup."

PONTIAC SIX

CHIEF OF THE SIXES

The Pontiac Six is scoring the most spectacular first year success ever recorded in automotive history—because it meets the driving conditions of today like no other car in the world at its price.

Without an excess ounce of bulk—without an unnecessary inch in length, it is ideally suited to the congested highways of today. Having the largest engine of any six costing less than $1,000, it flashes swiftly through congested traffic; and so sturdily is it constructed that it can be held at top speed for as many continuous hours as the driver likes.

Yet despite its highly desirable external compactness, the Pontiac Six is a supremely comfortable car. Step into the Pontiac Six Sedan. Note its roominess. Mark well the wide, inviting seats and ample leg room.

Then remember, that with all its luxurious provisions for comfort, the Pontiac Six turns in a 38 foot circle—and that it can be quickly and easily parked in places too small for other cars of equal passenger capacity.

Oakland Six, Companion to Pontiac Six—$1025 to $1295. All prices at factory. Easy to pay on the liberal General Motors Time Payment Plan.

RICKENBACKER SIX DRIVEN 210 MILES IN LOW GEAR

A Rickenbacker 6 coupe-sedan was driven from Los Angeles to Santa Barbara and back, sealed in low gears, last week. The driver was Warren Erickson. An aver- age speed of 17 miles per hour was made on the 210-mile round trip. The run was officially ob- served by newspaper men. The elapsed time for the round trip was 12 hours and 46 minutes.

The car was a stock model, which is geared 14.6 to 1 in low to main- tain an average speed of 17 miles per hour, the car was driven as fast as 23 miles an hour in low at times.

No water was added to the radiator or oil to the motor from the time the car left Los Angeles until it returned. Lt took less than one quart of water to fill the radi- ator to overflowing when the car was checked in. It is estimated that at least a pint of water would be wasted by evaporation. The route was over a pass at an alti- tude of 1604 feet.

The car was borrowed from a private owner who had driven it over 6000 miles.

GRAHAM TRUCK SALES GAIN 45 PER CENT IN QUARTER

Graham Brothers in their four plants in United States and Can- ada, built 19,666 trucks and motor coaches in the first half of 1926, or nearly double their record of 10,447 units for the first six months of last year. Production of 11,645 units in the second quarter this year compared with 8021 the first quarter this year establishes a gain of 45.2 per cent. Compared with the second quarter last year, when 5671 trucks were built, the gain for the second quarter this year is 105 per cent.

Graham Brothers, the truck di- vision of Dodge Brothers, in five years has risen to first rank in the industry in manufacture of 1½- ton trucks and second in the 1 and 1½-ton field.

KNIGHT ENGINE, STILL IN USE, RUNS 663,344 MILES

Surpassing anything on record, a Knight motor has traveled 663,- 344 miles, according to informa- tion received by officials of the Willys-Overland Co., Toledo, and is still in service after 13 years. This Knight motor, with sleeve valves, is in an ambulance of the Toronto General Hospital, at To- ronto, Can. The ambulance was built by the Russel Motor Car Co. in 1913 and presented to the hos- pital by the late Sir John Eaton. It has been in continuous service 24 hours daily since, C. J. Decker, superintendent of the hospital, de- clares.

MANY PACKARDS REGISTERED

According to the G. M. Berry Motor Co., Packard distributor, 39 per cent of all cars sold during the last six months in St. Louis and St Louis County of the five leading high-priced makes were Packard single sixes and straight eights.

Loans!

Did you know how easy it was for you to borrow $50 to $1000 on your car as security? It makes no difference what you want the money for. Just drive up, bring your title, get the money and drive away. No signers or endorsers. Everything private. Maybe your monthly payments now on the car are too high. Yahiem will reduce these payments for you and lend you more money. Pay back as little as $10 per month. Yahiem Finance Corp., 1035 N. Grand. Open Nites Till Nine.

FISHER BODIES

GENERAL MOTORS

LOOK AT THE NEW CARS AND SEE—BODY BY FISHER

The new car announcements of General Motors have swept Fisher into the greatest eminence in motor car history.

Everywhere you see the emblem—Body by Fisher. In all price classes, it is the inescapable badge of quality. The leaders, such as Cadillac, Buick, Chevrolet, Oakland, Oldsmobile and Pontiac, all display as one of their proudest assets the symbol—Body by Fisher.

It is their assurance of public satisfaction—in safety, in charm of line, in beauty of color and appointment, in comfort and convenience.

STAR ENDURANCE RUN ENDS TOMORROW

Driver Showing Effects of Driving 6 Days and Nights Without Sleep.

The Star six coach, which is making a six-day and night traffic endurance run through St. Louis, the county and the East Side with F. R. Warner, its driver, handcuffed to the wheel, got away at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from the Federal Building, Eighth and Olive streets. Warner was handcuffed by Patrolman J. J. Wegman. He is to drive the car steadily, without letting the engine stop and without any halts for rest or sleep. The run is scheduled to end at the same hour tomorrow noon at the Federal Building.

Much interest has been aroused by the car and its handcuffed driver as it has traveled the streets of the city. A number of persons are said to have taken advantage of Warner's invitation to ride with him, and at night the Star frequently has been trailed by a number of amateur observers, some following him in their cars for many miles.

Warner showed no particular signs of strain for the first half of the 144-hour run, but as he entered the second 72 hours his face began to show marks of the ordeal he is undergoing. He subsists on milk and crackers. A nurse is to be with him during the latter part of the run, and a physician will be in constant touch with him. Warner is said to hold the record for endurance runs of this kind and once to have driven 150 hours without sleep.

It is impossible to tell how far he has driven, for the speedometer on the Star is sealed and the mileage made will not be revealed until the run is completed. Figuring in advance the total mileage made will be far more difficult than if he was making a speed run in the Star. Warner has stressed in all his endurance runs the principle of safe driving. So, as he is keeping the Star on city streets and most of the time in traffic, his average speed is a decided uncertainty.

He is using the new Texaco gasoline and is stopping for fuel now and then at Texaco filling stations.

TEST TRACK FOR GRAHAM TRUCKS NEARS COMPLETION

Construction of Graham Brothers' new concrete track and final test building is rapidly approaching completion, it is reported by Dodge Brothers, Inc.

This 32x20-foot building, of steel and brick construction, is 600 feet east of the 850x600-foot building in which Graham Brothers' main Detroit assembly plant is located and is connected with it by an 18-foot concrete roadway. A quarter-mile concrete test track surrounding the building is 18 feet wide and has well-banked turns.

"As public highways have previously been used for the purpose," said E. G. Wilmer, president of Dodge Brothers, Inc., "this test track will greatly simplify the problem of giving a thorough road test to each of the rapidly increasing number of Graham Brothers trucks and motor coaches now being produced."

AUTO DEALER USES PLANE FOR QUICK DELIVERY DEALS

F. A. Luthy, Auburn dealer in Jackson, Mich., recently chartered an airplane and within 55 minutes after a prospect selected an Auburn six roadster he was seated in his car at the Auburn factory at Auburn, Ind. The buyer, recently returned from a winter in California, decided suddenly that he wanted an Auburn roadster. Unable to fill the order from his stock, Luthy chartered a plane in Jackson and the party was on its way to Auburn. Sweeping down at the landing field near the factory, the buyer stepped from the cockpit into his waiting roadster and started homeward.

So successful was this service that upon his return to Jackson he installed the air service as a regular business feature. Any prospect who demands immediate delivery of a particular model not in stock is taken direct to the factory by airplane.

WILLYS-KNIGHT "70" DOES 45 M. P. H. ON 425-MILE TRIP

A Willys-Knight "70" carrying five adult passengers has been driven from New York City to Montreal, Canada, a distance of more than 425 miles, in less than a dozen hours.

Leaving New York at 7:30 p. m. the party reached the Canadian city at 6:30 a. m. the following day. The actual time was recorded at 11 hours, including time for meals, fuel, water and other stops. Allan H. Wesson of New York, the driver, said his driving speed was 45 miles per hour and gasoline mileage 21.5 miles per gallon.

MOTORISTS FROM 31 STATES IN ST. LOUIS IN ONE DAY

Check Reveals Increasing Flow of Tourist Traffic—100 a Day at Wellston Camp.

Broadcasting the news that State Highway No. 2, from St. Louis to Kansas City (Federal Highway No. 40), is now hard surfaced, has started the flow of motor tourists through St. Louis in numbers never before known here. A large percentage of these tourists are en route either from the East to West or from West to East, but many are using the highways southward from St. Louis to travel through the Missouri and Arkansas Ozarks.

According to a check made one Saturday afternoon and Saturday night by Robt. E. Lee, manager of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, there were in St. Louis automobiles from at least 31 states. This check was made by Lee in the afternoon in the downtown district and in the evening in the vicinity of the West End picture shows.

License plates were noted in the check from the following states, in some instances several from the same states: Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Washington, District of Columbia, Nevada, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, New York, Vermont, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Minnesota, North Dakota, California, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, Virginia, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Delaware, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The Greater St. Louis Tourist Camp, which is at the western edge of Wellston, has been caring for at least 100 cars per day for the last three weeks, and the number is increasing.

OLDS TO TRAIN COLLEGE MEN TO BE EXECUTIVES

Doors leading to high executive positions in the automotive industry will be opened to 20 college graduates this summer at the Oldsmobile factory by Olds Motor Works, Lansing, Mich. They are to be given every opportunity to develop their talents in all fields of the industry—factory production, engineering laboratories, inspection, service and all phases of the selling activities.

This is the first time an automobile company has adopted a broad program of going to universities to select its future executives, although this plan has been used by companies in several other lines of business. Its adoption by Oldsmobile is in line with the pioneer work this veteran company has done to promote automotive advancement in the 29 years of its business life.

The 20 graduates will work under the direct and close supervision of the personnel department. They will be routed through the organization to determine their individual talents.

The Greatest Success in a Quarter Century of Fine Car Creation

There have been many golden periods in Cadillac's quarter century of pre-eminence among the fine cars of the world—but never a time when Cadillac was so unmistakably the Standard of the World as now. How completely Cadillac dominates the high-priced field is conclusively proven by Cadillac's unprecedented gain in the past 12 months—when sales increased 87.5% over the preceding year.

500 Color Combinations
50 Body Styles and Types

Cadillac Now Offers 50 Body Styles and Types

Five Hundred Color and Upholstery Combinations, Many exclusive to Cadillac

To its supremacy in the realm of value and performance, which of necessity will remain unequaled for long years to come, Cadillac now achieves pre-eminence in distinction, luxury and individuality.

50 different body types and styles, many of them exclusive and not be be duplicated, are announced for the coming year.

In combination with the widest selection of body types and styles ever presented by one manufacturer, Cadillac offers five hundred body color combinations and an unexampled range of upholstery selections.

As of this day and date, Cadillac dominates in its unmatched ability to supply every motoring requirement, to meet every individual taste and preference.

Here is a manufacturing advance literally more important than any other development since Cadillac introduced the 90-degree eight-cylinder motor.

Here is an achievement in individualized service to fine car buyers which has never before been approached, and which only Cadillac is today able to offer. Throughout its years of leadership, Cadillac has never accomplished a greater feat than this solution of the problem of individual color selections.

The complete Cadillac line—including the standard models, the distinguished Fisher custom-built series, and the finest and most luxurious exclusive creations of Fleetwood—surpasses anything ever before attempted.

Cadillac today establishes itself on a new, high plane of skill and service which must inevitably add to the public acclaim that has rewarded Cadillac, in the past 12 months, with the greatest success in the history of fine car manufacture.

Proclaimed the world over as the greatest achievement in Chevrolet history, today's Chevrolet is climbing to new and spectacular heights of popularity.

Everywhere it ranks in public preference and sales as the world's finest low priced car.

Everywhere it is acknowledged as representing the supreme heights of modern design and quality construction. Everywhere it is recognized as the climax to twelve years of constant improvement by Chevrolet and General Motors engineers!

A single ride will tell you why!

Into the field of low-priced cars, today's Chevrolet brings exactly the slow-speed smoothness, exactly the velvet acceleration, exactly the freedom from high-speed vibration that have been the paramount reasons for the buying of multiple-cylinder cars.

Imagine loafing up a hill in a loaded car—with the motor turning so easily that you are almost unconscious of its operation. You can in the smooth Chevrolet!

Imagine rushing from 10 to 30 miles an hour before your watch ticks ten times—with never a semblance of labor on the part of the motor. You can in the smooth Chevrolet!

Imagine being able to drive between 40 and 50 miles an hour for hour upon hour at a stretch—in perfect comfort, entirely free from any sense of excessive speed and unconscious of even the slightest roughness in the road. You can in the smooth Chevrolet.

And, above all, imagine the satisfaction of enjoying such phenomenal performance qualities together with the economy of operation for which Chevrolet is everywhere famous. You do in the smooth Chevrolet!

No matter what type of car you are accustomed to driving, learn for yourself the incredible smoothness that is winning the world to Chevrolet. Arrange to see and drive the car today!

Compare the excellence of detail exhibited in the coach work of the beautiful Fisher enclosed bodies.

Compare its performance abilities on any basis with any car you have ever driven. Try it in traffic—over the hills—through clinging mud and sand.

We openly ask you to come for your demonstration in a critical state of mind. And we urge you to come prepared for a ride the like of which you never dreamed possible in a car that sells at anywhere near Chevrolet's prices.

For that's exactly what you will discover at the wheel of the smoothest Chevrolet in Chevrolet history!

PIKE'S PEAK RUN CAR DUE HERE ON TUESDAY

Chevrolet to Make Endurance Trip From West Virginia to Top of Mountain.

A telegram received by Harold K. MacCarthy, president of the St. Louis Chevrolet Dealers' Association, says that the Chevrolet touring car which is to make an endurance run from Morgantown, W. Va., to the top of Pike's Peak is to start at 5 a. m. tomorrow, and probably will arrive here Tuesday afternoon.

The Chevrolet is expected to reach Indianapolis Tuesday, and as soon as it leaves that city word will be sent ahead so that a committee of St. Louis Chevrolet dealers can meet it at Collinsville and escort it over the bridge and through the city to St. Charles, whence it will continue its journey over U. S. Highway No. 50 to Kansas City, the Victory highway to Limon and the Pike's Ocean-to-Ocean highway to Colorado Springs, Manitou and to the foot of the 11-mile road up the mountain to an altitude of more than 14,000 feet.

Chevrolet dealers all along the route are making preparations for parades with the car.

REMODELED FORD WINS DIFFICULT GERMAN RACE

A remodeled Ford won this year's Eifel automobile race at Nideggen, Germnay. This race is an annual affair and is considered the most difficult in Germany because of its serpentine mountain course.

Most of the cars participating in the race this year, including German, Italian and French racers, broke down. The remodeled Ford not only stood the test and won the race, but made the fastest round of the day.

CHRYSLER ANNOUNCES MANUFACTURING PLAN

New 4-Cylinder Model Will Give Him 4 Lines of Standardized Quality.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., July 31.—A statement by Walter P. Chrysler, motor car manufacturer, says that the company of which he is the head will proceed to manufacture four complete lines of cars of standardized quality to cover the four greatest markets. The statement has a special bearing on the new four-cylinder car, with which he will soon invade the lower price field.

"This plan of standardized quality has been definitely shaping itself," he said, "since we first announced the Chrysler '70', two and a half years ago. We proceeded a long step on the way in the presentation of the Chrysler Imperial '80', and went still further in this direction with the Chrysler lighter, lower priced '60.' Now we come to the final step with production of a four-cylinder car in the lower price field.

"We are confident that when this new car is placed before the public it will receive the same enthusiastic reception accorded our other cars.

"Each of these cars will remain a separate identity, delivering separate and individual qualities of performance. But through grouping purchase power and manufacturing facilities all four enjoy engineering development and standardized practice with pronounced lowering of overhead, all of which is to the advantage of the buyer.

"The history of the past in the automotive industry has largely revolved around the idea of fixing a low price to compel a large volume.

"Under our plan of standardized quality, the idea is to utilize every possible economy in the production of four cars covering the entire market, and by these economies produce such obvious and manifest value that volume will follow as a natural consequence."

WOMAN MOTORIST PROVES HER AUTO STEERS EASILY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., July 31.—A young Cleveland woman motorist has won a new hat by steering her Chandler Twentieth Century sedan with a lead pencil. She had just broken in her new Chandler. Entertaining some friends, she extolled her new car's performance. She was particularly delighted with its ease of steering, and said that her car steered so easily it could be guided by a lead pencil. Of course, she was laughed at by her friends. Then she bet a new hat that she could steer her car with the aid of a lead pencil. When her bet was accepted, she was in somewhat of a quandary.

The thought came to her that it might be possible to drill a hole in the steering wheel and set a pencil in the hole. She had her local dealer do this; went ahead, did her stunt successfully and substantiated her claims about the steering ease of her Chandler.

CROSSES COUNTRY IN DODGE AT COST OF 2 CENTS A MILE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, July 31. — Victor R. Fricker reports that it cost just a tiny fraction over 2 cents a mile, including gas, oil and all traveling expenses, to drive his Dodge roadster from McKeesport, Pa., to Los Angeles, a distance of 2786 miles.

"There was no enocomy run attempted, either," Fricker said. "As I left McKeesport with the sole idea of getting to Los Angeles as quickly as possible, and as I covered the entire distance in five and a half days' elapsed time, it can be seen that not a great deal of time was wasted on the road. A letter that I mailed in Kansas City arrived in Los Angeles the day following my arrival."

A feature of Fricker's trip was the nonstop run of 1464 miles from Hawley, Colo., into Los Angeles made in a few hours over two and a half days. "Despite continuous high speed, ranging from 45 to 60 practically all the time, and the handicap of mud and rough roads," said Fricker, "the car performed beautifully and required no mechanical attention. All I did was to filled with gas and oil on it."

Engineered to meet the most severe requirements of commercial haulage, Chevrolet trucks have won worldwide acceptance on the basis of low first cost, low operating cost and slow depreciation. This spectacularly growing popularity has made necessary a greatly increased production — the savings of which are now passed on to buyers in the form of a drastic price reduction. In establishing these phenomenally low prices on the most dependable and durable Chevrolet commercial chassis ever built, Chevrolet again emphasizes the greater dollar-for-dollar economy of buying and using Chevrolet trucks.

RADIO FOR AMATEUR AND EXPERT

EXPANSION EXPECTED IN "GOOD WILL" RADIO

Sale of WEAF to Radio Corporation Stimulates Interest in Broadcasting of Publicity Programs.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Development of the "good will' radio program into one of the most popular forms of national advertising business is being predicted since the purchase of Station WEAF, pioneer link in the country's most extensive system of toll broadcasters by the Radio Corporation of America and the announcement that this type of program will be developed further.

Several leading manufacturers of products with a nation-wide sales are understood to be negotiating for novel ideas in radio presentations that they expect to send through the broadcasting chain next winter.

Seeing the possibility of "fat" contracts with some of the radio advertisers, singers, instrumentalists and orchestra conductors who have heretofore held aloof from the microphone are also reported as taking a considerably greater interest in the radio studios of New York.

When the "commercial" program first gave promise of solving some of the difficulties of the broadcasters, toll stations began adding to their forces a form of "booking" office. In addition to the toll charges for the program, fees for this "booking" service are asked of the advertisers.

In the past few months these "booking" offices of both stations WEAF and WJZ have been constantly growing in size and activity.

The most recent entry into the ranks of the commercial broadcasters is the New York symphony orchestra, which has been engaged to play a series of radio concerts under the direction of Walter Damrosch beginning Oct. 23. The orchestra will play under the auspices of a Chicago manufacturer.

Cleats Good Insulators.

Glaced porcelain cleats, such as used to hold open electric light wiring in place, make excellent aerial insulators. They are light and strong and shed rain water because of their glazed surfaces.

HOOVER ISSUES AN APPEAL

In an appeal for "fair play," Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover expresses the hope that despite the breakdown of broadcasting regulations, American broadcasters will not attempt to jump the wave lengths of Canadian stations. In his appeal, Secretary Hoover says:

"There has always been the most cordial relations between the radio administrations in Canada and in the United States. The department has refrained from assigning to American stations the wave lengths in use in Canada and the Canadian authorities have reciprocated by avoiding the use of wave lengths assigned to our stations.

"A continuance of this policy is a necessity if international confusion is to be avoided. The department most earnestly hopes, whatever may ensue, that the sense of fair play, as well as interest in the protection of the situation as a whole, will prevent any American station from trespassing upon the Canadian assignments."

NEW LICENSING PLANS

Under the new policy of the Department of Commerce, licenses for stations will only be issued after the erection of the station, according to a statement by Acting Secretary Stephen Davis. In other words, licenses will not be issued immediately to the 600 applicants who have filed applications with the Department of Commerce. In the event of actual station construction, however, a license will be granted immediately but which will not attempt to regulate wave length, power or time of operation.

Worth Remembering.

To avoid scratching the front surface of the panel, the holes for instruments are marked out on the back of the panel and a careful checking up should be made before starting the drilling operations. Be extremely careful to turn the panel over and visualize each instrument in its place, because working on the back of the panel means working backward and it is a simple matter to ruin the panel by a misplaced hole.

Batteries—Dry and Storage.

A storage battery takes electrical energy, stores it in the form of a chemical action and then changes it back to electrical energy when the battery is placed in service. This action can be repeated many times before the battery is worn out. A dry cell develops electrical energy from chemical action. In order to repeat the process when the battery is discharged it is necessary to renew the chemicals.

Radiograms.

SOS has been the universal distress call for radio since 1911. It replaced CQD.

The minimum cost for transmitting a picture 3¼x4¼ inches from New York to London by radio is $50.

The combined power used by the 525 broadcasting stations in the United States is between 442,000 and 500,000 watts, an output that is probably greater than the combined power of all the broadcasting stations of the world outside of the United States.

The U. S. National Museum in Washington is planning to portray the history of communication of the spoken word to the latest radio developments. The radio exhibits now on display comprise military apparatus used during the World War by the A. E. F., French and German armies. The display includes portable sets, aircraft radios and various radio accessories.

The cost of equipping a first-class broadcasting station is around $100,000.

Many country banks in Texas have installed radio receiving sets for the benefit of their customers.

No fewer than 11 broadcasting stations operated by educational institutions throughout the United States will be closed during the summer.

A new commercial radio service linking the Philippines, China and the United States with stations at Manila, Shanghai and Seattle is promised by a Far Eastern radio company.

Broadcasting stations of the world reported as active number 817. Of this number 534 are in the United States and the remainder, 283, are located in 57 different foreign countries.

NEW PRESS BUILDING IS RADIO EQUIPPED

Elaborate Installation for Reception, Broadcasting, Entertainment and Gathering of News.

The National Press Building at Washington will probably be better equipped for radio reception and also transmission than any building in the world.

A special committee on radio is working out a plan which will combine the latest and most practical radio applications on the market. This may include interior wiring, so that any office may plug in a pair of phones and listen in to major broadcast events. It is believed that the use of loudspeakers would be objectionable. This idea is not solely to provide radio entertainment, but is based upon the fact that radio will be utilized more and more to cover news events in the nation's capital, where practically everything of importance is broadcast. This it is seen that a busy correspondent might stay at his desk in his office and yet cover a speech which his paper desired reported, simply by listening in. Radio reporting in this manner has already been procticed on several occasions.

Facilities in the Press Club quarters on the two top floors will include the installation of three or four broadcast receivers connected through a central switchboard so they can be operated independently and plugged in so as to serve any of the several rooms. At a dance loudspeakers in the dinning room and the auditorium might be run from two sets tuned to a single station or two loudspeakers could be operated from one powerful receiver. In the meantime, if members in a private dining room want a different program, the operator at the board can tune in a station on a third set and plug it in for them. These sets will not be operated by members, but monitored by experts.

In the auditorium it is expected to have installed the necessary wires and microphones, for connecting with local broadcast stations so that entertainments may be broadcast from the club quarters at almost a moment's notice.

The members of the Press Club Radio Committee who are working out details are: Robert H. Heinl, chairman; Carl H. Butman, vice chairman; Lynn M. Lamm, Bertram Linz, P. H. McGowan, James D. Preston, Hal H. Smith and Frederick W. Wile. Maj. S. F. Rothafel, familiarly known as "Roxy," and Senator C. C. Dill are also associate members.

JUDGING RADIO RECEPTION

In general it may be said that radio reception will be good under the following conditions:

1. With the wind to your back and your arms outstretched the left arm held a little forward and the right arm a trifle backward, stations in the direction of your arms will come in better than those at right angles to your arms. This applies on days when the wind had been blowing constantly from one direction and not shifting every few hours.

2. The stronger the wind when temperatures are moderae or low, the stronger the reception from the direction indicated in point 1.

3. A rainy night unaccompanied by a thunderstorm is as good as a clear night if the temperature is moderate or low and you have the conditions indicated in paragraphs 1 and 2.

4. Reception from stations in the direction in which you are facing or to your back is likely to be poor unless you happen to be in or close to the center of a symmetrical high pressure or low pressure area. This, however, does not happen very often and therefore may be normally disregarded.

In point number 4 reference is made to high and low pressure areas. These you will find marked on the daily weather map issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau and represent the pressure of the atmosphere over the country each day. The conclusions found in points 1 and 4 are based upon a careful study of the behavior of radio transmission with respect to these high and low pressure areas.

Battery Intelligence.

The "A" battery should be recharged when about 75 per cent discharged, as shown by the hydrometer, and not left until the receiver goes dead. When the battery is completely discharged or left idle in a discharged state for more than a day or so, an insulating scale or hard sulphate forms on the plates. If promptly and fully charged, a battery loses its hard sulphate. But if the hard sulphate remains in that condition, a white color on the positive plates is noticed. This will necessitate a more frequent charge than is required for the customary usage.

An Inexpensive Insulator.

A cheap but serviceable aerial insulator can be made by using a quart bottle. Bore a hole through the pole where the insulator is to be placed. Put the neck of the bottle through the hole and fasten the aerial wire to it. If the neck of the bottle is too short, cut out a place on one side of the pole.

Busbar Already Tinned.

The round and square "busbar" sold for radio set wiring is hardened copper wire coated with a very thin layer of solder, which makes it convenient for ready soldering. It is not necessary to scrape the surface, except to remove superficial dirt, in preparing this material for the soldering operation.

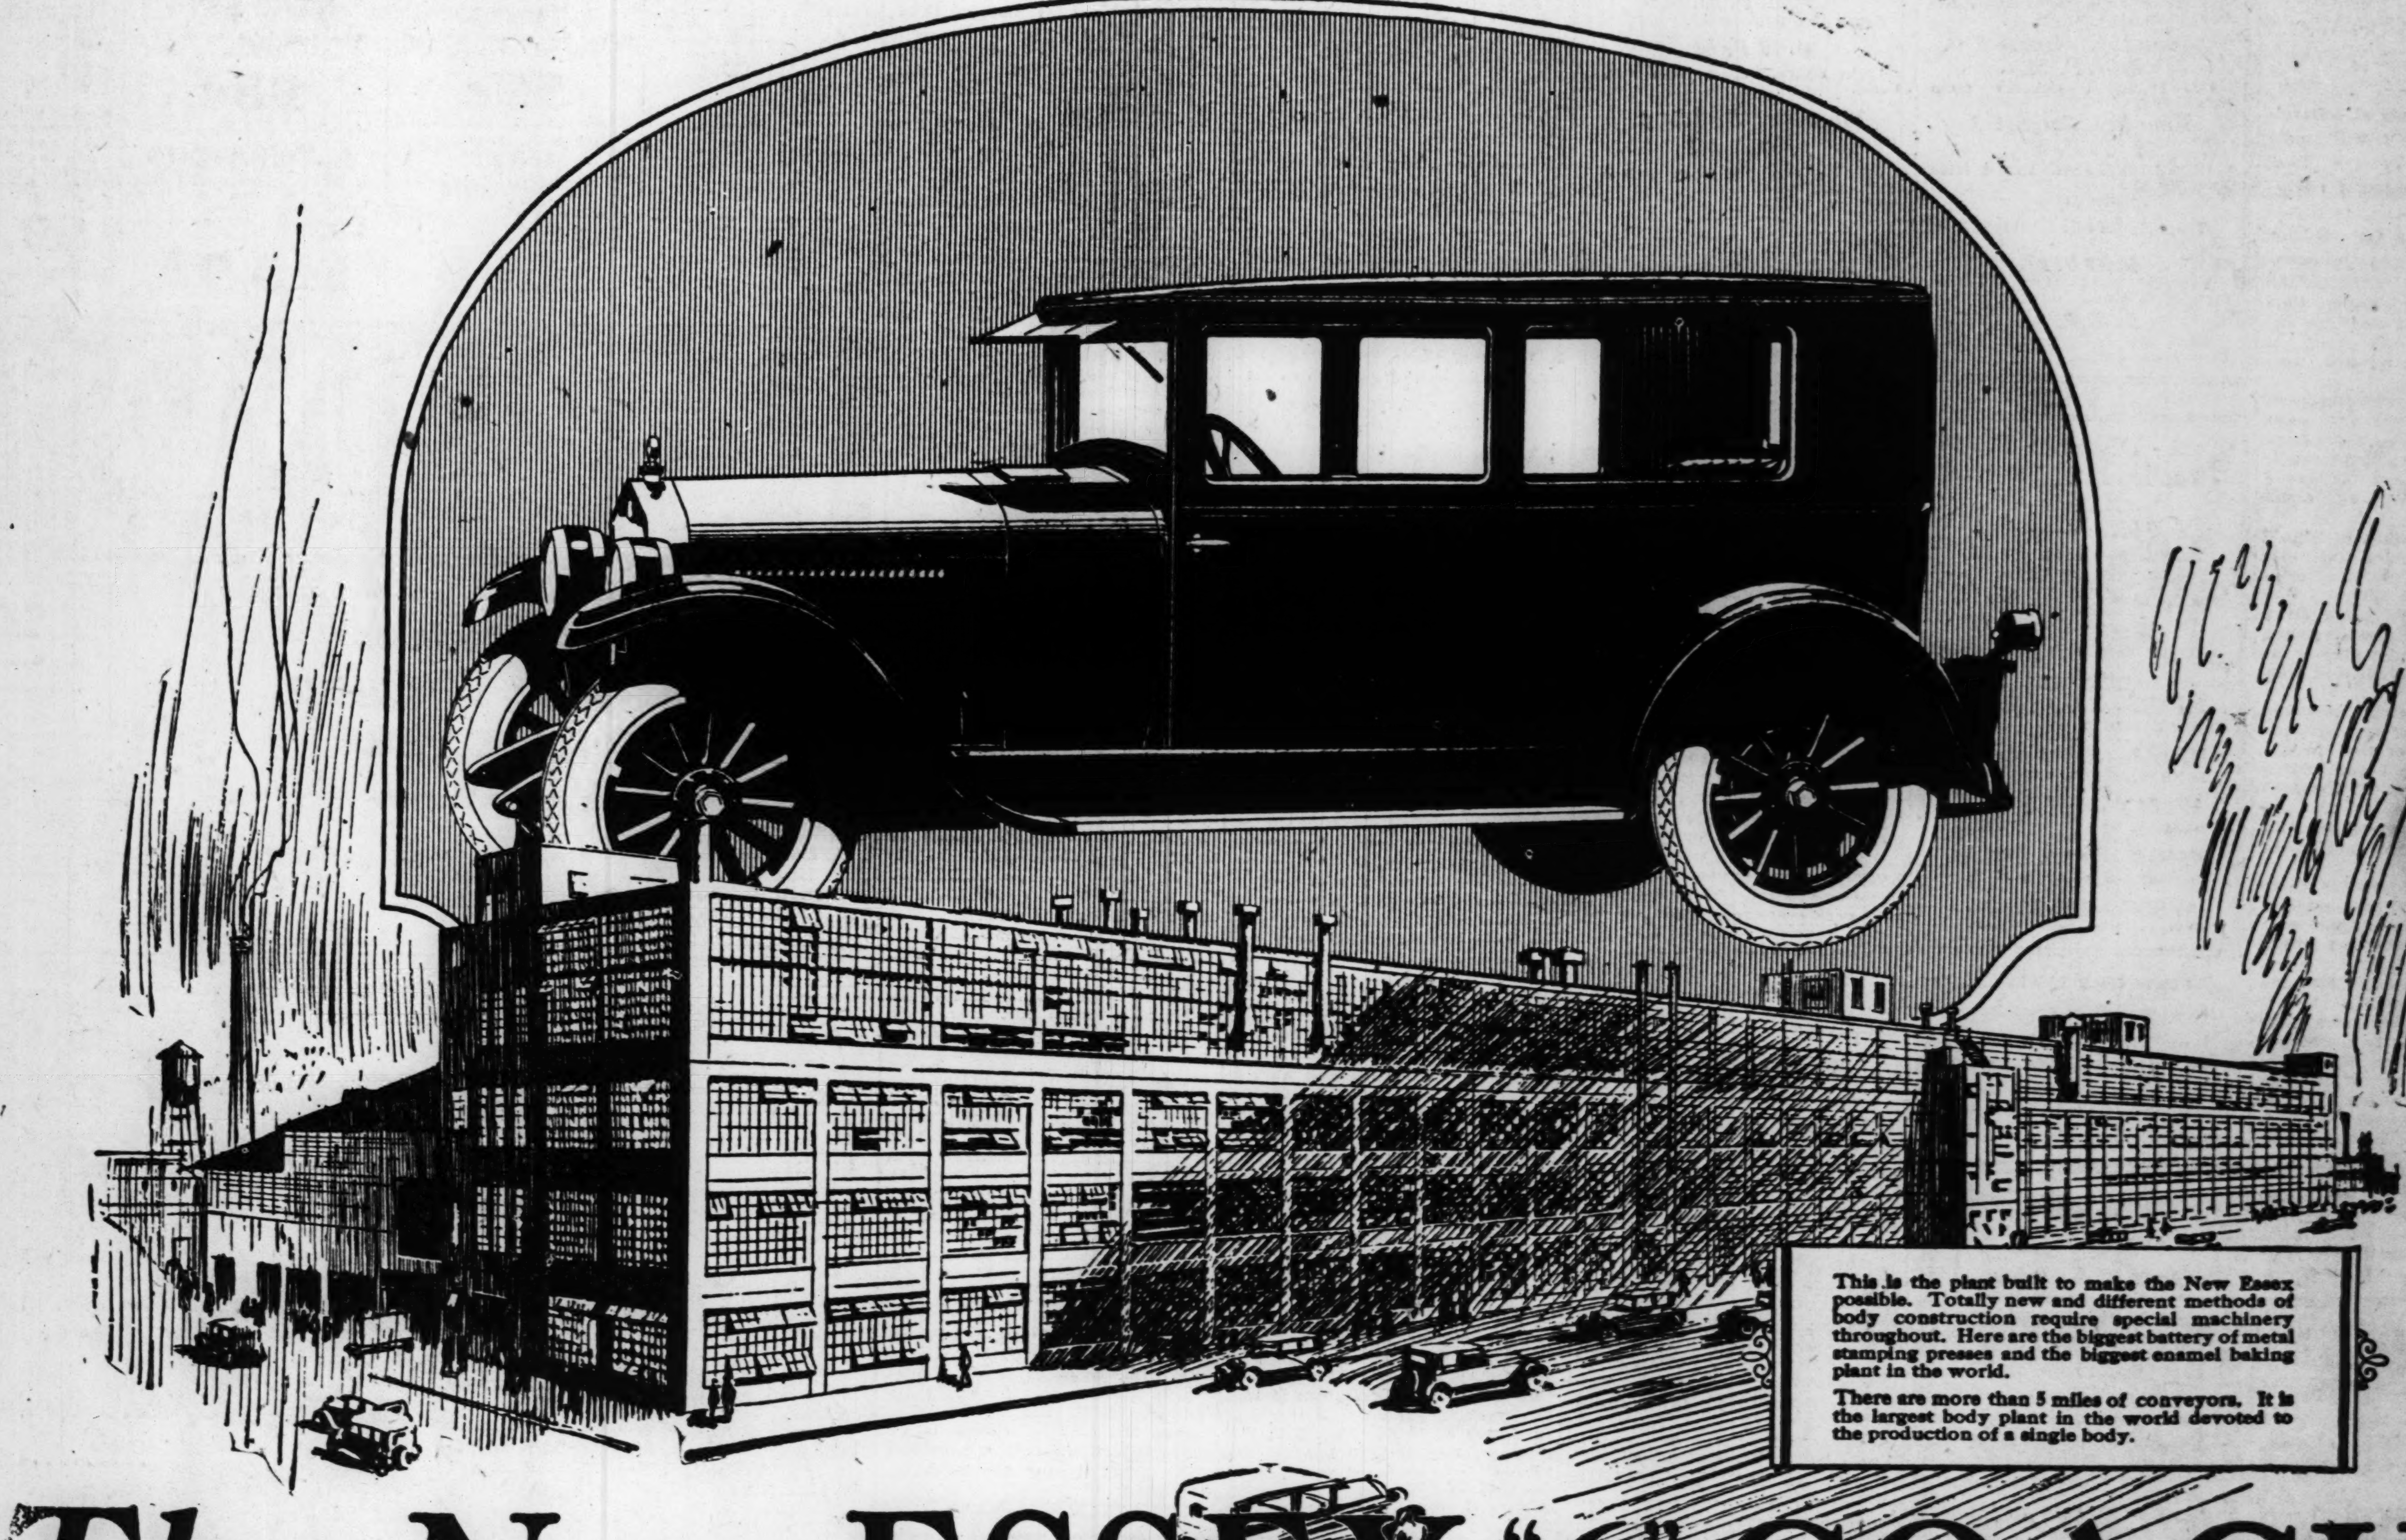
We Built a $10,000,000 Body Plant to Make This New Essex Possible



This is the plant built to make the New Essex possible. Totally new and different methods of body construction require special machinery throughout. Here are the biggest battery of metal stamping presses and the biggest enamel baking plant in the world.

There are more than 5 miles of conveyors. It is the largest body plant in the world devoted to the production of a single body.

The New ESSEX "6" COACH

With All-Steel, Bolted and Riveted Clear Vision Body

$795

F. O. B. Detroit, plus War Excise Tax

Standard equipment includes:
Automatic Windshield Cleaner, Rear View Mirror, Transmission Lock (built-in), Radiator Shutters, Moto-Meter, Combination Stop and Tail Light.

Many of these advantages you will recognize at a glance. But you will have a higher appreciation of their meaning when you know that a plant of 18 acres which, with equipment, approximated a cost of $10,000,000, was first built and that special machinery had to be designed, to make possible this New Coach now on display.

Again Essex "6" offers in the design and construction of the New Coach as radical an improvement as was the original Coach itself.

It is all steel, bolted and riveted, and so rigid that squeaks, rattles and distortions, are as unlikely as in a steel building. Doors are so hung that a man may hang on an open door while the car is being driven over rough roads, without springing it out of true.

And it is so designed and constructed as to permit the use in a totally new manner of a high baked enamel, most lustrous and lasting finish. This has made possible new combinations in finish that will please your eye.

There has been constant improvement in the chassis from the first Essex shipped. Every week has seen some betterment. But only by the accumulation of the resources, the information, experience, and the skill that have resulted from the purchase of 350,000 Essex "Sixes" in a short period of time, was it possible to erect the plants, to perfect the machinery, to create the designs that have resulted in this car which we ask you to inspect and to drive as the best looking, best value, best Essex ever built.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

DRAMA-MUSIC-MOVIES

PART SIX. ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, AUGUST 1, 1926. PAGES 1—10B.

Fashion Show at Garden And "Woodland" at Opera Week's Outdoor Offerings

Styles for Men to Be Displayed for First Time in Annual Dress Revue — Pixley and Luders' Bird Fantasy Admirably Suited to Forest Park Stage.

THE twelfth annual St. Louis Pageant of Fashion will open at the Garden Theater Tuesday night and continue every night except Sunday, until Aug. 29. Past and present Queens will review the styles of yesterday and the mode of today. The queens will be the Queen of Sheba, Cleopatra, Helen of Troy, Circe and the modern Queen of Fashion. Passing before the queens will be the outstanding styles from the fifteenth century down to the extreme mode of today. There will be the Farthingale Spanish of the sixteenth century, followed by Juliet; the French Directoire of the seventeenth century; Madame Pompadour; Priscilla, the Puritan maid of Pilgrim days; the crinoline girl of the 60's; the Grecian bend of the 70's; the athletic girl of 1895; the bathing girl of the 90's; the diving girl of today; the Christy girl; the Gibson girl; the Merry Widow and the hobble skirt of 1914.

IMMEDIATELY following the review of the styles of yesterday will be a display of apparel for women worn by living models. The first parade of models will include street dresses, afternoon frocks, costumes—two-piece garments—smart footwear and chic millinery.

Following the first parade of models there will be a Charleston chorus. The next episode will be Spanish in atmosphere, setting and color. Argentine dancers will present the tango, followed by a quartette of singers, who will sing Spanish love songs. Following this will appear a group of models in the latest fads and fancies in wearing apparel.

THE next scene will be that of winter sports introduced by a group of 16 dancers in a Snow Flake Ballet. The curtains will be drawn aside presenting an ice rink over which will glide Katie Schmidt and partner and Baptie and Lamb. This will be followed by the appearance of the Snow Flake Pages, who will do a short ballet before taking their stations on the runway. Models will appear through an icicle curtain displaying furs and winter wraps.

The finale will be a presentation of a formal garden with living statuary.

FOR the first time in the Pageant of Fashion, man will have his inning. Correct styles for men will be displayed on living models, showing the correct garment for every occasion. The display of wearing apparel for men is so interwoven as to be a part of the pageantry and not a mere style show, from the styles for the kiddie who effects the long trousers of "father" to the Tuxedo and full evening dress, topcoats, hats, gloves and shoes.

"Woodland" at the Opera.

AS novel an entertainment as was ever set before St. Louisans at Municipal Opera will be presented tomorrow night when the Municipal Theater Association gives as its tenth offering of the season, "Woodland," a musical fantasy with score by Gustav Luders and book by Frank Pixley, composer and librettist, respectively, of "The Prince of Pilsen."

Not since 1915, when a stock company presented it at the Park Theater, has "Woodland" been seen in St. Louis. Incidently, that production was directed by Charles Sinclair, who is performing similar services this week. The initial production of the work locally occurred in 1906 when the original company under the management of Henry W. Savage visited the Olympic Theater.

ITS atmosphere is so completely of the outdoor theater that one might easily believe Luders and Pixley had joined their talents for the purpose of producing a work that would fit the open-air stage without any change.

From the settings to its bird characters "Woodland" is wholly in the spirit of the outdoor theater. There are numerous choruses of birds, for which costumes of brilliant hues and delicate shades have been provided, and these have enabled Sinclair to build up spectacular ensembles.

"Woodland," whose story requires two acts, tells a tale of birdland and the troublous events during the reign of King Eagle when a Blue Jay is elevated to office and for a time threatens the rightful succession of the King's son.

The cast of characters is as follows:

King Eagle	Edward Molitere
Prince Eagle	Bernice Mershon
Blue Jay	Robinson Newbold
General Rooster	Wm. J. McCarthy
Judge Owl	Detmar Poppen
Dr. Raven	Roland Woodruff
Robin Redbreast	Thomas Conkey
Cardinal Grossbeak	Robert Betts
Lieutenant Sparrow	Billye Pasch
Miss Nightingale	Dorothy Maynard
Miss Polly Parrot	Jane Drew
Lady Peacock	Louise Heimueller
Miss Turtle Dove	Miss Anna Frein
Miss Jennie Wren	Irene Dunne
Lady Hawk	Dollye Hyams
Miss Canary	Mary Margaret Noble
The Cold Bottle	William Dollar
The Hot Bird	Eulalie Owen

TONIGHT'S bill at the Municipal Theater is Franz Lehar's light opera, "The Count of Luxembourg." For the eleventh and next to the final week beginning a week from tomorrow night the Municipal Theater Association will offer Auber's comic opera "Fra Diavolo." The twelfth and final week of the season begins Monday night, Aug. 16, when a revival of Victor Herbert's extravaganza, "Babes in Toyland" will be offered on the Forest Park stage.

New York Stage In the Doldrums Of Midsummer

"Americana" Furnishes Only Mild Excitement of the Past Week, But It Introduces a New and Clever Comedian.

By WELLS ROOT.

NEW YORK, July 31.

A THEATER is never so deserted as it is at 8:30 on an opening night. Particularly these kindly August evenings when the sidewalks are so agreeable for community smoking. Within a few ushers stand wistfully about, wondering how many stout women they can seat many stout women middle of the wrong rows. Perhaps marooned and lonely somewhere down front will be a couple of perplexed visitors from out of town. They have achieved the signal feat of purchasing seats for an opening night. They are going to see the celebrities.

The celebrities, bleakly indifferent, are bickering wearily among themselves outside. At about 10 minutes of nine the overture or the buzzer or whatever it is that starts the show sounds. There is a sudden surge of celebrities, several of whom can't find their tickets, at the entrance. They descend on the vacant orchestra like rain on thirsty ground. A man with a aisle seat gets water on the knee. The curtain goes up. Conversations fall to loud whispers. The ushers run out of programs. There are rustles and grunts and requests that the lady two aisles ahead remove her hat. Finally silence, roughened only by the hoarse breathing of those who have had the stiffest fights finding their places. The play has begun.

All of this is casual and human. There is sacrificed only that tense hush of sharp expectancy the moment before the curtain rises, a moment to many people the most inevitably exciting of the evening.

IT IS like the moment before the kick-off at a football game or the tingling second when the brittle tap of the conductor's baton calls an orchestra's attention. The spectator is about to undergo an emotional experience. He has come in the simple faith that he will be stirred to tears or laughter. He has seen many bad plays, but this, surely, will be a good one. It is the moment of many plays' sincerest appreciation. It should be treasured. That perhaps is the only sound argument for prompt attendance at the theater. Few lives have been poorer for the first five minutes of first acts they have missed.

PERHAPS first-nighters are so toughened that they find no value in this mysterious moment. I do not think so. No one who has ever watched a great play, "Cyrano de Bergerac," for example, can fail to seek again that stir and threshing of emotion. I can think of no other good reason for his going to the theater.

THERE is a feeling that first-night audiences are cruel and hard to please. This seems a singular fallacy. The first-nighters are chiefly those who live in and for the theater. Their life is ordered thus because they love the theater. There is no one for whom the glamour of the stage is stronger than he who has lived his life behind its scenes. He reacts most sharply to its sharper stimuli. He understands. Only a man who has hit home runs can catch the full thrill of the crack and long high curve of flight as the ball starts for the bleachers. At a good play it is quickest with its bitterness. It is impatient of ineptitude. But if you would hear women scream and strong men cry take tickets for a favorable first night. And some day you may see an audience drag

Many Stars for Coming Symphony Season

GEORGE R. ROBINSON, manager for the St. Louis Symphony Society, passed through St. Louis last week, for Colorado from New York where he completed arrangements for appearances of additional soloists with the orchestra the coming season, which is to open with a pair of orchestral concerts on November 5-6. On November 19 and 20 Renee Chemet, French violinist, will make her St. Louis debut with the orchestra. At the concerts of November 26-27 and December 10-11 two artists who were born and reared in St. Louis, Helen Traubel, soprano, and Henri Deering, pianist, will appear.

Rudolph Laubenthal, one of the two German tenors of the Metropolitan, has been engaged for a Wagner concert. He made his debut as Walter Von Stolzing, in Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" at the Metropolitan. Another artist who will come to St. Louis is Dusolina Giannini, soprano, who begins her third American season after a tour of Germany, where she made her operatic debut scoring, according to a dispatch from Berlin to the New York Times, "one of the greatest triumphs ever accorded a young American artist."

Carl Flesch, Hungarian violinist, is to play a return engagement with our orchestra. Upon his previous visit students of the violin were impressed with his scholarly interpretation.

Two piano performances will be given with the orchestra by Joseph Lhevinne and by Ganz. The prospect of Ganz's reappearance as soloist recalls to many his playing of the Tschaikowsky No. 1 Concerto in last season's series. He has not yet announced what he will play. Mr. Ganz is now in Europe working out his programs, which will be announced early in the fall.

GOLTERMAN ANNOUNCES THE CAST FOR "CARMEN"

THE cast of "Carmen," to be produced the week of Aug. 23 by the Grand Opera Association of St. Louis at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park, was announced yesterday by Guy Golterman, director.

It takes in seven members of the Metropolitan Opera Company, including the dramatic soprano, Elda Vettori, who began her career in St. Louis, and three members of the Chicago Civic Opera Company.

The cast is as follows:

Carmen—	Lorna Doone Jaxon, Marta Wittkewska
Micaela	Elda Vettori
Frasquita—	Elizabeth Gerr, Gladys Wheaton
Mercedes	Gladys Swarthout
Don Jose—	Riccardo Martin, J de Gaviria
Escamillo	Joseph Royer, Mario Valle
Dancairo	George Cehanovsky
Remendado	Joseph Cavadori
Zuniga—	Charles Gallagher, Carl Cochems
Conductor	Vittorio Versa
Assistant Conductor	Giuseppe Cesati
Stage Director	Alex. Puglia
Premier Dancers—	Lillian Ogden, Rita de Laporte

The production, which will include a chorus of 100 and ballet of 50, is to be given at prices ranging from 25 cents to $2.50 for boxes.

Behind the Screens

"ROSE-MARIE," current musical success, will be done in celluloid, Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer having obtained the screen rights. As Metro has filmed "The Merry Widow" and "Sally, Irene and Mary" with much success, and now has "The Red Mill" and "The Waltz Dream" almost ready for distribution, that company seems to have monopolized the musical comedy market.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer also obtained distribution rights on Buster Keaton's version of "Battling Butler," in which Sally O'Neill has the feminine lead. As a musical comedy, this play enjoyed a successful New York run. Douglas Furber, second comedian of Charlot's Revue which played St. Louis, was one of the collaborators in the preparation of "Battling Butler" in its stage form.

Jules Verne's "The Mysterious Island" will be filmed in the Bahamas and in Hawaii, with its undersea sequences made in the plant

Dave Silverman, orchestra leader at the West End Lyric for 10 years, will succeed Charles Previn as conductor of the Missouri Concert Orchestra, when the latter moves to the Ambassador Theater at its opening, Aug. 19.

KANSAS CITY CRITIC PRAISES PARK OPERA

Says Municipal Theater Is Essentially a Democratic Institution for the Masses.

The music editor of the Kansas City Star is one of the latest of visiting music and drama lovers to write about the St. Louis Municipal Opera. In a recent issue of the Star, telling of the week of July 12, when Victor Herbert's "Sweethearts" was the bill, this writer says:

"The problem of the municipal theater is to please the majority, since it is essentially a democratic institution, with no pretense toward intellectualism. It is designed to afford the public a place to go hot summer nights, where it may have fun at something it does not have to work hard to enjoy. That is, perhaps, the secret of its overwhelming success. It does not pretend to educate; it leaves those interesting pursuits for the winter months.

"The staging is a solution of another problem. Each set must be an exterior, since on a 100-foot stage, backed with two glorious trees, a parlor set would look bizarre, to say the least. Everything, therefore, is enough revamped to appear logical out of doors. There are no curtains, and no two dimensional sets. Everything is in three dimensions—when a house is called for it is built, and all it needs to be liveable is a back wall. The front drop is replaced by flood lights that place a wave of light between the audience and the scene shifting.

"It wuold seem utterly impossible to introduce any technical or other subtleties upon a stage fronting 10,000 persons—and, of course, it is impossible to introduce some of them. But there is one of the finest amplifying system imaginable in use, and even at the back of the sweep of seats, an aside properly given can be heard. The amplifir also seems to eliminate most of the metallic quality some of the instruments have, and to be particularly kind to the orchestra, which sounds marvelously well. It is not quite as kind to some of the voices.

"Steadily all this summer the record for attendance has exceeded by 6000 the weekly record of last year. The house is filled night after night, and more than ever in its history the institution is drawing support from 'casuals'—tourists, visitors from neighboring towns and from towns not neighboring. With a still greater increase of home patronage, it is not difficult to see why the 6000 extra seats are sold each week.

"The bills are not confined to very light music. 'Il Trovatore set a record for attendance, and proved that operatic artists can sing nightly without danger to their voices or anything else. The cast, headed by Frances Peralta, sang seven consecutive performances, and liked it.

"And almost as fascinating as watching the monster audience enjoy itself is watching it go home. The auditorium empties itself as if the bottom had dropped from a bag of candy. A battery of dozens of busses and thousands of private motor cars, suck up the crowd, and it is gone."

Finds Best Way

MISS JUANITA THOMPSON

"I'm always delighted with the way Black and White Skin Soap keeps my complexion so clear, immaculate and soft," says pretty Miss Juanita Thompson, of Kayford, West Virginia, "and now I've discovered that its rich, creamy lather is as kind to my hair as to my face and makes the best possible shampoo, leaving my scalp in the pink of condition, and my hair soft, lustrous and easy to arrange."

For every use where a pure, easily lathering soap is needed, the choice of discriminating women everywhere falls on the delicately fragranced Black and White Skin Soap, which is made from finest oils, contains no grit or free alkali, and is thoroughly milled so a 25c cake of it lasts twice as long as ordinary soap.

If your dealer doesn't have Black and White Beauty Creations you want, send his name to Plough, Memphis, Tenn., and you will receive free a copy of the Birthday and Dream Book, containing many interesting facts on beauty, dreams and fortune telling.

of the J. E. Williamson undersea tube and submarine corporation in Nassau. Lionel Barrymore, Sally O'Neill, Warner Oland, Jacqueline Gadsen, Roy D' Arcy and Karl Dane will be featured.

"Tin Hats," a story of the American Army of Occupation in Germany, now in the making, will feature Claire Windsor and Conrad Nagel. Tom O'Brien, the "Bull" of "The Big Parade," is in the supporting cast.

Milton Sills has completed his role in Ray Rockett's film version of Cosmo Hamilton's novel, "Paradise," and is now in California.

John Philip Kolb, who was a truck driver in New York until a year ago, when First National started him on his film career, left for California last week with a long-term contract from First National in his pocket.

James Hall has been selected to play Pola Negri's leading man in her production, "Hotel Imperial." Hall, who scored a success on New York's musical comedy stages and was then signed to a contract by Paramount, is now playing the leading male role in Bebe Daniels' picture "The Campus Flirt."

Production of W. G. Fields' second starring picture, "So's Your Old Man," has started at the Paramount Long Island studio. Principals in "So's Your Old Man," which was adapted to the screen by Tom J. Geraghty from the story by Julian Street, are Alice Joyce, Charles Rogers, Josephine Drake and "Kittens" Reichert.

John Waters has been assigned to direct "Passing Strangers," the movie of tramp life written by Jim Tully especially for the screen. The story is based on varied experiences of Tully during the days when he was a hobo, many of which are included in his autobiographical volume, "Beggars of Life," and "Outside Looking In."

"The Charleston Kid," adapted from Gerald Beaumont's story, "Even Stephen," was placed in production last week at First National's New York studios with Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall in the featured roles.

Svend Gade, who is scheduled to direct Corinne Griffith in a film version of the operetta, "The Lady in Ermine," has been loaned to First National for a picture, soon to go into production at the new Burbank studios.

Norma Talmadge has returned to Hollywood and will soon start working on a new picture, "The Sun of Montmartre," an original story by Hans Kraly.

Doris Kenyon and Lloyd Hughes have the featured roles in "A Desperate Woman," on which cameras started to grind the week of July 12. This is an adaptation of the Sam Janney stage play and was written by Carey Wilson. Alfred E. Green is directing.

"Subway Sadie," directed by Alfred Santell, will be ready for previewing shortly. It is now in final stages of editing and titling. Dorothy Mackaill, Jack Mulhall and Charlie Murray have the featured roles, with Peggy Shaw, Gaston Glass and Bernard Randall in the supporting cast.

Ray Rockett's next production will be the screen version of the successful stage play, "Not Herbert," which was written by Howard Irving Young. It will be a Ben Lyon feature vehicle. Production is slated to start about Aug. 15.

Edward Sutherland, who directed "Behind the Front," has arrived in Los Angeles to direct "We're in the Navy Now," which will feature Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, and which after a fashion is a sequel to the army farce. Sutherland was accompanied by Monte Brice, the gag man who worked on the former production, and who has taken up the business of helping to produce laughs for "We're in the Navy Now."

Clara Bow will not play the role of Joan in Adolphe Menjou's starring picture, "The Ace of Cads." Miss Bow is now working under Frank Tuttle's direction in Eddie Cantor's picture, "Kid Boots," and will not be finished in time to make the journey from Hollywood to New York.

NEW YORK STAGE IN THE DOLDRUMS OF MID-SUMMER

IT has been said that the professional theater goer becomes inevitably a cynic. His emotional arteries have grown hard and all his laughter gouty. This is obviously silly. Emotions and laughter, like everything else, are sharpened when wisely exercised and soundly trained. It is only the ingrown wit who will not laugh his hardest at another's joke. The cynic, too, is likely one who has grown a shell to cover a soft stretch on his character. The theater is a world of no inhibitions. One is allowed to laugh as he likes. I know of no one who has been gossiped about for crying at "The Wisdom Tooth." It is the earnest home girl and the tired business man who calls a true play vulgar or a good farce silly. One must go into the theater many times to come out of it with weary ribs or a throat lump that hurts and will not swallow.

THERE was just one discovery in the theater last week. That was Charles Butterworth, a comedian making his New York debut in the revue "Americana." Three years ago Mr. Butterworth was a student at Notre Dame, where he amused his fellows with speeches and writings and finally took a law degree. His pursuit of the legal profession is not clearly defined by our sources of information. Suffice to say that he turned his hand to newspaper work and found employment on the South Bend News Times, a sheet that in its day has published in its columns the early writings of two promising young reporters, then unknown under the names of Ring Lardner and J. P. McEvoy. Later Mr. Butterworth turned up in New York, worked for a bit on the New York Times, and finally found himself working as secretary to Mr. McEvoy, author of "Americana" and a brother alumnus of Notre Dame. Between times he attempted vaudeville and obtained vagrant and woefully futile engagements on the smallest time.

While "Americana" was in its earliest throes of rehearsal, Mr. McEvoy agreed to give his secretary an audition. Now it happened that during his semiprofessional entertaining days Mr. Butterworth had spoken at many Rotary Club banquets in the Middle West. He had conceived a burlesque speech on the interminable discourses of his fellow orators at these occasions. He had given it in vaudeville with shocking lack of laughter. It was a shrewd and subtle scourging of the nervous Babbitt speaking after dinner. Minor vaudeville audiences couldn't grasp it. To Mr. McEvoy and Richard Herndon, producer of "Americana," the speech was a riot. Mr. Butterworth got the job.

As rehearsals progressed he was fitted into other sketches and on the opening night did yoeman service. We do not recall the work of a completely unknown and inexperienced player making such an impression in many months. And just to make matters thoroughly agreeable for him, the opening date of "Americana" fell squarely on his birthday.

THE Manhattan Theater is still steaming sleepily in the midsummer doldrums. Aside from "Americana," which was only a pretty good revue on the whole, there was little excitement last week. The best shows are still "What Every Woman Knows," "At Mrs. Beam's," "Lulu Belle," "The Great God Brown" and "Craig's Wife." Song and dance is most ably spread by "Iolanthe," "Sunny," "The Cocoanuts," "The Scandals," "Ziegfelds Revue" (formerly "No Foolin'"), "The Vagabond King" and "The Merry World."

CITIZEN SOLDIERS TO END CAMP THIS WEEK

1600 Boys and Young Men Will Leave Jefferson Barracks for Home Friday.

The Citizen Military Training Camp at Jefferson Barracks entered its final week today. Next Friday the 1600 boys and young men from Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas will return to their homes after soldiering with Uncle Sam for a month.

Tomorrow probably will be the final day of military instruction. Tuesday the student soldiers and members of the St. Louis Advertising Club will dine together in the big mess hall, after which the boys will go on a hike with full packs. The hike will end with the pitching of shelter tents, and the boys will have supper under the skies and sleep in pup tents.

Wednesday will be St. Louis day and also a day for visitors at the camp. Features of the program will be realistic martial maneuvers from 8 to 10 a. m., parade and review of C. M. T. C. students at 3 p. m., St. Louis day ceremonies and presentation of awards at 4 p. m. and free movies and last C. M. T. C. dance at 7:30 p. m.

On Thursday the students will receive their civilian clothing, kept for them since the camp opened in a warehouse on the reservation. On Friday morning they will turn in their army clothes, be examined by physicians, and leave for home, the Government furnishing free transportation.

GERMAN SKILLED WORKER AVERAGES $9.56 A WEEK

Building Trades Get $13.15, Miners $11.70, Unskilled $7.75 a Week Minus Taxes.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 31.—The average skilled workman in the 15 leading German industries earns $9.56 a week of 48 hours, the Ministry of Industry and Commerce reports. From this wage the employers deduct for the Federal Government an income tax averaging 9 per cent for single and 8 per cent for married persons.

The organized building trades workers, the plutocrats of German labor, draws $13.15 a week. Miners rank second with $11.70; unskilled male workers get $7.75.

The cost of living is almost as high as that outside of metropolitan districts in the United States.

Strikes are few because jobs are scarce. Forty-eight adults out of every 1000 men, women and children are jobless in Berlin.

Honeymoon in Romantic Forest.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 31.—Lord Furness and his American bride, who was Mrs. Thelma Morgan Converse, sister of Mrs. Reginald G. Vanderbilt, chose one of the most picturesque and romantic spots of the British isle for their honeymoon. After their recent wedding in London, Lord and Viscountess Furness motored to a lodge in Affaric Forest, Inverness-shire, Scotland, which great sporting property of 34,000 acres the shipping peer leases by the year. Affaric Forest is 30 miles from the nearest railway station, Beauly, surrounded by some of the grandest forest land in the Highlands.

Melchior to Sing Here in November

Lauritz Melchior, Danish tenor, will be heard at the Odeon on Tuesday evening, Nov. 6, under the auspices of the Civic Music League. Melchior made his debut at the Royal Opera of Copenhagen in "Pagilacci." In 1919, he first sang in London at a promenade concert under Sir Henry Wood. Later he appeared in Munich, studied in Wagnarian roles, and meeting Siegfried Wagner was engaged for the first postwar Bayreuth festival in 1924. In 1925 he again sang at Bayreuth festival. He also starred in London's first postwar season of international operas at Convent Garden. In 1926 he came to this country as a member of the Metropolitan Opera Co.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES

Red and Hard Itched and Burned Cuticura Heals

"My husband's face was covered with pimples. They were red and hard and came to a head. He also had some on his back. The pimples itched and burned a great deal. He was this way for about four months.

"He tried different remedies but they did not do any good. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after he used it we could see such a difference that I purchased more, and in about six weeks he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. I. J. VETERANS GIVEN EXTENSION FOR INSURANCE RENEWALS

New Schedule Also Provides $50 Monthly for Tubercular Patients Out of Hospital.

A synopsis of provisions for disabled war veterans, recently authorized by Congress, has been received at the local office of the Veterans' Bureau.

One of the most important is the granting of $50 a month for life to ex-service men suffering from tuberculosis contracted in the military service, who are no longer receiving hospitalization due to the checking of the disease. Other important provisions allow veterans until July 2, 1927, to reinstate their Government insurance and until July, 1928, to complete vocational training; authorizes the payment of $2.65 a day for time lost in submitting to examinations requested by the bureau; and the extension of privileges not heretofore allowed to army nurses, including hospitalization in other than Government hospitals and burial expenses.

MUSIC HALLS CROWD OUT OPERA AT ROYAL RECEPTION

King Alfonso's Taste for the Gay in Music Gives Paris a Slight Shock.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 31.—Little stories about the recent visit to Paris of King Alfonso and Queen Victoria of Spain continued to be told.

The reception the monarchs gave at the Spanish Embassy was opened with a concert. Both the King and the Queen are lovers of cheerful, light music, so, instead of the opera, the music halls for once took precedence. Maurice Chevalier, with his partner, Mlle. Vallee, sang the charms of "Valentine;" Mlle. Perly sang "Mon Paris," and Mlle. Argentina, the Spanish dancer, won all sorts of applause.

Former Minister Louis Loucheur was the only person present who felt called upon to express astonishment at this new departure. "Extraordinary!" he was heard to murmur; "Never heard such things at a royal reception!"

President Doumergue, on the other hand, showed marked satisfaction. Official etiquette prevents him from hearing or seeing vaudeville successes.

NEW ROAD CUTS TIME TO YOSEMITE VALLEY

Merced Canyon Route May Keep the California Park Open the Year Round.

By the Associated Press.

YOSEMITE VALLEY, Cal., July 31.—Motorists from many parts of the United States joined with State and national officials today in celebration of the opening of a new highway into this playground.

The new route shortens the trip—through elimination of terrific grades—from nearly a day to three hours (from Merced), and will make possible keeping the Yosemite open the year around. The road was carved by convict labor through 18 miles of solid granite that walls Merced River canyon.

The opening of the new way comes 26 years after the first automobile entered Yosemite Valley. It is 75 years since the first white man stood on the brink of the valley.

An outdoor pageant depicting the discovery of the valley in 1851 was presented in Royal Arch Meadows under the direction of Garnet Holmes.

TWO WOMEN NAVIGATE BOAT 1700 MILES IN AEGEAN SEA

French Archeologists Publish Book After Completion of Trip in 24-Foot Sailing Craft.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 31.—Two noted French archeologists, both women, have just published a book on a remarkable voyage they have made. Alone on board a little 24-foot sailing boat, the "Perlette" of the same type as that in which their fellow countryman, Alain Gerbault, crossed the Atlantic, Marthe-Oulie and Hermine de Soussure have covered some 1700 miles in the Aegean Sea. The two women started from Piraeus in Greece and visited Asia Minor, doing all the work for themselves, in port as on the high seas.

Mlle. Oulie has just obtained her degree at the Sorbonne and is well-known for her excavation work in Crete, where she has discovered the ancient city of Mallia, which had disappeared. Her comrade, Mlle. De Saussure, is also a noted archeologist who has worked in Greece.

POWER WIRES KILL SWALLOWS

Lines Across Alps Blamed for Death of Thousands of Birds.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 31.—The swallows, so dear to the hearts of the German people, are reported to be on the verge of extinction.

Investigation has disclosed that the birds are being electrocuted by the thousands at "Swallows' Pass" in the Alps, which in recent years has been spanned by high-tension electric lines from the power plants of Laka Como. On their flights through the Alps to and from North Africa the swallows rest on the wires and in fluttering about frequently touch two wires at the same time. Thousands of dead birds have been found in the on the ground below.

Fried Fish Shops Open in Berlin.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 31.—The first fried fish shop has been opened in Berlin, with the financial backing of the Ministry for Food and Agriculture, to increase the consumption of sea fish. The "back fishstube" as it is called, is patterned after thousands of similar shops in England. It is said to be doubtful whether German palates will be tickled by fried fish. The favorite dish is boiled carp.

W. VIRGINIA COAL HERE UNDERSELLS ILLINOIS PRODUCT

Fuel Delivered for $3.23½ a Ton From Low Wage Mines as Against $3.26 From Across the River.

W. J. JENKINS BLAMES ILLINOIS CONDITIONS

Cites High Union Scale, Cost of Complying With Safety Regulations and Freight Rates.

The St. Louis or Chicago manufacturer who uses carload coal can buy Kentucky or West Virginia coal delivered at his door at prices lower even than for coal from the nearest Illinois mines, W. J. Jenkins, president of the Consolidated Coal Co., which operates mines in various Illinois fields, said yesterday, discussing the business depression which has existed in Illinois coal districts for some time.

The reasons, as given by Jenkins, are the high wages paid to union miners of Illinois, as compared with low non-union scales effective in Kentucky and West Virginia; the cost of obeying the various safety and compensation regulations of Illinois law; and freight rates which are considered extremely favorable to the more distant mines.

Under these conditions, Jenkins said, production in the West Virginia fields increased 20,000,000 tons in 1925, in the Kentucky fields 10,000,000 tons, while the increase in Illinois was little more than 450,000 tons, although consumption has steadily increased.

Comparative Prices.

At present, under summer prices, Kentucky coal in domestic sizes is quoted at $1.50 a ton in St. Louis, plus $1.73½ freight, or a total of $3.23½. The best price that Illinois operators of the "inner group," or Belleville district, can make, Jenkins said, is $2.10, which, with a freight rate of $1.16, makes the delivered price $3.26 a ton; of the "outer group," on Southern Illinois district, $2.75 a ton, plus $1.35 freight, or a total of $4.10.

In Chicago, the largest market for steam coal (mine run) in the United States, West Virginia coal is sold for $3 a ton delivered, Kentucky coal for $3.20 and Illinois coal for $3.60, Jenkins said.

The depression in Illinois has existed since 1924 when the miners, under the Jacksonville agreement, were granted a wage of $1.04 a ton for mining coal. In Kentucky and West Virginia, where non-union mines prevail, the miners are paid on what is termed the "1917 scale" which Jenkins said is about 60 per cent lower than the Illinois scale.

Under the depression the number of miners employed has steadily decreased. In May, A. D. Lewis, director of the Department of Mines and Minerals, at Springfield, stated that the number of miners employed in Illinois had decreased from about 90,000 in 1924 to 45,161 at that time.

Where Miners Have Gone.

Some of the miners have turned to agriculture, some of them have migrated to the city factories, and some have waited, hoping for a turn for the better. The older miners, who know no other trade, have "stuck to the mines," and undoubtedly considerable hardship has been experienced.

It is thought too that many miners have moved to the non-union fields, accepted the lower wages and assumed false names to avoid the wrath of their brethren and dismissal from their union.

The Belleville group has not suffered as much as the Southern Illinois fields. D. L. Thomas, president of that subdistrict of the mine workers' union, estimated that 4200 of the 7000 members of his branch in Belleville, Marissa, New Baden and thereabouts, were steadily employed, which he considers a little better than average summer employment. In 1924 there were more than 10,000 men on the roster.

"It is true that many of our men have left the mines for good," Thomas said, "but in this district there has been little hardship because when the men are hard up they can get jobs in St. Louis or East St. Louis. A number of them have gone to Detroit. I haven't heard of any working in Kentucky, but I believe if I went down there I could recognize quite a few of the boys."

Talk of Wage Reduction.

Jenkins and other operators believe that a wage reduction would alleviate the Illinois situation to some extent, and conferences on the question have been held. Union officials contended, however, that a reduction in Illinois would result in similar reductions in Kentucky and West Virginia, with no advantage to minors or operators.

Production in Illinois in 1922, when the miners struck for 144 days, was 58,467,736 tons. In 1923, when tonnage ran high in all fields, it was 79,310,075. In 1924, the first year of the Jacksonville agreement, it was 68,323,281; in 1925, 68,795,000, and production so far indicates that this year's total will be about 70,000,000 tons.

He Is Looking 'Em Over Again

"Eight years of stomach and liver trouble reduced me to a walking skeleton. My skin was dried up and as yellow as a twenty-dollar gold piece. I was filled with gas and had severe pains in my right side. I could not think and had lost all ambition to do anything. Doctor's medicine did not touch me. My cousin advised MAYR'S, which snatched me from the grave. I have gained sixty pounds, eat like a hired man and am looking 'em over again." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores, Walgreen Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

Summer-Spoiled Skin Removed by Absorption

As undue summer exposure usually leaves an undesirable surface of tan, redness or roughness, often freckles, too, the sensible thing to do is to remove such surface. There's nothing better for this than ordinary mercolized wax, which actually absorbs an unwholesome complexion. The thin layer of surface skin is itself absorbed, gently, gradually, so there's no inconvenience, no detention indoors. Spread the wax lightly over the entire face at bedtime and take it off in the morning with warm water. If you will get one ounce of mercolized wax at the drug store, use it for a week or so, you may expect marked improvement daily. When the underlying skin is wholly in view your complexion will be a marvel of spotless purity and beautiful whiteness.

JUST THE THING SHE NEEDED

Said East St. Louis Woman In Speaking of the Great Herb Extract Remedy Called Herb Juice.

"I have found Herb Juice to be just the thing I have needed for a long time. It has accomplished things for me that no other remedy of this nature ever did, and I want to express my sincere appreciation and thanks to you for what it has done for me," said Mrs. Thos. Murphy, 403A Madison Ave., East St. Louis, Illinois, when she called recently to see the special demonstrator at Walgreen's Drug Store.

MRS. THOS. MURPHY.

In continuing her statement Mrs. Murphy added: "My husband and I both have used Herb Juice with most wonderful results. I was just in a run-down condition generally, suffered a great deal from headaches, had no appetite, and could not sleep very well at night. After taking your treatment I found that it was just the thing I had needed for some time, and the results have been most gratifying. It has built up my system generally, I never suffer from headaches; have a good appetite and sleep remarkably well at night. I wouldn't take anything for what Herb Juice has done for me, as well as what it has done for my husband. He was dreadfully constipated, but is now entirely rid of that condition. We both feel that we owe a great deal to Herb Juice, and are glad to make this public statement. I have gotten such beneficial results from it that I would like others to try it on my recommendation. I know they would be just as well pleased with it as I am, and it will always be a pleasure to me to speak a good word for it because of the wonderful things it has done for me."

This great laxative medicine is an Herb Extract preparation known as Herb Juice and is out-selling any medicine where it has been introduced. Many are calling daily to see the special demonstrator at Walgreen Drug Company, 514 Washington avenue, giving statements for publication, praising this great remedy that their friends may be induced to try it.—Advertisement.

$7130 BALANCE IN CITY'S TENNIS AND GOLF FUND

Total Revenue From Playing Permits at Forest Park First Year of System Was $59,386.

TRIPLE A CLUB PAID $13,560 OF FEES

$52,255 Expended for Upkeep to June 30—Poor Golfers Help Ruin Courses, Pape Says.

Pay-as-you-play golf and tennis in city parks during its first year brought in total revenue of $59,386, which was $7,130.77 more than the total expenditures. The pay system became effective July 1, 1925, and is now in its second year.

Figures compiled by Park Commissioner Pape, at the request of the Post-Dispatch, show golfers on the two munipical course in Forest Park paid $13,950 for annual permits, at $10 each. Those without annual permits paid $25,645 to play at the rate of 50 cents for the 18-hole course and 25 cents for the 9-hole.

Municipal tennis players, in Forest Park and other sections of St. Louis, paid $6231 for annual permits, at $1 each. Some golfers have complained because annual golf permits cost 10 times as much as tennis permits, but tennis permits will continue at $1 for the time being, although Commissioner Pape thinks they may eventually be raised to $2.

Triple A Club Pays $13,560.

A third item of revenue for the city has been $13,560 collected at the Triple A Club, in Forest Park, for golf and tennis permits. Triple A is in the peculiar position of being a private club in a public park, and to preserve exclusive playing privileges for its members, it has continued to maintain its grounds at its own expense while contributing to the municipal coffers at the rate of $10 a member, regardless of whether the member plays golf or takes his exercise at the dinner table.

The revenue from Triple A was combined with the revenue from the municipal golf courses and tennis courts, and used for the maintenance of these courses and courts. Expenditures for the year ended June 30 reached $52,255.23, leaving a balance of $7130.77 still to be spent. Of the expenditures, approximately $12,000 went to 94 tennis courts and the rest to the two Forest Park golf courses, according to Commissioner Pape. On this basis more was spent on the "muny" courses and courts than was collected for permits, this being possible through the assessment on Triple A, where the city spent nothing.

Why Courses Aren't Perfect.

There has been considerable complaint over the failure to keep the municipal golf courses — particularly the 18-hole one—in first-class condition, some of the greens being nearly as devoid of grass as fairways, and some of the fairways being as rough as the great uncut spaces. Scores have gone up as a result, and great has been the agony thereof.

But Commissioner Pape insists his department has done, and is doing, everything possible.

"There are several reasons why the courses aren't perfect," he says. "For instance, a family that never heard of golf will come into the park in the evening and spread a picnic lunch over the nicest lawn in sight—usually a golf green that cost hundreds of dollars. If left alone, the picnickers can ruin that green.

"Another thing the matter is the golfer himself. Few golfers on private courses would cut up the turf and not replace it, but many golfers are careless that way. And, furthermore, the Forest Park links get all the beginners, and they're hardest of all on the course. Lastly, the traffic on our courses is several times that on private courses here."

Some Want Expert Keepers.

Some golfers have expressed the opinion that expert greenskeepers would do much to solve the problem at Forest Park. Commissioner Pape says private clubs, with high membership rates, can employ experts, but Forest Park, charging $10 a year, can not affords experts. To this the golfers retort that experts would be cheaper in the long run, as expensive greens would last longer under their care.

Commissioner Pape and the golfers agree that St. Louis is far behind other cities in the number of municipal courses—Chicago, for one, having six times as many, in proportion to population. There is no room for additional courses within St. Louis' limits, Pape says, and the only hope for the future is in the proposed outer-park system.

Inquiry by Post-Dispatch correspondents throughout the country shows municipal courses are thriving in such cities as New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Washington, Detroit, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Denver, San Francisco and Seattle. All these cities tax the players, the average cost being about the same as in St. Louis, the receipts being used to maintain the properties.

Restoring Lincoln Cathedral.

LONDON, July 31.—"I felt nearly ready to dance in the Cathedral," said the dean of Lincoln, Dr. T. C. Fry, describing his sensation when told that an American had sent a gift of £7450 (about $37,000) toward the cathedral restoration fund. The cathedral is in bad repair and a fund of £86,000 had been opened, of which £66,000 has been subscribed.

Ambassador Houghton on Vacation

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 31.—Ambassador and Mrs. Houghton are now enjoying their summer vacation at Haddington, in Scotland. They have taken Lennox Love, which is the home of Maj. W. A. Bird, brother and heir of Sir David Bird of Newbyth. The place has great historic and romantic interest. The present owners have restored many old features of the manor house, which had been altered in past generations. The estate was formerly the property of Lord Blantyre, a title that is now extinct.

"They're GONE—Because They're OFF!" Place a Piece of Paper Over Half the Above Photo and Note the Transformation!

Send for This New Free Book, "A New Skin in 3 Days," and Marvel at the Progress of Science—It's Wonderful!

Great is the progress of science these days, almost beyond belief. We knew it would come sooner or later, and women have prayed for it, begged for it, would have pawned their priceless jewels for it, yet here it is, almost for a pittance, the wonder beauty rejuvenating discovery of the age!

It was the Germans who gave us Aspirin, to harmlessly relieve us of our pains and aches. It was the Germans who gave our dentists Novacaine, with which they now extract our teeth without pain or shock to the nervous system. And now they give us Marvo, that brings out the clean, soft, velvety, youth-like skin, producing a clear, beautiful, natural, girlish or boyish complexion that almost carries one back to the days of great miracles.

No plaster nor clays to use, no creams nor powders, no masks nor steaming pots, no bleaches nor harmful acids, no makeshifts. No danger to the most tender skin, no pain—yet the old dead skin scales the blackheads, pimples, enlarged pores, surface wrinkles, blemishes, tan, freckles and signs of approaching age are gone —BECAUSE THEY'RE OFF!

This new book, entitled "A New Skin in 3 Days," will be sent to you absolutely free postpaid in plain wrapper. It will read almost like the tale of some Fairy Princess come to touch you with her magic wand and make you more beautiful, more charming, more captivating. Your daydreams come true, your ambitions rewarded, your future a success—the kind of success that real, natural beauty brings to its possessor.

It would take a whole page in this publication to tell you the wonders of MARVO. Let the book explain it to you in the quiet of your own room, where no prying eyes will learn what YOU have discovered. Send for this FREE book NOW, before the supply is exhausted. It will not cost you a cent! You don't have to buy MARVO unless you want to, but just try and keep yourself from doing so after you read what it is and understand how easily you can acquire a brand-new skin. Your request for the book will be kept confidential. Men as well as women who need it should write without delay. A postcard will bring it to you by return mail. Just say "Send Free Book," and thank your stars you saw this announcement! Address Marvo Beauty Laboratories, Dept. 45-H No. 1658 Broadway, New York, N. Y.—Adv.

Camp Irondale Activities

The Fourth, Section of Camp ndale, ended last Monday, estab- hed a new record in the amount work accomplished. Three boys, mond Lay, Conrad Straube, and hols Russell, earned the coveted or Camper award, the first to given this year. The scouts had 46 and 43 project points re- tively, Lay's 49 points being a individual record. Because of he also received the Special ard, which has been given only se scouts so far.

The Bear Troop, under William ndhorst and the Owls, under nard Mayer, the winnerse of the troop contests of the two pre- sections, ran neck and neck the last contest this section, the rs finally winning with an in- idual average of 41.8 points, far ssing the previous record. Owls averaged 39.5 points e best troop average for any vious section was 28 points.

Perry Langston, Raymond Flas- red and Rueben Taylor became ond Class Scouts last Section.

Merit badges were secured by the following scouts: Ormond Lay, swimming, leathercraft; Dan Rosenberg, carpentry; Howard Demke, swimming; Conrad Straube, leathercraft and first aid to animals; Earl Williamson, camping; Robert Kuechler, leathercraft; Eugene Bishop, carpentry; Echols Russell, swimming, leathercraft.

Seven of 16 boys eligible to take the Nature Study test passed it during the Fourth Section. In addition the boys completed a total of 86 nature propects. The Fifth Section, which opened last Monday, is doing considerable nature work, several boys already having passed either their First Class test or Merit Badges in Natural History subjects.

Particular stress was laid on the Red Cross Junior life-saving tests during the Fourth Section, with the result that 13 boys qualified as life savers. Ten days were spent learning the various breaks and carries.

A water carnival was planned for last Sunday, but was postponed because rain drove the spectators away.

Six of the Junior Officers are now working on Red Cross Senior life-saving, and the corps, which is now Junior, will soon be changed to a Senior corps.

SYCAMORE CAMP FOR GIRL SCOUTS CLOSED

Awards of Badges and Merit Honors Mark Final Exercises.

Sycamore Hollow, the Day Camp of the St. Louis Council of Girl Scouts, closed yesterday afternoon with a Court of Awards, at which badges and honors won at the camp were presented. Twelve first and 15 second class badges, one merit badge in garden flowers and 16 Summer Campers' badges were given during the ceremony.

The Summer Campers' badge is a special St. Louis award, given only to second or first-class scouts in high school. To win it a girl must know how to take care of herself in camp, make and extinguish a fire, cook in the open, originate a camp dish, pass a nature study test, and go on one one-day hike and one overnight hike. Winners of this badge may work for the Winter Campers' badge. The badge itself is a linoleum block and was designed by Warren Ludwig, the director of the Washington University Summer Art School.

Honors at the camp are being carried off mostly by Troop 2, Webster Groves. Of the 16 girls working for the new Summer Campers' badge, five, Gladys Richardson, Margaret Breen, Ruth Richardson, Alice Field, and Beatrice Roseborough, are from the Webster troop.

Potatoes and Cheese.

The 16 girls qualifying for the badge went on their required overnight hike last Thursday and Friday, under the leadership of Miss Eleanor Piper, the local director. On Wednesday they cooked their original dish, the winning concoction being "wampem nogen" made by Ruth Richardson of Troop 2, Webster Groves. It consisted of a potato hollowed out and stuffed with cheese, peppers and onions, and baked in the ashes.

The last troop to attend the camp added a hatrack to the permanent equipment.

An unexpected feature of the Sycamore Hollow Camp last week was the teaching of the making of hook rugs to the girls by Mrs. Betty Rogers, 70 years old, and the grandmother of Betty Henderson of Troop 2. The rugs are made of rags brought to the camp by the girls, and with hooks whittled individually from sticks.

Girls Learn Quickly.

All sorts of shapes and colors were made. The work was done in the open, in the shade of the sycamore trees from which the camp gets its name.

Mrs. Rogers first came to camp a week ago last Friday, and returned every day for a week. The first day was spent making the hooks, the succeeding time being given over to the actual making. According to her, the scouts caught on more quickly and did better work than any other group she has ever taught.

Mrs. Rogers' daughter, Mrs. W. R. Henderson, the mother of Betty Henderson, is a trained nurse, and has been donating her services in teaching first aid to the campers.

News From the Troops

South District.

Twelve scouts, the scoutmaster, and assistant scoutmaster of Troop 131 are spending the week-end at the Lions' Den camp.

Troop 160 made an overnight hike to the Lions' Den reservation yesterday and is camped there today. Fourteen scouts, the scoutmaster, and the Troop Committee are present.

Troop 16 spent last Wednesday at the Overnight Camp, leaving at 7:30 o'clock in the morning and returning late at night. The trip down was made in a truck loaded with provisions for the camp. Upon their arrival the scouts worked on their fire-building and cooking tests, all but two of the boys passing. Swimming in the icy creek and waiting for a shower to stop occupied the afternoon. After cooking and eating supper, and cleaning up the camp, the troop returned in the truck.

The Fathers' Club of Troop 38 chartered the steamer St. Paul last Friday evening for the benefit of the scouts and their friends and relatives. This is an annual event with the troop.

Troop 157 of the Advent Lutheran Church held its first Parents' Night last Tuesday evening. First Class Scout Marvin Schmidt read an article he had written dealing with the history of the troop from its beginning to the present time. An Investiture Ceremony, at which Bernard Scullin was admitted to the troop, was held. After several competitive games between the boys and their fathers, the mothers served refreshments.

Troop 163 of the Curby Memorial Methodist Church is holding a Fathers' and Sons' Hike to the Lions' Den reservation this week-end, having gone in automobiles furnished by the fathers. The hike is in charge of Assistant Scoutmaster Edward Roussan and the Troop Committee. The Buffalo patrol has charge of putting up the camp, and the Kangaroo patrol will supervise the stunts to be put on around a Council fire.

Three new boys, Walter Kuehne, Richard Reed and Harold Hoering, recently passed their Tenderfoot tests and have been admitted to the troop.

The Scoutmaster and seven scouts of Troop 192 of the Gardenville School hiked to the woods along the Gravois road near Fenton a week ago, Friday. Meals were cooked in the open and a game, "Smuggler Over the Border," was played. Ralph Rogers and Jack Webb are going to Camp Irondale.

North District.

Plans for a hike to the new Lions' Den camp were made at the meeting of Troop 3 a week ago Friday. Games were played and the troop yell practiced.

West District.

Fifteen boys, the scoutmaster and two assistant scoutmasters of Troop 71 of the Maple Avenue Methodist Church hiked to the Lions' Den last week-end. While there Malcolm Jones passed the cooking merit badge and Middleton Mitchell passed the badge in bugling. The feature of the stunts around a council fire Saturday night was the appearance of "Mohammed III, the Hindu magician," who gave demonstrations of mind reading. The part was taken by one of the assistant scoutmasters. At 5 o'clock Sunday morning the troop divided into two groups on a bird-observation hike. Swimming and games filled the rest of the day.

Troop 75 is on a hike to the Lions' Den reservation this week-end. Nineteen scouts, the scoutmaster and two assistants are attending.

Suburban District.

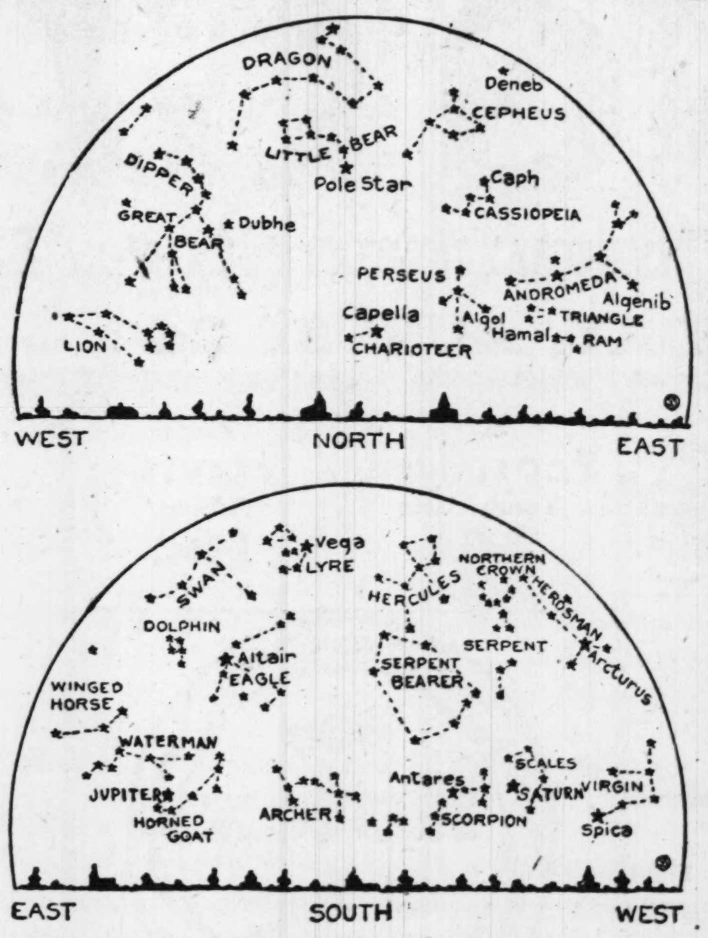
Troop 2, Overland, is camping at the Lions' Den reservation, the scoutmaster, assistant scoutmaster and 14 boys being in camp.

Scouts of Troop 1, Overland, who are studying for the firemanship badge, were given an unusual opportunity to put their knowledge into practice last week, when a house in the neighborhood caught fire, and the boys were called to help extinguish it. One of the scouts, who had been reluctant to take up the study at first, not only helped remove household goods, but crawled through the smoke to the blaze with an extinguisher. Largely through his efforts, the flames were extinguished before they gained much headway. After it was over, the former uninterested scout said: "It was fun." He now intends to specialize in the subject.

Scouts of Troop 11, Webster Groves, are on a hike to the Big River this week. They intend to stay several days.

August Evening Skies

"Dog Days" Connected With the Star Sirius—Jupiter, Largest Planet, Shines in East—Watch for August Meteors



By JAMES STOKLEY.

NOW we are in the midst of the "dog days." To many people this statement would seem to have little connection with the stars, but really, the so-called "dog days," the period at the end of July and the beginning of August, when dogs are supposed to be more apt to go mad than at other times, have an astronomical origin, and are associated with Sirius, the "dog star," which shines so brilliantly in the winter sky.

In ancient times the priests, who were the astronomers of that day, for there was no astronomy as we call it, but, rather, astrology, regulated their various festivals by the stars. As Sirus is in the brightest star visible to us, they naturally watched it carefully. Early in July it set just after the sun, and then was lost to view in its glare, but reappeared in August after the sun had moved a little farther on. Then it was seen low in the eastern sky just before sunrise.

As this time of year was the time of heat, and, what was especially important to the Egyptians, the time when the Nile overflowed, the heliacal rising, when the star could just barely be seen in the west at sunset, was anxiously awaited. And then, when the sun and Sirius were both in the sky in the daytime, though the star could not be seen, it was thought that the added action of the star might be responsible for the heat. Thus, Virgil writes:

"Parched was the grass and and blighted was the corn,
Nor scape the beasts, for Sirius
on high
With pestilential heat infests the sky."

And even earlier, Hesiod wrote, "When Sirius parches head and knees and the body is dried up by reason of heat, sit in the shade and drink," which is still good advice.

As for the connection with the canine species, anyone who has ever been in Mediterranean countries at this time of the year, can appreciate the discomforts that a dog, with all his hair on, must suffer, and why they are so apt to go mad at this time. Here probably lies the connection.

Northern Cross Shines.

In the evening sky, Cygnus, the Swan, also known as the Northern Cross, shines high in the east. Though not composed of as bright stars, this group forms a more perfect cross than the famed "Southern Cross," of which residents of southern countries are so proud. The southern one has no star at the intersection of the arm and shaft of the cross, as does Cygnus.

Though in most of the constellations it is hard to conceive how the ancients who named the constellations saw any resemblance to the objects they were named after, it is not difficult to imagine this group of stars as a swan in full flight, its wings outspread, and its long neck leading the way.

High overhead shines Vega, in the constellation of the Lyre, while to the southwest Altair, in Aquila, the Eagle, blazes in all its glory, and in the western sky you can see the brilliant Arcturus, in Bootes, the "Bear Driver." It is said that Arcturus was originally the name of this entire constellation, but the title of Bootes first appeared in the Odyssey, and has persisted ever since.

Saturn and Jupiter Visible.

For the first time in many months, two bright planets are easily visible in the August evening sky. Saturn, which has been with us since spring, is still in the constellation of Libra, the Scales, for it moves so slowly that it takes a long while to pass through a single star group. The year of Saturn, during which it makes a complete circuit of its orbit about the sun, is equal to about 29½ of our years, and is the longest of any of the naked-eye planets. However, the two outermost members of the solar system, Uranus and Neptune, neither of which are ever visible to the unaided eye, take 84 and 165 of our years to make a round trip about the sun, so the year of Saturn isn't so long after all.

The other planet that is visible in the coming evenings is Jupiter, in the eastern sky in the constellation of Capricornus, the Sea Goat. On Aug. 15 it is in opposition to the sun, which means that it rises in the east just as the sun sets in the west, and is directly south at midnight. Hence, it can be seen in the sky all during the night, and its great brilliance, which is now at its maximum, leaves no doubt as to its identity. It is brighter than any star in the sky.

Jupiter's Immense Size.

Jupiter's year is not so very long, for it goes around the sun once in a little less than 12 of our years. But in one respect Jupiter is the king of all the planets, for it is large enough, if it were hollow, to hold all the other planets and still have a lot of room left over. The earth is about 8000 miles in diameter, but Jupiter's mean diameter is nearly 89,000 miles. We use the term "mean diameter" because it bulges greatly at the equator. Measured from the North Pole to the South Pole its diameter is 82,800 miles, but measured across its waist it is 88,700 miles.

This bulge is caused by the great speed with which the planet rotates, for while its year is longer than ours its day in much shorter, and it makes a complete rotation on its axis in nine hours and 55 minutes. The great centrifugal force generated by this rapid rotation—the same force that causes the mud to fly from a moving wheel—causes the part of the planet around the equator to try to get as far from the center as possible.

The planet would long since have burst from this force, just as a grindstone that is run too fast may burst from the same centrifugal force, but the attraction of gravitation holds it together. Though the earth rotates slower than Jupiter, the same thing is true here to a lesser degree and at the equator a man weighs less than he does at the North Pole. The centrifugal force generated by the rotation of the earth tends to throw him off and overcomes the gravitational attraction. Unfortunately for people who might see in this an easy method of reducing excess weight, ordinary scales would not show that the person weighed less in Brazil than Spitzenberg, because the weights themselves would weigh less.

If the earth roatated once in 85 minutes, instead of 24 hours, it would not be safe to go to the equator at all, because then the centrifugal force would just overcome the force of gravitation, and a person would not be thrown off the earth, but neither would he be attracted to it. Like Mahomet's coffin, he would hang in midair wherever placed!

Season of Shooting Stars.

Some of the other planets, besides Jupiter and Saturn, can be seen this month in the morning before sunrise. Mars shines high in the southeast in the constellation of Pisces. It is still approaching the earth and is now only 75,000,000 miles away. Venus is visible lower in the eastern sky and even exceeds Jupiter in brilliance.

August is also famous for its shooting stars, or meteors, for the Perseids, one of the most important "showers" of meteors, come on the tenth and eleventh. As the meteors move in a regular path, the shower occurs when the earth is in the part of its orbit which intersects that of the meteors. The August shower is called the Perseid shower because the meteors all seem to radiate from the constellation of Perseus, which rises in the northeast about 10 p. m. Actually the meteors are moving in practically parallel paths, and the point from which they seem to radiate is merely the vanishing point of their paths in the distance. If you watch the sky carefully on these nights you should be rewarded by the sight of many of these shooting stars.

Make Your Skin Ivory-white in 3 days!

Or Your Money Back

Announcing

the most important beauty discovery in years —a wonderful new-type lotion that clears the skin of every blemish and makes it as smooth and white as ivory. Every woman who wants a glorious complexion can now have it in three to six days.

Now . . . a Liquid SKIN WHITENER at a Special Introductory Saving of 52c

Now you can have the smooth, flawless complexion you have always longed for—the exquisite white skin you see only in famous beauties. The kind of skin that powder cannot give. The skin itself must be smooth and white. My marvelous discovery now gives you this striking complexion in just three to six days. It smooths the skin to soft, silky texture. It whitens the skin to ivory whiteness.

Clears Your Skin

All trace of freckles, blackheads, roughness and redness disappear almost as if you had wished them away. Never before have women had such a preparation! Guaranteed safe and harmless! Apply it in just three minutes at bedtime. Every woman should have my liquid skin whitener. There is not one complexion in a thousand that will not be clearer, smoother, more radiant through its use.

Whiten Your Neck

Test this preparation on your arm, hands or on your neck where the skin is usually much darker than on the face. See what an amazing difference just three days make.

Positive Guarantee!

Use my Lotion Bleach any way you like for six days. Then, if you are not simply delighted, your money will be cheerfully refunded. What could be fairer than this offer?

Introductory Coupon Offer Saves 52c

I am introducing my Lotion Face Bleach through a coupon offer which will save you 52c. Regular large $1.50 bottles are now only 98c if coupon is presented. Use my preparation six days. Then if you are not simply delighted, return it and your money will be refunded without question or conversation. This introductory price is only for a limited time.

'TELLAFRIEND WEEK' FOR ST. LOUIS FAIR

Citizens Asked to Spread the News of September Exposition Here.

The work of broadcasting in and out of St. Louis news of the Greater St. Louis Exposition in Forest Park Sept. 4-19, will spurt this week.

It is "tellafriend" week. St. Louisans, by word of mouth or letter, are expected to spread the news of the exposition, which is to be an industrial show, with an elaborate entertainment program and automobile show in conjunction. The Board of Education will suggest that 35,000 children attending summer school write letters to friends out of town advising them to come to St. Louis some time during the 16 days.

Meanwhile, the Chamber of Commerce, sponsors for the exposition, has begun distributing advertising in the section from which thousands of visitors are expected. This section is bounded on the north by Des Moines, on the east by Indianapolis, on the west by Wichita and on the south by Little Rock. Billboards and inserts in the mail of St. Louis wholesalers sent into the section will be employed. Railroads, which are offering reduced fares are more actively participating in the advertising than commonly. Bus lines are carrying out informative printed matter.

Radio to Lend Its Help.

In St. Louis this week, there will be radio broadcasting, the showing of slides in motion picture theaters; speakers will appear before luncheon clubs and other organizations; automobile owners will begin to attach metal signs to their cars; a feature news reel, called "The Spirit of the New St. Louis" will be exhibited in six large first-run theaters; Scott Field blimps will begin to fly over the city and drop reminders of the exposition, and everyone is to "tellafriend."

The exposition is designed to emphasize the progress of industry, and, to make the contrast striking, the United Railways will run along Twelfth boulevard at noon tomorrow one of the mule cars that were St. Louis street transportation 50 years ago. Mayor Miller and Carl F. G. Meyer, president of the Chamber of Commerce have been selected as the crew.

Disposing of Booths.

Teams of the Kiwanis Rotary and Optimists Clubs and the sales managers' bureau of the Chamber of Commerce will continue until Tuesday their final drive to dispose of the last of the remaining booths of the 600 that are to comprise the exposition.

Meanwhile the 45-acre tract in Forest Park, the site of the show, continues to grow under the hammers of several hundred carpenters. The large grandstand, seating 18,000 persons, has arrived and is being put in place. The steel fence, more than a mile long that is to enclose the exposition grounds goes into place also this week.

BIRTHPLACE PAYS HONOR TO ST. FRANCIS OF ASSISI

Pilgrims in Medieval Garb Attend Midnight Mass on 700th Anniversary.

By Radio to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. (Copyright 1926.)

ROME, July 31.—At midnight tonight in the beautiful little town of Assisi perched in the Umbrian hills, a carillon of bells rang out the 700th anniversary of the birth of St. Francis of Assisi and the formal inauguration of the Franciscan Holy Year.

In many respects this holy year is as important as the Anno Sancta 1925, or the Eucharistic Congress held last month in Chicago. Assisi has spread carpets of flowers on her hilly streets, garlands of roses at all the shrines while flickering oil lamps hang from the cornices of buildings.

With the 90-year-old Bishop of Assisi occupying an honored place, pilgrims in medieval costume, carrying red and blue banners, flocked to the Cathedral of St. Ruffino, where pontifical mass was sung.

At dawn the pilgrims will go to the hillside church of Santa Maria Degli Angeli, the scene of the death of St. Francis, where mass will be said.

It is planned to have all the ceremonies center at the exact spots associated with the life of St. Francis.

"Fascism, Nothing but Fascism."

By the Associated Press.

ROME, July 31.—Every newspaper, magazine or other officially recognized organ of the Fascist party must be a weapon for the intensification of the Fascist faith, and its titled contents must be essentially Fascist, Premier Mussolini asserted in ordering the title of a weekly review changed. The review, Milizia Italica, directed by Sig. Melchori, vice secretary-general of the party, had its title changed to Milizia Fascista. Appearing under its new name, the paper contained the following message from Mussolini:

"To Milizia Fascista, which has in its name the program of today, tomorrow and always—Fascism, and nothing but Fascism."

OCCULT WONDERS DESCRIBED BY THEOSOPHIST PILGRIMS

Strange Happenings Reported From Camp Conducted by Krishnamurti.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

OMMEN, Holland, July 31.—Theosophist pilgrims who gathered here to receive the new world teacher in the person of J. Krishnamurti, the young Brahmin, are breaking up their camp of the Order of the Star in the East.

As the pilgrims depart stories multiply of occult happenings such as dances of earth spirits under pine trees with gnomes and elves. A wealthy Englishwomen swears she saw the spirits. Others profess to have discovered previous incarnations.

Krishnamurti has retired to the medieval Castle of Erde, near the camp, preparatory to his departure for New York. The correspondent was informed that when the world teacher enters the young Indian's body, the latter's soul wanders homeless in space.

Departing pilgrims appear awed and exultant. Because the Castle of Erde has been presented to the order, Ommen will become the permanent headquarters of Krishnamurti.

German Table Wines Liked Less.

BERLIN, July 31.—What are called the most enviable jobs in Germany have been assigned to a group of experts whose duty it is to sample rare wines from 50 countries on the five continents. The experts were engaged by the Institute for Wine Cultivation at Freibrug in the Black Forest to seek methods for improving German wines. Of all countries with wine-growing possibilities the United States alone is not represented by samples. The experts' preliminary report ranks German table wines as among the best in the world.

BRITISH MEMORIAL AT YPRES

Honors Soldier Dead Who Have No Known Graves.

LONDON, July 31.—The English war memorial at the Menin Gate, Ypres, Belgium, to 58,600 British soldier dead, who have no known grave, is nearing completion. The King is expected to unveil it next year. The memorial is a great arch over the main road out of Ypres with the seventeenth century ramparts of the ancient city on either side.

It was designed by Sir Reginald Blomfield, R. A., and bears the inscription, "To the armies of the British Empire, who stood here from 1914-1918, and to those of their dead who have no known grave."

The Biggest Feature in Automobiling is Exclusive With the Franklin Car

PROBABLY no other industry has made so much progress in the same length of time, as the automobile industry. Yet, because it still holds the spirit of youth and impulsiveness, it has under the guise of progress put forth a lusty crop of "revolutionary features".

During this entire period, many of these radical innovations have flared up only to flicker out. But one revolutionary principle has survived as fundamental, is now eloquently endorsed, and is dominating the interest of the world's greatest automotive engineers.

That feature is air-cooling.

Franklin developed and perfected it. It is exclusive with the Franklin Car. And, today, 23 years after the Wright brothers flew for the first time, aviation — the most modern industry — has followed Franklin's lead and adopted air-cooling.

See What the Government Has Done

Today, the air-cooled motor is the recognized standard for U. S. Navy planes. It is rapidly becoming standard for commercial planes as well. Already, six out of the ten government air-mail lines have chosen air-cooled planes.

There isn't a single logical reason why every motor car should not be air-cooled. There isn't a car, of any make, that would not be greatly improved by this feature.

In a new way, airplanes are showing how air-cooling increases power efficiency, augments reliability, widens the margin of safety.

W. B. Stout, the eminent aviation expert, recently prophesied what Franklin long ago prophesied: that all motor cars must come to air-cooling.

Byrd and Cobham Used Air-Cooling

In the air, not alone efficiency and comfort, but life itself is at stake. Aviation simply had to come to air-cooling.

Ask Cobham, fresh from his conquest of burning African deserts. Ask Byrd, with his remarkable North Pole flight still on every one's lips. It was a question not merely of selecting planes that would fly, but of choosing ones that would keep on flying. They know that without air-cooling their deeds would scarcely have been possible.

The Broad Influence of Air-Cooling Is Amazing

Air-cooling is the magic solvent of automobile drawbacks.

It eliminates cooling trouble. That is why Henry Ford said, "We'll use air, instead of water, for cooling planes."

Air-cooling permits flexible construction. It frees a car of all the rigidity and cumbersome bulk of radiator-supporting parts.

That is why in sheer riding comfort the New Franklin is without an equal. Only this air-cooled car lends itself to such structural advantages as full-elliptic springs, four-point body suspension, and an amazingly flexible chassis frame.

And what is the result? This, for one thing: drive in the New Franklin over the roads that drivers of other cars most complain about. In this car of peerless flexibility, you will hardly be conscious of any under-wheel roughness. All will seem delightfully smooth, as the bumps and jars are magically absorbed, and you are eased from physical and mental strain.

Why Franklin Holds So Many Road Records

Along with the uninterrupted power of the air-cooled motor goes scientific light, unsprung weight and nicety of balance. That is why the New Franklin is the finest road car. It rarely has to slow up. And no other car can run all day, throttle wide open, without loss of power.

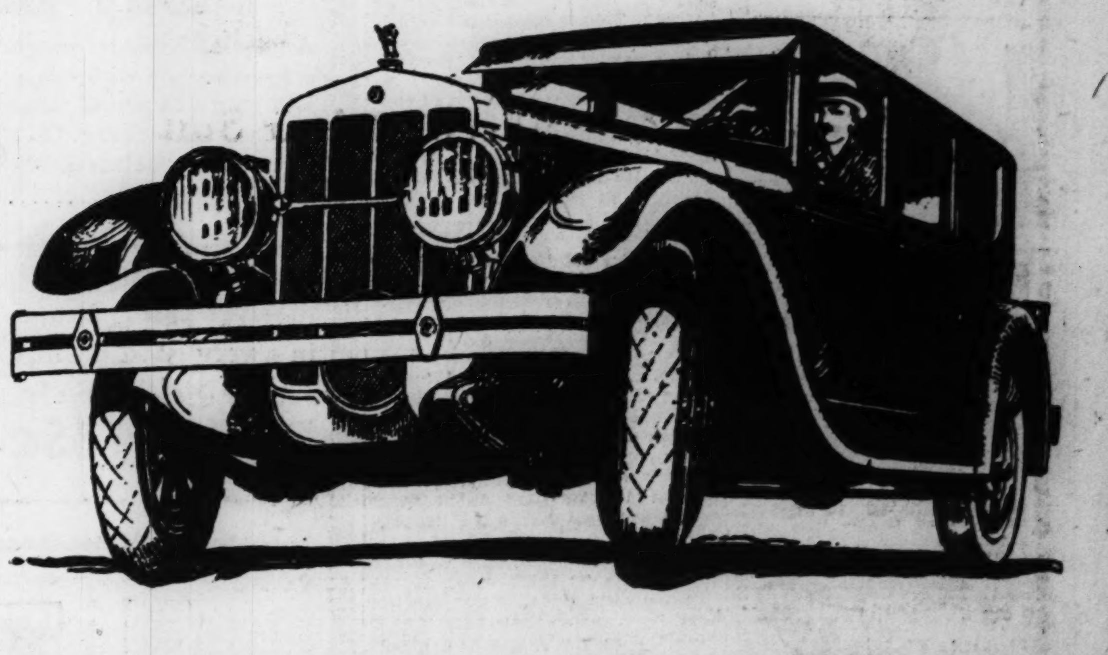
Air-cooling eliminates nearly 200 parts necessary in the water-cooled car, with their attendant liabilities.

That is one reason why the New Franklin is the most economical car—why it was easily first in its class in the famous Yosemite Economy Run. In tire and fuel savings, it is equally incomparable.

Only Franklin Could Do This

On July 1st, 185 stock Franklin Cars, operating in 185 different parts of the country, impressively revealed the greater reliability that goes with owning an air-cooled car. The dealers announced in advance that they would drive 100 miles, all the way in low gear—and actually did so without overheating their engines to the slightest degree.

Only the Franklin Car could have done this, because only the Franklin is air-cooled.



What Is the Sign When You Pour Water or Anti-Freeze Mixtures?

It means more than the loss of a little time, or a small visible expense. It's your cue to swing over from unreliability and needless bother to the trouble-free reliability that sound fundamentals assure. Substitutes for fundamentals soon reveal their weaknesses, and you pay for them.

Motorists are tiring of these old ways, and are keener on the scent of the new. And the genuine new means air-cooling and the Franklin Car. Is it not significant that 50 per cent more Franklins have been sold to owners of water-cooled cars so far during 1926 than in the same period of 1925? That year, you remember, was the most prosperous in Franklin history.

If you like a car built close to the ground, get a Franklin. If you demand exceptional dignity, grace of contour, harmony of line and charm of color, come and see what the celebrated de Causse has done with the exceptional materials and principles that Franklin engineers have placed at his disposal.

New Price $2790, Fully Equipped

The latest Franklin can be owned on terms which make it the wisest investment and the easiest fine car purchase today. HOW CLEMENCEAU APPEARS TO EMPLOYE Good Natured but Fills One's Head With Words That Ring, Says Gardener.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 31.—Man proverbially is not a hero to his valet, but that does not prevent a gardener worshiping his employer. "Father" Esnard, who looks after the garden around former Premier Clemenceau's little cottage at St. Vincent du Jark, in the Vendee, on the coast of South Brittany, is among the hero worshipers.

"Why, surely," said the gardener, when asked if he expected M. Clemenceau to be satisfied with his garden when he arrives for the summer. "When he came here five years ago the little shed of a house was bare and with nothing but sand around it, and now, just look at it! Blue, pink and gold. A week ago, Gen. Gouraud passed by. He picked three sprays, a blue, a white and a red flower, and fastened them together, saying, 'I'm going to send the bunch to Father Clemenceau this evening, in Paris!'

"Of course, M. Clemenceau and I dispute sometimes. But I stand up against him. The garden, that's my department, and he is too personal in his ideas.

"And then he is too good-natured. But nobody's got a better head than his. He's a great old fellow. He fills your head with words that ring.

"And so simple-minded! The other day the storm blew down the bronze weathercock that you see up there, and it broke in two. I took the two pieces to M. Clemenceau next day. The cock had been a present from a Mayor in Vendee. M. Clemenceau received me roughly, seeming to be in a bad temper. So I said to him, 'Mister President, you might very well repair the Gallic cock once more.'

"Then he looked at me kindly and said, 'Father Esnard, you might apply to the blacksmith.'

"At first the peasants round here were proud to have him come to live among them. Then last year, secret agents came, I don't know from where, to try and change their opinion. And what do you think they tried to put into people's heads? Stupidity and hatred! They went around saying, 'Your great man! Why, if he was such a patriot, instead of growing flowers in front of his house he would be growing wheat!' And that made me mad and I told M. Clemenceau, but he only smiled and said:

"'Water the larkspurs, Father Esnard, and let the bees come!'"

CHURCHILL DOFFS WAISTCOAT IN LONDON WARM SPELL

Other Members of Commons Make Similar Efforts to Keep Cool; One in Alpaca Suit.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 31. — Winston Churchill, now a member of the Conservative party, is still a Liberal as far as hot-weather clothing is concerned. In the House of Commons he has inaugurated the American custom of doing away with waistcoats during the hot season.

Ordinarily the British lower house, with its thick walls, is one of the coolest places in London, but this year, with the thermometer hovering in the 80s, which means as much to the Londoner as 100 does to an American, the members are leaving nothing undone in the matter of personal comfort.

Among the waistcoatless ones are Sir Arthur Shirley Benn, Capt. Dixey and Capt. Ernest Evans. Col. Applin has been appearing lately in a soft yellow alpaca suit. While Churchill is quite ready to forego wearing his vest, he has so far refused to part with his stiff white shirt.

WARNS GERMANS AGAINST U. S.

Newspaper Correspondent Says Americans Are Like Machinery.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 31.—Warning "inquisitive Germans" to stay away from the United States, a correspondent of the ultraconservative Kreuz Zeitung writes that a visit "costs piles of money and doesn't yield any fun." "America," the correspondent continues, "has nothing to offer cultured Europeans. Scratch an American and you are sure to find he is nothing more than a piece of machinery. The heat in New York is terrible. The smoke, gasoline fumes and dust are so thick that you can cut the air with a knife. New Yorkers brazenly walk on the grass of Central Park, which is strewn with paper and rubbish."

The correspondent admits he got a thrill out of Wall street and Broadway at night. "But," he adds, "the architecture is not artistic and the theaters are either kinos or revues.

FLAME USED TO TEACH MUTES

London Instructor Applies Odd Method of Imparting Knowledge.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 31.—Deaf and dumb children are taught to speak perfectly by means of a gas flame.

This method, used by a suburban teacher with a large class of boys and girls, is to show each pupil how he can make a gas flame jump to varying heights and at a varying rate by sounds. It requires about three months for a pupil to learn the sounds of the alphabet by this method.

Miss Iza Thomson, who sponsors the idea, says "a deaf mute has perfectly normal vocal organs and is mute only because he is deaf. He makes sounds but is unconscious of them, and they convey no meaning to others."

GAIN IN SUMMER ATTENDANCE AT WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Six Weeks' Session Had 837 Students From 28 States, Increase of 232.

The third annual summer session at Washington University, which closed June 30, after a six weeks' term, was attended by 837 persons from 28 different States, an increase of 232 over an attendance of 605 in 1925.

All facilities of the university were open to the teachers, educational administrators and other students who took the opportunity to profitably employ a portion of the vacation period, and the success of the session has prompted school authorities to plan for an enlarged summer session next year.

INCIDENT OF TENSE SPEECH

Conversation When Terse King and Squire Met.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 31.—In a time when a number of the world's statesmen are known for brevity of speech, it is recalled that King Frederick Wilhelm III of Prussia rarely used more than one word for questions and answers. Taking the cure at Badteplitz, the sovereign heard of a Hungarian country squire who was noted for his terseness. "Introduce," the King ordered his adjutant. The squire and the King met on the promenade.

"Bathing?" asked the King.

"Drinking."

"Officer?"

"Squire.'

"So?"

"Detective?" the squire inquired suspiciously.

"King."

"Congratulations."

30 Years a Missionary.

The Rev. M. G. Vuylsteke, Bishop, of Curacao, West Indies, was guest of honor at a dinner at the Elks' Club last Tuesday, commemorating his thirtieth anniversary as a missionary in the West Indies. Bishop Vuylsteke spoke on the hardships suffered by the people in Curacao, particularly this year, due to the slight rainfall, upon which the population is dependent for its water supply. A local committee to assist the missionary work financially was appointed at the dinner.

HELD FOR DEATH OF PASSENGER IN AUTO

Man, Whose Machine Ran Into Milk Wagon, Named in Coroner's Verdict.

George Tiffany, 41 years old, of 711A Carroll street, was ordered held for criminal carelessness by a Coroner's jury yesterday, in the case of Mrs. Hester Snow, 34, of 5710 Stratford avenue, a passenger in his automobile when it struck a milk wagon at 1:30 a. m. on July 12. She died of spinal meningitis, resulting from injuries suffered in the crash, at City Hospital Friday.

Tiffany was drving west on West Florissant avenue, the same direction followed by a milk wagon driven by Lawrence Maddocks of 5405 North Euclid avenue. It was testified at the inquest that a light was shown on the rear of the wagon, that there was plenty of room for Tiffany to have driven around the wagon on the wide thoroughfare, and that there was very little traffic.

The right front fender of the machine hit the left rear wheel of the wagon, in front of 4928 West Florissant avenue, and Mrs. Snow was thrown to the street. Tiffany, who did not testify, had told the police he did not see the wagon until two late to swerve or stop.

Boy, Who Fell Against Auto in Crossing Street, Dies.

Harry Ulrich, 6, son of Fred Ulrich of 712 South Sarah street, died early yesterday at Children's Hospital of a skull fracture suffered Friday afternoon when he fell against an automobile at Sarah and Gratiot streets.

He darted from behind a northbound truck headlong into the side of a machine driven by Benjamin Ellett, 40, a Negro, of 3986 Papin street, who was going south. Witnesses agreed that Ellett was not speeding and that the boy ran around the truck.

Motor vehicle fatalities here so far this year now total 97, compared with 100 in the same period of last year.

Mrs. Grace Carr Dies.

GALESBURG, Ill., July 31.—Mrs. Grace Carr, 74 years old, widow of Clark E. Carr, former United States Minister to Denmark, died at her home here today. One daughter, Mrs. W. P. Jackson, of this city, survives.

BOBBED JULIET IN BALLET

Karsavini Converts Romeo's Darling Into Modern Flapper.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 30.—Karsavina, Russian dancer, is a shingled Juliet, and a very attractive one, in the new ballet, "Romeo and Juliet," which the Diaghileff troupe is offering as one of the novelties in the season at His Majesty's Theater. Since Hamlet has been accepted in plus fours there seems to be nothing shocking about converting Juliet into a modern flapper.

The new ballet is the work of Constant Lambert, a 20-year-old student at the Royal Conservatory of Music.

Mule Drags Youth to Death.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., July 31.—Paul Finney, 16 years old, was killed yesterday when his foot became entangled in the harness of a mule and was dragged for half a mile. Finney was employed on the Illinois Central "cut off" near Thompsonville and had started to mount the mule at the close of the day's work, when the animal became frightened and ran.

PART NINE. ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, AUGUST 1, 1926. PAGES 1—14B

17-STORY BUILDING TO BE ERECTED BY MISSOURI PACIFIC

Towering Office Structure to Be Built on Thirteenth Street Between Olive and Pine.

COST ESTIMATED AT $2,000,000

Building Will Be Designed to Permit Construction of 10 Additional Stories.

A 17-story building, with provision for 10 additional stories, extending from Olive to Pine Street on the east side of Thirteenth street, is to be completed within two years as headquarters for the Missouri Pacific railroad. Estimated cost of building and site, for which the deal was closed Friday by Henry R. Weisels Co. and Holbrook-Blackwelder Real Estate Co. as agents for the railroad, is $2,000,000.

This is the first of lofty structures planned for the block between Twelfth boulevard and Thirteenth, Olive and Pine streets—a situation that will become particularly attractive with the advent of the Municipal Plaza and the improvement of Olive street, already under way, as a 100-foot boulevard. In addition to the Missouri Pacific site, five parcels of ground in the block have been sold to a syndicate of clients of the two real estate concerns. No announcement has been made of their plans. It is known, however, that a towering hotel building has been under discussion for the Twelfth boulevard side of the block.

To Harmonize With Plaza.

An addition like the projected Missouri Pacific building to the architectural impressiveness of downtown St. Louis is of great importance. And there is the further fact that, "owning its own home" here, the great Missouri Pacific system is taking firm root in St. Louis.

It is considered possible in real estate circles that other roads will follow its example in building their own headquarters in St. Louis.

Every effort will be made to make the new building an attractive and meritorious adjunct to Memorial Plaza as well as the most modern and practical office building in the West, said the Missouri Pacific's announcement. The building will front 100 feet on Olive and Pine and 193 feet on Thirteenth, overlooking the Plaza on Pine and Thirteenth and diagonal from the Public Library on Olive.

With the exception of the first floor, which is to be leased for shops and stores, the entire building will be used by the railroad company. The 17 stories will provide adequate working space for the 3500 employes in the general offices of the railroad.

To Contain 9 Elevators.

Plans and specifications are to be prepared by Missouri Pacific engineers and architects, although local architects probably will be asked to assist in designing the ornamental features of the building to conform to the general architectural program for the creation of a distinctive civic center in the neighborhood of Memorial Plaza.

Particular attention is to be paid to lighting, heating and ventilation in order to obtain the highest degree of efficiency as well as to provide for the maximum of comfort and convenience. Preliminary plans call for nine large elevators in order that the building may be quickly emptied of the army of workers at luncheon and closing hours.

Pronounced business gains shown by the Missouri Pacific Lines in the last few years have led to a steadily growing force of employes in the general offices here. Need for additional space has been apparent for some time, but no action was taken until negotiations were completed recently by W. J. Holbrook for the disposal of the lines' lease upon four floors of the Railway Exchange building, desired by the May Department Store Co. for enlarging the Famous-Barr store. The terms of the lease sale provide for a total payment of $1,200,000.

Description of Property.

Several sites for the new building were suggested, but the one facing Memorial Plaza was decided upon in order that the Missouri Pacific Lines might erect a home thoroughly in keeping with the ideals and aims of the Plaza Commission.

Six lots make up the site. All were bought in through the Weisels and Holbrook-Blackwelder companies and title was made in the name of the Missouri Improvement Co. as holding company for the Missouri Pacific. The purchases were: Southeast corner Olive and Thirteenth street, lot 50x109, from Daniel K. Catlin, Theron E. Catlin and Irene A. Allen, represented by Franciscus Realty Co.; next adjoining lot on the east, 25x109, south side of Olive, from the Reyburn Realty Trust, represented by Martin-Breitt Real Estate Co.; next adjoining lot, 25x109, south side of Olive, from Mary M. Wyman and Edith Scarritt Manny; also represented by Martin-Breitt; Northeast corner Pine and Thirteenth, from Ruhe-Boettler Realty Co., represented by Cornet & Zeibig; next adjoining lot on the east, 17'6"x109, John D. Tobin Real Estate and Investment Co., represented by Franciscus: next adjoining on the east, 35x109, from Fannie O. Booth, William Booth Papin, Eugenie Papin Thomas and Josephine Papin Tompkins, and the next adjoining, 40x109, from Clara Papin and Louisa Papin, with Papin & Tontrup representing the owners in both transactions.

PASADENA PARK IS NEW NAME OF COUNTY SUBURB

When Marietta, the woodlands which had been the homesite of the Turner family, was acquired by the Majestic Homes Corporation, the name of Pasadena Park, a suburb with a California atmosphere, was selected. At the request of a fellow realtor, this name has not been used in the company advertising until now. The addition had been known as Los Angeles. The 100 families living there appreciate the change of name, it is said.

The Majestic Homes Corporation recently has completed the installation of a street lighting system, using standards of crushed gray granite and white marble.

EIGHT STORY BUILDING FOR VANDEVENTER AND PINE

The Leisner Realty and Building Co. reports the sale of the northeast corner of West Pine boulevard and Vandeventer avenue to a client who intends to erect an eight-story building approximating 84 apartments with 10 stores on the first floor and a garage for 125 cars. The buildings will be erected on a lot 100x213 feet. E. G. Drucker of the Leisner company effected the sale.

Proceedings are pending for the widening of Vandeventer avenue and this marks the beginning of a new area of activity for this section.

Isaac T. Cook to Return This Week From New York.

Isaac T. Cook, president of Isaac T. Cook & Co., Inc., agent for downtown office buildings and interested in important realty developments, will return this week after spending several weeks in New York.

Because of the similarity of names, some of Mr. Cook's business acquaintances were misled by the news of the recent death of Isaac Cook Jr., a member of another and well-known family, at Biddeford Pool, Me. Several inquiries and messages, based on this misapprehension, were received at the office of the Isaac T. Cook Co. in the Arcade building.

AMERICAN BOND & MORTGAGE MOVES INTO NEW QUARTERS

The American Bond and Mortgage Co. announces its removal to larger quarters, 1820-22 Boatmen's Bank Building. The company recently entered the local real estate money market by purchasing the $1,400,000 bond issue secured by the Roosevelt apartment at the corner of Euclid avenue and Delmar boulevard.

The company has capital and surplus close to $8,500,000, and specializes in large construction loans on hotels and office buildings, among which are the financing of the $9,000,000 Hotel Mayflower of Washington, the $8,000,000 Tremont office building in Boston and the original financing of the State-Lake office building in Chicago.

The St. Louis branch is in charge of Arthur D. Jenkins.

More Sales in Claynorth Place.

Le Grand Jones, Inc., reports the following sales in Claynorth Place: To Arthur A. Guenther 45 feet on the north side of Nash avenue, which was sold for Sylvester and Rose Raftery; to John M. Hessing 100 feet on the north side of Nash avenue for Sylvester and Rose Raftery; to John M. Hessing 120 feet on the west side of North and South road for Sylvester and Rose Raftery; to Arthur A. Guenther 50 feet on the north side of Willys avenue; to John M. Hessing 50 feet on the north side of Willys avenue; to Sylvester and Rose Raftery 240 feet on the west side of the North and South road.

OSAGE COUNTRY CLUB NEAR COMPLETION

Formal Opening to Members and Guests Will Be About Aug. 15.

The club building of the Osage Country Club, occupying a commanding location on the brow of the hill near the Big Bend boulevard, in Osage Hills, now nearing completion, is expected to be formally opened for the use of the members and their guests about Aug. 15, according to announcement of Nelson Cunliff, president.

The building is of native stone, imposing and substantial in appearance. It has a basement under the entire structure, in which are located men's and women's locker rooms, rest rooms, a grill room, check room, boiler room and shower baths.

The first floor has a large covered terrace and entrance hall on the front, a central lounge room, 46 by 18 feet; a large dining room and kitchen quarters in the west wing, with a living room occupying the entire east wing, 60 by 25 feet. Large fireplaces are in both the living and dining rooms. Including other small rooms for various purposes, the building has about 15 rooms. An entrance on the north fronts the plaza, which adjoins the large outdoor swimming pool. The south entrance and covered terrace will front a sunken garden and the main entrance to the club grounds on the Big Bend boulevard.

From the covered terrace and the plaza in the rear a fine view can be had of the Meramec valley and distant hills, at least 30 miles in extent.

Other construction work, both on the Osage Country Club facilities, including the 18-hole golf course, and on the improvements in the Osage Hills residential section, is moving with great rapidity.

REASOR REALTY CO. OPENS BRANCH OFFICE IN KIRKWOOD

Another mark of real estate activity in St. Louis County is shown in the announcement of the opening of a branch office in Kirkwood by the Reasor Realty Co. The new office will be in the Kirkwood Trust Building and will be in charge of Earle Deane, sales manager. The need of an office in Kirkwood has been the natural development growing out of the steady activity at Sunset Manor, the 50-acre subdivision which the Reasor company placed on the market in the spring.

The Kirkwood branch office will not only serve as a convenience for handling Sunset Manor sales, but will specialize in the sale of Kirkwood and Webster Groves properties, both improved and vacant.

SALE OF ST. LOUIS CLUB COMPLETED

Central States Life Insurance Company Acquires Lindell Boulevard Building.

The ornate old St. Louis Club Building, 3667 Lindell boulevard, selected for more than a quarter of a century for the entertainment of St. Louis' distinguished guests, last week became the property of the Central States Life Insurance Co. Consideration was $210,000, and the purchaser is to expend about $150,000 more in improving the interior, which was damaged by fire in January last year.

The building was erected 28 years ago at a cost of $195,000. Its massive French Renaissance style made it stand out as one of the most impressive structures on Lindell until it was overshadowed by recent erection of two huge Masonic buildings, one on either side. The interior was rich in keeping with the exterior. Among guests who have occupied suites there were Presidents Taft and Wilson, Marshal Foch and Gen. Diaz of Italy.

For these quarters the insurance company vacates another outstanding building—an edifice of striking Spanish mission design at 3207 Washington avenue. It was designed by T. P. Barnett Co. and was erected only two years ago, but already the concern has outgrown it. It has been listed for sale with Henry R. Weisels Co., which acted for the concern in purchase of the club building.

The St. Louis Club, which was represented by Cornet & Zeibig Trust Co., has not decided whether to erect a new building or disband. It has acquired possession of a large lot at the southeast corner of Kingshighway and Maryland avenue through its second vice president, M. E. Singleton, but plans once announced for a pretentious new home there evidently have come to a standstill.

REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE ELECTS NEW MEMBERS

The board of directors of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange Friday elected the Apex Realty and Mortgage Co., 714 International Life Building, to realtor membership in the exchange, and the following were elected to affiliated membership: Autocar Sales and Service Co. of Missouri, 2740 Locust boulevard; George D. Barnard Stationery Co., 3845 Laclede avenue; Brown Shoe Co., 1610 Washington avenue; Chester Knitting Mills, Vandeventer and Laclede avenues; L. E. Dorr, 401 De Baliviere; Endicott-Johnson Corporation, Twelfth and Spruce streets; Falstaff Corporation, 3663 Forest Park boulevard; Melville B. Hall, Inc., 1423 Pine street; Gelvinator-St. Louis, Inc., 4701 Washington avenue; Laclede Christy Clay Products Co., 1673 Railway Exchange Building; Lindell Real Estate Co., 312 North Eighth street; McElroy-Sloan Shoe Co., Twenty-first street and Washington avenue; Meyer Milling Co., 125 South Eighth street; Pedigo-Weber Shoe Co., 3437 Locust boulevard; E. O. Stanard Real Estate Co., 845 Planters Building; Tate Motor Co., Inc., 3001 Washington boulevard.

SCOTT FIRM TO HANDLE PROPERTIES OF HENRY FREED

Oreon E. and R. G. Scott have been appointed agents for the properties of Henry Freed of St. Louis and the Freed estate of Trenton, Tenn., which properties, about 100 in number, embrace a large part of the Negro section of the city.

The Freeds have long been known as probably the largest owners of property in the city occupied by Negroes and the properties have heretofore been in the hands of about a dozen agents but will hereafter be centralized in the Scott real estate office, where Henry Freed may hereafter be found, as he will have his office with this firm at 800 Chestnut street.

NEW FOUR-STORY BUILDING TO BE ERECTED ON OLIVE

Isaac T. Cook & Co., Inc., announce the closing of a deal whereby the Burdeau Real Estate Co., owners of the property at 1522 Olive street, will wreck the present building on the premises and erect a four-story-and-basement, fireproof building for the H. A. Kolb Trunk and Case Co., who have taken a 10-year lease on the entire building. The company is at present located at 1218 Olive street and will move their retail store and factory to the new quarters about Nov. 1.

A store at 1210 Washington avenue was leased to Nate Susman, wholesaler of women's dresses and garments, now located at 1517-19 Washington avenue. Alterations in the new store will be completed in a few weeks at which time Susman will move from his old location. A building at 2109-11 Olive street was leased for a short term to Abe Fein Grocery Co.

S. A. Jefferis and M. R. Moore, engaged in the electrical appliance business, have leased a space in the building at 1818-32 Washington avenue and will move into the premises in about 30 days. The basement of the Rumsey Building at 3900 Pine street was leased to a Milwaukee corporation for a five-year term. The roof of the building recently built on the northeast corner of Fifteenth and Pine streets by the Missouri Botanical Gardens was leased to E. A. Campbell, who will erect a number of advertising signs.

Two new fireproof buildings containing more than 20,000 square feet each will be erected this fall under leases consummated by Cook & Co. during the week. A two-story concrete and brick garage will be erected by the Audrey Realty Co. on the southeast corner of Twenty-third and Pine streets, on a lot 99 by 109 feet. The building should be ready for occupancy about the first of November. It has been leased for a term of 10 years to William Harvey, a client of Cook & Co.

11 MORE BUNGALOWS ARE COMPLETED IN DARSTDALE

Darstdale, at Walton and Olive Street roads, is enjoying a rapid growth. Eleven additional bungalows have been completed, some of unique design, including the Swiss chalet type of architecture.

It is said plans are being submitted for an apartment building to be erected on Walton road and it is expected that others soon will follow.

Encouraged by these conditions, the Joseph Darst Realty Co. has let a contract for approximately 100,000 yards of additional grading, on which work is in progress.

RESIDENCES AND FLATS SOLD BY DICKMANN CO.

The Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co. reports these sales: 3644 Humphrey street, flat; 4308 Arsenal street, flat, for W. J. Thompson to Theodore M. Bierdeman; 3902-04 Utah street, for Alice Mohan; 3727 Juniata street, for Frederick G. Gregory to Blanche E. Bickel; 3717 Hartford street, for Margaret A. and Helen Fitzgibbon, to E. C. Kieckers; 1921 Forest avenue, for E. C. Casey to Virgil E. Rawlings; 1817 Blaine avenue, flat, for Louis F. Schweiner to Francis P. Craig.

Henry R. Weisels Returns Home.

Henry R. Weisels, president of Henry R. Weisels Co., Inc., returned last Monday from a five weeks' vacation in the East spent at his summer home at Beechhurst, Long Island, N. Y. While in New York he inspected numerous apartments, office buildings, warehouses, wholesale buildings and bus terminals, to obtain information as to latest improvement of buildings of these types. Mr. Weisels will remain in the city until Aug. 14, when he will return to his summer home until Sept. 14. Arthur C. Hoehn, vice president of the company, accompanied by Mrs. Hoehn, left yesterday for a three weeks' vacation to be spent at the Eastern seashore resorts.

Buys 51-Acre County Tract.

Jarrell & Wipke Real Estate Co. of Kirkwood reports the sale of 51 acres east of Denny road and south of Clayton road to Mrs. M. E. Wald for E. Philpot Curran. It is the intention of the purchaser to put hard-surfaced roads through the property and subdivide it into two and three acre tracts.

LESSER-GOLDMAN BUYS SITE NEAR BUILDING

Adjacent Property on Seventeenth and Olive Purchased for New Structure

Paul W. Grether of John Grether & Co. reports having sold for the St. Louis Union Trust Co. property at 1710-12 Olive street to Milton A. Hellman, treasurer of the Lesser-Goldman Cotton Co., represented by Arthur S. Martin of Martin & Breitt Real Estate Co.

The lot sold has a frontage of 46 feet 6 inches on the south side of Olive street by a depth of 109 feet 1 inch, and is just west of the property owned by the Lesser-Goldman Cotton Co.'s building at the southwest corner of 17th and Olive streets which is being taken off on account of the widening of Olive street.

The property was sold for a little less than $700 per foot. Grether & Co. represented the owners of the property in this transaction.

John Grether & Co. also report having sold for the account of E. Offenbacher to John H. Hellwege, 1328 Gregan place, a new five-room efficiency bungalow with one-car garage, hardwood floors, tile bath, and equipped with the Grether Tri-zone hot-air furnace. The lot being 33 1-3x120 feet. Purchase price being reported as $6000. Grether & Co. represented all parties in this transaction.

PASADENA PARK

Formerly LOS ANGELES (St. Louis)

When the MAJESTIC HOMES CORPORATION christened that beautiful 200 acres of rolling woodland, extending from Lucas and Hunt Road to Bermuda Avenue and along Natural Bridge, Florissant Road and Kirkwood-Ferguson car line, they filed the engineer's plat and called it

Pasadena Park

However, upon request of a fellow realtor, the name was not used for advertising, but Los Angeles (St. Louis) was used instead. Now the time is at hand when we feel that we are justified in using the original and legal name of this property. Therefore, from now on we will speak of this property as

PASADENA PARK

And will welcome visitors to our display homes therein. The present display home is at 7615 Rosedale Drive. You may select your home in this beautiful private residential park from the finished 4, 5, 6 and 7 room bungalows shown there. See the flowers and trees in the spacious lawns, where children can play, safe from traffic dangers. See the shaded porches, where the family may enjoy cool breezes, secluded from the heat and turmoil of the city streets. And yet, you have all the city conveniences. Visit

LIVE IN A DAVIS PLACE HOME
Live in a Modern Income Producing Home in Davis Place.

Compare these very livable homes with others and then think of the $175-$200-$225 check coming in each month.

These houses are very pretentious looking, planned by the city's best architect. So arranged that you have the same privacy as a single dwelling, but it pays for itself.

Our entrances from Forsythe, Wydown and Clayton roads are temporarily closed, due to road construction, but come in the back door from the North and South road just south of Clayton and see these beautiful homes.

G. O. P. ECONOMY ONLY MYTH, DEMOCRATS SAY, POINTING TO INCREASES IN FEDERAL COSTS

Expenditures for Year Ending June 30 $55,344,427 Above Preceding 12 Months—Appropriations Boosted $47,886,681.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Using the figures put into the Congressional Record by Senator Warren and Representative Madden, chairmen respectively of the Appropriations committees of the Senate and the House, the Democratic National Committee today attacked the Republican "economy" myth by revealing that the Federal Government for the fiscal year ended June 30 cost $55,344,427 more than for the preceding year.

That the cost of Government will continue to mount this year under the Republican regime was adduced from the fact that the session of Congress just adjourned appropriated $470,886,681.15 more than the session adjourned March 4, 1925. The appropriations during the second session of the Sixty-eighth Congress amounting to $3,938,490,773 and those of the first session of the Sixty-ninth Congress amounting to $4,409,377,454.15.

The total appropriations during the later session would have been about $7,000,000 more had the President's budget recommendation been accepted by Congress, the announcement declared.

Per Capita Expense Up $4.

The appropriations during the last session amounted to $37 for every inhabitant of the United States, an increase of $4 per capita over the preceding appropriations, the announcement continued. "This means an increase of about 12 per cent, or $20 a year for a family of five," it added.

"Appropriating more and spending more every year while publicity tales of penny pinching continue to be told—that's constructive economy," was the sarcastic comment.

Large increases were noted in the regular annual appropriation for every department, with the exception of the Departments of Justice and Interior. The Interior Department reduction was due partly to the transfer of the Patent Office and the Bureau of Mines to the Commerce Department. There was also a reduction in reclamation items.

The increase listed under deficiency acts was $270,281,220.56. The appropriations under this head in the second session of the Sixty-eighth Congress were $217,570,156.85; in the last session they were $487,851,377.41.

Deficiency Bills Misleading.

Democratic leaders in both houses have maintained that the administration has sought to mislead the country through the use of these deficiency acts. Senator King (Dem.) of Utah has charged that the President has presented budget recommendations showing decrease over the previous year and later demanded deficiency appropriations not included in the regular budget.

The announcement today stated that if the postal service appropriations, which were $842,322,910.92 for 1927, an increase of $197,283,375.81, were excluded, the grand total increase would have been $273,603,305.34. "This last figure is the one the official Republican statement in the Congressional Record of July 12, 1926, emphasized by putting it in blackface type," the announcement said. "Deducting postal appropriations made the increase look less."

Record of Appropriations.

Following is the table of appropriations, as put into the record by Warren and Madden:

ROBBERS TAKE $800 FROM LAUNDRYMAN

Route Superintendent Was in Truck on Way to Bank With Money.

R. H. Fisher of 3627 California avenue, route superintendent of the Excelsior-Leader Laundry Co., 2325 Texas avenue, was held up by three well-dressed robbers between Seventh and Eighth streets on Russell boulevard at noon yesterday and robbed of $816.92 in cash.

He was driving a truck belonging to the laundry company south on Russell on his way to deposit the money in the Lafayette South Side Bank at Broadway and Lafayette avenues, when the robbers appeared in a touring car. They crowded him into the curb and two leaped out, flourishing revolvers. They ordered him to throw up his hands.

Thinking at first that it was a joke, Fisher did not at once comply with their demands. One of them struck him on the ankle with the butt of a revolver. He dropped the satchel containing the money and $1451 in cancelled checks. Picking it up the robbers got back into their car and escaped east on Russell.

180 Theaters in "Movie" Chain.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Formation of a large new motion picture theater chain in the eastern states, headed by the Stanley Co. of America, was announced today. The new company will operate 180 theaters, including the Stanley properties in Philadelphia and Atlantic City, the Mark Strand interests in New York, the Fabian interests in Newark and other New Jersey cities, and the Rowland-Clark interests in Pittsburg.

COUNTY LANDMARK BURNED

Old Rabe Home Catches Apparently From Smoldering Grass.

An old St. Louis County landmark was destroyed Friday night when the two-story frame residence, formerly occupied by Prof. Rabe, for whom Rabe's Station was named, was burned. The house stood in a field north of Olive Street road and near Benoist avenue in University City. A small barn close to the residence also was destroyed and a number of chickens were burned to death. Both house and barn were enveloped in flames when the University City Fire Department arrived in response to a telephoned alarm, which said a forest fire was raging. Apparently the fire started from smoldering weeds and grass.

As the nearest fire plug was too far away to permit a hose connection, firemen were forced to fight the blaze with water buckets and chemicals. The place was occupied by Charles Haas, a tenant.

CITY AND COUNTY MERGER URGED BY H. K. WAGNER

Advantages This Method Offers in Planning for Future Growth Are Emphasized.

CITES RECORDS TO PROVE POINT

Sewers, Outer Park System and Roads Can Be Handled Most Cheaply on a Large Scale.

Advantages of community planning, under the proposed merger of St. Louis County with St. Louis, which is to be voted Oct. 26, and objections to the county form of government, are discussed in a paper prepared by Hugh K. Wagner, a student of the problems involved and a city member of the late Board of Freeholders, which submitted the pending scheme.

A majority of those voting in city and county, separately, will be required to adopt the proposal. No active organization has been formed to campaign in favor of it. A county group opposed to it has begun working in an effort to defeat it and a week ago made public objections to it drawn up by the county freeholders. Wagner's discussion, in part, follows:

"By including the whole of St. Louis County in the city opportunity is afforded for city planning for the large city of the future that is inevitable, which will obviate much unnecessary expense to the community in the future, as the mistakes of the past will not be repeated; the needs of the community for arterial highways are better understood; the demands of vehicular traffic can be accommodated; provision can be made for an outer park system; and plans for a comprehensive sewer system will result in the construction of better main sewers at less cost than if sewers of the county were attempted piecemeal.

What Separation of 1876 Meant.

"The advantages that St. Louis has derived by being not in any county since 1876 are numerous and well known. The separation of St. Louis from the county in 1876 was immediately recognized, and ever since has been, as a new invention and distinct advantage in municipal government, doing away with the unnecessary dual form of government and saving much needless expense. If, under any circumstances or conditions, St. Louis had returned into St. Louis County, this birthright and advantage would have been sacrificed without the slightest gain and with vast loss.

"For one thing the city of St. Louis would have lost 35 cents on the $100 valuation in the taxes that it is enabled by the Constitution of Missouri to charge, because that 35 cents is now received by the city because it is like a county, but, if the city were again in St. Louis County, the county, and not the city, would receive that 35 cents on the $100 county tax. The financial officers of the city of St. Louis will tell anyone that the city cannot afford such a diminution of its tax rate.

County Government an Anachronism.

"Students of government have for a long time recognized the county form of government in all parts of the United States as an anachronism—a thing behind the times, a back number, something suited for an earlier age. Why should anyone want to impose the burden of an out-of-date form of government upon a city that since 1876 has been free from it, especially when other great cities (like Chicago) are struggling now to become free? The editorials in the Missouri Republican during the year 1876 show the perniciousness of the county form of government when St. Louis was formerly a part of St. Louis County and the detriment arising from being a part of a county.

"Bulletin No. 11 of the Illinois Constitutional Convention, entitled Local Goverments in Chicago and Cook County, states some of the advantages that accrued to the City of St. Louis by separation from St. Louis County in the following language: 'The St. Louis Charter of 1876 eliminated a number of duplicate authorities—notably the County Court of seven members, which had exercised the functions of a county board. Financial results under the new Charter seem to have been highly satisfactory. Expenses and taxes were reduced. The abolition of the County Court, some county offices and the county tax resulted in important savings. The issue of so-called anticipation bonds was reduced from $1,555,000 in 1875-76 to $350,00 in 1879-80. The Board of Public Improvements worked well, reducing expenses while securing better improvements. The new arrangements thus appear to have secured a large improvement in respect to city and county matters and more efficient administration. State legislation also was reduced to a considerable extent, but was not entirely eliminated."

Quotes R. S. Childs.

"In Ramshackle County Government; The Plague Spot of American Politics," Richard S. Childs, says: "County government, on the contrary, is ideally designed to resist popular control. One way of concealing a public officer from effective public scrutiny is to make his office so small that it will inevitably fail to command public attention. A second way is to have so many elective officers that the so many elective officers that the public cannot possibly keep track of them all. A third way to baffle the public is to divide the responsibilities, so that each public officer under attack can excuse himself on the ground that the necessary co-operation of some other officer was lacking. County government involves the liberal use of all three of these expedients; and so, in spite of its superficial aspect, the county is the least democratic of all our political divisions."

"In the County; The Dark Continent of American Politics," H. S. Gilbertson, says: "And so, the urban county problem is first of all a question of ill-adapted instruments of government perpetuated long past their period of utility. In the second place it is a matter of duplication and conflict of organization and effort as between the city and the county. When the charter in Los Angeles County was revised in 1912, it was found that in the urban communities three separate groups of officers were charged with keeping the peace; the Sheriff and his deputies, the Constables of the several townships, and the police of the city. Their duties were substantially the same, they covered the same ground.'"

Chamber of Commerce Party Greeted by Lloyd George, Who Recalled Visit Here.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, July 31.—The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce party, which is touring Europe, will leave here tomorrow for Holland after a fortnight in England. Leaders of the delegation expressed themselves as well pleased by the reception accorded them here. The party was greeted by former Premier Lloyd George at their hotel.

Lloyd George recalled his visit to St. Louis and said it was "the most interesting of my American trip." The delegation visited Windsor Castle today. The St. Louis party was considered among the chief attractions of this week's visitors to London.

MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE MEN ATTEND FUNERAL OF C. A. COX

Services for Packer Held at Home With Interment in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Funeral services for Charles A. Cox, who died of pneumonia early Friday, were held at 2:30 p. m. yesterday from the family residence at 501 Clara avenue, with interment in Bellefontaine Cemetery. As a mark of honor the officers and former presidents of the Merchants' Exchange of St. Louis, of which Mr. Cox was president in 1889, attended the services in a body.

Mr. Cox was president of the Cox & Gordon Packing Co., 1019 South Third street, with which he had become associated when he came to St. Louis from Kentucky in 1876. He had been, until five years ago, a director for 20 years in the Merchants-Laclede Bank.

He was former president of the Kentucky Society of St. Louis and a member of the St. Louis Club. He was 79 years old. A widow, two sons and three daughters, together with 17 grandchildren and one great-grandchild, survive.

ST. LOUIS UNIVERSITY AWARDS SIX FOUR-YEAR SCHOLARSHIPS

Dean Horine of College of Arts and Sciences Announces Selection of High School Graduates.

Awards of six four-year scholarships to high school graduates were announced yesterday by Dean Horine of St. Louis University College of Arts and Sciences. Recipients are Sylvester Kuntz, 3950 Wyoming street; Cornelius Dahm, 5932A Plymouth avenue; Edgar B. Helbling, 5154 Page boulevard; James J. Hennessy, 4810 Maffitt avenue; E. Warren Dinan Jr., 3137 Ivanhoe avenue, and James I. Kennedy, 5047A Terry avenue.

Kuntz was appointed by the faculty of the William Cullen McBride High School. Helbling won an eight-year scholarship for high school and college four years ago. The others were selected in competitive examination.

Dahm is the fourth of his family to win a scholarship.

CLERK, ILL, ENDS HIS LIFE

Charles E. Pillman Had Been Sick for Several Months.

Ill health is assigned by his widow as the reason for the suicide of Charles E. Pillman, 43 years old, a clerk who resided at 4972 Tyrolean avenue, and who shot himself to death early yesterday.

Pillman had gone to the basement of his home, and, putting the muzzle of his revolver in his mouth, fired. He had been ill for several months.

Quits Cuba-Mexico Association.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Word was received here today of the withdrawal of the Holland-America line from the Association of West India Trans-Atlantic steamship lines (Cuba-Mexico freight conference). It was said the company withdrew because it believed it was entitled to a more favorable quota of freight than was assigned to it.

$34,000 BEQUEST TO CHURCH IS UPHELD

State Supreme Court Affirms Decision of Judge Killoren on Slaith Will.

A decision by the Missouri Supreme Court Friday affirmed the action of Circuit Judge Killoren in instructing a jury to render a verdict that a document of the late Miss Margaret A. Sleith, dated July 22, 1920, nearly two years before her death, was her legal will.

In this will she bequeathed a total of $8000 in specific bequests and gave the residue of her estate to the Pilgrim Congregational Church for the benefit of the women's department of that church. The bequest to the church amounts to $34,330.

Other beneficiaries are Mrs. Charlotte E. Neibling, $2000; Sadie Ketring, Anna Myer Smith and Mrs. Abigail C. Baldwin, $1000 each, Mrs. R. M. Nichols and May Wright $500 each, and a like amount to the Methodist Orphans' Home, 4385 Maryland avenue, of which Miss Sleith was matron, on condition that her name be inscribed on a tablet under Mrs. J. J. O'Fallon's in the vestibule of the institution.

Sixteen beneficiaries included in a previous will, dated Feb. 17, 1913, for a total of $10,000, asked that the document be accepted for probate and that the will of later date be classed as a codicil to the original document.

Probate Judge Holtcamp overruled the motion, from which action the plaintiffs appealed to the Circuit Court and then to the Supreme Court.

In the first paper the Methodist Orphans' Home was bequeathed $2000 and Mrs. Nichols was left 160 acres of land but they did not appear as plaintiffs in the suit to legalize the first will. Several beneficiaries excluded by the second will had been wards of the Methodist orphanage under Miss Sleith.

Both documents were found in the same sealed envelope on which was indorsed, "Will of Miss Sleith." Counsel for the plaintiffs argued that this fact indicated the testatrix intended her estate to be administered under both documents.

For the defense it was pointed out by Attorney Wilbur B. Jones that the second document was a complete will and that from the sixteenth year of the reign of Charles II of England it has been the law that a previous will is revoked by the writing of a subsequent will.

TEXAS DEMOCRATS DEMAND GOV. FERGUSON RESIGN NOW

Forty-Eight County Conventions Adopt Resolutions Urging Executive Carry Out Pledge.

By the Associated Press.
By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., July 31. — At least 48 Texas County Democratic conventions adopted resolutions today demanding the immediate resignation of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson in compliance with her campaign challenge to Dan Moody, successful candidate for the gubernational nomination, according to tabluations of the Dallas News tonight.

Of 71 county conventions from which reports were received, 48 demanded Mrs. Ferguson's immediate resignation and one, El Paso County, expressed "regret" that she has not resigned. Most of the other conventions heard from, were controlled by Moody factions.

Travis County, seat of the State capital in Austin, Williamson County, the home of Dan Moody, Bowie and Tarrant counties in which Fort Worth is located, were among the counties reporting the resolutions adopted.

The Travis County convention also urged a repeal of the amnesty bill which restored to James E. Ferguson the right to hold State office when he was impeached in 1917 while Governor.

MRS. RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD DENIES RUMOR OF DIVORCE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PAULS SMITHS, N. Y., July 31. —Mrs. Richard Washburn Child, wife of the former Ambassador to Italy, denied tonight the report of an estrangement from her husband and an approaching divorce. Mrs. Child, who is living at a cottage at Lake Placid, was reached by long distance telephone.

Child declined to comment on the report when he came here this week to visit President Coolidge at White Pine camp. When he left the camp Thursday he went to Lake Placid and stopped for a day with Mrs. Child before going to New York. It is understood they exchanged telephone calls while he was visiting the President.

Mrs. Child's attention was called to stories published in New York today reporting an estrangement. "I have not seen the stories," she said, "but they are not true."

Orders Sale of Vanderbilt Paper.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 31.—Federal Judge McCormick today ordered the Illustrated Daily News, which was placed in receivership here several months ago, sold to the newly formed Daily News corporation for $100,209.12. The new company is headed by William Oliphant, president; William O. Lewis, vice president, and Joseph Mesmer, secretary. Oliphant stated that a debt of $901,662.50, which the Daily News owed the Vanderbilt Newspapers, Inc., holding company for the three tabloid newspapers founded by Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., would be automatically liquidated by the new company.

SHAW IN LETTER PAYS TRIBUTE TO GERMANY

Blames British for His Reputation as Disreputable and Dangerous.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 31.—George Bernard Shaw believes that he owes his "recogniton in Europe as a thinker and a dramatic poet" to Germany, and his reputation "as a dangerous and disreputable person" to the governing classes in his own country.

In a characteristic letter to Dr. Gustav F. Sthamer, German Ambassador in London, Shaw lauds Germany and at the same time raps his home Government for prohibiting the broadcasting of his speech at his recent seventieth birthday celebration. His letter was in acknowledgement of a congratulatory communication from Foreign Minister Stresemann.

Letter From Shaw.

Shaw's letter follows:

"The public honor done me by the German Minister of Foreign Affairs is enhanced by its coming through your hands. It is a sort of thing that would never occur to a British Foreign Secretary, because, as you know we are a barbarous nation in matters of culture.

"We have a genuine dread of the intellect in any form, and the conviction that art, though highly enjoyable clandestinely, is essentially immoral. Therefore, the sole notice taken on my 70th birthday by the British Government was its deliberate official prohibition of the broadcasting of any words spoken by me on that occasion. The contrast between this attitude and that of the German Government would be a painful one for a nation with cultural tradition, but our governing classes are rather proud of it. To them I owe my reputation as a dangerous and disreputable persons; to Germany I owe my recognition in Europe as a thinker and a dramatic poet.

"What is more important, Europe owes to Germany such a European sense as exists—the importance of thought and dramatic poetry and the value of lives devoted to them. Therefore, the attribute from Germany confers on me a distinction that no other nation of the world could give me. If I were a German I should be justifiably proud of this. As I am, if not an Englishman—as you know I am an Irishman—at least, a lifelong and faithful servant of the English people, I am sorry that I should be so. But it is so, and I am none the less grateful to Germany.

First and Last Clebration.

"These, however, are merely national considerations. There is a super-national republic of thought and art, to the great German members of which my debt is incalculable, and that their countrymen should admit my claim to be a member of it is a triumph which enables me to face, without blushing, all the eulogies and congratulations showered on me on the first birthday I have ever celebrated and the last I intend ever to celebrate.

"I am fortunate in having the privilege of your personal friendship which enables me to speak more friendly than I could if our relations were merely official."

ST. LOUIS YOUTHS AMONG "PLEBES" AT WEST POINT

Members of New Class Being Trained in Athletics and Military Drill.

Five St. Louis youths, one from East St. Louis and one from Jefferson Barracks, are in the class of 1930 in the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., having entered July 1. Bulletins issued by the intelligence and publicity office of the academy state that the new cadets have been sworn in and have begun their military and physical training.

The new cadets, who are members of a "plebe" class numbering 352, from all parts of the United States, are: William W. Harris, John T. Soraghan Jr., Roy K. Kauffman, Clement R. Hurd and James Nash of St. Louis; Fred G. Terry of East St. Louis and Willis Perry of Jefferson Barracks.

"During July and August," the bulletin states, "the new cadets will be kept busy learning the rudiments of military training. For this purpose they have been divided into six companies, each commanded by an army officer and assisted by several cadets of the first (senior) class. During this period the fourth classmen are instructed in infantry drill, manual of arms, guard duty, physical drill and athletics. They will be instructed in parades and other ceremonies, preparatory to taking place with the rest of the corps in West Point's famous parades and ceremonies."

"During the afternoons the cadets take up athletic sports and receive basic training in various sports under such instructors as Tom Jenkins, former heavyweight wrestling champion; Moose McCormick, famous "Giant" of baseball history, and Frank Grace, Canadian lacrosse expert. In the latter part of August the fourth class, by then well hardened, will be taken on a five-day practice march, to be trained in field condition. When the academic year begins in September the "plebes" will be able to take their part in corps drills and ceremonies, and most of the time allotted now to military work will be devoted to study and recitations."

ARMS SESSION MAY RENEW NAVAL PARLEY

Five Subjects on Agenda Not Yet Taken Up by Conferees Who Reconvene Tomorrow.

GENEVA, July 31.—Carrying new instructions regarding the remaining questions before the preparatory disarmament conference, delegates of 20 countries will reassemble at Geneva Monday after a month's vacation. Five questions on the agenda are still untouched, and it is inevitable that the three already considered settled will be reopened because of the furore caused by Anglo-American protests and the minority report on naval reductions.

The American delegation is weaker numerically than it was before, with Admiral Long, Division Secretary Allen Fulles and the State Department's delegate, Dorsey Richardson, missing. They have returned to Washington.

Gen. Harry Smith has requested three months' leave of absence.

Hugh Gibson, Minister to Berne; Secretary Allen Winslow of the legation there; Capt. Adolphus Andrews, personal observer for President Coolidge; Maj. George Strong, Gen. Dennis E. Nolan and Admiral Hilary B. Jones will represent the United States during the rest of the session which will end Sept. 1.

A preliminary session of the preparatory commission will meet in October, after which more definite steps toward consummation of the League's program are looked for if the Assembly decides to speed matters up.

Fireman's Knee Broken in Fall.

James Winne, 32 years old, a city fireman, stepped through the emergency exit in the sleeping quarters of engine house No. 15, at 515 South Broadway last night, and fell 22 feet to a concrete floor. He suffered a fracture of the left knee and possible internal injuries.

24-HOUR TIME FOR GERMANY

BERLIN, July 31.—Five o'clock teas will probably pass out of existence in Germany. There'll be teas, but they will be called 17 o'clock affairs. The German National Railways and the Postoffice Department, following the lead of several European countries, have decided to adopt the 24-hour time system, beginning next May. Clock in railroad stations and postoffices will receive an extra circle of numerals so that 5 p. m. will be 17 and midnight 24 o'clock.

The system may be extended generally. The German air stervice already operates on 24-hour time reports that it eliminates and simplifies printing of tables.

ATTENTION—
VACATIONISTS and FISHERMEN

We wish to call your attention to the sure enough wonderful display of rebuilt used touring cars and roadsters. You will find in our stock just what you want. These cars are in the best of condition throughout; many of them are overhauled completely, repainted and equipped with new or practically new tires. These cars are so low in price that you could possibly resell when the recreation days are over and get at least as much as you paid for it.

Caprice Was Her Prompter to the End

Regine Flory, Queen of Many Hearts, Caused Great Embarrassment to Sir Alfred Butts by Killing Herself in His Private Office, but a Hidden Detective Heard the Conversation.

Mlle. Regine Flory.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

LONDON, England.

AS SHE lived, so Mlle. Caprice died. She had asked a London manager for a part in "Rose-Marie." It was refused. A shade passed over her face, and was gone like an April shower. She laughed and chatted as he told her of future worlds to conquer in America. Then suddenly a shadow crossed her face again. She stooped and from her stocking took a tiny silver and pearl revolver and fired a bullet into her breast. A moment later, she lay on the floor in the office of Old Drury Theater and her life blood, oozing from a tiny wound, spread in a crimson blot upon her ermine coat and trickled slowly from gem to gem down her rope of pearls. And as she lay there, dying, she gasped a prayer, asking of heaven forgiveness for self-murder.

"Mlle. Caprice" was Regine Flory, a brilliant actress of the French revues, a queen of comedy, and musical comedy, and light opera, in Paris. She shot herself in the office of Sir Alfred Butts, M. P., the theatrical producer, in Old Drury Theater, the other day, because her sudden wish to play a part in London had been denied her.

Outside the office where she sat, smiling, chatting, laughing at the thought of the millions that might be hers if she translated from American dollars into the franc of France the salary offered in New York, waited a private detective. He had been employed by friends to keep Regine Flory from suicide. From Paris to London he had flown with her when she announced her sudden whim to go. He had warned Sir Alfred Butts that "Mlle. Caprice" might kill herself if a role should be refused her.

As he looked across his desk at Regine Flory, her dark eyes laughing from beneath her mop of willful black curls, Sir Alfred Butts thought of the warning and smiled inwardly at French fears. And in a second there was a flash of silken skirt, the glitter of the pearl-and-silver revolver, a flash of flame, and Sir Alfred Butts slumped back in his chair, stunned by what had seemed impossible.

INTO the room at the sound of the pistol shot dashed the detective, M. Pierre Francois Semaine. He caught the reeling actress in his arms and laid her on the floor, on the ermine cloak that had fallen at her feet. From Charing Cross Hospital came a motor ambulance. With the dying woman it raced down the Strand at 60 miles an hour. She was dead before the hospital was reached.

And Regine Flory probably would have liked that. She had raced out of life at 60 miles an hour. It was fittingly like the way in which she'd lived.

She had followed her whims wherever they led, whatever they cost, had this "Mlle. Caprice." She had lived on excitement, gayety, admiration, adulation, love. She had turned nighttime into daytime—the days, she said, were made for sleep. Through the nights of her 33 years she had drained to the lees the experiences of a lifetime. But there came a day when sleep would rest no longer on her eyes. She turned to drugs—police found a vial of mild hypnotic alkaline powder in the handbag of the woman—and drugs but added to the morbid horror of her sleepless days. She sought for more excitement. Love and love's quarrels added to the nightmare of her life. Her nerves gave way, and often she despaired. Twice before she had tried to kill herself. That was why M. Pierre Francois Semaine was guarding her. But even in girlhood, long before her first attempt to end her life, she had voiced a paean to suicide one night in a Montmartre cabaret that had shocked all Paris.

Dead, now, at 33. She was 21 when she hymned that song of suicide. The years between had laid at her feet every gift, almost, that woman might ask. Love, wealth, admiration, success, fame—these had been hers. Even now she was fresh from personal triumphs in a music hall of the Champs Elysees. Even so, Death beckoned her—in death alone could she find release from the tortured horror of sleepless nights and aching nerves.

When the news of her death was flashed to Paris there were those who remembered that night on Montmartre when Regine Flory arose, with her rebel raven hair, her flashing eyes—a very priestess, it seemed, of pride and sin, a female Lucifer, and drank her toast to death:

"DO YOU know," she said, "I'd like to die. I'm going to be 21 next spring, and then I'll get old. What's the use of getting wrinkled and faded, and little by little getting old? What good to lose one's beauty? It's better to be snuffed out all at once.

"Then, men about town, smoking their cigars at Ciro's, will have a chance to say:

"'Did you hear that she killed herself? What a pity! Such a peach!'

"Instead, if you live, years later they will ask:

"'What! Isn't that old hag dead yet? Is she still alive? What a nuisance she is.'

"That sort of elegy I will not have. I am determined to die young. I shall not live to be more than 25."

Perhaps when she reached 25 another caprice bade her live on. Perhaps, then, she wanted to taste the lees of the wine of life, to savor the dregs of experience. So she lived till she was 33.

A hectic life in the true sense—flushed and feverish. It had been that way since first she came from Marseilles to Paris, some 18 years ago.

Marseilles was her birthplace and her real name was Marie Louise Artaz. Though irregular of feature, from childhood she had been magnetic, fascinating, pretty. Even then she loved admiration and she loved applause. And so she ran away from home, and went to Paris, to become an actress.

With her went her chum, and that chum was none but Gaby Deslys—the Gabrielle who later dangled in her train two Kings, and who died terribly six years ago, leaving almost $1,000,000 to Marseilles charities.

They had grown up, these two, in that warm-blooded city of the Mediterranean coast. Regine Flory was only 16 years of age. She had no education. But she was beautiful of body and pretty of face, despite a mouth that was overlarge (one forgot that when she smiled), and she could dance. She was winsome, ambitious, she worked hard, and as she began to attract attention she sought the companionship of authors and poets. They should be her educators.

At 17 she made her debut in the music halls. Four years later she was famous. She had danced in 1913 at the Scala Theater, wearing but a few scraps of black satin, a costume which only served to emphasize the marmoreal whiteness of her skin. It was about that time that she thrilled the city of thrills by voicing her praise of suicide.

"Mlle. Caprice" in her Paris home.

A year later she had conquered London. A debonaire, delightful and daring Parisienne, she appeared as Babette in "Paris Prisons" and then followed parts in "The Passing Show" and "By Jingo, If We Do." Two years later she was starred in London in "Vanity Fair" and "The Beauty Spot."

Two cities were in her train, if two Kings were in the train of Gabby. While she was conquering Paris and London, Gaby had been winning the applause of Alfonso, King of Spain, and, later, the admiration of Manuel, King of Portugal, who lost his throne, 'twas said, partly on acount of her. Each actress may have envied the other's conquests. There grew a breach between them. It was the talk of the boulevards. Gossip probably inflamed the feeling between these two, one of whom was certainly the queen of the Parisian revues. But which? They became open enemies.

Mlle. Flory in costume.

Then, later, in the early years of the great World War, there was a famous reconciliation in London. The two actresses bought themselves identical costumes. They promenaded arm-in-arm down Regent street. Then they went for a ride, where all could see, in Gaby's pure white limousine.

Each to her own ambition. Gabrielle of the Lilies loved luxury and ease and admiration. She loved the fierce white light of publicity that beats around near-thrones. Regine Flory loved gayety not less, but ambition more. She sought to advance upon the stage while Gaby was willing to be known for daring and for amours. Shortly Regina Flory abandoned the music halls for light opera and comedy. She played in some of the greatest Parisian successes during and after the war, including "Hullo, Paris" and "Je T'Adore."

Then love came into the life of "Mlle. Caprice." She liked to think of love as a caprice, but to her it was not. Four or five years ago she met a young French actor and she who had played a game with the hearts of men now found the game a thing most serious. He cared nothing for the actress. Yet she openly sought his society, in Paris, at Deauville, in other fashionable resorts. She seemed to take pride in her humiliation, almost, she who was a very priestess of pride. Never before had her all-conquering fascinations been rebuffed. But the young actor avoided her when possible, ignored her when he could, was ever embarrassed when she thrust herself upon him. She tolerated—this tragic queen of comedy—a dozen noblemen and millionaires who would have laid their titles and their fortunes at her feet, but she went on worshiping the actor.

Even she, at last, was convinced of her love's hopelessness. Then Paris awoke one morning in June, 1924, to learn that just before dawn Regine Flory had plunged into the Seine; only to be pulled out by a tired waiter going home from work, who plunged into the river with all his clothes on and dragged her safe to shore.

Devoted friends nursed her back to health. She returned to the stage. In "Pas sur Bouche" she made a tremendous success. But the admiration of the multitude did not please her. She wanted the love of one.

And a year ago she made another attempt to kill herself, taking poison in a hotel near the Bois de Boulogne. Her friends immediately employed Mme. Delcour, a friend, as a companion for her, and the male detective, M. Semaine. They were to protect against all attempts to end her life. She recovered and seemed to regain strength. She determined again to continue her stage career.

Besides her work she had now something else to occupy her sleepless mind. She was in love.

This time it was a French dramatic author, and, tragically enough, married. Late in February she met him and both were fascinated. In the spring they toured together by automobile through the middle of France. Their love was an idyl—but one shortly to be shattered.

FRIENDS say that toward the last were many quarrels between them. Both were high strung, both were nervous; perhaps the shadow of that wife was between. Regine Flory went back to Paris and to the stage. Her lover followed. She appeared in comedy in a Paris theater within a month before her death, with a great personal success.

But the play was not a success, and perhaps the woman with her jaded nerves felt that she soon might wear out her welcome before Parisian audiences. Then, too, there had been another violent quarrel with her lover. They had separated, she declared, for good.

The thought of London entered into her mind. From America the Shuberts had cabled an offer asking her to appear in a new production, "Maritza." The salary was $1500 a week.

It was not like the old "Mlle. Caprice" when she did not cable an acceptance. For once she was refusing new worlds to conquer. Her mind was set on London. She knew Sir Alfred Butts. She knew he regarded her as one of the most brilliant actresses on the stage of either Paris or London. She made her plans to ask him for a place.

In Paris she had been offered the leading role in a production of "Rose-Marie," the American musical comedy. But she refused that. "I must get away from Paris," she said. "I must get away from it all."

So she flew across the channel with M. Semaine as her companion. The news echoed through Paris. Immediately by boat the French dramatist who was her lover followed.

Did he see her there? No one but himself may know. It might have been possible. He spent two days in London, and one of those days "Mlle. Caprice" still lived.

She had written Sir Alfred Butts: "What I have to ask you is nothing impossible. . . . If you refuse to listen to me for five minutes you will do me a lot of harm and injury.

"As you see, I am writing this quite calmly. . . . You can surely arrange to see me at your office—unless you would prefer to come and see me at the Savoy. Should you, perchance, have the nice idea to invite me to lunch or dinner I cannot accept, having come in traveling costume without my trunk."

By the time he had made an engagement with the actress the French detective had visited Sir Alfred. Semaine warned the producer that should his answer be a final "no," Regine Flory might kill herself. "Frankly," said the manager afterward, "I thought it was the exaggerated hysteria of a French woman."

SHE came. She was refused. The London cast of "Rose-Marie" which Sir Alfred was producing was full and satisfactory. "Mlle. Caprice" shrugged her shoulders as though it didn't matter. They discussed the Shubert offer. Back of the slightly opened door into the outer office M. Semaine lurked, listening on tiptoe, ready at a moment's warning to rush to protect the woman—from herself. Nothing did he hear but laughter. . . . From the theater below faintly sounded "The Indian Love Call" of 'Rose-Marie."

And then the shot. The life of "Mlle. Caprice" had ended in the swiftness with which it had been lived.

But shortly before she left Paris on her fatal journeying she had written to "Intransigeant," a friendly newspaper, her creed. It tells the story of her feverish life, it gives the reason for the price she paid, better than words of another can.

"I have naturally caprices, my dear 'Intransigeant,'" she wrote.

"The caprice is always the heritage of women, the sweet little sin that deserves immediate forgiveness.

"The caprice, Monsieur, is but the brilliant streak in a drab and dull existence. It is the fantasy that beautifies and defies cold reason. It is, to parody Cyrano de Bergerac, the pink dot that goes on the 'I' in the verb 'to live.'

"What is more hateful than a pretty woman without any fantasy, without any desires, without any illusions, without any whims?

"The women who don't have these unexpected fancies which suddenly sweep through one's body like an electric current and make you desire either the most sublime or the most trifling thing will have missed most of the flavor of life.

"WE WOMEN must be enthusiastic. For a jewel, for a dog, for a man, for an idea; for something, at least, we must be enthusiastic and without any shame.

"Caprice is synonymous with that charming but slangy word 'le beguin,' which cannot be translated into any other language." (A fleeting and frivolous liking for someone, is its sense.) "We all have 'beguins' for good and bad things, for sentiments, for ideas, for beings.

"Despite this enthusiastic apology for caprice, I dread it as an invisible enemy, always hidden behind me and ready to hurt me.

"I am afraid of caprice. Tomorrow may it not compel me to indulge a sudden thirst for envy, cruelty, or jealousy? I believe that our greatest enemy now days is the unruly and capricious fancy.

"I wish hereafter to beware of caprice and to become a disciple of cold reason.

"Alas, I fear I cannot. And if I do succeed in that discipleship I shall only bore myself."

It was the will and testament of "Mlle. Caprice" and it was printed in "Intransigeant" the morning after Regine Flory killed herself.

Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

SADIE WIRT was born and brought up on her father's ranch near Garden City, Kansas. A picture of Sadie Wirt in her girlhood: She stands between the silo and the windmill. The bucket of fresh milk she was carrying to the house rests on the ground beside her. Her sunbonnet is in her hand as she wipes from her brow the dust of the Kansas prairies. Her gaze searches the round horizon, over the flat Kansas counties with their astounding Republican majorities. Her dreams turn the dry grass to soft carpets, they gild the barbed wire fences, they soften the whirr of the corn sheller to dance music.

She imagines herself in the dreamed-of glories of Topeka, even at the Governor's ball. Her husband is a Colonel on the Governor's staff, for there is no leash to hold the soaring dream. Her husband is brave with bright buttons. There are dew-dads on his collar and on his breast are medals given for valor, for marksmanship and other worthy things.

Probably her dreams never carried her as far as she has gone, for who would dare even to dream that she would marry into the great Spreckels family of San Francisco? What vision could be so extravagant as to see her in Constantinople, dallying on the soft bosom of the Bosporus, or living in her palace on the Golden Horn? What super-dreamer would dare to say that she would be a Princess, and that her barque of fortune, passing by, would send waves to wash about the feet of thrones? Or that, on a glamorous summer night beside the sea, Turkish soldiers would set upon her, her clothing be torn away, and her life saved only by a band of European diplomats who ran to the rescue?

It all happened. It will now be shown that truth is stranger than E. Phillips Oppenheim.

SADIE got an early start. She had barely learned the technicalities of milking when she fell equally in love with two gentlemen at the same time. It was up to Sadie, then, to choose between them. One was Harry Williams, advertising manager of a Hutchinson, Kansas, newspaper. The other, one Ugo Leal, a rich Brazilian. It seems from the first Sadie had an attraction for foreigners, and that they meant much to her.

Miss Wirt was in something approaching a dilemma. Here were two men; she was in love with both of them, or thought she was. What was she to do? It was a tragic situation for a young woman of 17. She knitted her brows, burned matches, entered into heated controversies with herself; she could come to no decision. So, it is told about her, one night, in despair, unable to find anyone to aid her, each of her swains declaring that he was the better—one night she crept into her room, tightly shut her door, took a small coin from its hiding place under her handkerchiefs in a dresser drawer, closed her eyes and twirled that small coin up into the air. Presently it lit, she opened her eyes, looked at it and murmured, "It's Harry." She then told Harry that he was the one she loved.

They were married. They were divorced.

It may be seen that their marriage was of short duration. The chief difficulty seems to have been that they couldn't get along; a situation which must have led the good people of the neighborhood to remark that they didn't believe in these early marriages anyhow. Convinced of her family disagreement, Sadie left Kansas for Seattle. Presently her spouse got the divorce decree. She had completed her first step in world affairs.

THE young woman did not tarry long in the State of Washington. She soon packed her bags, took train and arrived in San Francisco. She stayed there quite a while. And while there she met John D. Spreckels Jr. of the millionaire family that had built its great fortune on sugar. Spreckels was married at the time, which was tremendously inconvenient. But as rumors persisted that the gentleman and his wife were hardly upon the best of terms, the young lady from Garden City took high hope. Mr. Spreckels, in the meantime, had cast an eye toward Sidi, which had become her name. The optic first twinkled with pleasure at the girl's comeliness, later it softened with affection, before long the reaction had reached the brain. John D. Spreckels Jr. was in love, and not with his wife.

It is also to be related that Mrs. Spreckels was not in love with her husband. Mrs. Spreckels then took the obvious course and filed suit against him for divorce. She charged cruelty, desertion and grievous mental suffering. Spreckels, Mrs. Spreckels, Sidi Wirt were all elated and once more the Golden Gate, which had recently assumed a green and brassy tinge, recovered its yellow hue.

Then Sidi, for some reason or other—or perhaps the reason was the divorce suit—left California for New York. The girl was beginning to get around the world. In New York, Sidi took up her residence at the Biltmore and went in for voice culture. At about the time Sidi left San Francisco for New York Mrs. Spreckels left San Francisco for Honolulu. Mrs. Spreckels and Sidi were just about as far away from each other as they could get.

Up to that time, rumors of a wedding between Sidi Wirt and Spreckels were confined rather exclusively to the West Coast and that part of it immediately in the vicinity of San Francisco. But while Sidi was having her voice cultivated and living just a step from Forty-second street, her new suitor dispatched to her in a very large box a sixteen-foot tiger skin. The box arrived at the Biltmore; the return address was marked on it, "John D. Spreckels Jr., San Francisco;" it was said that the box contained the sixteen-foot tiger skin, which it certainly did.

This information soon reached the ears of her friends. After cogitating a bit, these friends decided that a man didn't send a girl, who as yet had done nothing in the social world but flip a coin for a husband and then divorce him without any scandal at all, a tiger skin for nothing. A tiger skin, deduced these fellows, dispatched all the way from San Francisco to a girl who was only studying voice culture, had something more behind it than a love for animals.

When her friends asked her what about it, Sidi blushingly admitted that she and John D. Spreckels Jr. were engaged. Those of her friends who chanced to call on her saw reposing on her dresser two pictures; one of a man, one of a child about four. Both, she said, were photographs of Mr. Spreckels. It looked like true love at last. This belief was strengthened when it was discovered that each day Sidi received a 50-word telegram from San Francisco. Whether it was a fast day message, or a night letter, has not been handed down.

In time a divorce court in San Francisco found the case of Spreckels versus Spreckels upon its docket. The Judge looked at his evidence, perused the petition and learned that Mrs. Spreckels had been cruelly treated, deserted, had been caused grievous mental suffering. He gave her a divorce. The news was cabled to Honolulu and Mrs. Spreckels was so deeply affected that she married a man named Wakefield the same day.

Sidi, informed of the divorce, threw her career as a student of vocal culture over her shoulder, caught a train, and was back in San Francisco. Sidi Wirt, once Mrs. Harry Williams, became Mrs. John D. Spreckels Jr. The year was 1915, Sidi was 21. She was making great progress.

Princess Chakir.

Constantinople and the Bosporus of moonlight boat rides.

It was but natural that San Francisco society should doubt the wisdom of Spreckels' choice. Could, they wondered, a girl from the Kansas flat lands comport herself in the manner fitting her high social position in the chief city of the Pacific Coast? Their suspicions were of short duration, for Sidi soon showed them that she knew how to get around. And so she lived for three, four, five years. Then she packed up and sailed for London. Again she had separated from a husband.

IN LONDON things did not go so well with Sidi. The separation, or the cause of it, was evidently distasteful to Spreckels, and when Sidi, alone in London, found her bank credits running low, her husband did nothing to replenish them. About this time Sidi met a friend, a William Barrett, an American, a man she had known for some time. The year before he had eloped with Alice Drexel, but it seems their romance also had failed to sustain its bloom.

Sidi Spreckels told Barrett of her financial difficulty. About the next day they went to Tiffany's London shop and Mrs. Spreckels decided that a pearl necklace, price $80,000, on display there, suited her fancy. She said she'd take it. When Tiffany's asked about credit, Barrett suggested they wire the New York office. The reply came, "Credit Mrs. John D. Spreckels up to a million."

But it appears that when Tiffany sent that magnificent cable to its London branch, Tiffany was under the impression that the Mrs. John D. Spreckels concerned was not Mrs. John D. Spreckels Jr., but Mrs. John D. Spreckels Sr. A member of the London branch hurried over to Sidi's hotel and said he'd like to have a payment on the necklace, merely as an example of the lady's good will toward Tiffany. Sidi then called in Barrett and Barrett became highly insulted. Not for himself, but for Sidi. The longer the Tiffany man stayed, the more insulted Barrett became for Sidi. It was a sort of getting insulted by proxy. Presently the brave chap controlled his emotions long enough to put into words the fact that he felt Mrs. Spreckels had been horribly insulted, and the Tiffany man sadly went his way.

Where was the $80,000 pearl necklace? Did Mrs. Spreckels have it? No. Mrs. Spreckels did not have it. She said she had asked Barrett to have it cleaned and restrung for her, but that she hadn't got it back. Every time she asked him about it, said she, he changed the subject. Then it is told that Sidi demanded either her necklace—or rather Tiffany's necklace—or the money equivalent, and Barrett replied he'd run down to Nice and get the money from his wife. He then left London, but the poor fellow got his directions mixed and instead of crossing the channel, he got on a train for Liverpool. Once there, he decided he might just as well make a trip to America, which he did.

A few weeks later a warrant was issued for his arrest. Barrett was never prosecuted. Just what became of the necklace and in what manner it was paid for, if any, is something which it is said Tiffany's are not altogether clear on themselves.

Reouf Bey in the uniform of the Turkish navy. He will marry the former wife of a King.

Sidi, disgusted with her London venture and feeling the same way about her husband, took herself back to San Francisco. But not to see Spreckels, rather to arrange it so she would have to see less of him, or nothing at all. She filed suit for divorce. It was Spreckels versus Spreckels again on the San Francisco divorce court dockets.

While the court action was pending John D. Spreckels Jr. was killed in an automobile accident. Came the time for settling his estate, and with it came something of a feud between the Spreckelses and Sidi Wirt who was. The pearl necklace played a high and important part in this controversy. But when the smoke of battle had cleared away, those who looked over the field found that Sidi had got her husband's fortune.

Sidi Wirt of later days.

Now no longer did the life of the sun-kissed coast appeal to Sidi Wirt. She longed for new and foreign splendors. So off she went to Europe again, and this time Paris got her attention. There is no reason why the widow of one of the Spreckelses would have any difficulty getting acquainted in Paris. Nor did she. Among those whom she met was Prince Suad Chakir, a young Turk of a wealthy Constantinople family, of which he was the head. The gentleman was reputed handsome. Such gentlemen always are reputed handsome.

Whether he was or not, he set himself out to woo Sidi. Sidi was not at all displeased with the business; she seemed on the other hand to like it and Prince Suad Chakir. It was not long before an announcement was made that Sidi of the Kansas milk days was about to become a Princess at Constantinople. The Kansas milk days, of course, were not mentioned in the announcement, and it is doubtful if Sidi could have remembered them if she had tried.

THESE two were married, and away went the Prince and Princess Suad Chakir, for to take up their abode in a Moslem palace on the banks of the highly romantic Bosporus. That was in 1923. Prince Chakir, besides being a rich man and a nobleman, was held high in Turkish politics. He was one of the powers of the State. Sidi had achieved no mean position.

Being the important person that he was, Prince Chakir could not spend all of his time in his Oriental palace with Sidi. It was necessary for him to go about on affairs of state. And Sidi, being the important person she had come to be, could not be expected to stay in a great palace, all alone, with nothing but the retinue of servants for companionship, when the Prince Chakir was away on his affairs of state.

Prince Chakir went off on one of his diplomatic journeys. Came a soft, fragrant Oriental night. The air was hardly air, it was so lovely. High over the satiny Bosporus hung the crescent moon. The very heavens flaunted on this night the symbol of the Moslem power in the face of the world. The brave Capt. Selyom Bey raised his dark eyes to his Turkish heaven. Patriotism grew rampant in that gallant soldier's heart. Tonight, thought he, the lady of my great Prince, Suad Chakir Bey, sits

'Third Degree' Convicts, Then Frees a Man

An Educated Chinese, Charged With the Murder of Three of His Countrymen, Members of the Chinese Mission at Washington, Was Grilled Pitilessly for Days by the Police. He Confessed. Then He Denied It. Justice Brandeis Wrote a Decision Insisting on Men's Liberties. But It Took the Accused Seven Years to Win Freedom.

By R. P. BRANDT
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

WASHINGTON, D. C.

FOR ten hours, from 7 o'clock in the evening until 5 o'clock the next morning, Ziang Sun Wan, then 22 years old, tortured by a serious stomach disorder, worn and haggard from the merciless grilling of the District Police, was taken from room to room of the Chinese Educational Mission in Kalorama Road, here in Washington, where three of his countrymen, Doctor T. Theodore Wong, director of the Mission, Ben Sen Wu, undersecretary, and Chang Hsi Hsie, a clerk, had been brutally murdered two weeks before.

Completely exhausted by the ordeal, his will and mind like putty in the hands of the ruthless detectives, the young Chinese broke down and confessed that he had killed Wu after his friend had murdered Wong and Hsie in fear they would suspect him of forging Wong's name to a $5000 check on the Mission.

The signing of the confession was the climax of a pitiless "third degree." Although it contained patent inconsistencies and inaccuracies, it caused the jury to bring in a verdict for conviction and a recommendation for a death sentence against Wan after twelve minutes' deliberation. Judge Gould of the District Supreme Court, on May 24, 1920, sentenced Wan to be hanged by the neck until dead.

This sentence was affirmed by the District Court of Appeals, but Wan, who by this time had interested some of the best attorneys in the country in his case, appealed to the United States Supreme Court. Some of the men who went to Wan's aid at the time he was stoically hoping and praying in "murderers' row" in the gloomy district jail, were John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President in 1924; Wilton J. Lambert, a distinguished Washington attorney; Frederic D. McKenney and William C. Dennis.

Before the Supreme Court consented to review his case, Wan had been within two days of the scaffold. He was saved in October, 1924, by a decision of the court, written by Justice Brandeis, that made legal history. Since that time Wan has had two more trials before the District Supreme Court. Instead of the unanimous verdict of the first trial, the second resulted in a hung jury, 10 to 2 for acquittal, and the third 9 to 3 for acquittal.

WAN was finally released last month, when District Attorney Peyton Gordon nolle prossed the case in the same courtroom in which Wan had twice heard the death sentence passed upon him. He is now engaged in writing a book on a farm in New Jersey. To the last Gordon would not admit Wan's innocence, but declared he did not believe it possible to get a conviction against him in the District Court.

With Wan's guilt or innocence undecided, the triple murder which shocked staid Washington in February, 1919, remains one of the great unsolved crime mysteries. There is little likelihood that it will be solved unless the murderer confesses, as five of the principal witnesses are dead and seven have returned to China.

The murder occurred the night of Janurary 29, some time after 10 o'clock, as Doctor Wong did not leave a dinner party until 9:30. Wu had dinner with a compatriot whom he left about 10.

The bodies of the murdered men were not discovered until February 1, when Kang Li, a member of the mission and a student at George Washington University, climbed through the window of the Mission's quarters and found Doctor Wong lying in the reception hall and Wu and Hsie heaped together in the basement, just off the kitchen. The faces of the victims were covered by rugs, an indication that the crime might have been perpetrated by an Oriental who believed that the spell of the victim's eyes might thus be averted. Li communicated immediately with the Chinese Legation and was told to inform the police. With the aid of a newsboy he found a policeman.

For several days the papers retold the gruesome details, mentioning that the police were working on several misty clues. The Superintendent of Police, the late Raymond Pullman, and the Chief of Detectives, the late Inspector Grant, refused to divulge the nature of these trails. On the fourth day of the sensation, however, it was announced that the police had found the men for whom they had been seeking, Ziang Sun Wan and his brother, Van, in a rooming house in New York.

The two Orientals were brought back to Washington and placed under guard in separate rooms of a hotel. Then the questioning began. Wan had been found in bed in New York, suffering from spastic colic. Notwithstanding his frail condition, the police interviewed him at all hours. They sought to learn his connection with the Mission and a $5000 check on the Mission made out to bearer and bearing the signature of T. T. Wong, which an unknown Chinese had presented for payment at the Riggs National Bank the day after the murder. This check the bank had refused to cash after officials received no answer to their telephone call to the Mission.

At left—Wan, thanking his attorney, Wilton J. Lambert, as he walked out of jail.
Below—Packed up and quitting the jail that had been his home for so long.

Wan admitted he had been at the Mission at 7 o'clock on the evening of the murder, waiting for his friend Wu. He claimed that he left the Mission shortly after that hour, met his brother and went with him to a picture show. After the show he went with his brother to his hotel, he declared. The next day, the two left for New York. At first he disclaimed all knowledge of the $5000 check.

Wan's admissions cast a cloud of suspicion over him. He was questioned and requestioned. Even while under intense pain from stomach trouble he stuck to his story. What happened to him after eight days of "sweating" by the police is told graphically by Justice Brandeis of the Supreme Court in his famous decision. Seldom has such a word picture been painted in a Supreme Court opinion. The liberal-minded Judge was shocked at the disclosures of police cruelty.

"WAN was held in the hotel room without formal arrest, incommunicado," Judge Brandeis wrote. "But he was not left alone. Every moment of the day and of the night, at least one member of the police force was on guard in his room. Three ordinary policemen were assigned to this duty. Each served eight hours, the shifts beginning at midnight, at 8 in the morning and 4 in the afternoon. Morning, afternoon and evening (and at least on one occasion at midnight) the prisoner was visited by the superintendent of police and one or more of the detectives.

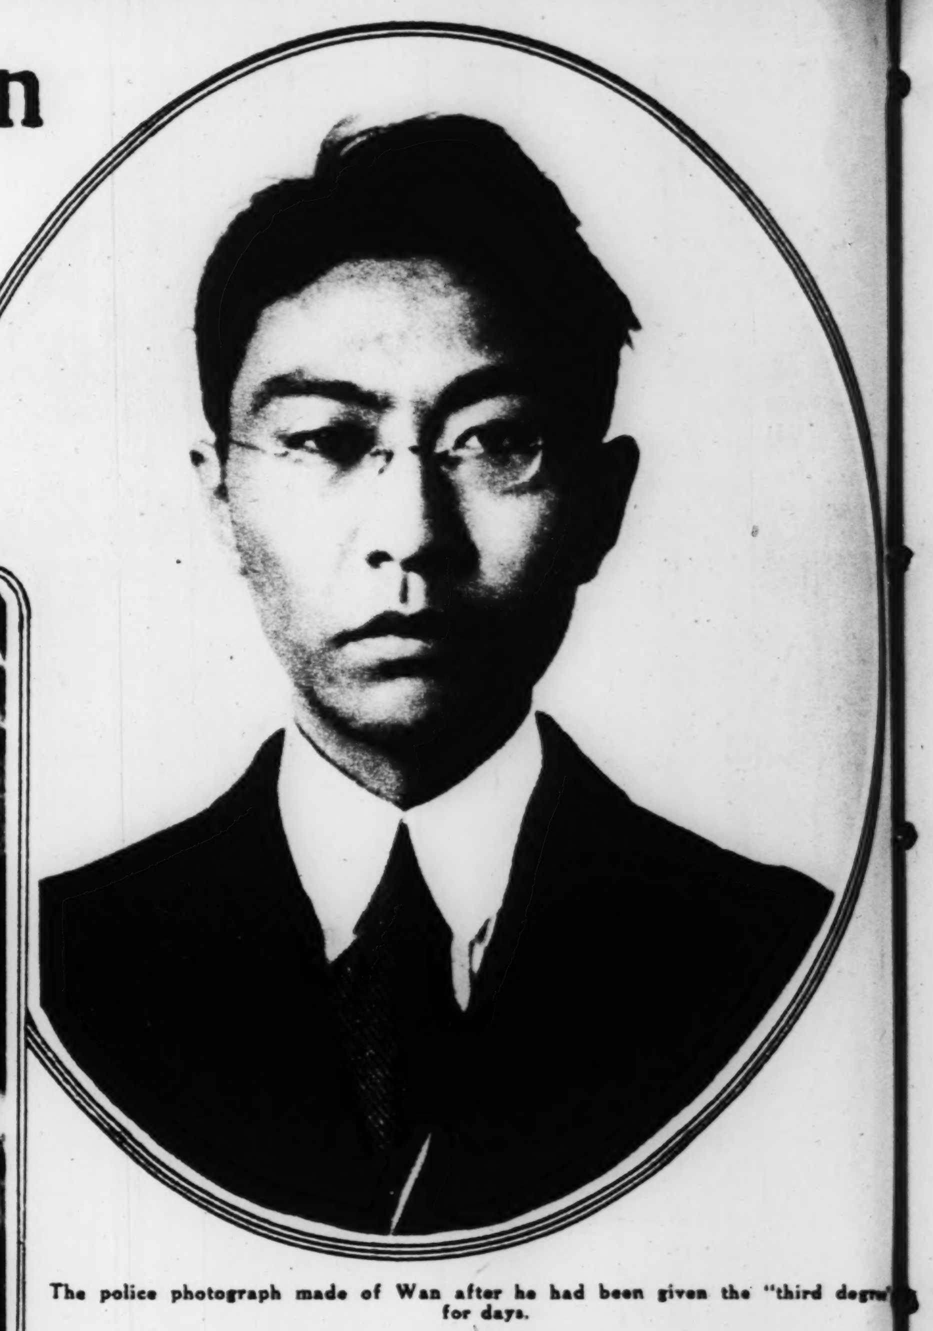
"The sole purpose of these visits was to interrogate him. Regardless of Wan's wishes and protests, his condition of health or the hour, they engaged him in conversation. He was subjected to persistent, lengthy and repeated cross-examination. Sometimes it was subtle, sometimes severe. Always the examination was conducted with a view of entrapping Wan into a confession of his guilt or that of his brother. Whenever these visitors entered the room the guard was stationed outside the closed door.

"On the eighth day, the accusatory questioning took a more excruciating turn. A detective was in attendance throughout the day. In the evening Wan was taken from the Dewey Hotel to the Mission. There, continuously for ten hours, this sick man was taken from floor to floor, minutely to examine and re-examine the scene of the triple murder and every object connected with it, to give explanations and to answer questions. The places where the dead men were discovered; the revolver with which presumably the murder was committed; the bullet holes in the walls; the discharged cartridges found on the floor; the clothes of the murdered men; the blood stains on the floor and stairs; a bloody handkerchief; the coat and pillow which had been found covering the dead men's faces; photographs taken by the police of the men as they lay dead; the doors and windows through which the murderer might have entered or made his escape; photostat copies of writing, by means of which it was sought to prove that Wan was implicated in a forgery incident to the murder; all these were shown him.

"Concerning every object, every incident's details, he was, in the presence of a stenographer, plied with questions by the Superintendent of Police and the detectives. By these he was engaged in arguments; sometimes separately, sometimes in joint attack. The process of interrogation became more insistent. It passed at times from inquiry to command. From 7 o'clock in the evening until 5 o'clock in the morning the questioning continued. Before it was concluded, Kang Li, who was again in attendance, had left the Mission about midnight, worn by the long hours. The Superintendent of Police had returned to his home, apparently exhausted. One of the detectives had fallen asleep. To Wan not a moment of sleep was allowed.

"On the ninth day, at 20 minutes past 5 in the morning, Wan was taken from the Mission to the station house and placed formally under arrest. There, the interrogation was promptly resumed. Again the detectives were in attendance, day and evening, plying their questions; pointing out alleged contradictions; arguing with the prisoner; and urging him to confess lest his brother be deemed guilty of the crime.

"Still the statements secured failed to satisfy the detectives' craving for evidence. On the tenth day, Wan was 'bundled up'; was again taken to the Mission; was again questioned for hours; and there 'the whole thing was again talked of and enacted.'



The police photograph made of Wan after he had been given the "third degre for days.

"On the eleventh day, a formal interrogation of Wan was conducted at the station house by the detectives, in the presence of a stenographer. On the twelfth day the verbatim typewritten report of the interrogations (which occupies 12 pages of the printed record) was read to Wan in his cell at the jail. There he signed the report and initialed each page. On the thirteenth day, for the first time, Wan was visited by the chief medical officer of the jail in the performance of his duties."

The confession apparently completely solved the mystery. According to it, Wu, the undersecretary, had stolen a check from the Mission check book, with the view to forging Doctor Wong's name to it. Hsie had discovered that the check was missing and had informed Doctor Wong. Wu, frightened, had communicated with Wan about raising money and Wan had visited Wu at the Mission while Wong and Hsie were not at home. Wong had returned first and had been murdered by Wu with a heavy brass candlestick. When Hsie returned he was shot by Wu with a cheap .38 caliber revolver. Then Wu and Wan disputed over dividing the proceeds of the check and Wan shot Wu.

Continuing, the confession said that Wan took the check and, impersonating Wu at the bank, tried to cash it the next day in the presence of his brother, Van. Failing, when the bank officials refused to honor it after trying to telephone the Mission, they left the following afternoon for New York.

The first Wan trial lasted five weeks, and, as stated, the jury brought in a verdict of guilty after twelve minutes' deliberation.

Since his formal arrest Wan had been in murderers' row at the district jail. For four years a cell just large enough to hold a cot was Wan's domicile.

AFTER his first conviction, predictions were freely made in the newspapers that he would escape the noose by dying. From the time of his apprehension to his conviction, his weight decreased from 160 to 109 pounds. But never did his hope diminish.

Only two days separated him from the gallows when the United States Supreme Court granted his petition for a new trial. That trial gave him another lease on life and he prepared to make his last frantic appeal for justice. He completely repudiated the confession that had been wrung from him by the police.

Educated by his previous experience, he conferred with his attorneys and pointed out the inaccuracies of the alleged confession. Wu, the confession said, had been killed when Wan pressed the revolver to his breast and fired. The Coroner's testimony revealed that Wu had been shot from the back and that no powder burns had been found on him. The confession also stated that Wan had left the house by the door, whereas the bloody tracks pointed to the window. Another discrepancy was that Wan and his brother were said to have taken a train at a particular hour in the afternoon. The train schedules showed no such train. Most damning evidence was found in the stenographic report, in which Wan, when asked to tell the whole story, said, "No, you ask me questions. It's easier that way." This was taken to indicate that Wan, thoroughly exhausted, was too tired to make a connected statement and that his affirmative answers to damaging questions had been forced by the police.

A great deal was made of Wan's physical condition. The Coroner, testifying at the trial, stated that when he visited Wan after the "third degree" he found him "very emaciated and suffering intense abdominal pains."

"Do you think a man in that condition would make a confession even if he knew he would go to the gallows by it?" the Coroner was asked.

"I say, if he is as sick as that and in as great pain as that, he would do anything to have the torture stopped," the truthful scientific man replied.

The Supreme Court decision, setting aside the verdicts of the two lower courts, gave instructions for future trials by stating, "the alleged oral statements and the written confession should have been excluded."

The second trial was held in Washington last January. Wilson L. Lambert of Washington and former Senator Owsley Stanley of Kentucky offered to defend Wan without compensation. To these two attorneys Wan owes his freedom today.

THE testimony revealed that Wan and his brother, Van, did know something about a $5000 check because, according to their testimony, they were accosted by two strange Chinamen at the Washington Union Station the day after the murder. One said he had a check which he could not cash because he was not known. Van testified that he had been in such an embarrassing situation himself and offered to go to the bank with the stranger to identify him. This check was on the Mission's funds and was for $5000. When the bank officials refused payment, Van testified that he returned to the station, joined Wan and the two went to New York. The check for $5000 was never found, although the Mission's check book contained a stub showing that a $5000 check had been drawn by Doctor Wong the day of the murder. The Government counsel tried to prove that this entry had been made by Wan.

Lambert, for the defense, tore down the wall of circumstantial evidence with which the Government had surrounded Wan. Hypothetically, and making it clear that he did not want to accuse Li of the murders, he wove a web of circumstantial evidence against Li just as damning as the Government's case against Wan. According to those who followed the trial closely, Lambert and Stanley were able, by their adroit questioning and cold logic, to cause the jurors to have a reasonable doubt that Wan had killed Wu. The Government had dropped all of its counts against Wan charging him with the murder of Wong and Hsie. In this trial the jury was out 30 hours.

The second trial lasted almost six weeks and resulted in a hung jury, 10 to 2 for acquittal. Wan was sorely disappointed for he had made all arrangements to leave the jail where he had been held for seven years.

The third trial was held in April and resulted in a 9 to 3 vote for acquittal. Wan was not so dejected about the outcome of this trial because District Attorney Gordon indicated that he would nolle pros the case.

On last June 16 Gordon appeared before Justice Hoeling of the Criminal Division of the District Supreme Court and formally nolle prossed the charge of homicide which had held Wan a prisoner since January, 1919.

The Microbe Hunters

SPALLANZANI, the BRILLIANT ITALIAN PRIEST, WAS the SECOND of the LINE

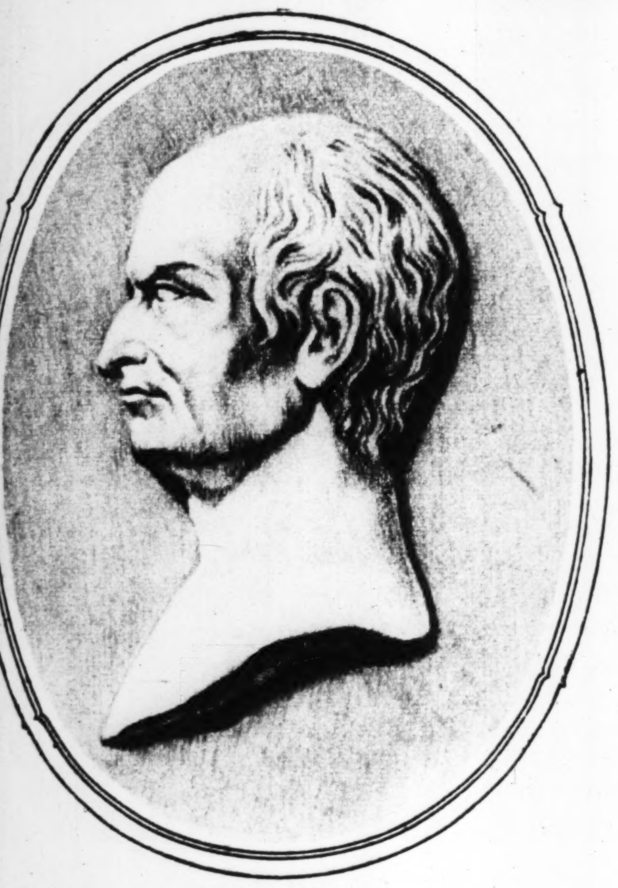
In His Life of Turmoil and Triumph, He Found That Microbes Must Have Parents, and on That Fact Modern Science Builds Its Structure.



SPALLANZANI,
Second of the line of microbe hunters.

By PAUL DE KRUIF

CHAPTER 2.

"LEEUWENHOEK is dead. It is too bad. It is a loss that cannot be made good. Who now will carry on the study of the little animals?" asked the learned men of the Royal Society in England, asked Reaumur and the brilliant Academy in Paris. Their question did not wait long for an answer, for the janitor of Delft had hardly closed his eyes in 1723, for the long sleep that he had earned so well, when another microbe hunter was born, in 1729, a thousand miles away in Scandiano, in Northern Italy. This was Lazzaro Spallanzani, a strange boy who lisped verses while he fashioned mud pies; who forgot mud pies to do fumbling, childish and cruel experiments with beetles and bugs and flies and worms. Instead of pestering his parents with questions, he examined living things in nature by pulling legs and wings off them, by trying to stick them back on again. He must find out how things worked; he didn't care so very much what they looked like.

And the shrewd young Spallanzani went to the University at Reggio, with his father's blessing, to take up the career of scientist.

At this time it was much more respectable and safe to be a scientist than it had been when Leeuwenhoek began his first grinding of lenses.

The thrill and dignity of real research into nature began to elbow its way into secluded studies of philosophers. Voltaire retired for years into the wilds of rural France to master the great discoveries of Newton, and then to popularize them in his country. Science even penetrated into brilliant and witty and immoral drawing rooms, and society leaders like Madame de Pompadour bent their heads over the forbidden Encyclopedia—to try to understand the art and science of the making of rouge and silk stockings.

Still there was plenty of ignorance in the world, and much pseudo-science—even in the Royal societies and Academies.

He was the very opposite of Leeuwenhoek, who so patiently had ground lenses, and looked at everything for 20 years before the learned world knew anything about him. At 25 Spallanzani made translations of the ancient poets and criticised the standard and much admired Italian translation of Homer. He brilliantly studied mathematics with his cousin, Laura Bassi, the famous woman professor of Reggio.

BEFORE he was 30 years old he had been made professor at the University of Reggio, talking before enthusiastic classes that listened to him with saucer eyes. Here he started his first work on the little animals, those weird new little things that Leeuwenhoek had discovered. He began his experiments on them as they were threatening to return to that misty unknown from which the Dutchman had dredged them up.

The little animals had got themselves involved in a strange question, in a furious fight, and had it not been for that, they might have remained curiosities for centuries, or even have been completely forgotten. This argument, over which dear friends grew to hate each other and about which professors tried to crack the skulls of priests, was briefly this: Can living things arise spontaneously, or does every living thing have to have parents? Did God create every plant and animal in the first six days, and then settle down to be Managing Director of the universe, or does He even now amuse Himself by allowing new animals to spring up in numerous ways?

In Spallanzani's time the popular side was the party that asserted that life could arise spontaneously. The great majority of sensible people believed that many animals did not have to have parents—that they might be the unhappy legitimate children of a disgusting variety of dirty messes. Here, for example, was a supposedly sure recipe for getting yourself a good swarm of bees. Take a young bullock, kill him with a knock on the head, bury him under the ground in a standing position with his horns sticking out. Leave him there for a month, then saw off his horns—and out will fly your swarm of bees.

Even the scientists were on this side of the question. The English naturalist Ross announced learnedly that: "To question that beetles and wasps were generated in refuse is to question reason, sense and experience." Even such complicated animals as mice didn't have to have mothers or fathers—if anybody doubted this, let him go to Egypt, and there he would find the fields literally swarming with mice, begot of the mud of the River Nile—to the great calamity of the inhabitants!

Spallanzani heard all of these stories which so many important people were sure were facts, he read many more of them that were still more strange, he watched students get into brawls in excited attempts to prove that mice and bees didn't have to have fathers or mothers. He heard all of these things—and didn't believe them. He was prejudiced. Spallanzani had violent notions about whether life could rise spontaneously; for him it was on the face of things absurd to think that animals—even the wee beasts of Leeuwenhoek—could arise in a haphazard way from any old thing. There must be law and order to their birth, there must be rime and reason. But how to prove it?

SPALLANZANI began fumblingly to learn how to grow wee beasts, and how to use a microscope. He cut his hands and broke large, expensive flasks. He forgot to clean his lenses and sometimes saw his little animals dimly through his fogged glasses—just as you can faintly make out minnows in the water riled up by your net. He raved at his blunders; he was not the dogged worker that Leeuwenhoek had been—but despite his impetuousness, he was persistent—he must prove that these yarns about the animalcules were yarns, nothing more. But wait! "If I set out to prove something I am no real scientist—I have to learn to follow where the facts lead me—I have to learn to whip my prejudices. . . ." And he kept on learning to study little animals, and to observe with a patient, if not an unprejudiced eye, and gradually he taught the vanity of his ideas to bow to the hard clearness of his facts.

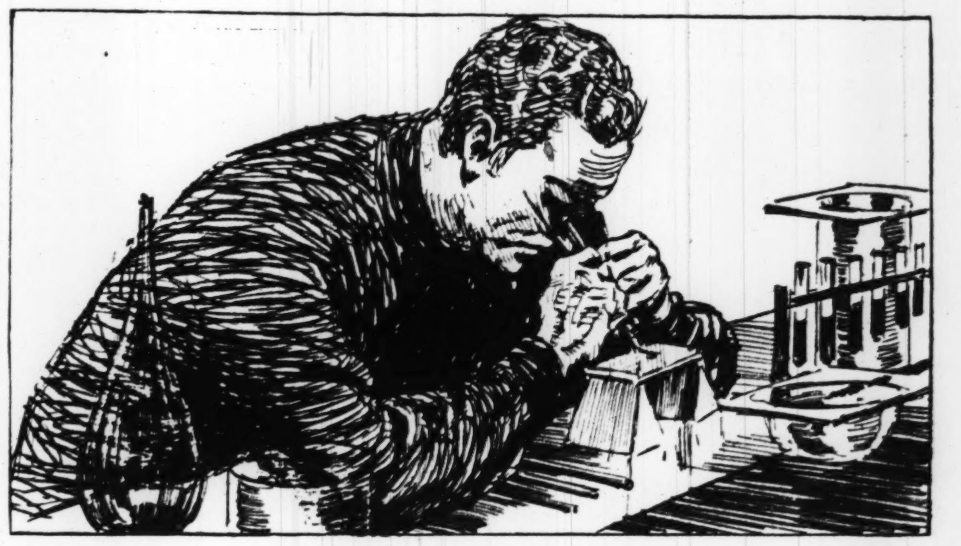
At this time another priest, named Needham, who liked to think he could do experiments, was becoming notorious in England and Ireland, claiming that little microscopic animals were generated marvelously in mutton gravy. Needham sent his experiments to the Royal Society, and the learned Fellows deigned to be impressed.

He told them how he had taken a quantity of mutton gravy hot from the fire and put the gravy in a bottle and plugged the bottle up tight with a cork, so that no little animals or their eggs could possibly get into the gravy from the air. Next he even went so far as to heat the bottle and its mutton gravy in hot ashes. "Surely," said the good Needham, "this will kill any little animals or their eggs that might remain in the flask." He put this gravy flask away for a few days, then pulled the cork—and marvel of marvels—when he examined the stuff inside with his lens, he found it swarming with animalcules.

"A momentous discovery, this," cried Needham to the Royal Society, "these little animals can only have come from the juice of the gravy. Here is a real experiment showing that life can come spontaneously from dead stuff!" He told them mutton gravy wasn't necessary—a soup made from seeds or almonds would do the same trick.

The Royal Society and the whole educated world were excited by Needham's discovery. Here was no old wives' tale. Here was hard experimental fact; and the heads of the society got together and thought about making Needham a Fellow of their remote aristocracy of learning. But away in Italy, Spallanzani was reading the news of Needham's startling creation of little animals from mutton gravy. While he read he knit his brows, and narrowed his dark eyes. At last he snorted: "Animalcules do not arise by themselves from mutton gravy, or almond seeds, or anything else! This fine experiment is a fraud—maybe Needham doesn't know it—but there's a nigger in the woodpile somewhere. I'm going to find it. . . ."

One night, alone in his laboratory, away from the brilliant clamor of his lectures and remote from the gay salons where ladies adored his knowledge, he felt sure he had found the loophole in Needham's experiment. He chewed his quill, he ran his hands through his shaggy hair. "Why have those little animals appeared in that hot gravy, and in those soups made from seeds?" Undoubtedly because Needham didn't heat the bottles long enough, and surely because he didn't plug them tight enough!



Bending his thick neck to his task.

Here the searcher in him came forward—he didn't go to his desk to write Needham about it—instead he went to his dusty glass-strewn laboratory and grabbed some flasks and seeds and dusted off his microscope. He started out to test, even to defeat, if necessary, his own explanations. Needham didn't heat his soups long enough—maybe there are little animals, or their eggs, which can stand a tremendous heat, who knows? So Spallanzani took some large glass flasks, round bellied, with tapering necks. He scrubbed and washed and dried them till they stood in gleaming rows on his table. Then he put seeds of various kinds into some, and peas and almonds into others, and following that poured pure water into all of them. "Now I won't only heat these soups for a short time," he cried, "but I'll boil them for an hour!" He got his fires ready—then he grunted: "But how shall I close up my flasks? Corks might not be tight enough, they might let these infinitely wee things through." He pondered. "I've got it, I'll melt the necks of my bottles shut in a flame. I'll close them with glass—nothing, no matter how small, can sneak through glass!"

SO he took his shining flasks one by one and rolled their necks gently in a hot flame till each one was fused completely shut. He dropped some of them when they got too hot—he sizzled the skin off his fingers, he got new flasks to take the smashed ones' places. Then when his flasks were sealed and ready, "Now for some real heat," he muttered, and for tedious hours he tended his bottles, as they bumped and danced in caldrons of boiling water. One set he boiled for a few minutes only. Another he kept in boiling water for a full hour.

At last, his eyes near stuck shut with tiredness, he lifted the flasks of stew steaming from their kettles and put them carefully away—to wait for nervous, anxious days to see whether any little animals would grow in them. And he did another thing, a simple one which I almost forgot to tell you about—he made another duplicate set of stews in flasks plugged up with corks, not sealed, and, after boiling these for an hour, put them away beside the others.

Then he went off for days to do the thousand things that were not enough to use up his buzzing energy. He wrote letters to the famous naturalist, Bonnet, in Switzerland, telling him his experiments; he played football; he went hunting and fishing. He lectured about science and told his students not of dry technicalities only, but of a hundred things—such as the marvelous wee beasts that Leeuwenhoek had found in his mouth. At last he vanished and students and professors—and ladies—asked: "Where is the Abbe Spallanzani?"

He had gone back to his rows of flasks of seed soup.

He went to the row of sealed flasks first, and one by one he cracked open their necks and fished down with a slender hollow tube to get some of the soup inside them in order to see whether any little animals at all had grown in these bottles that he had heated so long, and closed so perfectly against the microscopic creatures that might be floating in the dust of the outside air. He was not the lively sparkling Spallanzani now. He was slow, he was calm. Like some automaton, some slightly animated wooden man, he put one drop of seed soup after another before his lens.

He first looked at drop after drop of the soup from the sealed flasks which had been boiled for an hour and his long looking was rewarded by—nothing. Eagerly he turned to the bottles that had been boiled for only a few minutes and cracked their seals as before and put drops of the soup inside them before his lens.

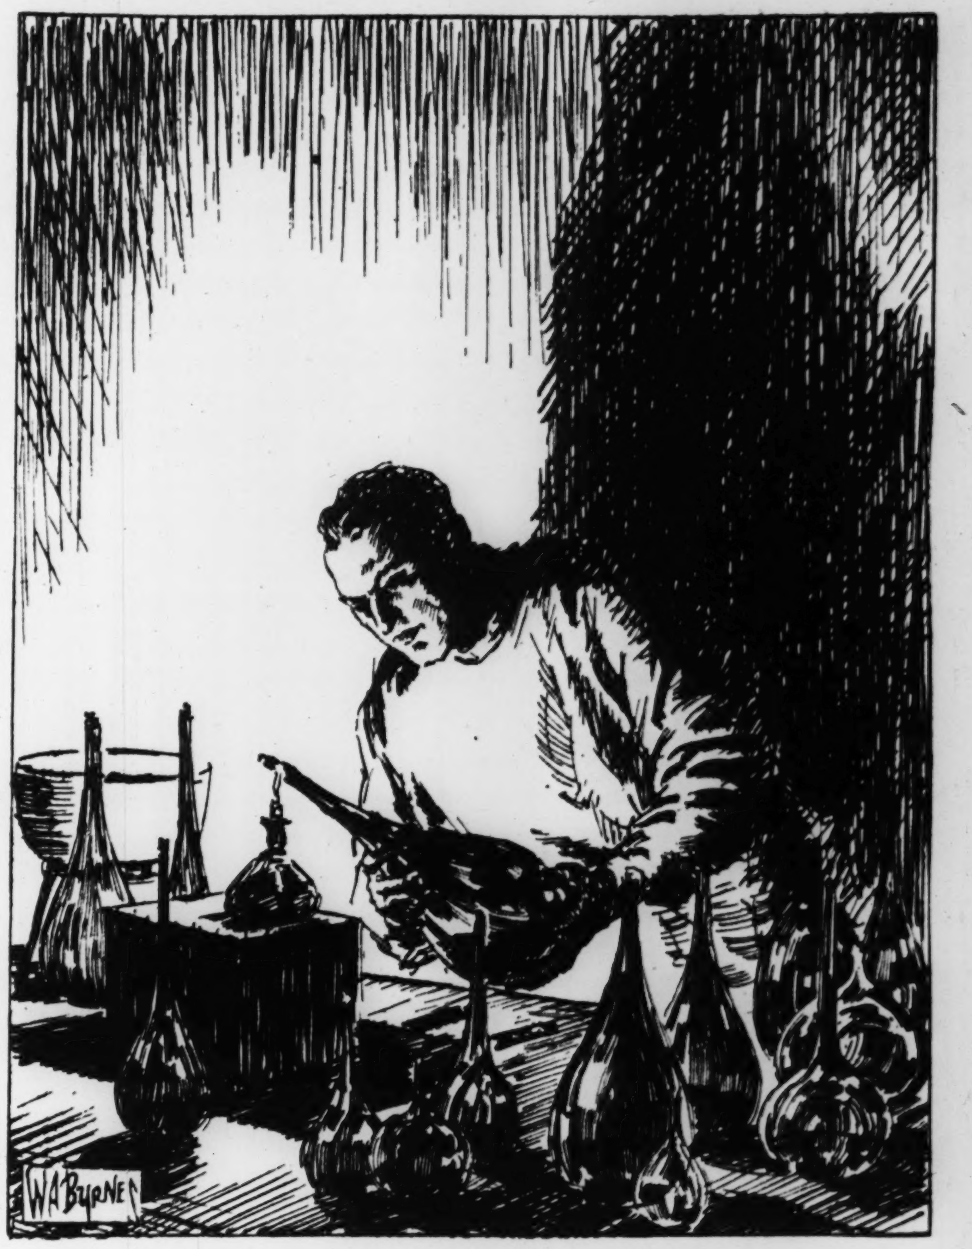
"What's this?" he cried. Here and there in the gray field of his lens he made out an animalcule playing and sporting about—these weren't large microbes, like some he had seen—but they were living little animals just the same.

"Why, they look like little fishes, tiny as ants," he muttered—and then something dawned on him——. "These flasks were sealed—nothing could get into them from the outside, yet here are little beings that have stood a heat of boiling water for several minutes!"

HE went with nervous hands to the long row of flasks he had only stoppered with corks—as his enemy Needham had done—and he pulled out the corks, one by one, and fished in the bottles once more with his tubes. He growled excitedly, he got up from his chair, he seized a battered note-book and feverishly wrote down obscure remarks in a kind of scrawled shorthand. But these words meant that every one of the flasks which had been only corked, not sealed, was alive with little animals: Even the corked flasks which had been boiled for an hour "were like lakes in which swim fishes of all sizes, from whales to minnows."

"That means the little animals get into Needham's flasks from the air!" he shouted. "And besides I have discovered a great new fact: living things exist that can stand boiling water and still live—you have to heat them to boiling almost an hour to kill them!"

It was a great day for Spallanzani, and, though he did not know it, a great day for the world. Spallanzani had proved that Needham's theory of little animals arising spontaneously was wrong—just as the old master, Redi, had proved the idea was wrong that flies can be bred in putrid meat. But he had done more than that, for he had rescued the baby science of microbe hunting from a fantastic myth, a Mother Goose yarn that would have made all scientists of other kinds hold their noses at the very mention of microbe hunting as a sound branch of knowledge.



He spoiled many a shining flask.

Excited, Spallanzani called his brother, Nicolo, and his sister, and told them his pretty experiment. And then, bright-eyed, he told his students that life only comes from life; every living thing has to have a parent—even these wretched little animals! Seal your soup flasks in a flame and nothing can get into them from outside. Heat them long enough and everything, even those tough beasts that can stand boiling, will be killed. Do that and you'll never find any living animals arising in any kind of soup—you could keep it till doomsday. Then he threw his work at Needham's head in a brilliant sarcastic paper, and the world of science was thrown into an uproar. Could Needham really be wrong? asked thoughtful men, gathered in groups under the high lamps and candles of the scientific societies of London and Copenhagen, of Paris and Berlin.

The argument between Spallanzani and Needham didn't stay in the academies among the highbrows. It leaked out through heavy doors onto the streets and crept into stylish drawing rooms. The world would have liked to believe Needham, for the people of the eighteenth century were cynical and gay; everywhere men were laughing at religion and denying any supreme power in nature, and they delighted in the notion that life could arise haphazardly. But Spallanzani's experiments were so clear and so hard to answer, even with the cleverest words. . . .

SPALLANZANI held immense correspondence with half the doubters and searchers of Europe. By mail he was a great friend of that imp, Voltaire. He complained that there were few men of talent in Italy, the air was too humid and foggy—he became a leader of that impudent band of scientists and philosophers who unknowingly prepared the bloodiest of revolutions while they tried so honestly to find truth and establish happiness and justice in the world. These men believed that Spallanzani had spiked once for all that nonsense about animals—even the tiniest ones—arising spontaneously. Led by Voltaire, they cracked vast jokes about the Vegetative Force and its parents, the pompous Buffon and his laboratory boy, Father Needham.

Spallanzani's name glittered in all the universities of Europe; the societies considered him the first scientist of the day; Frederick the Great wrote long letters to him, and with his own hand made him a member of the Berlin Academy; and Frederick's bitter enemy, Maria Teresa, Empress of Austria, put it over the great King by offering Spallanzani the job of professor in her ancient and rundown University of Pavia, in Lombardy. A pompous commission came, a commission of eminent Privy Councillors, weighed down with letters and Imperial Seals and begged Spallanzani to put this defunct college on its feet. There were vast interminable arguments and bargainings about salary—Spallanzani always knew how to feather his nest—bargains that ended in his taking the job of professor of natural history and curator of the Natural History Cabinet of Pavia.

Spallanzani went to the Museum, the Natural History Cabinet, and found that cupboard bare. He rolled up his sleeves, he lectured about everything, he made huge public experiments and he awed his students because his deft hands always made these experiments turn out successfully. He sent here and there for an astounding array of queer beasts and strange plants and unknown birds—to fill up the empty cabinet. He climbed dangerous mountains himself and brought back minerals and precious ores; he caught hammer-head sharks and snared gay-plumed fowl; he went on incredible collecting expeditions for his museum—and to work off that tormenting energy that made him so fantastically different from the popular picture of a calm scientist. He was a Roosevelt with all of Teddy's courage and appeal to the crowd, but none of Teddy's gorgeous inaccuracy.

In the intervals of this hectic collecting and lecturing he shut himself in his laboratory with his stews and his microscopic animals, and made long experiments to show that these beasts obey nature's laws, just as men and horses and elephants are forced to follow them. He put drops of stews swarming with microbes on little pieces of glass and blew tobacco smoke at them and watched them eagerly with his lens. He cried out his delight as he saw them rush about trying to avoid the irritating smoke. He shot electric sparks at them and wondered at the way the little animals "became giddy" and spun about and quickly died.

MEANWHILE, this man who was so rigidly honest in his experiments, who would never report anything but the truth of what he found amid the smells and poisonous vapors and shining machines of his laboratory, this superbly honest scientist, I say, was planning low tricks to increase his pay as professor at Pavia. Spallanzani, the football player, the climber of mountains and explorer; this Spallanzani whined to the authorities at Vienna about his feeble health—the fogs and vapors of Pavia were like to make him die, he said. To keep him, the Emperor had to increase his pay and double his vacations. Spallanzani laughed and cynically called this a political gesture! He always got everything he wanted. He got truth by dazzling experiments and close observation and insane patience; he obtained money and advancement by work—and by cunning plots and falsehoods; he received protection from religious persecution by becoming a priest!

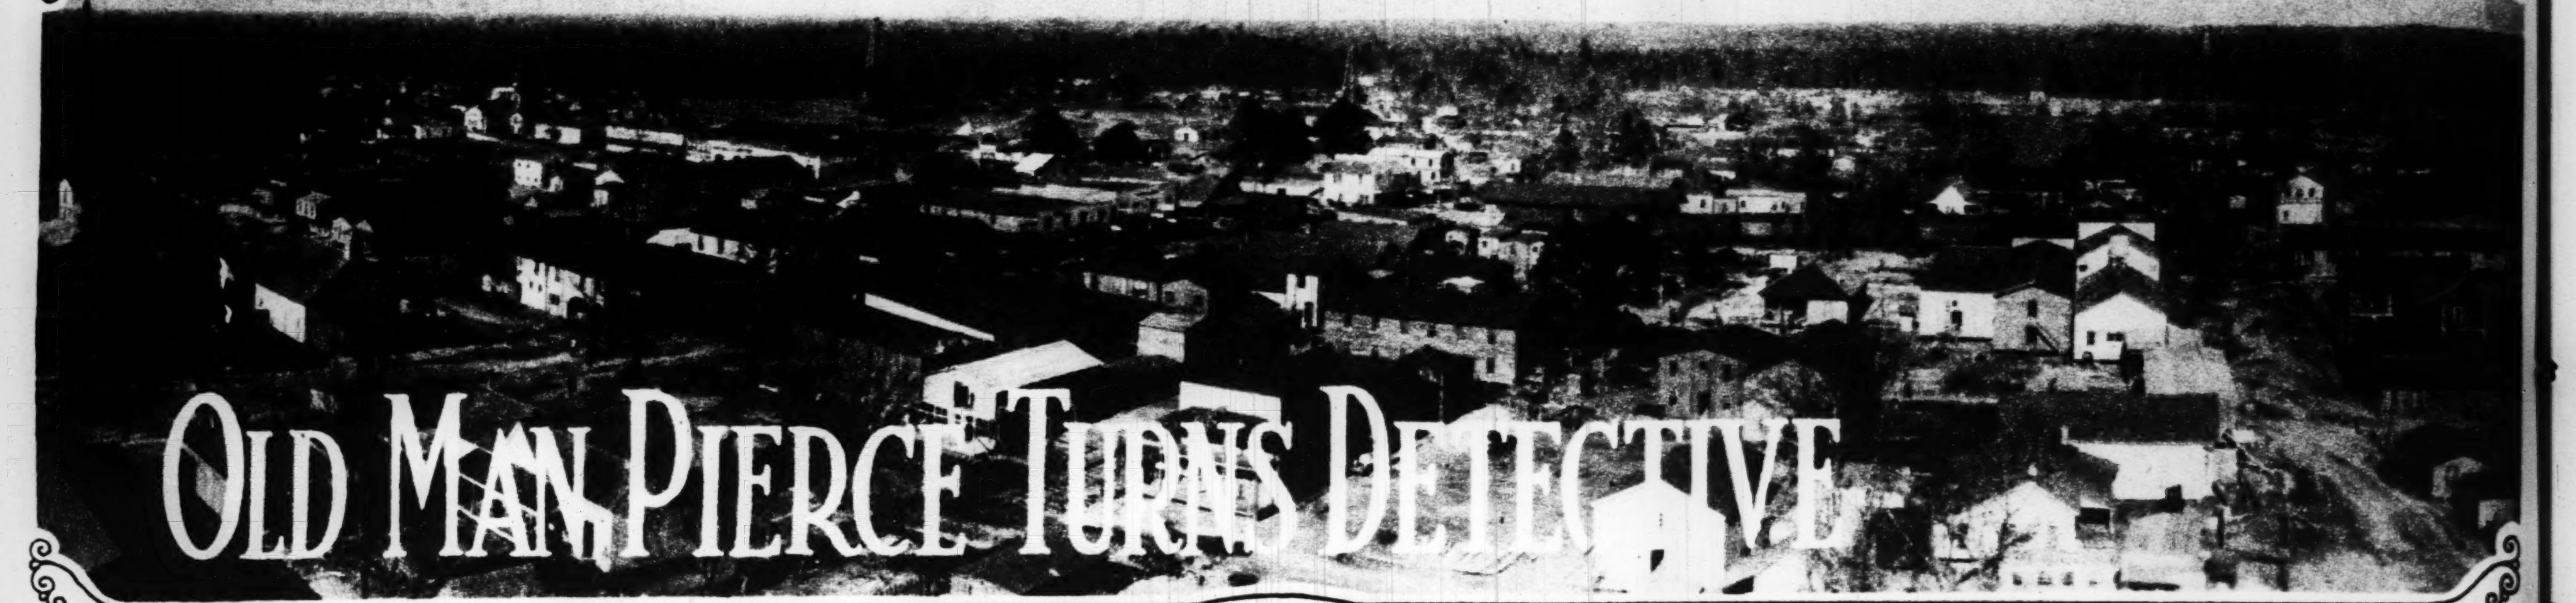
An Outline of 'Microbe Hunters'

PAUL DE KRUIF'S great book, "Microbe Hunters", published by Harcourt, Brace and Co., naturally divides itself into 12 chapters of which today's installment is the second. In this work is traced the steady, continuous growth of the scientific attack on disease through discovery and study of the minute organisms which cause it.

The preceding chapter dealt with Antony Leeuwenhoek, the Dutch lens grinder who looked into a world previously unseen and discovered Microbes. After him came Spallanzani, the brilliant Italian priest who carried on Leeuwenhoek's work of searching out the unseen and revealed to the world that life, even microbes, cannot arise spontaneously.

This installment is followed by chapters on Pasteur, the famous French experimenter who proved that some microbes are enemies of the human race; Koch, the German doctor; Roux and Behring, Metchnikoff, Theobald Smith, Bruce, Ross and Grassi, Walter Reed, and Paul Ehrlich, possibly the greatest scientist of them all.



OLD MAN PIERCE TURNS DETECTIVE

Mystery of Smackover Oil Field Is Clearing Up as Aged Driller Trails the Men Who Tried to Murder Him to Get His Young Wife and Killed Another Man by Mistake.

Strange Story of a Murder in Which the Victim's Body, Hidden in a Tank Car of Oil, Was Hauled to Memphis and Then Back in the Empty Car to the Point Where It Was First Concealed.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

Mrs. Bessie May Pierce, the young wife who identified the body as that of her elderly husband.

EL DORADO, Arkansas.

BRYAN PIERCE telephoned his sister at Parley, Texas, and Bryan Pierce was hurt. "W'y ain't you-all at the depot to meet me?" he demanded. "I'm here with papa's corpse." And his sister answered: "W'y, brother, you must be outen your haid. Your papa's in the automobile right out in front, a-fixin' to drive over to Winnsboro this minute."

So Bryan Pierce's journey to bury his murdered father had been fruitless. The body of the dead man, there on the station platform at Vernon, Texas, was not the body of Jim Pierce. While Bryan, after having identified the body found in the bottom of an oil tank car at Smackover, Arkansas, had been speeding to give it decent burial, his father had been comfortably smoking his pipe on the porch of his daughter's home at Parley.

Now, Jim Pierce's loafing was at an end. Farmer and oil worker, he turned detective. He used his wits to find the men who had sought to murder him.

And he, instead of Bryan, took the body of his unknown "double" back to Smackover to be buried in the potter's field. Until he reached Smackover Jim Pierce thought it was a good joke—"takin' his own remains for burial that way." But he looked at the coffin box as he delivered it to the undertaker. "James Pierce," the label read. "It came over me sudden, then," he said, "that that body was meant for me." And he vowed to find, if he could, the men who had sought his life.

Jim Cutright, who has been named by Mrs. Pierce as the slayer.

Smackover is in Union County, and at El Dorado, the county seat, Jim Pierce's 18-year-old wife, Bessie May Pierce, was in jail. She it was who first declared the body taken from the tank car was that of Jim Pierce. She had said so before they took the body out. She—like Pierce's son and two score others—had identified it later. And she had confessed—had told Police Chief Walls and Sheriff Perry Nelson that her lover, Jim Cutright, and three other men, whom she knew as "Blacky" and "Shorty" and "Slim," had killed the old man and stuffed his body in the tank.

Jim Pierce went to the jail at El Dorado to see his wife. She threw her arms around him. She cuddled on his chest. And believing that he would win her freedom she told him what she knew.

Jim Pierce isn't three times as old as his fickle wife—not quite. But he has grown children. A shrewd, uneducated man is he, who in a small way, at least, has been a success. He has three children and some Texas farm land. Recently he has been working in the oil fields. People were convinced that he had wealth although he says he's poor. That is one of the reasons his death was sought.

For Bessie May Pierce declared Jim Cutright asked her: "Did Old Man Pierce make a will?"

" 'Sure,' I told him," she continued. " 'And when he's daid what he's got comes to me.' But that was a lie. I jest didn't want to look like a fool," she explained.

That was just before the murder, according to the woman's story. Pierce had been away from Smackover some weeks. There were reports he had returned. The woman said Jim Cutright was worried lest Old Man Pierce would want revenge.

The man who injures another is the first to fear him. Jim Cutright had carried away Jim Pierce's bride upon Pierce's wedding night. She returned and was forgiven. Then Cutright took her again. After that he began to fear Jim Pierce, according to the girl.

EXCEPT for bronzed face and square-set shoulders, Jim Pierce doesn't look like a man of the oil fields. His is a frank, yet shrewd, a merry, gentle face. It is delicately modeled and the blue eyes seem laughing most of the time. He is thrifty, yet he would like the good things of life. Perhaps he ventured into the oil fields in search of adventure. A man can find romance there. Pierce probably likes to see himself as the hero of romance. He enjoys telling how he came back to life when the others thought they had killed him. "Yes," he told the writer with satisfaction, "I'm the dead man."

A widower, well up in years, Pierce lived in a shack in the boom town of Smackover and worked for the Cross Refinery—at nights. Smackover is a town of pine shacks in a forest of oil derricks. It's more tame now, but when Perry F. Nelson took office as Sheriff of Union County a year and a half ago, Smackover was a wild town. A gentle adventurer could get more thrills as he touched life there than he could at a Western movie. The camp-followers of the oil industry had invaded the boom town. The men and women who prey on the workers were there. There were "honkey-tonks," which are dance halls. There were "barrel houses," where thirsty ones could drink "moonshine" liquor and "Choctaw" beer. Sheriff Nelson and his deputies, Clyde Duck, George Lee and Walter and Elmer Nelson, have made "Choc" and "moonshine" hard to find, with the assistance of Chief of Police Walls at Smackover. But the camp followers remain. Across the county line in Ouachita County the last "barrel house" has only recently disappeared.

"Baching" that way, Jim Pierce had to have someone do his washing. He picked on Mrs. Sally Brown, who lived in a hut on the edge of Smackover and who had a daughter, Bessie May Bixler, not quite 18 but who had been twice married. Mrs. Brown looked after her daughter's baby and eked out existence by taking in washing with which, sometimes, the daughter helped. But sometimes Bessie May would disappear from home and support herself by selling liquor in a "barrel house."

Bessie May Pierce—the Bessie May Bixler that was—like her husband, Jim Pierce, liked to dramatize life. She wanted one to know that no matter if she did work in the barrel house she was "a good girl," like they have in the dance halls of the Western movies.

She was Bessie May Keith, as a girl, and she never had a chance. The girl can scarcely read or write. Her people were "poor whites," and lived on a farm in Texas. At the age of 13 she married Elmer House, who is the father of her son, Willoughby House, aged 3. It was an unhappy marriage. After divorcing House, Bessie May married William Bixler. That marriage ended in the divorce court. Her mother, now alone in the world after a second marriage, had established herself as washwoman at Smackover. To her the girl went. But the drudgery at home was a bore. And Bessie May, so she said, after divorcing her first husband, had taken to whisky to drown her sorrows.

"I was wild. I didn't care. I was bound to have my whisky," she explained. She would leave her mother and her baby for days at a time. She got work at Mother Stacey's at Kenova. But before she went there she had met Jim Cutright, who had Mrs. Brown do his washing. And also Old Man Pierce.

"I'd been goin' to dances with Cutright before I met Old Man Pierce," the girl said. "My maw was doin' Pierce's washin'. And sometimes she sold him aigs. I got to kiddin' with him and one day he asked me if I'd go with him. I'd been goin' with Cutright but Old Man Pierce didn't know that.

"So I told him I'd go with him some and he tuk me to church. That was the first place he tuk me to."

Pierce has said that he took the girl under his wing "to reform her." But she would not have it that way. She was "a good girl" and didn't need any reformation. But she would have her whisky.

Going to church was no new thing in the life of Bessie May. "I lived two years in a church once," she explained, "the Baptis' church."

IF THAT first wooing won the approval of Bessie May's mother, what followed did not. For Bessie May took to staying too long in Jim Pierce's cabin. It was "right and proper," the girl said, for Pierce was at work and she was alone. But Mrs. Brown was not so sure. She had the girl arrested. "I spent four days in jail," said Bessie May. And when she got out Jim Pierce married her.

"He was as good as a mother to me," she explained. "He gits me anything I want. But I never could git him to go to a dance."

On November 20, last year, they were married by a Justice of the Peace at El Dorado. That evening they returned to Smackover and Jim Pierce that night went back to his work at the refinery.

Bessie May told what followed thus: "I was standin' by the fence a-gassin' and Jim Cutright goes by, and pretty soon one of the girls I know comes over to me and she says Jim wants to see me down at the B and B eatin' house. So I goes down to see him." She paused, thoughtfully.

One side of the pine shack that houses the B and B is a narrow eating house. The other half of the narrow structure has a tiny dance hall, with unpainted pine board walls and splintered floor, with a wheezy electrical melodeon and camp chairs for the visitors who stumble in. At the screen door a piece of calico prevents the passerby from seeing revelry inside. From the rear of the dance hall a narrow corridor leads back, on either side of which are the rooms of the girls who "entertain."

" 'How cum you to stab me to the heart?' Jim says," the girl continued. "And I told him hit was truth about me bein' married, and he asked me wouldn't I drink good luck to me and Old Man Pierce, which I did, and I stayed there, talkin' and drinkin'. Whisky never done me that way before. I don't know ef hit was drugged. But anyway I went off to Mother Stacey's with Cutright and me and him lived there eight days.

"I was scared to death of Old Man Pierce. I was afraid to go home. He thinks too much of me. Then one day I met him on the street and jes' seein' him scared the fool out of me.

" 'How cum you do this way?' he says, and I wouldn't lie to him. I jes' told him. He said he wouldn't hurt me, and ef I'd be good I could come back to him. And I did. We stayed in Smackover a while, and then we went up to Hot Springs. My baby was porely so I come back to see him. Old Man Pierce said he would write, but he didn't, and so after a while I got to drinkin' again and then I went to Mother Stacey's to work." Mother Stacey's was a barrel house in a tent, just across the line in Ouachita County at Kenova.

Right across from Mother Stacey's was Ed Wineblood's barrel house. Jim Cutright worked there.

"Well," the girl continued, "there was Jim Cutright. He wanted me to go to a dance and I went. After that we started goin' together."

She is a strange girl, with a high, wide brow from which her brown, bobbed hair falls in a shock to her smouldering blue eyes. Her nose is tip-tilted and her jaw is heavy. Her features are boyish, stolid, sullen. Yet, in garments less bedraggled, and well groomed, she might be pretty.

"After a while," she added, "we heard Old Man Pierce was back. Jim Cutright was afraid of him and had a right to be as dirty as he'd done him. Time rocked on and we heard that Old Man Pierce was plannin' to kill Jim. Cutright made his livin' then haulin' stuff into Ed's place across the road from Mother Stacey's in a Ford car."

As a rendezvous Ed's place is unbelievable. A couple of growing trees. Some saplings cut for corner posts. Corrugated iron for roof, and sides nailed on just any way. That was Ed Wineblood's barrel house. Within there was no floor, except of mud. A plank served as a counter. There were signs on the wall: "Chili, 15 cents." "Ham and eggs, 45 cents." These gave the place an excuse for being.

James Pierce.

The girl took up her story again: "One day Jim Cutright says to me: 'Ain't Old Man Pierce made his will, leavin' his estatement to you?'

" 'Certainly,' I says, 'and furdermore I wouldn't have married him ef he didn't.'

" 'He's an old fool,' says Cutright. 'Ef he'd get killed you'd get his money.'

" 'Not the way everything is, Jim,' I told him. 'Ef he wasn't daid I might.' I was gettin' scared of what Cutright might do.

"SATURDAY evenin' come. I was fryin' fish and there was a kid there. We was poppin' off our mouths. I was jes' a tellin' the kid I was never goin' to marry agin. Jim Cutright comes over and he gets sore at that. 'Sweetheart,' he says, 'let's eat.' I told him I didn't want nothin'. Then he begun makin' heavy threats agin me. I told him to jest hesh.

"After supper I wanted to go over to Smackover to see my maw and my baby because he's puny. So Jim says, 'Come along,' and I got into his car, and they was them three fellers, 'Slim' and 'Blacky' and 'Shorty.'

"When we was drivin' Jim said, like he was jokin': 'Well, Old Man Pierce ain't goin' to pester you none after tonight, honey. We stopped at McWilliams' hardware store and Slim and Jim Cutright boughten a rope, and then we drove down along the railroad track.

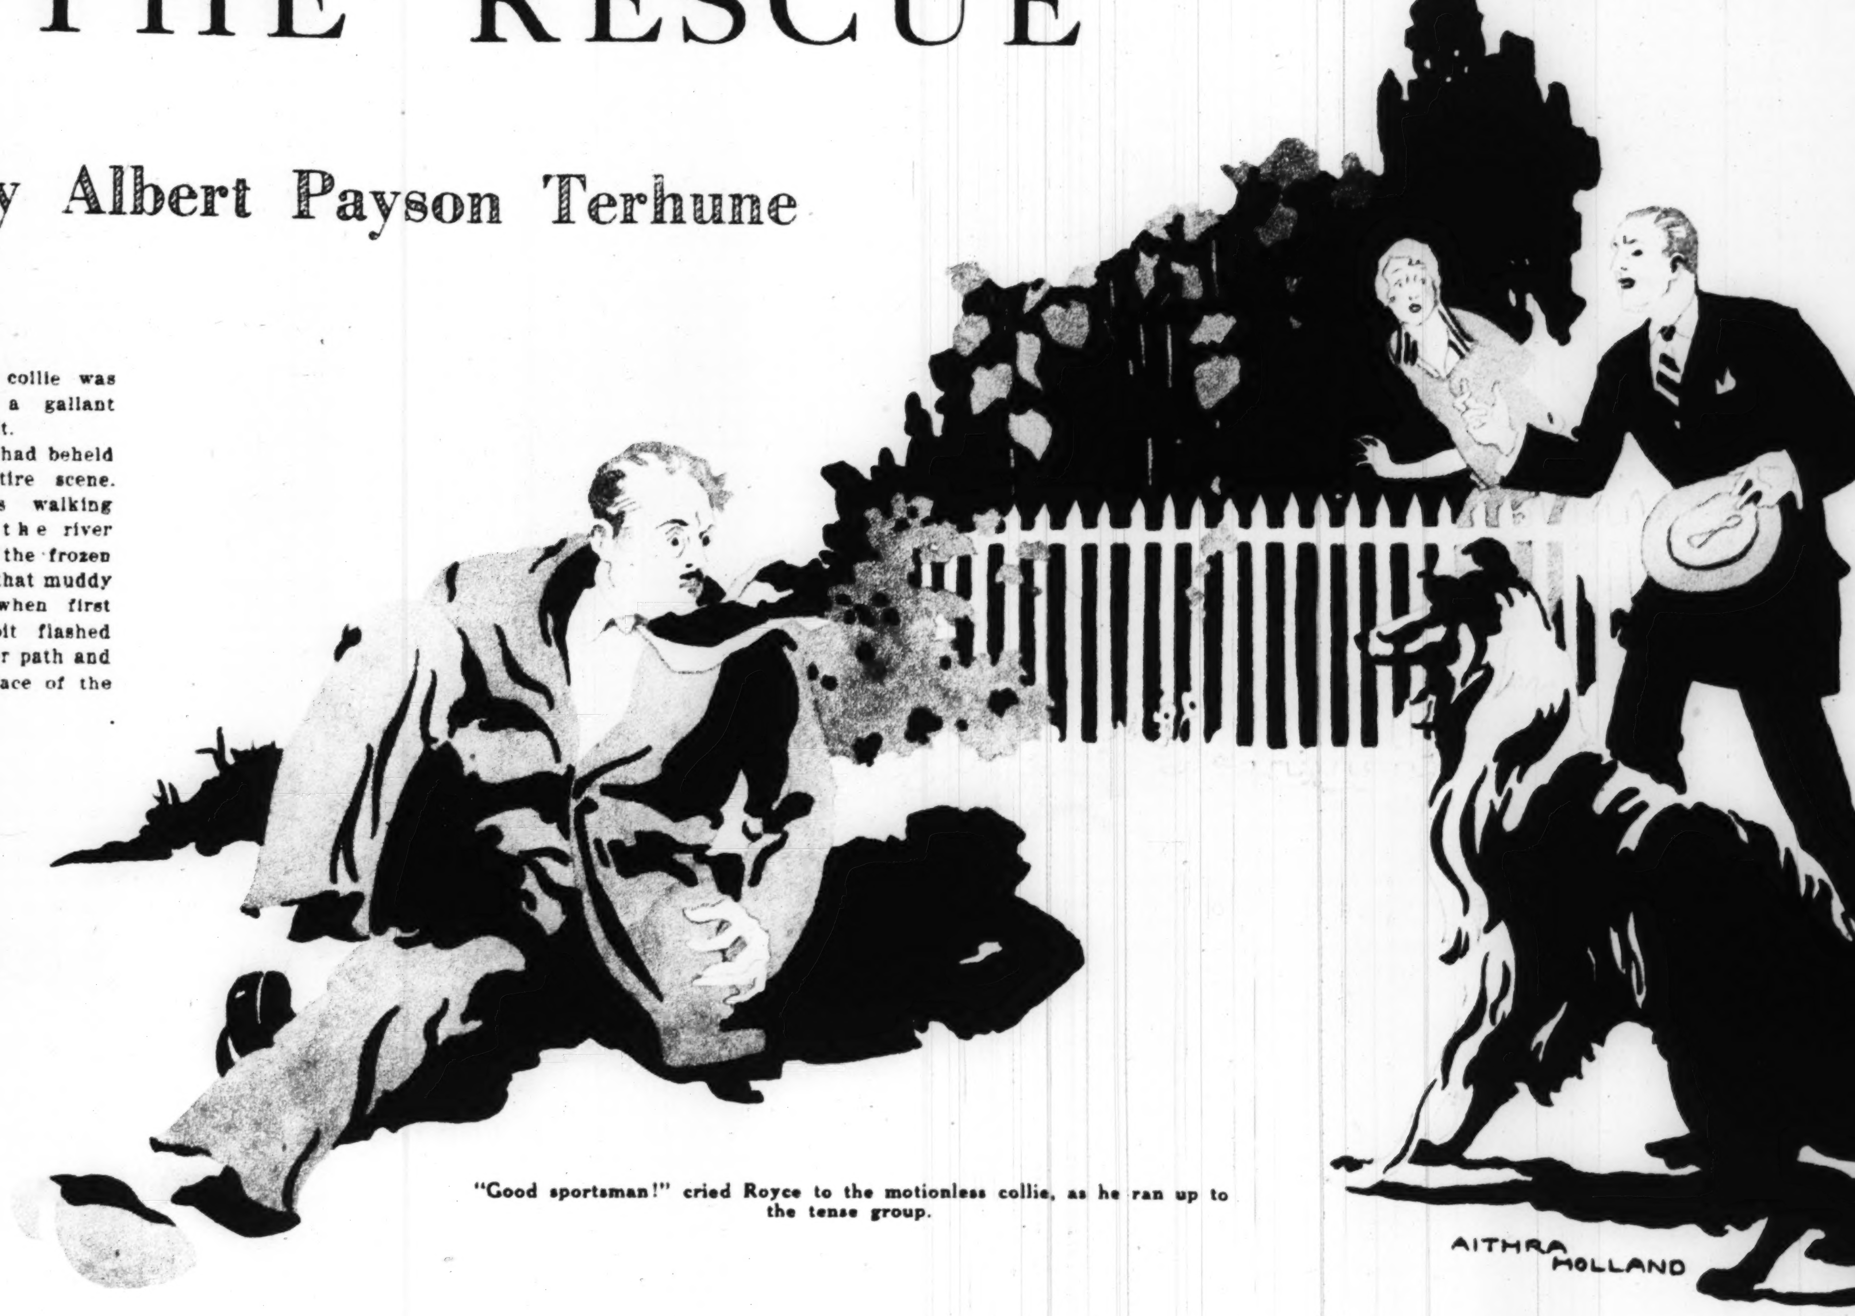
TO THE RESCUE

By Albert Payson Terhune

The World Was Looking Dreary to Ernesta, Who Had Lost Both Her Father and Her Money, When Stirring Events Transpired in Her Lonely Life. A Story of Heroism and Devotion Involving a Proud Girl, a Great-Hearted Collie and a Lover Who Turned About Face.



"Good sportsman!" cried Royce to the motionless collie, as he ran up to the tense group.

THE big collie was making a gallant fight of it.

Nesta had beheld the entire scene. She was walking along the river road, in the frozen slush of that muddy byway, when first the rabbit flashed across her path and scurried out on the frozen surface of the stream. Hard at bunny's heels galloped a half-grown hound puppy.

Out upon the treacherous early March ice the pup followed his fast-escaping prey. Then, 30 yards from shore, a patch of rotting channel ice swayed and cracked and disintegrated under the young hound's feet. In the gray expanse appeared a patch of black water. In the middle of it the pup was floundering helplessly.

Once and again the pup reached the broken edges of the water hole and strove to lift himself up to safety. But ever the decaying channel ice kept crumbling under his wildly clawing fore feet and he slumped back, his whole head submerged.

Then something brushed harshly past her toe. She looked to see what it was. A collie had come upon the scene from nowhere in particular and was dashing across the firmer shore ice toward the exhausted puppy.

As he neared the ragged gap, the ice began to bend and crack under him. He came to a sliding halt at the edge of the hole and braced his white feet, leaning far forward to catch the frantic puppy by the scruff of the neck and to draw him out of the water.

Before his jaws could close on the wriggling victim the ice had given way under him. The gap was larger than before. In it now two dogs instead of one were struggling.

The collie secured his hold on the pup's neck. With an effort that carried his own head and shoulders far out of water he swam to the edge of the hole and fairly thrust the hound upward over the edge.

Perhaps here the ice was less weak than at the point where both had fallen in. At any rate, it did not break under the puppy's fore feet. With a last effort of strength the little fellow clawed his way to the surface of the ice and dashed off at top speed for shore.

The impact of the youngster's jump drove the collie's head far under. He came up beneath the ice. Whether by instinct or by luck or by brain, he swam upstream a yard or so. Once more his head appeared in the gap, dripping and gasping. To the edge of the hole he swam, to the place where the puppy had scampered to safety. But his own weight was far greater than the hound's. The ice broke under him as he heaved himself up. Down he went, far below the surface; only to rise and strike out for another point.

Thrice he had lifted half his tawny body over the edge and was drawing up his hindquarters when the ice collapsed with him. The fourth time he came up, more feebly, yet undaunted, his white paws cut and bleeding; and he swam from end to end of the gap, as though seeking some firmer spot for his next effort.

IT WAS then that Nesta Boyce, through no volition of her own, found she had left the road and was hurrying out onto the frozen river toward the hopelessly battling collie. Common sense bade her turn back. But the strange glint of hope in the dog's eyes as he saw her come to his help outweighed sanity.

Yet she kept enough presence of mind to stoop and upend a long plank which some boys had left lying on the ice when they had been seeking bonfire material.

Nearing the gap, she placed the plank in front of her on the ice, and crawled face downward along it. The rotting ice crackled and heaved; but, thanks to the distribution of leverage, it held. Presently she was able to reach forward to the dog.

The collie had swum close to her side of the gap, and as she reached he made one supreme effort to lift himself over the edge. The ice crumbled again under him. But this time Nesta had firm hold of his ruff. The ice groaned and chuckled and bent as she pulled him toward her.

Right valiantly did the dog second her efforts. Scrambling, heaving, writhing, he drove forward and upward as she tugged him to her.

And now both of them lay on the flat plank—panting and worn out.

THEN, inching her way, Nesta began to retreat toward shore, still on the plank. Even after she had come to the landward end of it, she continued to lie face downward, arms out, and to work her way toward the bank in that fashion, until she felt beneath her the thicker and rougher ice on which she had made the first part of her short rescue journey.

Then only did she venture to stand up and to make the rest of the few yards on foot. She was sick and shaken and dizzy. But, most of all, she was astounded at herself and at this insane thing she had done. She could not understand it.

Throughout the shoreward trip the collie had accommodated his pace to her snail-like motions, remaining close at her side.

The water was freezing on his shaggy coat; he was bleeding from ice cuts on paws and chest. He was panting and tired from the terrific exertion. But his care seemed to be wholly for the woman who had saved him from death. Through her own daze of self-astonishment, Nesta observed this. She caught the look of utter worship and gratitude in his deep-set, dark eyes. It gave her an odd feeling of happiness. And again she fell into a wonder at herself.

The puppy had scuttled away as soon as he had gotten out of the water. But the collie did not stir from the girl's side. Up into her face he was looking with adoration. A wry smile twisted Nesta's lips.

"You're wasting your time," she told him, unconsciously speaking as if to another human. "I got you out of the water. That's all I can do for you. There's no use in your hanging around me any longer."

AS she spoke, she resumed her fast homeward walk. The collie's plumed tail had wagged appreciatively at her tart words, whose purport meant nothing to him. Now he fell into step at her side, once more accommodating his pace to hers, thrusting his cold muzzle lovingly into her cupped palm. The touch startled Nesta, so tender was its caress and so full of trusting affection. She stopped short, eyeing the dog bemusedly. Then she said, more sharply:

"Go home. I don't want you. I told you there's nothing more to be gotten out of me. A man wouldn't have needed to be told that twice. A man didn't need to. You're only a dog, so you're stupider than he was. Go home!"

Steadfastly the collie gazed up into her face as she harangued him. His look gave her a queer feeling that he was not deceived by the crossness of her words, but that he read past them into the lonely soreness of her heart. The fantastic notion would not be laughed away. Moreover, as she moved on he trotted again at her side.

"I don't like dogs," she told him grumpily. "I don't want you with me. Go home."

As before, she felt he was disregarding her command because he read past it and because of the unhappiness in her heart. She shrugged her shoulders and walked faster. Presently she stopped before the gate of a shabby bungalow, deep in a shabby lawn.

"I live here," she said, turning on the collie. "Now that you have seen the house, perhaps you'll be wise enough to do as the man I told you about. He called here only once, after we had to move down to this place from the terrace. Once was enough."

She hurried up the frozen walk. On the veranda steps she paused.

"I'm a fool!" she announced to the dog. "If I wasn't, I'd drive you away with a stick. And if you weren't a fool, you wouldn't wait to be driven away. Come in, if you want to."

She unlocked the front door and passed into the living room. An elderly woman glanced up at her from a chair beside the fire. At sight of the collie, the woman stared in blank astonishment.

"Ernesta Breen!" she exclaimed. "You haven't—you surely haven't been wasting any of your tiny income on—on a dog?"

"No, Aunt May," answered Nesta, "I only wasted a chance of drowning. Nothing as precious as money. I pulled him out of the river. He fell in, trying to save another dog from being drowned. I don't know why I bothered to fish him out. But I did. And he seems to think that he belongs to me. I didn't ask him in. He came."

"But you're never going to keep him? Why, a great, big brute like that eats as much as"——

"As the people who forget to come and see us since we went broke? Perhaps he does. But he's ever so much more welcome to it. I never thought about keeping him till you spoke of it. But I am going to. If he'll stay"——

FOR the first time in a long year, Nesta Breen found something to be keenly and nonmorbidly interested in. Despite herself, she realized she had a genuine affection for the great dog she had saved. In her gross ignorance of canine nature, the collie's quickness of brain astounded her.

She had no way of guessing his name. After trying in vain to make him show recognition of such hackneyed appellations as Towser and Tige and Rover and the like, she named him anew. She chose "March," from the month wherein she met him. Then, studiously, she set to work to teach him the new name. To her amaze, in less than a day he had learned the name.

In like manner he picked up with bewildering speed and much enjoyment every simple thing she tried to teach him. Already, she found, he had been trained as a house dog; and to lie down and to shake hands and to perform other ordinary feats. He was wise and gentle and unobtrusive; eagerly playful when she was in the mood to romp with him, yet ready to be quiet for hours at her feet while she read or wrote.

A dog man would have classified March merely as a well-trained collie of high type, with all a true collie's brain and pluck and gentleness and humor. But to Nesta he seemed the embodiment of everything marvelous. Her first careless fondness for him grew to a devotion. He was her inseparable comrade, indoors and out; her guard and chum. The lonely girl's heart expanded under his companionship. Her hard-acquired youthful bitterness softened strangely under his splendid normalcy. She ceased for days at a time to brood morbidly over her loss of money and position.

One morning in early summer Nesta and March were swinging along the river road, the dog trotting some yards ahead. A cloud of dust heralded a motor car chugging laboriously toward them down the stretch of unsurfaced byway. As always, the sight of the distant car made March drop back to his mistress' side.

Nesta drew to one side of the road to avoid the oncoming motor's dust. The car lurched onward over rut and bulge. It was passing the girl and the collie when its passenger, a stout man on the rear seat, called to the chauffeur to stop.

By the time the machine was at a standstill he had jumped out onto the road and was hurrying back toward Nesta.

A glance told her that the stout intruder was nobody she knew. So, with only the mildest curiosity, she awaited him. But as the man came closer March growled softly, far down in his throat, and took a warning step forward. The man stopped with ludicrous suddenness. Apparently he was enough of a dog expert to read the quiet menace aright. He stood there in silence for an instant, studying every line and aspect of the collie. Then, lifting his hat in a gesture which held only the most rudimentary civility, he demanded of Nesta:

"What dog is that?"

"It is my dog," she made answer, voice and eye level in spite of a sinking in her heart.

FOR months she had had an undefined fear lest March's owner might some day appear and claim him. It seemed impossible that the possessor of such a marvelous chum would not scour the whole world in search of him.

"He is mine," she repeated, turning away as if to continue her walk.

"One minute, please," he said, stepping after her and then halting with great suddenness as March spun about and faced him with a louder growl and a show of eyeteeth. "Late last winter I was driving along this road, on my way home from New Haven. We had a blowout. Vile road then, as it is now. I left a valuable collie dog in the tonneau while I got out to help my chauffeur. The dog slipped his collar and jumped out after me. I didn't see him do it; but I found the collar and leash when I got aboard. I suppose he wandered off and you found him. Yes, that's the dog."

For a moment Nesta was tempted to run, calling March after her. But she stood her ground.

"You are mistaken," she said, carelessly. "This is my dog. I'm sorry you lost yours, but"——

"He wasn't mine," corrected the stout man. "If he had been, he wouldn't have run away from me. I wouldn't have had to tie him in the car. That kind of collie sticks by his master. He"——

"If you don't even claim he is yours," began Nesta in polite contempt, as she made as though to turn away once more, "I"——

"He belongs to a cousin of mine," said the man. "My cousin bought him from an English kennel, and had him sent to a handler, to take on a circuit of the American shows. He'd won his championship in England before he came to this country. Won it at 18 months. He completed his American championship at the New Haven show this year. He is International Champion Harrowgate Peerless. His kennel name is Squire. My cousin paid $3500 for him in England. His American championship makes him worth an easy $5000. This dog here is one of the greatest collies on either side of the Atlantic. He"——

"THIS dog of mine?" queried Nesta, innocently. "I'm glad you like him. But I thought you were talking about an English collie that"——

"Same dog!" snapped the man annoyedly. "I can take oath to that. I saw him at the Madison Square Garden show—Westminster, you know—in February, and again at New Haven. I made a close study of him both times. My cousin had to go to Europe the morning of the New Haven show. So he asked me to take charge of his dog and bring him home. My cousin lives at Paignton, about a mile from me. About five miles from here. I got the dog from the handler and tied him in my car. I've told you how I lost him. Pretty position I was in when my cousin got back to America and found I'd let his $3500 dog get away! I've advertised all over. And now here I blunder on him by sheer good luck. I"——

"You seem determined to think—or to pretend to think—that this is your dog," interposed Nesta, a trifle wearily. "I have told you he is mine. Come, March!"

"Squire!" called the man.

At sound of the name, March quivered and turned about.

"March!" said Nesta, softly.

Instantly the collie wheeled and ran to her, thrusting his nose into her hand and wagging his great plume of a tail.

"You see," commented Nesta, as she moved off.

"I see," retorted the man hotly. "I see he recognized his kennel name when I spoke it. He"——

"You saw he answered to the name of March," corrected the girl, with amused tolerance. "If he showed interest when you called him it was because you stepped forward as you spoke. I really wouldn't advise your coming any nearer, Mr.— Mr."——

"My name is Vanden," supplemented the man, as she hesitated. "I'm acting in this for my cousin, Mr. Derek Royce. This is his dog. And," stubbornly, "I saw he recognized his name of Squire. Not that I need any more proof. I suggest you give him to me now and save trouble."

NESTA did not reply. The last part of Vanden's speech had gone unheard. Her attention had stopped short and jarringly at Derek Royce's name. She stared stupidly at the stout man. He repeated, more truculently:

"I suggest you save yourself trouble by giving him to me at once."

"Certainly!" retorted Nesta, a gust of rage sweeping her. "Certainly. If you want him, take him. March!"

At the anger and appeal in her voice, the big collie stiffened. Facing Vanden, he crouched slightly, his lips upturned from his white tusks, his eyes ablaze, his mighty body tensed as for a spring. Nesta laughed in nervous excitement.

"If he's yours or your precious cousin's," she taunted shrilly, "take him! If I give the word, he'll take you! If you want him, take him. This is the last time I shall give you the chance to. And if you follow me or try to get him, I'll say only one more word to him. That word will be enough. Now, do you want him or don't you?"

Vanden looked at the collie. March had begun to move stealthily toward him in a sinuous motion that carried a world of menace.

"Call him back!" said the man, thickly.

"Good!" assented Nesta. "Come, March."

She walked away, March bounding along beside her. Vanden turned upon his chauffeur.

"Drive me to the postoffice," he commanded, "and then to one or two of the shops. It ought to be easy to find who she is and where she lives. There can't be two women in this suburb with such a dog. Anyone ought to be able to tell me who"—

"I can tell you, sir," said the chauffeur, "and save you all that trouble. She's Miss Ernesta Breen. Lives down on the Wyckoff turnpike, about two miles south. Used to live up on Park Terrace till her father died. Folks thought her dad was worth all the cash in the Treasury. But he died just about flat broke. She and her aunt went down to a bungalow of his to live. They"—

"How in blazes d'you know all that?" asked Vanden in surprise.

"I knew it when I drove for Mr. Royce," answered the chauffeur, "before I came to work for you, last autumn. He used to be at her house a lot of times when she lived up on the terrace. I only drove him there once after she moved down to the Wyckoff pike. He"——

"H'm," mused Vanden, his face clearing. "That ought to make it easier. Let him go there himself and get his dog. It's past me. I'll tell him about it when I go home."

NESTA was hurrying on with March. For the first time she realized how dear the collie had become to her and how much of her lonely and loveless and embittered life he had come to fill. She had no doubt at all that Vanden had spoken the truth about him. She knew, also, that Derek Royce would have no trouble at all in proving possession.

"March," she said, presently, "March, they're going to try to take you away from me. They shan't have you! They shan't have you! Do you hear, March? You belong to me. I gambled with death for you; and you're the only friend who never went back on me. Nobody's going to get you away from me, March. We'll fight this out together."

Her words meant nothing to the collie, save the frequent repetition of his own name. But her voice told him she was wretchedly unhappy. Whining under his breath, he licked her hand and laid his head against it, peering up worriedly into her sorrowing face.

"They're not going to take you from me, March," she repeated, this time with a new hope. "I don't know how I'm going to prevent it. But I am. It would be bad enough if you were going to a stranger. But you'll be going to the most despicable man who ever lived, March. He made me think he cared for me once. And he made me think I cared for him. We weren't engaged, March. But I was sure we were going to be. Then dad died, and all the world fell down around my head. And when I crawled out of the wreckage, March, I was in the bungalow, with just enough to keep alive on.

"He came to see me there. Just once. That was all. He never came again. I don't even know why he came that once, March, unless it was to quarrel horribly with me and make that an excuse for never coming near me any more. But he let me see he had no use for me, now that I hadn't any money or any position or any friends. He was just like all the rest of the people I had known. Only they hadn't pretended to care for me, and he had. No, March, you're not going to him! I'd sooner shoot you. We'll fight this out, we two."

THE fight began sooner than Nesta feared. As she and March were walking through the rose garden alongside the bungalow, after lunch, a car stopped at the gate. Nesta looked up, nervous and apprehensive. Derek Royce was coming across the patch of lawn toward her. Already he had cut off her retreat to the house.

Her hand on March's ruff, she faced him.

"How are you?" Royce greeted her, seeming not to see that she ignored his half-extended hand; then, speaking to the dog with a cheery, "Hello, Squire, old boy!"

This time March did not stiffen nor curl his upper lip as when Vanden had approached him. Instead, he viewed Derek with friendly courtesy, waving his tail in salutation. True, he did not seem overjoyed or excited at encountering his long-lost master. Yet he was politely glad at the meeting.

Mrs. Dumbly

Helping Artie.
He Tried to Fish.
She Entertained Him.
It Was Their Last Trip.

ARTIE, my husband, can't thread a needle but he can stick a fish hook through the arterial highway of an angle worm without making a single detour. I can't understand it!

Artie, my husband, can't find his socks or neckties in a bureau drawer no matter how often I rearrange them but he can locate a fish hook in a whole box of junk without any difficulty whatsoever. I simply can't understand it!

Artie, my husband, can't stand on a stepladder cleaning wallpaper for fifteen minutes without getting dizzy but he can balance himself on two slippery rocks in the middle of a swirling stream for hours at a time.

I can't understand it, but I know it's true, for didn't I stand there pigeon-toed beside him while he paid almost no attention to me but to offer me an angle worm while the green slime oozed up around my satin shoes and the dampness took the creases out of my accordion plaited sport skirt?

I'd worn it with my light pink sweater embroidered in black and my pink stockings with the roses embroidered on the heels. I thought the roses were particularly suited to the outdoors—though I was sorry I'd worn them for I caught one on a rose bush, which shouldn't have been in a place of that sort anyway, and made a big runner in it.

I spoke to Artie about it but he made no reply, being busy doing something or other to his line. I went right on talking, however, for I am nothing if not considerate and I did want to keep him entertained while he waited for the fish to bite.

"AREN'T the rocks and trees and hills put together in a cute pattern?" I asked him. "They form a nice background for my pink outfit, don't they? Don't you think so, Artie? Listen, Artie, don't you?"

I was going to say more about it but just then a fish jumped up right in the middle of my conversation. I didn't mind the interruption though, for a strange glow came into Artie's eyes as he turned toward me, and his face took on an expression of enthusiasm which I hadn't seen it wear for a year.

"Beautiful!" he said softly, under his breath. "Beautiful, beautiful!"

"Do you think so, Artie?" I answered, deeply touched, for I don't know when he has paid me such a compliment.

He turned from me so moved that his hand trembled and bending over the little tin box of junk began to rummage through it. I heard him whisper huskily the word "lure!"

"I wouldn't use just that term," I replied, though of course I felt flattered. "I don't think my outfit is vampish, do you?"

But before he could answer the fish jumped again.

Artie glanced at me for a moment, his face beaming with eagerness, then as though he were too wrought up for words grabbed a little tin fish, attached it to the end of his line and, flinging the thing around with a lot of unnecessary motion, gasped: "Watch me get him, oh boy, watch me get him!"

"What are you talking about, Artie?" I asked. "What are you talking about? I feel as if that fish was getting all your attention. Don't you hear me asking you what you think of my dress? Don't you hear me, Artie? Don't you? Do you think my dress is vampish? Do you, Artie?"

And then that annoying fish jumped again.

"ARTIE," I said, "that thing bothers me. It almost splashed water on my accordion plaiting. I wish you'd do something to scare it away. I had such a time with this plaiting, anyway."

And then I told him all about the different places I'd gone to have the plaiting done and all about my sewing woman and the different women I'd had sew for me and the woman who used to sew for my mother and my aunt's sewing woman, speaking rather loud so's he'd be sure to hear me above the noise of the water, until suddenly I realized that he wasn't paying any attention to me.

"What do you mean, Artie?" I asked indignantly. "Why do you keep watching the water? Do you prefer seeing a fish to seeing me? I never thought a fish would come between us. Listen, Artie, do you hear me? Do you? Artie, Artie, Artie, do you?"

I couldn't understand him, but I just kept right on talking while I tried to coax a worm on to my hook.

"Look," Artie whispered, suddenly, in a strange, tense voice. "Careful, he's gonna bite!"

Of course, I dropped him and screamed.

"Now see what you've done," Artie said, irritably—just as if I was to blame for something. "You've scared him away. Now he'll never come back and I'll bet he weighed three pounds."

I couldn't understand what he meant, nor could I see why he should have such a hopeless, baffled look on his face as he picked up the worm and backed him onto the hook, but I kept right on telling him about what a time I'd had getting stockings to match my dress and about the different kinds of silk stockings and the beautiful stockings my aunt, who has lots of money, wears until he interrupted me rudely.

"Want to cast?" he said ungraciously. "He's gone now, so you might as well learn. Now do just what I do."

And, grabbing his rod, he whirled it around that silly way again.

I did the same thing, but I must be a very poor casting director, for instead of playing the part of fish food my worm chose to act as a derrick;. that is, my hook did. It caught itself under a rock and tried to pull it up. Artie bent over to cut it loose and everything would have been all right if the fish hadn't chosen that inopportune moment to grab the little tin fish on the end of Artie's line right in his mouth and start off with it.

"Look out, Artie!" I shrieked. "Look out. He's going away with your toy fish."

At that Artie suddenly straightened up, just as my hook loosened itself and came up with a whole island on the end of it. I tried to throw it away, but it acted just like bread cast on the water, it returned—hitting Artie in the face, then twisting around his line and breaking it off.

I don't know what became of the fish. I suppose he still has Artie's little tin toy in his mouth, but at any rate he didn't bother us again all afternoon, and neither did any other fish. So I had a perfectly lovely time talking about my clothes and dressmakers and my shoes—in fact, all of my affairs.

But Artie hasn't asked me to go fishing since: I can't understand it!

Ring Lardner

Elderly Wolf Chaperon Paints the Man Lardner in His True Colors.

By SARAH E. SPOOLDRIPPER

(Miss Spooldripper lived with the Lardners for years and took care of their wolf. She knew all there was to know about Lardner, and her mind was virtually blank. It was part of her charm.)

IT is hoped that a careful reading of the stories collected in his book, "The Love Nest," will dispel the general illusion that in his later years Ring Lardner was just a tiresome old man induced by financial calamity and a fondness for narcotics to harp constantly on the futility of life on a branch line of the Long Island Railroad. In these tales we see the old fellow as perhaps not lovable, but certainly irresistible. There was an impishness in him that fascinated. It was part of his charm.

I know it for truth that from fifty on he indulged to an alarming extent in the lesser opiates, eating aspirin as if it were so much mud and seldom laying aside the all-day sucker which he plopped into his mouth the instant he had finished his breakfast. Lardner always bolted his food. He was afraid the rats would get it. It was part of his charm.

Appearance of "The Love Nest," the short story from which the book takes its name, in a monthly magazine, created a furore on the east bank of the Hudson, commuters of that neighborhood nearly coming to blows in arguments over the identity, in real life, of the tale's principal characters. Two old cronies who had played halma together night after night for nearly a week suddenly began making faces at one another, hiding each other's gloves, pinching each other's forearms, and altogether making a fiasco of the entire relationship. The author heard rumors of this feud and others and knew their cause, but kept his own counsel till the last day of his earthly career, when he confided to me that the Lou Gregg of the story was President Fillmore and the Mrs. Gregg, Mary Lewis.

IT WAS in the middle of this work that the rivalry between Lardner, Scott Fitzgerald and Opie Reade for the love of Lily Langtry reached its height. During a dinner party at which the then raging beauty and her raging suitors were all present, the toastmaster, Gerald Chapman, asked Miss Langtry to rise and drink to "her favorite." The muscles of Fitzgerald and Reade were taut; Lardner's were very flabby.

After a pause that seemed to endure all night but really lasted only half that long, Miss Langtry got up, raised her glass and said: "I drink to Red Grange. Heston may have been his superior on defense, and Coy, Thorpe, Eckersall and Mahan more versatile, but as a common carrier I take off my hat to the Wheaton icemonger."

Miss Langtry was deeply interested in college athletics and it was she who christened a certain New Jersey town Rahway because it was en route to Rutgers, Princeton and the University of Pennsylvania.

Her response to the toastmaster's request affected her three swains variously. Reade arose and told the story of the two halfbreeds, Seminole and Deminole. Lardner and Fitzgerald took up rotation pool and weighed themselves once a week. Every so often they became maudlin, or, better still, inaudible.

An insight into Lardner's true character may be obtained from the correspondence which passed between him and Mrs. Patrick Campbell while he was writing the story "Haircut" at Atlantic City.

"DEAR RINGLETS," wrote Mrs. Campbell (it was a name she had for him), "don't forget 'Miss England' while playing around with 'Miss America.'"

"Dear Pat," was Lardner's reply, "am having a 'swill' time, but I do 'Miss England' and indeed I would walk a mile for a Campbell."

On the back of the card was a picture of Young's Million Dollar Pier.

(This correspondence and other mash notes written by Lardner and his admirers were obtained from the street cleaners of East Shore Road, Great Neck, where the author threw all his mail, and are printed with the permission of Judge Landis.)

"Haircut" was written under a severe strain, the writer having just engaged in a violent quarrel with John N. Wheeler, then editor of Liberty.

"Why didn't you lead me a spade?" demanded Wheeler.

"I was out of them," was the infuriated reply, and in a moment the two were rolling on the floor, with Wheeler's dice.

The character of the doctor in "Haircut" was a composite "photograph" of Mrs. Campbell and the Shuberts. It was Lardner's favorite among all his fictional characters, or, as he called them, "my puppets."

"Which is your favorite among all your 'puppets'?" I once asked him as we jointly gave the wolf a sitzbath.

"The doctor," he said.

The wolf was really the chief interest in Lardner's life. I have never elsewhere seen such a whole-souled comradeship as existed between the Master and this sinister pet. He was always hoping it would have a baby which he would have christened the Wo

TO THE RESCUE

Nesta saw his amicable greeting of the loathed Derek, and her heart sank within her. Her miserable gaze strayed to the car at the gate. In the tonneau lounged Vanden, his thick fingers idly toying with a dog collar and leash. The action, and all it implied, set the girl's temper ablaze.

"My cousin told me he met you and Squire on the river road this morning," Royce was saying. "So I ran over to see if the dog was really the one I lost."

"He isn't," Nesta made answer, her voice curiously muffled. "He is my dog. And you aren't going to take him away from me."

FOR an instant Royce did not reply. He was looking from the girl to the collie. March had discovered a hop-toad in the grass and with pricked ears and head on one side he was following gravely the toad's frightened hops. Then Derek said:

"When I went away from here the last time, I told myself I should never come near you again. I didn't care to go through another such evening or hear things said to me that you said then. I've spent a solid year trying to forget them and to forget you. Then, today, when I found a legitimate excuse to bring me back, I came to you as fast as I could. I'm afraid I am rather a poor apology for a grown man."

"I am afraid that is the kindest thing you can say of yourself," she returned, adding: "And now, will you please go?"

"No," refused Derek, "not quite yet, if you don't mind. I have been doing a good deal of wondering this past year—especially at night. Then, yesterday, in my woods, I found a sparrow that had got caught by one wing in a mesh of tendrils. He was half dead with pain and fright. I set him loose. But as soon as I touched him he pecked furiously at my hand. I understood why. He was so terrified and harrowed that he thought the whole universe was his enemy. He"——

"I am not interested in ornithology," she intervened, "or in poetic speculations as to the heart-throbs of sparrows. Will you please"——

"That made me wonder if I hadn't found the key to something else," pursued Royce. "I remembered how bitter you were when a crowd of worthless parasites dropped you after your—your misfortune—and how you got to looking morbidly for slights, even when there were no slights to find. You were sick with grief over your father's death, and you were incredulously angry over the way some few toadies had treated you afterward, and you got to thinking the whole universe was like those toadies. So"——

"May I ask you once more to"——

"No, not yet. I called here when things were at their worst and when you were most on the lookout for slights. You blazed out about some mighty good friends of mine who weren't in that category at all. I defended them, I remember. It made you still angrier. You turned on me and hinted that perhaps I might care to drop away, too, since I could stand up so eagerly for other people who did. That started our silly, red-hot quarrel. I suppose I said a lot of rotten things; and I know you said things that made me vow I'd never see you again. The sparrow pecked at my hand when I was saving it from that vine tendril. I wasn't angry at the sparrow, because I understood what it must be suffering. Then I got to wondering how I had been such a fool as not to understand why you"——

From the gateway was issuing a most prodigious racket.

MARCH had followed the hopping toad across the grass to the gate, where the toad ended the chase by slipping into a hole under a post. Vanden, from the tonneau, had viewed the slow approach of the collie.

Into the stout man's brain seeped a really brilliant idea. How simple to end the whole dispute by lifting the collie into the tonneau and bidding the chauffeur drive off! Royce could get a taxi from the village station to take him home. On his arrival he would find his dog in his kennels. Possession was nine points of the law.

While March was engrossed with his toad-trailing Vanden got to the ground, collar and leash in hand. With great swiftness he swooped down on March from behind, seizing him with one hand by the nape of the neck and lifting him bodily over the fence.

THE FIRST PAGE OF THIS MAGAZINE

PORTRAIT of a Chinese Lady, reproduced on front page of this week's Magazine, is the work of Alfred Reginald Thomson, the English artist. It was shown at the Carnegie Institute exhibition at the Art Museum.

The artist's handling of the lady's red gown is excellent, and is in the academic manner. Power of draftsmanship is evinced by the suggestion of form beneath the drapery. Deftly as are the subtle color variations in the folds of the gown portrayed, these are rivaled by the confidence which the painter has shown in presenting the highly contrasting lights and darks in the drapery's folds.

Despite this adherence to the manners of the masters, the modernist touch is betrayed in the painting of the hands, the severe treatment of the hair and the almost draftsman-like outline of the arms and shoulders.

Skillful was his grip; and it rendered the growling dog impotent to bite or to escape. It was this growling that attracted the notice of Royce and Nesta. By common consent they started for the gate at a run. Vanden heaved the dog aloft to thrust him into the tonneau. The man's toe stubbed against the corner of the gate-post, throwing him off, balance. He thrust out both arms instinctively to right himself. The collie tore free from the loosening fingers.

SCARCE had March touched the ground when he was at the man who had sought to kidnap him. He hurled himself roaringly at Vanden. The latter, his balance still uncertain, slipped and fell with a crash in the roadside ditch.

Like a furry avalanche, March was after him. Half stunned by the impact of his head against a stone, Vanden lay helpless, his throat exposed to the ravening jaws.

Then, almost in midair, the dog checked his charge. His foe was down and no longer could defend himself. March ceased his attack on an enemy who had been rendered impotent and prostrate. He stood gazing down at the dizzy Vanden and making no move to renew the charge.

"Good sportsman, Squire!" applauded Royce, vaulting the fence. "Good, clean sportsman! You're too clean to punish him when he's down and out. Get up," he went on, far less approvingly, to his cousin. "Get up and climb back into the car. Why on earth did you do such an abominable thing?"

"And now," said Nesta, trying to speak calmly, "will you please let go of my dog and go away? I"——

"Her dog?" snorted Vanden, scrambling back into the safety of the car. "Her dog? We can get a hundred reliable witnesses to prove"——

"Shut up," ordered Royce. "We can't do anything of the kind. From your description I thought maybe this dog might be Squire—my Champion Harrowgate Peerless. That's why I came here. Well, I came on a wild-goose chase. I didn't get—I didn't get anything I came for. The dog looks a bit like Squire. But it isn't Squire. I never saw this dog before. So"——

"You're crazy!" shouted his cousin, aghast. "Why, I saw Squire time and again. I can swear to him."

"He was my own dog, and I saw him much oftener than you did," declared Royce. "And I can testify this isn't the dog. We've made fools of ourselves by coming here after him. I never saw this dog before, I tell you. Miss Breen, will you try to forgive my intrusion if I promise never to repeat it? I congratulate you on owning such a fine collie. Good-by."

He got into the car, forbearing to meet Nesta's wide-staring eyes. As the chauffeur made ready to start, Derek heard a stifled little voice begging tremulously:

"Will—will you please come back here—just a minute?"

UNBELIEVINGLY, Derek stared down at her. Then he was on the ground and following her into the garden. As soon as they were out of earshot from the car, Nesta turned to face the eager man.

"Take him," she said, her eyes on March, who was standing protectively beside her. "He's your dog. You lied. But it—it was a beautiful lie. I lied, too, when I said he was mine. And it was a disgusting lie. You—you and March—I mean Squire—you two aren't going to be the only clean sportsmen in the world. I've—I've been learning something—from both of you."

"He belongs to you!" cried Royce, his face alight with a wondering hope. "I won't take him—without you. I—I"——

"Derek Royce!" sobbed the girl, her hands tight in his, but her tear-misted eyes focusing on the fat figure in the car. "Derek Royce, did anyone ever tell you—you have the most atrocious taste in cousins?"

The Microbe Hunters

Now, as he grew older, he began to hanker for wild researches in regions remote from his little laboratory. He must visit the site of ancient Troy, whose story thrilled him so; he must see the harems and slaves and eunuchs, which to him were as much a part of natural history as his bats and toads and little animals of the seed infusions. He pulled wires, and at last the Emperor Joseph gave him a year's leave of absence and the money for a trip to Constantinople—for his failing health, which had never been more superb.

So Spallanzani put his row of flasks away and locked his laboratory and said a dramatic and tearful good-by to his students; on the journey down the Mediterranean he got dreadfully seasick, he was shipwrecked—but didn't forget to try to save the specimens he had collected on some of the islands. The Sultan wined and dined him, the doctors of the seraglios let him study the customs of the beauteous concubines . . . and afterward, good eighteenth century European that he was, Spallanzani told the Turks that he admired their hospitality and their architecture, but detested their customs of slavery and their hopeless fatalistic view of life. . . .

AFTER many months he returned overland through the Balkan Peninsula, escorted by companies of crack soldiers, entertained by Bulgarian Dukes and Wallachian Hospodars. At last he came to Vienna to pay his respects to his boss and patron, the Emperor Joseph II—it was the dizziest moment, so far as honors went, of his entire career.

Then this Spallanzani, this fellow who reveled in gaudy celebrations and vast enthusiastic lecturings, this hero of the crowd, this magnifico, crawled away from all his triumphs and pleasures to do one of the cleverest and most marvelously ingenious pieces of patient work in his hectic life. He did no less a thing than to invent a sure method of getting one animalcule—a few twenty-five-thousands of an inch long—a living animalcule, off by itself.

He went to his laboratory and carefully put a drop of seed soup swarming with animalcules on a clean piece of crystal glass. Then, with a clean hair-fine tube, he put a drop of pure distilled water—that had not a single little animal in it—on the same glass, close to the drop that swarmed with microbes.

"Now I shall trap one," he muttered, as he trained his lens on the drop that held the little animals. He took a fine, clean needle; he stuck it carefully into the drop of microbe soup—and then made a little canal with it across the empty water drop.

Quickly he turned his lens onto the passageway between the two drops and grunted with satisfaction as he saw the wriggling, cavorting little creatures begin to drift through this little canal. He grabbed for a little camel's-hair brush—"There! there's one of the wee ones—just one, in the water drop!" Deftly he flickered the little brush across the small canal, wiping it out, so cutting off the chance of any other wee beast getting into the water drop to join its lonely little comrade.

"God!" he cried. "I've done it—no one's ever done this before—I've got one animalcule all by himself; now nothing can bump him, now we'll see if he'll turn into two new ones!" His lens hardly quivered as he sat with tense neck and hands and arms, back bent, eye squinting through the glass at the drop with its single inhabitant. "How tiny he is," he thought—"he is like a lone fish in the spacious abysses of the sea."

Then a strange sight startled him, not less dramatic for its unbelievable littleness. The beast—it was shaped like a small rod—began to get thinner and thinner in the middle. At last the two parts of it were held together by the thickness of a spider web thread, and the two thick halves began to wriggle desperately—and suddenly they jerked apart. There they were, two perfectly formed, gently gliding little beasts, where there had been one before. They were a little shorter but otherwise they couldn't be told from their parent. Then, what was more marvelous to see, these two children of the first one in a score of minutes split up again—and now there were four where there had been one!

Spallanzani did this ingenious trick a dozen times and got the same result and saw the same thing; and then he descended on the unlucky Ellis like a ton of brick and flattened into permanent obscurity Ellis and his fine yarn about the children and the grandchildren inside the little animals. Spallanzani was sniffish, he condescended, he advised, he told Ellis to go back to school and learn his a b c's of microbe hunting. He hinted that Ellis wouldn't have made his mistake if he'd read the fine paper of De Saussure carefully, instead of inventing preposterous theories that only cluttered up the hard job of getting genuine new facts from a stingy Nature.

Early in the year 1799 the great microbe hunter was struck with apoplexy. Three days later he was poking his energetic and irrepressible head above the bedclothes, reciting Tasso and Homer to the amusement and delight of those friends who had come to watch him die.

GREAT Egyptian Kings kept their names alive for posterity by having the court undertaker embalm them into expensive and gorgeous mummies. The Greeks and Romans had their likenesses wrought into dignified statues. Paintings exist of a hundred other distinguished men. What is left for us to see of the marvelous Spallanzani?

In Pavia there is a modest little bust of him and in the museum nearby, if you are interested, you may see—his bladder. What better epitaph could there be for Spallanzani? What relic could more perfectly suggest the whole of his passion to find truth, that passion which stopped at nothing, which despised conventions, which laughed at hardship, which ignored bad taste and the feeble, petty fitness of things?

He knew his bladder was diseased. "Well, have it out after I'm dead," you can hear him whisper as he lay dying. "Maybe you'll find an astonishing new fact about diseased bladders." That was the spirit of Spallanzani. This was the very soul of that cynical, sniffingly curious, coldly reasoning century of his—the century that discovered few practical things—but the same century that built the high, clean house for Faraday and Pasteur, for Arrhenius and Emil Fischer and Ernest Rutherford to work in.

Old Man Pierce Turns Detective.

"Hit was 8 o'clock, and dark, and I didn't want to go with them.

"'You're jest comin' along,' says Jim Cutright.

"'Hell, no,' I says. 'Where you goin' an' what you goin' to do?'

"'You're jest comin' along,' he says again, and I could see a row at the end, and I was scared. I never said a word. Finally, Jim said to me: 'Sweetheart, Old Man Pierce ain't goin' to pester you no more after tonight.'

"I knowed what he meant, then. 'Park the car,' I says, 'I'm going back.'

"'The hell you are,' says Jim. 'Ef you don't look sharp they'll be two outen the way tonight.'

"WE DROVE along down towards the filling track. We seen an old man walkin' down the track. 'That's him, someone says. And we parked the car and 'Slim' and 'Shorty' and 'Blacky' got out with Jim. They took after the old man, runnin', but it 'pears like he didn't hear them. So 'Slim' got up right behind him and hit him over the haid with a iron pipe.

"The old man jest said 'Oh,' and then he fell. And 'Slim' stooped and took a knife and cut his throat. The old man never said another word—jist that 'Oh'!

"They picked him up and put him in the tank car and fastened down the lid. We went home. I didn't go to maw's that night. I didn't see my baby. I didn't want to see hit. I jest went back to 'Mother' Stacey's an' got drunk."

That Saturday night the tank car was moved out of the loading track at Smackover and forwarded to Memphis, Tennessee. There it was emptied of oil and returned, reaching Smackover a week later. By strange chance it was set back on the same loading track, not 20 feet from where it had stood before. Bessie May Smith hadn't even a notion the car had been away.

So to her mind there could be but one answer when workmen, opening the car next morning, discovered the body lying there. The word flashed swiftly around the town, and Bessie May heard it. "It's Old Man Pierce," she said.

"And then Jim Cutright came"—thus she took up the story again—"and wanted his clothes. He wanted me to go away. 'You'll go to jail,' he said. 'They ain't but one way they can kill me,' I told him. I was goin' to see that corpse ef hit did kill me.

"After they taken him out I went up to the undertaker's. The laws was there"—that means in the oil fields the Sheriff and the police—"an' a big crowd, too. 'That's Old Man Pierce,' I says to the laws, 'and I want to see him.' So they took me in and I seen the corpse and I thought hit was him. Ef hit wasn't him, I knowed shore hit was someone that was killed for him.

THEN Chief Walls says to me: 'Bessie May, them county laws want you.'

"'What does them county laws want with me?' I says.

"'They wants to know what you knows about this.'

"'Well, I'll tell you straight,' I says, and I did. . . . Just how he was killed. I wasn't afraid. I ain't done nothin'. I jest went along in self-defense."

Immediately Cutright was arrested upon her statement.

The girl was moved to El Dorado Jail. She "wasn't worried none." "They'll let me out right soon," she explained. "I ain't done nothin' and I got my baby to take keer of.' She still believed the victim was Jim Pierce. Then he, alive, walked in on her and Bessie May threw her arms around her husband.

The grand jury met in El Dorado a month ago. It refused to return any indictment on the ground of insufficient evidence. The body of the murdered man was never identified. Jim Cutright and the girl were freed. Jim Pierce went out of the detective business. He's back in Texas now.

Ring Lardner.

verine as a memorial to his native state.

Lardner's adoption of the beast was characteristic of the man. One afternoon in October while Mrs. Lardner (he always called her Junior as she was two or more years younger than he) was making out the May checks, she suddenly looked up from her work, sobbing, and said:

"Husband!"

"Yes, Junior, what is it?"

"I am overdrawn.'

"You stay indoors and brood too much," replied Lardner. "A little exercise and a few pleasures would restore the bloom to both those cheeks.'

"I am not referring to anything physical," said the little woman. "I mean there is less than no money in the bank."

At that moment there was a scratching outside that could not have been the children, as they had all had their baths.

"What is that noise, Junior?" inquired the Master.

"I will go and see," said the Madam, sliding headforemost to the front door, as she was a great admirer of Frankie Frisch.

She returned in a moment, sobbing louder than ever, with the news that the wolf was at the door.

THIS was the beginning of a friendship that the less said about it the better. But I suppose I ought not to complain, for the wolf's advent into the home was responsible for mine, and it is not every spinster who spends the latter days of her life under such pleasant conditions as existed in the household of Ring Lardner, God bless him!

The story "Reunion" followed a visit paid the Lardners by the little woman's sisters and their husbands, all strict Swedenborgians and innately opposed to meat-eating and outdoor sports. Lardner was, of course, a devotee of golf and considered days spent indoors as days wasted. So it was torture to him, this prolonged sojourn of his in-laws, and "Reunion" was penned in a spirit of bitterness. The character of Mrs. Stu Johnston's brother is a composite of G. P. Torrence of Indianapolis, Robin Hendry of Detroit, H. W. Kitchell of Evanston, and F. R. Kitchell of Hingham, Mass., all of whom married sisters of Junior.

In re Lardner's golf, the following amusing anecdote is recounted:

Lardner was playing a mixed twosome with Mayor Walker of New York. They were playing a Spalding mesh ball, which is how they got mixed. Coming to the fifteenth tee, they had halved the preceding three holes and Lardner could not remember whose turn it was to drive first.

"Your honor?" he said to the Mayor.

"Yes?" the Mayor replied. "What can I do for you?"

It is incidents like this that paint the man in his true colors. He was forever blowing bubbles. It amounted to a whim.

THE romance of "Mr. and Mrs. Fix-It," without ranking with Lardner's best or with his most popular compositions, and betraying here and there a less persistent hold on character than is usual with him, is still a fascinating story, full of his peculiar sensuousness and pathos, with striking scenes vividly portrayed, and an advance on his previous farces as respects his constantly growing power of imaginative description.

Publication of this story in Liberty caused an estrangement between the Master and the Grantland Rices, who were unmistakably the parties inspiring it. So accurately were their characters and idiosyncrasies depicted that they recognized themselves and did not speak to Lardner for a week. This was considered a triumph by the Master.

"But the lesson was all lost," he told me afterwards, when a reconciliation had been effected. "They knew I was writing about them, and now they are right up to their old tricks again, dictating where we shall buy our shirts, how to discipline our kiddies, what road to take South, what to order for breakfast, when to bathe in what kind of bath salts, and even how often to visit the chiropodist. It is an intolerable example of maniacal Southern hospitality."

He proceeded to a fresh attack, turning out "Who Dealt?" Mrs. Rice is unquestionably the first person in this story, the one who tells it; either she or Ruth Hale or perhaps Mrs. S. B. Thorne.

THERE is an interesting fact connected with the story "Zone of Quiet." It was written outdoors during the equinoctial gales. Nearly every other sheet of copy was blown away or destroyed by stray dogs, and when the manuscript finally reached Ray Long, editor of Cosmopolitan, over two-thirds of it was missing. Mr. Long thought this all for the best as he was crowded that month. Mr. Long is related by marriage to Mr. O. O. McIntyre, which is considered a horse on both of them.

(Strangely enough, Mr. Long's favorite amusement is horseback riding, so the innuendo is not so far out of the way. He is known as a keen whip around Greenwich and, during the winters, when he lives in town, can be seen in Times Square almost any morning astride his imported hunter, "Black Oxen," directing the traffic and selling tickets to the Field Day at Jamaica.)

Those of the tales in this book which have not already been mentioned were dashed off after the Master had contracted the cold that resulted in the fatal attack of conchoid, a disease which is superinduced by a rush of seashells to the auricle or outer ear. Present during the last hours were only myself and the wolf, Junior having chosen this time to get a shampoo and wave in preparation for the series of dinner dances that were bound to follow.

"Edna," whispered the Master as he lay there idly watching the doctor change a tire, "tomorrow I will be all right again and you and I will get in a taxi and be ourselves."

He called me Edna only when he was up to some devilment. It was his way.

The Master is gone and the next question is who will succeed him? Perhaps some writer still unborn. Perhaps one who will never be born. That is what I hope.

(The joke is on Miss Spooldripper, for she is gone, too. Two months ago she was found dead in the garage, her body covered with wolf bites left there by her former ward, who has probably forgotten where he left them.)

From Kansas Ranch to Turkish Palace.

alone in her palace. My Prince is away, serving the duties of our country. "No," cried Selyom Bey. "I shall not suffer my Princess to sit alone on a night like this. Not I, a soldier, a Moslem and a patriot. What that girl needs is a boat ride on the Bosporus."

Who can say other than that it was very noble of Capt. Selyom Bey? What else would any gentleman have done under the circumstances?

So Capt. Selyom Bey went straight to Princess Chakir's palace, and off went the Captain and Sidi to the Bosporus; into a boat they got and a-riding they went. But even such evenings must come to an end, and Sidi almost came to an end with the evening. For when the boat landed, who should rush out of the shadows but the Captain's wife, the Princess Chievekiar, whom the Captain, in his flush of patriotism, had neglected to tell that he was going a-boatriding with Sidi Wirt. The first thing Princess Chievekiar did was with neatness and dispatch to tear off the greater part of Sidi's attire. Then, casting about for other deeds to undo Sidi, she spied a squad of Turkish soldiers coming down the quay.

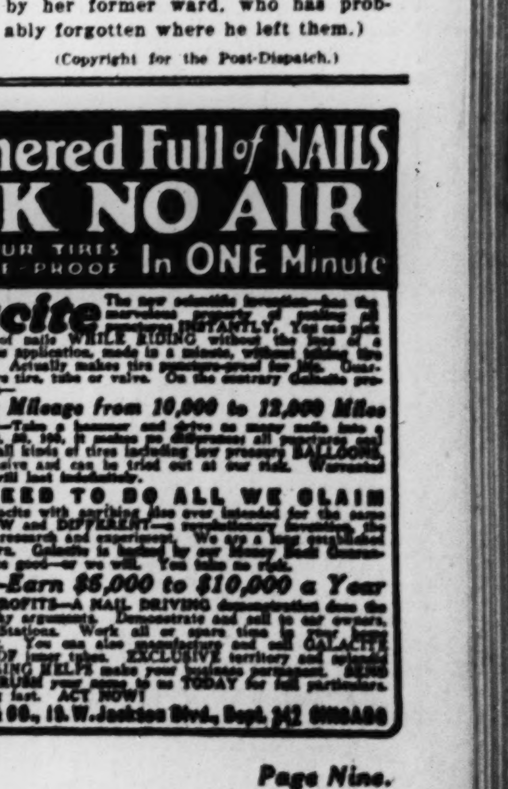
Princess Chievekiar hailed them, and, their attention attracted, "Kill the Christian dog," she shouted. So ardent was her plea that even these gentle fellows were moved to thoughts of blood, and no doubt Sidi's biography would have ended at great speed right at this point, had not a group of European diplomats, out for a jaunt, suddenly come upon the scene, discovered Sidi's distress, and hastened to her aid at double time.

The occurrence was doubtless embarrassing to Princess Chievekiar. She was a lady of importance herself. Before Selyom Bey became her spouse she had been married to none other than Prince Fuad of Egypt, now King Fuad, the first King Egypt's had in 2000 years. They had been divorced after the Princess informed her brother that Fuad had been mistreating her, an account which caused the brother to take a shot at his brother-in-law at a Cairo club. The shot got its target, but Fuad recovered.

Deprived of the pleasure of Sidi's death at the hands of the Turkish army, Princess Chievekiar sued Selyom Bey for a divorce. It was granted, the Constantinople Judge decreeing that "for a man to promenade with a strange woman after nightfall is not legitimate in Turkish civil or religious law." Sidi's husband declared that Selyom Bey took his wife for a Bosporus boat ride at his request, as Prince Chakir wanted Sidi amused during his absence. This gave Sidi the proper grounds for moral indignation. So she sued Princess Chievekiar for 20,000 Turkish pounds, or about $140,000, claiming slander, but the case never came to trial.

Princess Chievekiar had been married to an embryonic King and a Captain. Now, said she, she was going to find a serious-minded fellow—the King and the Captain evidently were too trivial for the lady's taste—who, backed by her millions, would be enabled to become a great power in Turkish politics. She chose Reouf Bey, former Turkish Premier, naval officer and diplomat. But the other day Reouf Bey heard that there was an excellent chance of his going to jail, as he was one of those suspected of having had something to do with a recent plot against Mustapha Kemal, the President of Turkey. Princess Chievekiar then smuggled Reouf Bey off to Budapest.

Which is the biography to date of Princess Sidi Wirt Chakir of Garden City, Kansas, and Constantinople.



Tires Hammered Full of NAILS LEAK NO AIR
MAKE YOUR TIRES PUNCTURE-PROOF In ONE Minute
AGENTS MAKE $5,000 to $10,000 A YEAR
Galacite The new scientific invention—has the marvelous property of sealing all punctures INSTANTLY. You can pick up any number of nails WHILE RIDING without the loss of a pound of air. One application, made in a minute, without taking tire off wheel or rim. Actually makes tire puncture-proof for life. Guaranteed not to injure tire, tube or valve. On the contrary Galacite preserves rubber, often—
Increasing Tire Mileage from 10,000 to 12,000 Miles
MAKE THIS TEST—Take a hammer and drive as many nails into a tire as you wish, 10, 20, 100, it makes no difference; all punctures seal instantly. Used in all kinds of tires including low pressure BALLOONS. Galacite is inexpensive and can be tried out at our risk. Warranted for one year but will last indefinitely.
GUARANTEED TO DO ALL WE CLAIM
Don't confuse Galacite with anything else ever intended for the same purpose; it is NEW and DIFFERENT—a revolutionary invention, the result of years of research and experiment. The Outline of the Arts — By H. G. WELLS

XII.—Architecture in America. 19th Century Music.

Until a Few Decades Ago, Architecture Here Was Mainly Transplanted European Design, Then America Took the Lead in Originality. Music Reflected the Broadening Interests of the Age. British Author Alludes to Our Exported Jazz as "Noise," Which Occasionally Is "Very Cheerful." Some of the Century's Activities and Great Names in Literature.

AMERICA in Colonial days had produced an extremely agreeable type of country house—more particularly in Virginia and the South—an adaptation to local conditions of British country-house architecture which itself sprang from the fruitful Renaissance stem.

We have noted already Sir Christopher Wren's contribution to this development. Apart from it, American architecture until the closing decades of the nineteenth century was mainly transplanted European design.

Richard Wagner, German composer who "broke up the established traditions of opera."

The Capitol at Washington, for example, is French work. It might have been built in Paris or Brussels.

Much of the domestic housing was flimsy and commonplace. When Britain adopted the sash window, America retained the continental casement. But in the eighties and nineties of the century the growing wealth and self-reliance of the New World broke out into new and vigorous architectural initiatives.

America began to use steel, glass and concrete construction with an increasing boldness and success. These materials and the invention and perfection of the "elevator" rendered possible buildings of a hitherto unprecedented height and scale. In 1870 American architecture scarcely existed. By 1910 America was far in advance of any other country in the world in the freshness and courage of its new buildings. At an interval came Germany. The names of Richardson (1838-1886) and Stanford White (1853-1906) stand out among the American architects of this new period. It is to the America of the twentieth century that we must look for the gradual expression in building and housing of the new powers and resources the nineteenth century revealed to mankind; and associated with this development of architecture we may count on new and remarkable developments there of sculpture, painting, mosaic and the decorative arts generally. There for a time will be the greater opportunity, the greater wealth, the greater freedom of mind.

An American mantel of late Colonial times. From a dwelling in Virginia.

The flow of musical creation that was in progress during the eighteenth century suffered little let or hindrance throughout this period. We have named Mozart and Beethoven as culminating figures of the eighteenth century. Beethoven carries us over into the nineteenth century, and beside him we must put his contemporary, Weber (1786-1826), an experimentalist and innovator of cardinal importance, and a little later the very considerable figures of Schubert (1797-1828), Mendelssohn (1809-1847), and Schumann (1810-1856). Nor can we ignore Cesar Franck's (1820-1890) "Cathedrals of Sound."

MUSIC was now passing more and more out of the domain of royal and noble patronage into the concert hall and the appeal to the suffrages of a specially cultivated public. Side by side with the opera, there was an increasing production of song and pianoforte pieces for the refined home and of dance music for the social gathering.

There was no corresponding advance in religious music after the days of Handel and Bach. But the royal patron was still of importance to the composer of great operas, and the courts of Bavaria and Russia especially were the fostering places of a new "opera-drama" and a new conception of the ballet.

One can trace in the music of the century the broadening interests of the age. Composers began to seek for new themes and a new spirit amidst the folk music of the East European and Eastern peoples.

Chopin (1809-1849) utilized Polish, Liszt (1811-1886) and Joachim (1831-1907) Hungarian sources of inspiration, and Brahms (1833-1897) went still further afield to India for material to incorporate with his essentially classical fabric.

Wagner was born in 1813 and died in 1883. He followed in the footsteps of Weber. He broke up the established traditions of opera, dramatized and broadened and expanded the range of instrumental music, charged it with new power and passion. Later, in Russia, Tchaikowsky (1840-1893), Moussorgsky (1835-1881), and Rimsky-Korsakov (1844-1908) were to discover new realms of color and delight.

Here in the limited space at our disposal we can but name the Czech, Dvorak (1841-1904), the lively enterprise of Richard Strauss (born 1864), and the fresh beauty of Debussy (1862-1918).

So far America has contributed little to recognized great music. But just as the United States suddenly leaped forward from architectural nothingness into great architecture with the new occasions, the steel construction and the untried materials of the nineties, so it is possible that at any time there may come the dawn of new musical forms and emancipations out of the West.

For some time, noise has been coming over from America in increasing volume—and sometimes it is very cheerful noise. The Negro spirit has worked up into the danceroom and the music hall. The time may come when, in the concert hall at least, the American may come to be proud of and grateful for that stream of black in the South. But here we cannot discourse of jazz and its associated developments.

We shall say no more of music in this outline. The present period is a period characterized by a wide distribution of what was once the privilege of a cultivated class. The gramophone, the pianola, the broadcasting apparatus, is making the whole world familiar with the greatest composers.

In the space at our disposal here it is impossible to give much more than the barest, most simplified account of the great flood of literary activities through which the new forces of this century of expansion sought expression.

We have already dealt with the leading ideas of the founders and makers of socialism and of the influence of the enlarging scientific vision upon religious, political and social ideas. But it is impossible for us to do full justice to the significance and continuing influence of such great practical thinkers as Adam Smith (1723-1790), Malthus (1766-1834) and their successors, or of such profound speculations as those of Schopenhauer (1788-1860) and Nietzsche (1844-1900) in Germany. Hegel (1770-1831) again is, for us, like a tempting item at the end of a too-long menu. We must leave him. He deflected the current of modern thought, very curiously, but it recovers from this deflection.

A famous skyline. It is to America, says Wells, that the world must look for the architectural expression of mankind's new powers and resources.

Nor can we discuss here the accidents of taste and absurdities of interpretation that made Lord Byron (1788-1824), that doggerel satirist with the philosophy of a man-about-town, into a great figure in the nineteenth century conception of literature throughout Europe, nor weigh the value of Goethe (1749-1832), who was for many years the intellectual and esthetic god of Germany. He has that prominence no longer. He littered the German mind with a great wealth of uprooted and transplanted classicism. He was great, elegant and industrious. He was the noble collector in literature as Byron was the noble rebel.

The century opened with a considerable outburst of poetry, particularly in Britain. It was poetry with characteristics of its own; there was a new realization of nature as being in emotional relationship with man, an unconscious disregard of creeds and an unrestrained approach to the deepest questions about life, as though almost unawares the poet had gone out of the fabric of established and accepted beliefs into a free universe.

The poems of this phase had erally a narrative thread that w duced at times to a shadow—and rambled gracefully, argumentat variously. Shelley (1792-1822), (1795-1821), Wordsworth (1850); are the outstanding na this age of English poetic expr

"A golden pallor more seductive than the rose"

This is what a renowned connoisseur of beauty says of the delicious, firm-fine skin of the beautiful women of Spain. The finest complexion in Europe; that remains lovely, too, over the protest of Time!

Gifted by nature with a ravishing skin, the Spanish beauty knows by ancestral wisdom how to care for it. And what does she do? Too simple to be exciting—she uses nothing but Castile soap!

And it's no secret to any woman — because every woman knows that nothing in the world is as grateful to her skin as Castile toilet soap. So we set out to make her an irresistible Castile, one that would appeal to her fastidious feminine sense of daintiness as well as to her sense of duty to her skin!

And here it is—Doña Castile an exquisite toilet soap, as intimately charming as her French powder and rouge. A delightful shape for her hand; "hard-milled" and therefore lasting; generous of its lather even in lukewarm water (an especially gratifying virtue in Castile), and quick to rinse. Really, the finest toilet soap in the world. To be had almost anywhere. And for 10 cents. Armour, U.S.A.

One Hair
100 Oxen

"One hair of a woman can draw more than a hundred pair of oxen."

And every woman knows it. That is why, before the introduction of the Eugène Method of permanent waving, many discriminating women hesitated to entrust the beauty of their hair to permanent waving.

But as soon as they learn of the principle upon which the Eugène Method operates they no longer deny themselves the unquestioned convenience of a permanent wave.

For the Eugène Method is so mild that it preserves all the natural beauty of the hair and brings it the added loveliness of sleek, permanent Eugène waves.

Most methods of permanent waving first drench the hair in chemical solutions, then bake it until it is dry and fixed rigidly into form.

The Eugène Method winds the hair dry, then softens it with tiny jets of clean, white steam until it relaxes into smooth natural looking permanent waves.

Though a bit more expensive, the Eugène Method is very thrifty with the life and lustre of the hair—beauties beyond price.

May we give you a little booklet which tells you more about the Eugène Method? Perhaps, too, we may be able to direct you to a shop where you may inquire first-hand about it. Just drop us a note or a post card, and we shall forward the booklet to you at once.

The coolest, most refreshing drink of all after exercise

How grateful you will be for "Canada Dry" after a stirring round of golf or a fast set of tennis!

It is the coolest and most refreshing drink of all after exercise because it not only cools, but it refreshes.

That's an important thing to remember: "It not only cools, but it refreshes."

It lifts you up! Invigorates! Helps to calm your nerves after the excitement of a close match! Makes you feel fresh and keen for the next round or the journey home!

No other ginger ale will bring you this same refreshment because there is no other ginger ale like "Canada Dry."

Pale—like champagne in color—"dry," like an old wine—sparkling with vitality—piquant yet mellow, this fine old ginger ale is the most delicious and refreshing beverage you have ever lifted to your lips.

The reason is easy to understand: "Canada Dry" is a real ginger ale, made from real Jamaica ginger, and it is one ginger ale that does not contain capsicum (red pepper) in any form.

Because of this, "Canada Dry" blends delightfully with other beverages—it will not bite the tongue or burn the lips—it has none of that flat, syrupy taste—it leaves no "brassy" after-taste or recurring "back kick"—it is friendly to the stomach!

Its flavor is always a delight, yet there is an even more important reason why "Canada Dry" is so cooling and invigorating in summer. And that is its purity.

"Canada Dry" has been served for years in hospitals in Canada. It has also been served in leading hospitals in the U. S. A. ever since it was first brought over the border and introduced to this country a few short years ago.

These are important points to remember when you order a beverage at your club or for your family at home.

The name "Canada Dry" is a definite assurance of quality and well worth looking for when you want . . . purity!

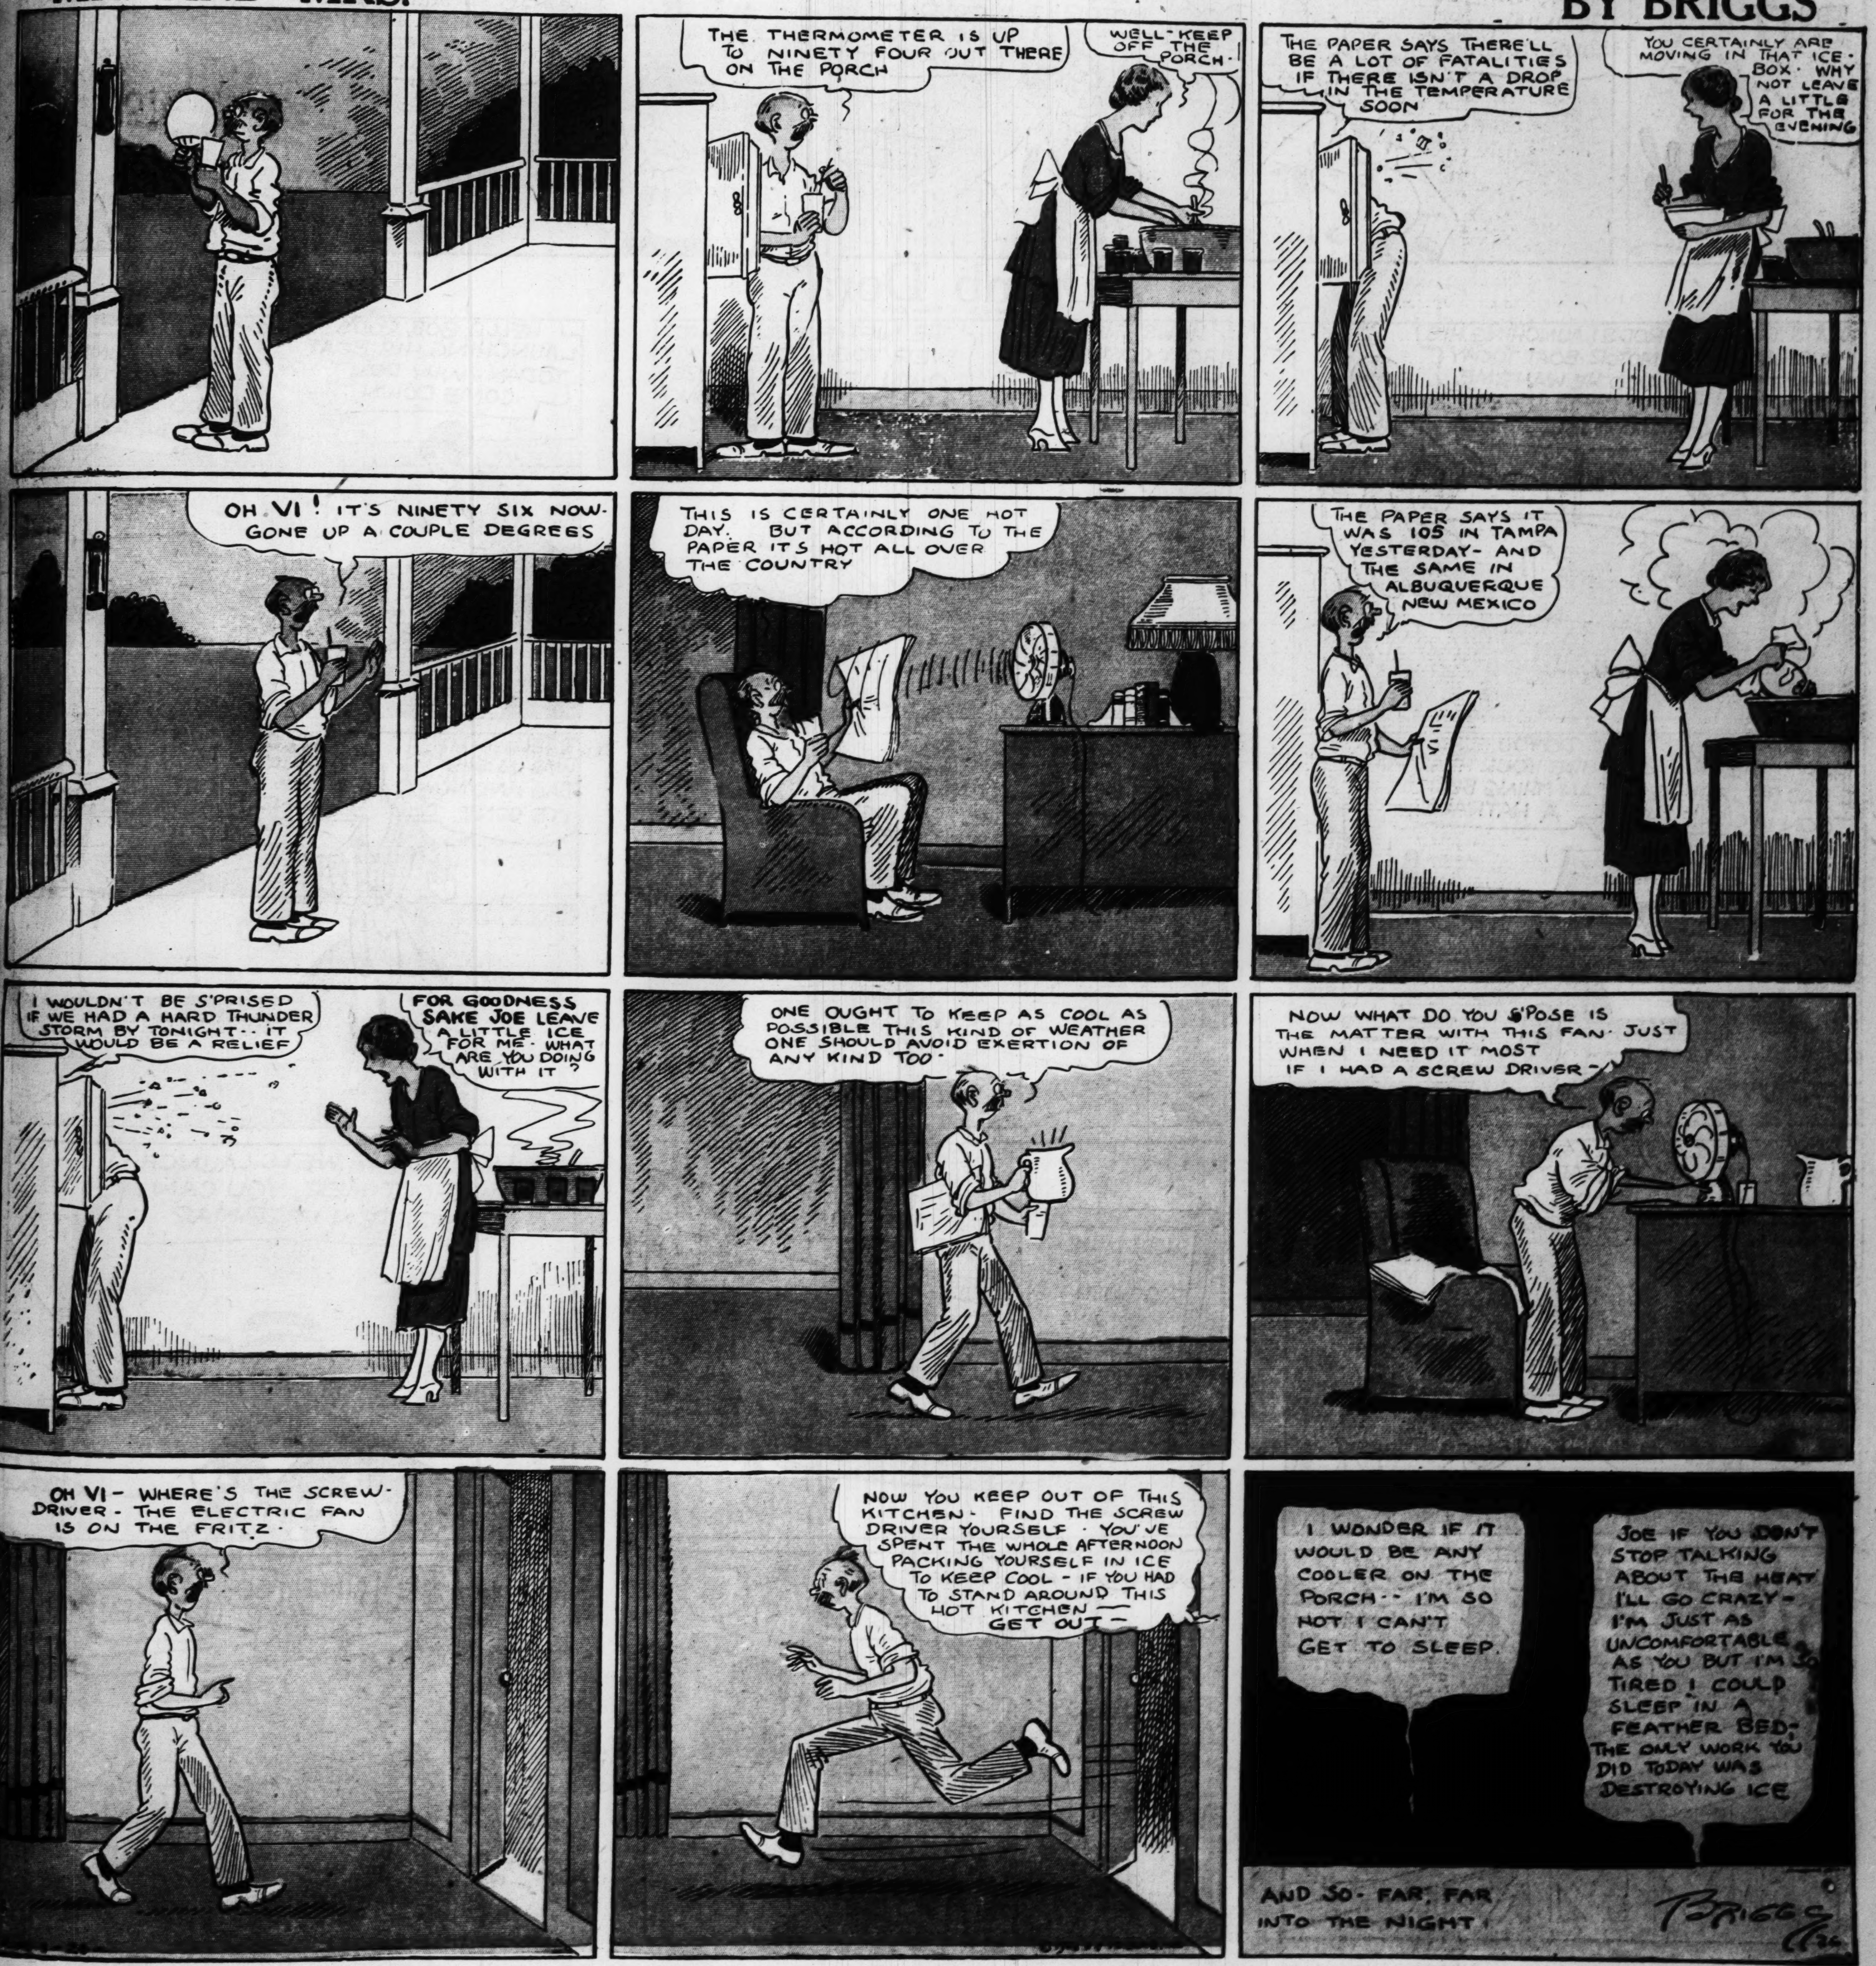
BY BRIGGS



THE THERMOMETER IS UP TO NINETY FOUR OUT THERE ON THE PORCH
WELL-KEEP OFF THE PORCH.
THE PAPER SAYS THERE'LL BE A LOT OF FATALITIES IF THERE ISN'T A DROP IN THE TEMPERATURE SOON
YOU CERTAINLY ARE MOVING IN THAT ICE-BOX. WHY NOT LEAVE A LITTLE FOR THE EVENING
OH VI! IT'S NINETY SIX NOW-GONE UP A COUPLE DEGREES
THIS IS CERTAINLY ONE HOT DAY. BUT ACCORDING TO THE PAPER IT'S HOT ALL OVER THE COUNTRY
THE PAPER SAYS IT WAS 105 IN TAMPA YESTERDAY- AND THE SAME IN ALBUQUERQUE NEW MEXICO
I WOULDN'T BE S'PRISED IF WE HAD A HARD THUNDER STORM BY TONIGHT-- IT WOULD BE A RELIEF
FOR GOODNESS SAKE JOE LEAVE A LITTLE ICE FOR ME. WHAT ARE YOU DOING WITH IT?
ONE OUGHT TO KEEP AS COOL AS POSSIBLE THIS KIND OF WEATHER ONE SHOULD AVOID EXERTION OF ANY KIND TOO.
NOW WHAT DO YOU S'POSE IS THE MATTER WITH THIS FAN. JUST WHEN I NEED IT MOST IF I HAD A SCREW DRIVER-
OH VI- WHERE'S THE SCREW-DRIVER- THE ELECTRIC FAN IS ON THE FRITZ.
NOW YOU KEEP OUT OF THIS KITCHEN- FIND THE SCREW DRIVER YOURSELF. YOU'VE SPENT THE WHOLE AFTERNOON PACKING YOURSELF IN ICE TO KEEP COOL - IF YOU HAD TO STAND AROUND THIS HOT KITCHEN — GET OUT-
I WONDER IF IT WOULD BE ANY COOLER ON THE PORCH-- I'M SO HOT I CAN'T GET TO SLEEP.
JOE IF YOU DON'T STOP TALKING ABOUT THE HEAT I'LL GO CRAZY- I'M JUST AS UNCOMFORTABLE AS YOU BUT I'M SO TIRED I COULD SLEEP IN A FEATHER BED- THE ONLY WORK YOU DID TODAY WAS DESTROYING ICE AND SO- FAR, FAR INTO THE NIGHT.
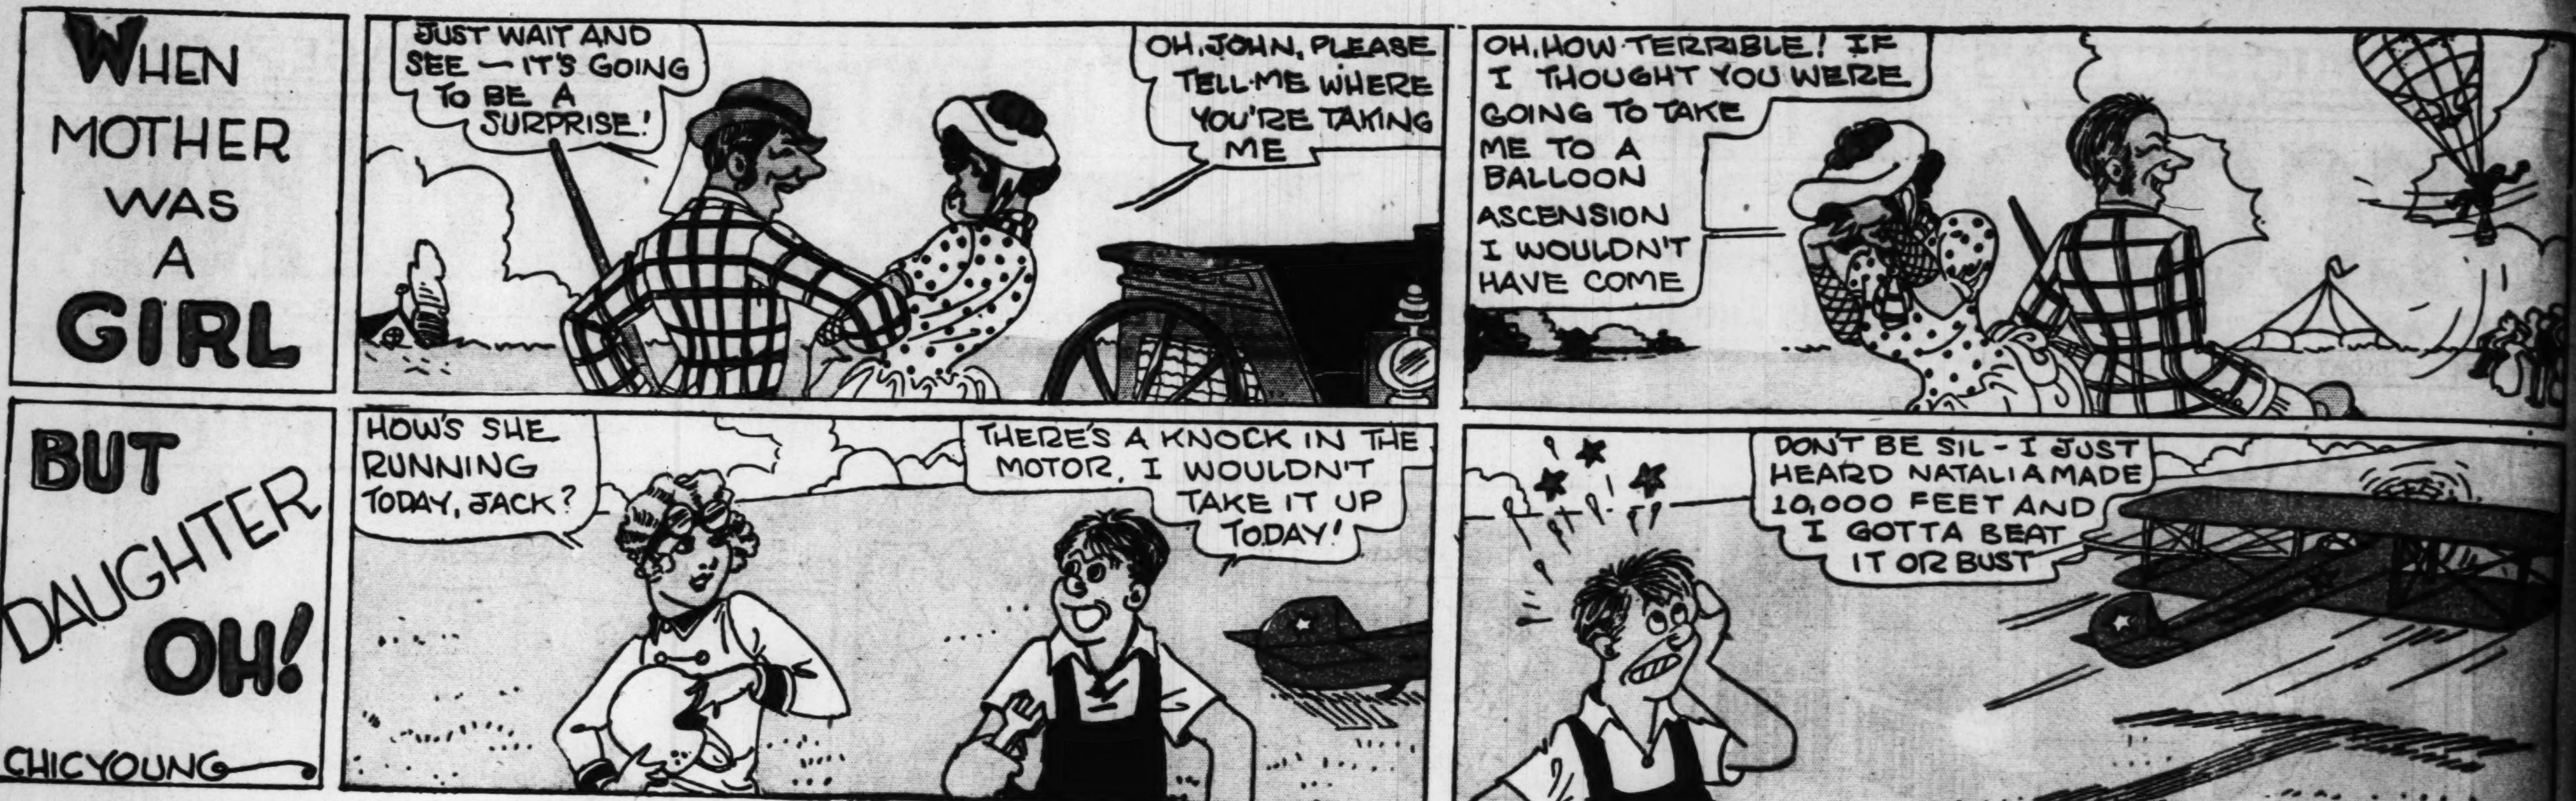
BRIGGS



WHEN MOTHER WAS A GIRL
JUST WAIT AND SEE — IT'S GOING TO BE A SURPRISE!
OH, JOHN, PLEASE TELL ME WHERE YOU'RE TAKING ME
OH, HOW TERRIBLE! IF I THOUGHT YOU WERE GOING TO TAKE ME TO A BALLOON ASCENSION I WOULDN'T HAVE COME BUT DAUGHTER OH!
CHIC YOUNG
HOW'S SHE RUNNING TODAY, JACK?
THERE'S A KNOCK IN THE MOTOR. I WOULDN'T TAKE IT UP TODAY!
DON'T BE SIL - I JUST HEARD NATALIA MADE 10,000 FEET AND I GOTTA BEAT IT OR BUST

Dumb Dora

WHAT'S THE BIG RUSH, DORA?
ROD'S LAUNCHING HIS MOTOR BOAT TODAY AND HE WANTS ME TO COME DOWN TO CHRISTEN IT
HOW'S THE BOAT COMIN' ROD?
THE NIFTIEST SHIP THAT EVER TOOK TO SEA - MY OWN IDEA - ALL CONCRETE - WE'RE GOING TO LAUNCH IT THIS AFTERNOON
HELLO, BOB, ROD'S LAUNCHING HIS BOAT TODAY - WHY DON'T YOU COME DOWN?
GREAT! JUMP IN AN' I'LL TAKE YOU DOWN THERE
NOW, CAN YOU BEAT THAT? THE PAPER I HAD THE ADDRESS ON IS GONE'
DO YOU EVER USE YOUR HEAD FOR ANYTHING BESIDES A HATRACK!
HO, BOY! THE OTHER FELLOWS WON'T STAND A CHANCE WITH DORA AFTER SHE SEES MY BOAT
I TELL YOU IT WAS IN THIS BAG AND NOW IT'S GONE
I'LL DRIVE ALONG THE WATER FRONT AN' MAYBE WE CAN FIND THE PLACE
WHERE CAN DORA BE? IT'S FOUR O'CLOCK ALREADY AND I GOTT-A GET THE BOAT IN THE WATER TODAY
WE CAN'T WAIT MUCH LONGER
SHORE DINNERS $3.00 BACKWASH INN DANCING
OH, LOOK, BOB, HERE'S THE PLACE THEY HAVE THOSE WONDERFUL SHORE DINNERS
ALL RIGHT, WE'LL LAUNCH IT WITHOUT HER. YOU CAN CHRISTEN IT, JAMAR

WELL - IT'S A QUIET PLACE, - THE AIR IS PURE, - AH, - THATS ABOUT ALL YOU CAN SAY, ASIDE OF IT'S RARE BEAUTY. —
IT IS A MOST BEAUTIFUL PLACE. —
YOU SHOULD SEE IT ALL, YOUR HIGHNESS, BY ALL MEANS LET US SHOW YOU ABOUT THE GROUNDS —
2
YES. WE THINK PRETTY MUCH OF OUR QUIET LITTLE SUMMER PLACE! NATURE DISPLAYS HER SELF BEAUTIFULLY HERE DECKED IN HER BEST YOUR HIGHNESS — YEA!
THIS IS WHERE WE ARE WONT TO STROLL PEACEFULLY AND COMMUNE WITH THE BIRDS —
I CAN TRAIN HIM TO SPRINKLE THE LAWN IF YOU WILL LET ME —
3
OUR VIEW HERE IS ONE VAST PANARAMA OF COLOR
THE GROUNDS COVER SOME MILLIONS OF ACRES, - 800 LANDSCAPE GARDENERS RUN RIOT HEE - AH!
FILL UP! FILL UP AGAIN, JAZBO LIKE A GOOD FELLOW! FILL UP! — ATS IT JAZBO!

WE DID THINK THE PEACE CONFERENCE WOULD BE HELD HE. AH YOUR HIGHNESS!
WHEN HE LEARNS IT, HE'LL DO IT WITHOUT ASKIN' HIM TO.
5
WHAT THU !! EH — UM!
IMPIE. YOU MAKE HIM NERVOUS, PULLING HIS TAIL LIKE THAT.
WHAT, EH? WHY - UH? WHO - AH? HOW THU —
6
CUT THAT OUT JAZBO, Y'HEAR ME?
OH! THAT'S ONE OF THE PEACE DELEGATES VISITING SLUMBERLAND DEAR ME. WHAT'LL WE DO
8
OH! - NEMO! WE'LL CATCH IT FOR THIS! GRACIOUS!!!
9
GET BACK! GET BACK! DON'T YOU TRY ANY O' THAT STUFF
10
BEAT IT! SLIVVERS! BEAT IT!!!

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 2.—An an ouncement that the Catholic epis opate is willing to enter upon ruce with the Mexican Govern ent until the Mexican people ar le to express themselves by pleb oite on the religious controversy d the discovery of a plot to as ssinate President Calles, were th utstanding features of Mexico's rst priestless Sunday.

Notwithstanding the great pa de of the Regional Confederation f Labor, which required two hours pass the palace, the day was a eaceful as the capita ever ha own.

While the marchers passed th ace, where President Calles, sur nded by his Ministers, stood ving his handkerchief in answe the cheering, members of the thful were kneeling in prayer i rious churches, beseeching a melioration of the situatio ought about by the Governmen ting into force its religious reg ations.

All the Catholic churches, with priests at the altars, were ope prayer except the great cathe al and several of the downtow ces of worship, past which th rade made its way. The door these were closed in the fea at some untoward event migh cur.

Dispatches from all parts of the public indicate that tranquility vailed Sunday everywhere. Al ough there was tense feeling a e places, no actual trouble de loped. The Government had de strong military preparations advance promptly to suppres rder.

Church Offer of Truce.

The episcopate asked the Gov ment to suspened the religious ulations and the "anti-religious ecutions" during a 'truce.'

"On its part," says the state , "the Episcopate is willing give a solution to the conflict may save public liberties and the same time not be unbecom to the Government."

he statement declares some American diplomatists and high Government officials offered their good offices to iate.

"he Episcopate," it continues pite its slight hopes for a suc ul outcome of this offer, ha ely accepted it, but without success as yet. However, we onfident, and we desire that ident Calles may not be abso deaf to the voice of the peo-
